

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

B

857,066

PROPERTY OF
University of Michigan Libraries

1817

ARTES SCIENTIA VERITAS

T. MACCI PLAVTI
RVDENS

SONNENSCHEN

T. MACCI PLAVTI

RVDENS

SONNENSCHEN

London
HENRY FROWDE

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS WAREHOUSE
AMEN CORNER, E.C.

5761

Plautus, Titus Maccius

T. MACCI PLAVTI
RVDENS

EDITED

WITH CRITICAL AND EXPLANATORY NOTES

BY

EDWARD A. SONNENSCHN, M.A.

PROFESSOR OF GREEK AND LATIN IN THE MASON COLLEGE BIRMINGHAM

Oxford

AT THE CLARENDON PRESS

1891

[All rights reserved]

Oxford

PRINTED AT THE CLARENDON PRESS

BY HORACE HART, PRINTER TO THE UNIVERSITY

472

152

39

DEDICATED TO MY FRIEND
OSKAR SEYFFERT OF BERLIN

326132

PREFACE.

LONG delayed by the pressure of other work, this volume, which has been at once the delight and the despair of my leisure hours during the past five years, now passes from my hands and is submitted to the judgment of fellow-students of Plautus. The delay in publication I cannot regret, as I have been thereby enabled to make use of the admirable Apographon of the Ambrosian palimpsest by the late Professor Studemund of Breslau, which was published only last year. On a number of passages this collation throws new light, and if this, the first English edition of the Rudens, is found to be in some respects an advance on previous editions, it will be largely due to the fact that the editor has had the advantage of a more complete basis of MS. evidence than was accessible to his predecessors. Apart from new readings, the mere fact of having before one a reproduction, page by page and line by line, of all that can be deciphered in the oldest MS. is of the greatest assistance in the task of restoring the text.

I have also enjoyed the exceptional privilege of being permitted to publish for the first time a number of emendations by Professor Seyffert of Berlin and by the late Professor Brix of Liegnitz. Those by the former scholar have been communicated to me privately in the course of a long correspondence on the subject of the Rudens; those by the latter are taken from a MS. kindly entrusted to me by Dr. Max Niemeyer of Potsdam. My obligations to Professor Seyffert do not end here; he has not only permitted me to consult him on difficult points of textual criticism and interpretation, but has also generously undertaken the labour of revising the whole of my work; numerous improvements and additions in text and commentary are due to his hand.

To Professor Nettleship of Oxford and Professor Palmer of Dublin I am also indebted for various emendations communicated in the course of my work: to Professor G. G. Ramsay of Glasgow for kindly lending me a collation of B by the late Professor W. Ramsay.

My chief obligations to books are to the commentaries on the Rudens by Ussing and the older scholars Lambinus, Taubmann and Gronovius; and to the editions of other plays by Brix and Lorenz. My obligations to Schoell's critical apparatus are acknowledged in the Introduction. I have also derived much help from Langen's Beiträge and Plautinische Studien, and from the Lexicon der lateinischen Wortformen by Georges, only just completed. Fleckeisen's edition of Plautus, published forty years ago and since reissued from stereotyped plates, is now antiquated, through more recent labours of Fleckeisen himself and others; but his influence as a Plautine critic has been felt by every subsequent editor.

The principles on which my text has been constructed are in the main those of my editions of the Captivi (1880) and Mostellaria (1884). The terms conservative and radical, as applied to textual criticism, seem to me misleading. The business of the critic is simply to be scientific: he must make it his aim to remove the frequent blunders with which the text is marred in the MSS., but at the same time he must recognize the limitations under which he works : in passages where the MSS. present deep seated and far reaching corruptions the attempt to restore the original text is sometimes purely illusory. Here, as elsewhere, it is the part of wisdom to face the hard truth. Sunt certi denique fines quos ultra citraque nequit consistere rectum. I cannot hope that I have myself always attained to this ideal ; but I have borne it steadfastly in mind. Moreover it is surely as great a triumph of criticism to demonstrate on sufficient evidence that a suspected reading of the MSS. is sound, as to restore a corrupt passage by emendation. Every year makes it more evident that slashing criticism produces results which are shifting as the sands : 'the true is one, the false are many.' The first harvest of certain emendations was made long ago. Yet there still remain a large number of passages in which emendation, based upon a more accurate knowledge of the MSS. and of the laws of Plautine language and prosody than was accessible to scholars of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, may reach a high degree of probability or even certainty.

The Critical Apparatus I have designedly made short and comparatively simple. But I hope that nothing of importance has escaped me. My apparatus holds a midway position between that of Schoell, who records everything, even the variant of a capital for a small letter, and that of Ussing, who does not take account of the Palatine MS. D.

In the commentary I have not hesitated to give full explanations of all difficulties which struck me. It is my hope that the notes will serve the purpose of a general introduction to the peculiarities of Plautine idiom. Quotations from other plays where necessary to the understanding of the text are given in full; but the large number of my references has compelled me to content myself with giving in the majority of cases only the number of the line; otherwise my notes could not have been kept within moderate compass. References are made to the editions of the Captivi and Mostellaria by myself, the Miles by Tyrrell, the Amphitruo by Palmer, and in other plays to the editions of Ritschl and his collaborateurs Loewe, Goetz and Schoell, so far as hitherto published: the Casina of Schoell (1890) had not come to hand at the time when I wrote my commentary. As a rule I have quoted by lines, except when quotation by Act and Scene seemed likely to facilitate reference to some text or note in a generally used edition.

My best thanks are due to Mr. Horace Hart and the staff of the Clarendon Press for their ready helpfulness and support in matters typographical.

E. A. S.

BIRMINGHAM, November, 1890.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
INTRODUCTION	xiii-xxii
TEXT AND CRITICAL APPARATUS	1-79
NOTES	81-186
EXCURSUS	187-191
CRITICAL APPENDIX	193-202
INDEX	203-211

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for transparency and accountability, particularly in the context of public administration and government operations. The text highlights that records should be kept in a secure and accessible format, ensuring that they can be easily retrieved and reviewed when needed.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used for record-keeping. It mentions the use of digital databases, spreadsheets, and specialized software to manage large volumes of data efficiently. It also discusses the importance of regular backups and security measures to protect the integrity and confidentiality of the records. The text notes that while digital methods offer significant advantages, traditional paper-based records may still be necessary in certain circumstances for legal or archival purposes.

3. The third part of the document addresses the challenges associated with record-keeping, such as data redundancy, inconsistent formatting, and the risk of data loss. It suggests implementing standardized protocols and training for staff to ensure that records are entered and maintained consistently. The text also mentions the importance of periodic audits and reviews to identify and correct any errors or discrepancies in the records. Additionally, it discusses the need for clear policies regarding the retention and disposal of records to ensure compliance with relevant regulations and standards.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the role of record-keeping in decision-making and reporting. It explains that accurate records provide a reliable source of information for analyzing trends, identifying issues, and evaluating the performance of various programs and services. The text notes that records are also essential for generating reports and providing evidence to support claims and decisions. It emphasizes that well-maintained records can significantly enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of organizational operations.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes by reiterating the importance of record-keeping and the need for ongoing commitment and resources to maintain a robust record-keeping system. It encourages organizations to regularly assess their record-keeping practices and make necessary adjustments to stay current with best practices and technological advancements. The text also mentions that investing in record-keeping infrastructure and training is a long-term investment that pays off in the form of improved transparency, accountability, and operational efficiency.

INTRODUCTION.

The RUDENS was probably first acted in the year B.C. 192¹. The scene is laid on the coast in the neighbourhood of Cyrene.

The plot² is based upon the recovery by a fisherman, called Gripus, of a vidulus, or wicker basket used as a packing case, which has been lost at sea and which contains among other articles the crepundia or 'tokens' of the heroine Palaestra, who has fallen into the hands of a slave-dealer, Labrax. Labrax is attempting to carry her off by sea to Sicily; but the ship is wrecked upon the African coast, in the neighbourhood of Cyrene. Those on board escape drowning, but their property goes to the bottom. The play derives its name 'The Rope,' from an amusing scene (IV. 3) in which Gripus, carrying the vidulus which he has fished up, and trailing behind him a rope which is attached to it, is accosted by Trachalio—the slave of Plesidippus³, an Athenian youth and the lover of Palaestra. Trachalio, who is acting in the interest of the heroine, seizes the other end of the rope and demands that Gripus shall restore the booty to its rightful owner. The crepundia thus return into the possession of Palaestra, and by means of them the customary ἀναγνώρισις is effected: Palaestra is discovered to be the long lost daughter of Daemones, an Athenian exile, living in poverty on the coast of Cyrene, and the master of Gripus.

We are not informed definitely of the name of the Greek original on which the Rudens is founded. But a strong case has been made out⁴ in favour of the supposition that it was a play of Diphilus⁵ of similar content to that imitated by Plautus in the Vidularia, or 'Story

¹ Teuffel, Rheinisches Museum, VIII, p. 37. Petersen, Zeitschrift für Alterthumswissenschaft, 1836, no. 77, assigned the earlier date B.C. 209.

² Analysed at the beginnings of scenes in the Commentary.

³ How Plesidippus comes to be at Cyrene is not explained.

⁴ By Studemund, Ueber zwei Parallel-Comoedien des Diphilus (Verhandlungen der 36^{ten} Philologenversammlung, p. 33 ff.).

⁵ Prolog. 32 huic esse nomen urbi Diphilus Cyrenas uoluit.

of the Wicker Basket,' (sc. fabula)¹. Of the latter play, only fragments are preserved in the Ambrosian palimpsest (A); but from them we are enabled to gather that the action takes place on the sea coast, probably in the neighbourhood of a temple of Venus², and near the house of an old man called Dinia, whose rôle corresponds to that of Daemones in the Rudens. Nicodemus, who like Palaestra is of good family, has been wrecked at sea and lost a vidulus containing his signet ring. As in the Rudens, father and child have been separated so long that they do not recognize one another at first sight. The fisherman Gorgo, who has given shelter to Nicodemus, fishes up the vidulus. The slave Cacistus, who has watched what has happened from the myrtle bushes near the temple, demands the booty for himself. But Gorgo, who plays the part of the honourable slave and desires merely to restore the vidulus to its owner, conveys it to his hut and recommends Cacistus to find a patronus (cf. Rud. 1380). Just as Daemones in the Rudens is involuntarily reminded of his lost daughter when he sees Palaestra, so in the Vidularia the sound of Nicodemus' voice revives in Dinia the memory of his son. Dinia is appointed sequester (cf. Rud. 1004), the vidulus is opened, and by means of the signet ring the recognition of Nicodemus as the son of Dinia is brought about. The Greek original of the Vidularia bore the title Σχεδία, according to the Prologue preserved in A. Plautus called his adaptation 'The Wicker Basket,' a title which would have been equally well suited to the Rudens. It would seem that having already employed this title for the Vidularia (which must therefore have been an earlier play) he was debarred from using it for the Rudens, and was driven to adopt the less suitable name of 'The Rope.' Schoell (Rheinisches Museum, XLIII, p. 298) conjectures that the original of the Rudens was called Πήρα, 'the wallet.'

The SCENIC ARRANGEMENTS of the Rudens are as follows:—The stage—longer and deeper than that in Greek theatres³—represents in the background a temple and a cottage, situated on the coast near Cyrene. The neighbouring parts of the stage are supposed to be overgrown with bullrushes and other plants: cf. line 523 where Labrax congratulates the bullrush (O scirpe, scirpe, laudo fortunas tuas, Qui semper seruas gloriam aritudinis), and 630 where silphium and asafoetida (scirpe et lasserpicium) are mentioned as cultivated on the land of Daemones. Before the temple stands an altar: cf. on Act III. Sc. 3¹. The sea is supposed to be visible to the actors: cf. lines 148-155. The side doors leading on to the stage to right and left served for the entrance and exit of persons not coming from or going into the temple or cottage. According to the ordinary usage of the Roman stage, the door to the left of the spectators served for the entrance of persons from foreign parts (peregre), that to the right of the spectators for the entrance of inhabitants of the place². This standing custom helped to make the action of the piece intelligible to the spectators, serving to some extent the purpose of the 'programme,' in the modern theatre. In most of the comedies of Plautus and Terence, the scene is laid in a city; hence the entrance to the left was identified with the approach to or from the harbour (portus), where those coming from foreign parts landed; and the entrance to the right with the approach to or from the town (forum) or country. In the Rudens, however, the scene is laid in the country, and it seems probable that the door to the left of the spectators was used by those coming from Cyrene or its harbour (i. e. peregre in relation to the inhabitants of the coast), and that to the right by those coming from the sea shore³.

¹ Diphilus is said to have produced no less than 100 plays, Menander 108, Philemon 97. It is therefore not surprising that very similar plots reappear. Shipwreck and piracy were favourite items in the New Comedy, and the dénouement was often mechanically brought about by means of γνωρίσματα (M. Haupt, Opusc. III, p. 18).

² Nescio qui servus e myrteta prosilit Frg. XV, Stud.², Priscian IV. 12.

³ Lorenz, Introduction to Miles³, p. 8, and Brix, Introduction to Trinummus⁴, ed. Niemeyer, p. 30, agree that the Roman stage was very long. This great length made it possible to represent in one view the coast as well as the two buildings mentioned above.

The town and harbour are throughout the play treated as almost convertible terms (cf. on III. 6, and lines 856, 1200); and the sea shore was in the immediate neighbourhood of the cottage and temple.

¹ Langen, Plautinische Studien, pp. 212 f., supposes the altar to stand before the cottage; but his argument from hic 688 involves the supposition that Trachalio had not moved from his position before the cottage in III. 2; for the explanation of lines 706 f. (huc) see commentary. Probably the temple and cottage were not far from each other.

² This is proved by Amphitruo 333: Sosia arrives from the harbour; Mercury, who is facing the spectators, says Hinc enim mihi dextrā uox auris, ut uidetur, uerberat; i. e. Sosia was on his right and on the left of the spectators: cf. too Men. 555 f.

³ The arrangement in the Rudens would thus be similar to that prevailing in the theatre of Dionysus at Athens. Any other theory than that mentioned above gives rise to difficulties, and obliterates the significance of the two side doors.

The entrances and exits of the characters are shown in the following table :—

		ENTRANCES.	EXITS.
ACT I.	Sc. 1	Scep. from cottage, 83.
"	" 2	Ples. and friends from harbour [left], 89. Daem. from cottage, 96.	Ples. and friends to shore [right], 159. Daem. and Scep. into cottage, 184.
"	" 3	Pal. from shore [right], 185.
"	" 4	Amp. from shore [right], 220.
"	" 5	Ptolemocr. from temple.	Ptol., Pal., Amp. into temple, 288.
ACT II.	Sc. 1	Piscatores from town [left], 290.
"	" 2	Trach. from town [left], 306.	Piscatores to shore [right], 324.
"	" 3	Amp. from temple, 331.	Trach. into temple, 404.
"	" 4	Scep. from cottage, 414.	Scep. into cottage, 444. Amp. into temple, 457. Scep. into temple, 484.
"	" 5	Scep. from cottage, 458.
"	" 6	Labr. and Charm. from shore [right], 485.
"	" 7	Scep. from temple, 559.	Labr. into temple, 571. Scep. into cottage, 583. Charm. into temple, 592.
ACT III.	Sc. 1	Daem. from cottage, 593.
"	" 2	Trach. from temple, 615.	Daem. into temple, 658.
"	" 3	Pal. and Amp. from temple, 664.
"	" 4	Daem. and Labr. from temple, 706.	Trach. to shore [right], 775. Daem. into cottage, 820.
"	" 5	Ples. and Trach. from shore [right], 839.	Trach. to shore [right], 858.
"	" 6	Charm. from temple, 867.	Pal. and Amp. into cottage, 882. Ples. and Labr. to town [left], 885. Charm. to town [left], 891. Daem. into cottage, 905.
ACT IV.	Sc. 1	Daem. from cottage, 892.
"	" 2	Grip. from shore [right], 906.
"	" 3	Trach. from shore [right], 938.
"	" 4	Daem., Pal. and Amp. from cottage, 1045.	Daem., Pal., Amp., and Trach. into cottage, 1183. Gripus into cottage, 1190.
"	" 5	Daem. from cottage, 1191.
"	" 6	Trach. from cottage, 1210.	Trach. to town [left], 1224.
"	" 7	Grip. from cottage, 1227.	Grip. into cottage, 1257. Daem. into cottage, 1264.
"	" 8	Ples. and Trach. from town [left], 1265.	Ples. and Trach. into cottage, 1280.
ACT V.	Sc. 1	Labr. from town [left], 1281.
"	" 2	Grip. from cottage, 1288.
"	" 3	Daem. from cottage, 1357.

CURTAIN.

The MANUSCRIPTS containing the Rudens, or parts of it, are :—

1. The Ambrosian (A), a palimpsest of the Ambrosian Library at Milan, which contains beneath a coarsely executed Latin MS. of parts of the Old Testament (Books of Kings), a MS. of parts of Plautus, Seneca and Ulfilas, of the 4th or even the 3rd century¹. It was discovered by Cardinal Mai, who in 1815 published an imperfect collation in his M. Accii Plauti Fragmenta Inedita, at the same time seriously injuring the MS. by the use of improper chemicals. Mould and damp have also done their work, and the original writing is extremely hard to decipher; in some pages scarcely more than the frame of the borders remains². The palimpsest has been subsequently collated with far greater care by Ritschl, Schwarzmann and Geppert, and in recent years by Loewe and Studemund. The results of the labours of the latter, extending over a period of twenty-five years, are now accessible to the world in his Titi Macci Plauti Fabularum Reliquiæ Ambrosianæ (Berlin, Weidmann, 1889), edited after his death by his friend Seyffert; this work may be regarded as the most authoritative of existing collations. Only parts of the original codex are extant—those which the scribe of the 7th or 8th century with cruel kindness preserved for the reception of his copy of the Books of Kings, defacing as far as he could one of the most valuable and ancient codices of any Latin author. The parts of the Rudens which are contained in A are indicated in the Critical Apparatus.

2. The 'Codex Vetus (B),' a MS. of the 11th century, now in the Vatican Library at Rome, and first collated in the 16th century by the great German scholar Joachim Camerarius. It contains all the extant comedies (not the Vidularia) and is the main source from which our existing texts are derived. The original reading of B has been in many places corrected by other hands of various ages, the most important being the so-called 'manus secunda' (*B*²). In recent times it has been collated afresh by Ritschl, Ramsay, Ussing, Loewe and Schoell.

3. The 'Codex Decurtatus' (C), a MS. of the 12th century, now at Heidelberg.

4. The 'Codex Ursinianus' (D), a MS. of the 11th Century³, now in the Vatican. The value of this MS. depends partly on the fact that it contains a good many names of speakers in the text; these are to a large extent omitted in C, and altogether omitted in B. D has been corrected either by another hand or by the original scribe himself at a subsequent time (*D*²); it also contains corrections by a scholar of the 14th or 15th century (*D*³)¹.

¹ Seyffert in Studemund's Apographon, p. xxii. The date of the MS. of the Books of Kings is of the 7th or 8th century.

² Nunc perlucet ea quam cribrum crebrius (Rud. 102).

³ Schoell, Preface to Rudens, p. xv.

The three MSS. B C D are very similar and are obviously derived from a common archetype. They are often spoken of together as the 'Palatine MSS. '; and the readings common to them are indicated in the critical apparatus by the symbol *M*³.

5. The 'Codex Lipsiensis' (F), a MS. of the 15th century of no authority (see Ritschl, Prolegomena to Trinummus).

In the text I have abandoned the traditional DIVISION INTO ACTS, an arrangement due to the editors of the time of the Renaissance: the Plautine division is simply into a number of Scenes. The division into five Acts serves no useful purpose, and there is an additional reason for giving it up in this play, as those responsible for it have obviously blundered at the 5th Act: so too in the Captivi. At the same time the traditional numeration by Acts and Scenes is retained at the heads of pages in the text for the sake of convenience of reference.

I have restored the HEADINGS OF SCENES in the antique form³. In the Bembine MS. of Terence every heading consists of two lines, containing:—

- (i) The names of the characters taking part in the scene; these are written in 'atramentum,' and before each of them stands a Greek letter, painted in 'minium,' and used as a substitute for the name at changes of speakers in the text.
- (ii) The rôles of the characters, painted in 'minium' under the names.

The Ambrosian MS. of Plautus had originally the same arrangement; the headings for the most part consist of two lines, but the second is blank, the minium having entirely disappeared in the process of washing to which the parchment was subjected in the 7th or

¹ Schoell, Preface to Rudens, p. xv.

² I have used this symbol, as in my edition of the Mostellaria, not only for the sake of brevity, but also to indicate clearly the reading of the archetype to which the readings of B, C, and D point, insignificant differences being neglected. Where the differences between the three MSS. are of importance their readings are cited separately.

³ See Seyffert in the Prooemium to Studemund's Apographon, p. xxix, and in his Jahresbericht über Plautus, 1883-85, pp. 9 f., where he reviews Spengel's Scenentitel und Scenenabteilungen in der lateinischen Komödie (1883).

8th century. [In Rudens, II. 7, the roles SERUUS LENO PARASITUS stand in the first line, and the second line is blank.] The Greek letters in the first line and in the text have also disappeared from the same cause. The Palatine MSS. still retain numerous traces of a similar arrangement in their archetype.

The numeration of lines in the present text is identical with that of Fleckeisen and Schoell: where a single line of Fleckeisen is subdivided into two or more, the letters a, b, c, d are employed.

In the CRITICAL APPARATUS I have in the main followed Schoell's collation of BCD, as published in his edition of the Rudens (1887). The collation of Ramsay I have compared throughout with those of Schoell and Ussing. But I have systematically ignored such details, contained in any of these collations, as are of no significance to the text: for example (i) misdivisions of words, when unaccompanied by real differences of reading; (ii) the blunders of F; (iii) the spellings in B of the words ad, id, quid, quidquid, quod as at, it, quit, quitquit (or quit quit), quot; (iv) the separation of est, e.g. seruus est for seruust (seruust); (v) the frequent omissions of the names of speakers. Where however a doubt as to the speaker arises, the name is printed in italics in the text, and the Critical Apparatus gives information as to the name of the speaker in D (or C) and the presence or absence of a space for its insertion in B, wherever such information seemed to be of help in restoring the right distribution of speeches.

The METRES employed in the Rudens are as follows:—

Arg. and 1-184 . . .	iamb. senarii.	213-215 . . .	cret. tetrametri.
185, 186, 189 ^a . . .	versus Reiziani (cf. on I. 3).	216 ^b . . .	iamb. dimeter cat.
187 ^a , 187 ^b . . .	iamb. dimetri.	217 . . .	troch. octonarius.
188, 189 ^b , 189 ^c . . .	iamb. dimetri cat.	218 ^a . . .	anapaest. dimeter cat.
190-193 . . .	bacch. tetrametri.	218 ^b . . .	anapaest. tripodia cat.
194 ^a -195 ^a . . .	iamb. dimetri.	219 . . .	iamb. septenarius.
195 ^b . . .	iamb. tripodia cat.	220-224, 227 . . .	anapaest. tetrametri.
196 . . .	bacch. tetrameter.	225, 226, 228 . . .	anapaest. tetrametri cat.
197 . . .	iamb. dimeter cat.	229 ^a . . .	cret. dimeter.
198 . . .	iamb. septenarius.	229 ^b . . .	iamb. dimeter cat.
199 . . .	cret. tetrameter.	230 . . .	iamb. tripodia.
200 ^a , 201 ^a . . .	cret. trimetri.	231 ^a -232 ^b . . .	troch. tripodiae cat.
200 ^b , 201 ^b . . .	troch. tripodiae cat.	233-253 ^a . . .	cret. tetrametri.
202 . . .	cret. tetrameter.	253 ^b , 253 ^c . . .	iamb. tripodiae cat.
203, 209, 212, 216 ^a . . .	cret. dim. + -○○○∪	254 . . .	iamb. senarius.
204, 205 ^a (?) . . .	bacch. tetrametri.	255 . . .	iamb. octonarius.
205 ^b . . .	iambic (?).	256, 257 . . .	troch. septenarii.
206 ^a , 206 ^b . . .	iamb. dimetri.	258-262 . . .	bacch. tetrametri.
207, 208, 210 . . .	cret. tetrametri.
211 ^a , 211 ^b . . .	troch. tripodiae cat.

263	bacch. dimeter.	912, 913 + 914	anapaest. tetrametri.
264	cret. tetrameter.	915-918	bacch. tetrametri.
265	iamb. dimeter cat.	919	anapaest. dimeter.
266-277	cret. tetrametri.	920	iamb. octonarius.
278-282	bacch. tetrametri.	921, 922	anapaest. tetrametri.
283	iamb. octonarius.	923	troch. octonarius.
284, 285 ^a	iamb. dimetri cat.	924 ^a -925 ^a	troch. tripodiae cat.
285 ^b	iamb. tripodia cat.	925 ^b , 925 ^c	iamb. tripodiae.
286, 288	bacch. tetrametri.	926-932, 934	anapaest. tetrametri.
287, 289	iamb. dimetri cat.	933, 935-937	anapaest. tetram. cat.
290-413	iamb. septenarii.	938 ^a -944 ^b	iamb. dimetri.
414-449	troch. septenarii.	945, 946	iamb. septenarii.
450-558	iamb. senarii.	947 ^a , 947 ^b , 948 ^a	iamb. dimetri cat.
559-592	troch. septenarii.	948 ^b	anapaest. dimeter cat. (?)
593-614	iamb. senarii.	949, 950	cret. tetrametri.
615-663	troch. septenarii.	951	cret. dim. + troch. trip. cat.
664-666	cret. tetrametri.	952, 954	iamb. monometri.
667, 668	bacch. tetrametri.	953, 955	anapaest. dimetri cat.
669-673	cret. tetrametri.	956 ^a -962 ^b	anapaest. dimetri.
674	bacch. tetrameter.	963-1190	troch. septenarii.
675 ^a	bacch. dimeter.	1191-1204	iamb. senarii.
675 ^b	versus Reizianus.	1205-1226	troch. septenarii.
676	iamb. septenarius.	1227-1264	iamb. senarii.
677 ^a	troch. dimeter cat.	1265-1280	troch. septenarii.
677 ^b -681 ^a	cret. tetrametri.	1281-1337	iamb. septenarii.
681 ^b	troch. dipodia.	1338-1356	iamb. senarii.
682-705	iamb. septenarii.	1357-1423	troch. septenarii.
706-779	troch. septenarii.
780-905	iamb. senarii.
906-911	bacch. tetrametri.

ABBREVIATIONS.

- A* = Codex Ambrosianus (As = Stude-mund's Apographon of A: where A stands alone it is to be understood that collators agree).
- acc. to = according to.
- Acid. = Acidalius.
- Archiv = Wölflin's Archiv für lateinische
Lexicographie und Grammatik (1884-1890).
- B* = Codex Vetus (the figures 1, 2, 3 above the line denote the first, second and third hands respectively).
- Bent. = Bentley (many of the readings quoted are derived from MS. notes in the British Museum and Bodleian libraries, published by the present editor in an edition of the Captivi, 1880, and a volume of the Anecdota Oxoniensia, 1883).
- Bo. = Bothe.
- Bücheler Lat. Decl. = Bücheler's Grundriss der lateinischen Declination, 2nd ed. by Windekilde, 1879).
- C* = Codex Decurtatus (1, 2, 3 as in case of B).
- Cam. = Camerarius.
- cod. uet. Lamb. = codices veteres Lambini (cf. Critical Appendix on l. 295).
- D* = Codex Ursinianus (1, 2, 3 as in case of B).
- F* = Codex Lipsiensis.
- Fleck. = Fleckeisen.
- Fragm. Com. = Ribbeck's Fragmenta Comicorum (1873).
- Fragm. Trag. = Ribbeck's Fragmenta Tragicorum (1871).
- Gepp. = Geppert.
- Georges Lat. Wortf. = Georges' Lexicon der lateinischen Wortformen (1889-90).
- Gronov. = Gronovius.
- Grut. = Gruter.
- Gul. = Gulielmus.
- Herm. = Hermann.
- Hermath. = Hermathena.
- Intr. to Capt. = Introduction to Captivi
(by E. A. Sonnenschein, 1880).
- Intr. to Most. = Introduction to Mostellarium (by E. A. Sonnenschein, 1884).
- Jahr. = Fleckeisen's Jahrbücher.
- Lamb. = Lambinus.
- Lang. = Langen (Beitr. = Beiträge zur Kritik und Erklärung des Plautus,
1880: Plaut. Stud. = Plautinische Studien, 1886).
- Loewe (Prodr. = Prodrum Corporis Glossarium Latinorum, 1876).
- Lor. = Lorenz.
- M* = BCD.
- Madv. = Madvig (the §§ refer to Mad-vig's Latin Grammar, Engl. Trans.; Opusc. = Opuscula).
- Müll. = C. F. W. Müller (Plaut. Pros. = Plautinische Prosodie, 1869).
- Nettleship (Contr. to Lat. Lex. = Contributions to Latin Lexicography, 1889).
- Non. = Nonius.
- om. = omitted by.

- Par. = Pareus (Lex. = Lexicon Plautinum, 1634).
 Philol. = Philologus.
 Phil. Woch. = Berliner Philologische Wochenschrift.
 Pyl. = Pylades.
 Rams. = Ramsay.
 Ribb. (or R. after quotations from fragments of dramatists) = Ribbeck.
 Ritschl (Neue Pl. Exc. = Neue Plautinische Excurse; Opusc. = Opuscula).
 Rhein. Mus. = Rheinisches Museum.
 Seyff. = Seyffert (Stud. Plaut. = Studia Plautina; Jahresb. = Jahresbericht über Plautus: see too Phil. Woch.).
 Speng. = Spengel (Reformv. = Reformvorschläge zur Metrik der lyrischen Versarten bei Plautus, 1882).
 Stud. = Studemund (Studem. Stud. = Studemund's Studien auf dem Gebiete des archaischen Lateins, 1873-1890). transp. = transposed by.
 Turneb. = Turnebus.
 Uss. = Ussing.
 Vahl. = Vahlen.
 vulg. = common reading.
 Wagn. = Wagner.
 Z = Editio Princeps (1472).
 = a lacuna in MSS. (In statements about A, the number of dots = the number of letters which have been lost; if a considerable part of a line has been lost a — is used.)
 (*) in Critical Apparatus = see Critical Appendix.

T. MACCI PLAVTI
RVDENS

ARGUMENTVM.

Rētī piscator dé mari extraxit uídulum,
Vbi eránt erilis fíliæ crepúndia,
Dominum ád lenonem quæ subrepta uénerat.
Ea súipte imprudens ín cluentelám patris
Naufrágio eiecta déuenit: cognóscitur
Suóque amico Plésidippo iúngitur.

5

1. Reti B, Rete CD (*). 2. crefunda B. 4. Ea in (Eam C) clientelam suspte (suscepte CD) imprudens patris M, corr. Bo. 6. pleu-sidippo M.

PERSONAE.

ARCTVRVS PROLOGVS
SCEPARNIO SERVOS
PLESIDIPPVS ADVLESCENS
DAEMONES SENEX
PALAESTRA MVLIER
AMPELISCA MVLIER
PTOLEMOCRATIA SACERDOS
PISCATORES
TRACHALIO SERVOS
LABRAX LENO
CHARMIDES SENEX
LORARII
GRIPVS PISCATOR

ARCTVRVS.

PROLOGVS.

Qui g ntis omnis m riaque et terr s mouet,
 Iouis sum ciuis cluitate caelitim.
 Ita sum ut uidetis: spl ndens stella c ndida
 Signum, quod semper tempore exoritur suo.
 Hic atque in caelo nomen Arctur st mihi. 5
 Noctum sum in caelo clarus atque inter deos,
 Inter mortalis ambulo clam interdus.
 Et alia signa de caelo ad terram accidunt:
 Quis imperator duom atque hominum Iuppiter,
 Is nos per gentis aliud alia disparat, 10
 Hominum qui facta, mores, pietatem et fidem
 Noscamus, ut quemque adiuuet opulencia.
 Qui falsas litis falsis testimoniis
 Petunt quique in iure abiurant pecuniam,
 Eorum referimus nomina exscripta ad Iouem. 15
 Cotidie ille scit quis hic quaerat malum.
 Qui hic litem apisci postulant peiurio
 Mali, res falsas qui impetrant apud iudicem, Iterum ille eam rem iudicatam iudicat:
 Maiore multa multat quam litem auferunt. 20
 Bonos in aliis tabulis exscriptos habet.

2. I have ventured to write Ionis for Eius M ()*. 3. ut uidetis sum CD. 7. clam Gepp. (to avoid hiatus and for the sake of contrast to clarus), om. M. 10. aliud Seyff., alium M. 11. Qui facta hominum M, corr.
Cam. 13-20. (). 14. (). 17. peiurio Par., pelorio B, pelorio CD. 20-56. The pages of A containing these verses are preserved, but very little is legible.

Atque hóc scelesti si in animum inducunt suom,
 Iouem sé placare pösse donis, hóstiis,
 Et óperam et sumptum pèrdunt. id eo fít, quia
 Nihil éi acceptumst á periuris súpplici. 25
 Facilius si qui píus est a dis, súpplicans,
 Quam qui scelestust inueniet ueniám sibi.
 Idcirco moneo uós ego haec, qui estis boni
 Quique aétatem agitis cúm pietate et cúm fide:

Retinéte porro, póst factum ut laetémini. 30
 Nunc, húc quā causā uéni, argumentum éloquar.
 Primúmdum huic esse nómen urbi Díphilus
 Cyrénas uoluit. Illic habitat Daémones
 In agro átque uilla próxima proptér mare,
 Senex qui húc Athenis éxul uenit, haú malus. 35
 Neque is ádeo propter málitiam patriá caret,
 Sed dum álios seruat, se ínpediuit ínterim:
 Rem béne paratam cómitate pèrdidit.
 Huic fíliola una uírgo periit páruola:
 Eam dé praedone uír mercatur pèssumus: 40
 Is eam húc Cyrenas léno aduexit uírginem.
 Aduléscens quidam cúis huius Átticus
 Eam uidit ire e lúdo fidicinió domum.
 Amáre occépit: ád lenonem déuenit,
 Minís triginta síbi puellam déstinat 45
 Datque árrabonem et iúreiurando ádligat.
 Is léno, ut se aequomst, flócci non fecít fidem
 Neque quód iuratus ádulescenti díxerat.
 Ei erát quidam hospes pár sui, Siculus senex

22. si Müll., om. M. inducunt FZ, indicunt M. 23. placere
 B¹. posse donis B, posset omnibus CD. 24. perduunt M, corr.
 Pyl. ideo M, corr. Gul. 25. aperiuriis M, corr. Cam. 26. plus M, corr. Z. 28. que uestis M, corr. Z. 29. cum pietate B, Con-pletatae CD¹. cum om. B. After this verse A has a verse beginning with T, which does not appear in M. 32. Primum dum M, corr. Lamb. 33.
 CYREN— A, Cirenas M. demonies M, corr. Z. 39. una Seyff., om.
 M (). 41. cirenas M. 42. atticos M, corr. Z. 43. ().
 49. quidam Seyff., om. M. par sui Fleck., parui M.

Sceléstus Agrigentínus, urbis próditor : 50
 Is illíus laudare ínfit formam uírginis
 Et áliarum itidem quae éius erant muliérculae.
 Infít lenoni suádere, ut secúm simul
 Eat ín Siciliam : ibi ésse homines uoluptários
 Dicít : potesse dífuitem ibi eum fferi. 55
 Ibi ésse quaestum máximum meretrícibus.
 Persuádet. nauis clánculum condúctur.
 Quidquíd erat, noctu in náuem conportát domo
 Leno : ádulescenti, quí puellam ab eo émerat, Ait sése Veneri uélle uotum sóluere 60
 —Id híc est Veneris fánum—atque adeo ad prándium
 Vocáuit adulescéntem huc. Ípse hinc flico Conscéndit nauem atque áuehit meretrículas.
 Aduléscénti alii nárrant ut res gésta sit :
 Lenónem abisse. ad pórtum adulescens quóm uenit, 65
 Illórum nauis lónge in altum apscésserat.
 Ego quóniam uideo, uírginem asportárier,
 Tetulí éi auxiliium et lénoni exitiúm simul :
 Incrépui hibernum et flúctus moui máritumos.
 Nam Arctúrus signum sum ómnium unum acérrumum : 70
 Veheméns sum exoriens, quom óccido ueheméntior.
 Nunc ámbó, leno atque hóspes, in saxó simul
 Sedént eiekti : náuis confractást eis.
 Illa autem uirgo atque áltera itidem, ancíllula
 De náui timidæ désuluerunt ín scapham. 75
 Nunc eás ab saxo flúctus ad terrám ferunt,
 Ad uíllam illius, éxul ubi habitát senex,
 Quoius déturbauit uéntus tectum et tégulas.
 Sed séruos illic est éius qui egreditúr foras.

53. lenonis uadare B. 54. sicillā B. 55. diuitem ibi eum fieri
Seyff., ibi eum fieri diuitem M. 56. (*). 61. atque adeo Schoell (in Appendix), et eo M (*). 62. hinc B, hunc CD. 63. atque Seyff., om. M. auenit M, corr. D³ FZ. 65. quom Fleck. (before adulescens), om.
M. 68. ei Z, et M. 70. omnium unum Seyff., omī ū B, omnium CD. 72. ambo (amabo B) in saxo leno atque hospes M, corr. Reiz.
 73. Sedente (Sedenti C) lecti M, corr. Z. 74. ancilla CD. 77. (*).
 79. Sed Luchs, Et M.

Aduléscens huc iam aduéniet, quem uidébitis, 80
 Qui illám mercatust dé lenone uíginem.
 Valéte, ut hostes uóstri diffidánt sibi.

SCEPARNIO.

SERVOS.

Pro di ínmortales, témpestatem quoíusmodi
 Neptúnus nobis nócte hac misit próxuma.
 Detéxit uentus uíllam—quid uerbís opust? 85
 Non uéntus fuit, uerum Álcumena Eurípídī:
 Ita omnis de tecto déturbauit tégulas—
 Inlústriorem fécit festrasque índidit.

PLESIDIPPVS. DAEMONES. SCEPARNIO.

ADVLESCENS.

SENEX.

SERVOS.

PL. Et uós a uostris ábduxi negótiis
 Neque íd processit, quá uos duxi grátia, 90
 Neque quíui ad portum lénonem prehéndere.
 Sed méa desidia spém deserere nólui:
 Eo uós, amici, détinui diútius.
 Nunc húc ad Veneris fánum uenio úlsere,
 Vbi rém diuinam sé facturum díxerat. 95
 SC. Si sápiam, hoc quod mandátumst concinném lutum.
 PL. Prope me híc nescioquis lóquitur.

DAE. Heus, Scepárnio.

82. uestri FZ, uestiri M. 83. immortalis M. 88. Inlustríorem Lamb. and Seyff. (independently), inlustríoris M (*). festrasque Meursius, fenestrasque M. in índidit C. 93. (*). 96. mandatúms Seyff., me maetat M (perhaps from the contraction mēdatū in the archetype). 97.
 hinc M, corr. Z. heus scepario (so always) F; heusceparnio B, heusceparnio C, heu ceparnio D.

SC. Qui nóminat me?

DAE. Quí pro te argentúm dedit.

SC. Quasi mé tuom esse séruom dicas, Daémones.

DAE. Luto úsust multo, múltam terram cónfode. 100

Villam íntegundam intéllego totám mihi:

Nam núnc perlucet éa quam cribrum crébrius.

PL. Patér, salueto—ámboque adeo.

DAE. ET SC. Sáluos sis.

SC. Sed utrúm tu masne an fémina's, qui illúm patrem Vocés?

PL. Vir sum equidem.

DAE. Quaére, uir, porró patrem: 105

Filíolam ego unam quam hábui, eam unam pérdidi.

Virfle sexus númquam ullum hábui.

PL. At dí dabunt.

SC. Tibí quidem hercle, quísqvis es, magnúm malum, Qui orátione hic óccupatos óccupes.

PL. Istífcine uos habitátis?

SC. Quid tu id quaéritis? 110

An quó furatum uénias uestigás loca?

PL. Pecúliosum esse addecet seruom ét probum,

Quem eró praesente praétereat orátio,

Aut qui ínclementer dícat homini líbero.

SC. Et ínpudicum et ínpudentem hominem addecet 115

Moléstum ultro adueníre ad alienám domum,

Quoi débeatur níl.

DAE. Tace, Scepárnio.

Quid opús, adulescens?

PL. Ístic infortúnium,

Qui praéfestinet úbi erus adsit praéloquí.

Sed nísi molestumst, paúcis percontárier 120

99. (*). 100. usus est M, corr. Reiz. 103. ET SC. Seyff., om. M:
cf. Trin. 576. * 104. tu mas Cam. (masne Reuter), tuasne M. 106. ego CD, eo B. quam Seyff., om. M. 107. (*). 109. nos hic M, corr.
Guyet. 111. mox uenias M, corr. Reiz: mox was perhaps interpolated from Trin. 864. 112. addecet Bo., decet M ().* 113. (*). 116. alie- num CD¹. 117. nihil M. 118. opust Fleck., opus M. istic Fleck., isti M.

Volo ego éx te.

DAE. Dabitur ópera, atque in negótio.

SC. Quin tu in paludem is éxicasque harúndinem, Qui pértegamus uíllam, dum sudúmst?

DAE. Tace.

Tu sí quid opus est díce.

PL. Dic quod té rogo,

Ecquém tu hic hominem críspum, incanum uíderis, 125
Malúm, periurum, pálpatozem.

DAE. Plúrumos :

Nam ego própter eiusmodí uiros uiuó miser.

PL. Hic díco, in fanum Véneris qui muliérculas Duas sécum adduxit quiúque adornarét sibi
Vt rém diuinam fáciat, aut hodie aut heri. 130

DAE. Non hércle, adulescens, iam hós dies complúsculos Quemquam ístic uidi sácrificare : néque potest
Clam mé esse, si qui sácrificat. sempér petunt Aquam hínc aut ignem aut uáscula aut cultrum aut ueru

Aut aúlam extarem aut áliquíd : quid uerbís opust? 135
Venerí parauí uása et puteum, nón mihi,
Nunc ínteruallum iam hós dies multós fuit.

PL. Vt uérba praehibes, mé periisse praédicas.

DAE. Meá quidem hercle caúsa saluos síis licet.

SC. Heus tú, qui fana uéntris causa círcumis, 140
Iubére meliust prándium ornarí domi.

DAE. Fortásse tu huc uocátus es ad prándium,

PL. Ita.

DAE. Quí uocauit, núllus uenit.

PL. Ádmodum.

SC. Nullúmst periculum te hínc ire inpransúm domum.
Cererém te meliust quám Venerem sectárier : 145

122. exicasque codex Turnebi, exigasque B, exagitasque CD. harundine M, corr. Par. 129. (*). 135. aulam B, alilam CD. extare B.
140, 141. (*). 141. lubere CD¹. 142. DAE. Barth, om. M. 143.
PL. Ita. DAE. Qui Schoell, illu tui M (CD have space for name of speaker after illu). 144. Nullust CD. 145. Cererem D³ FZ, prerem B, prerem CD. melius M, corr. Reiz. spectarier M, corr. Cam.

Amóri haec curat, trítico curát Ceres.

PL. Delúdicauit me ille homo indignís modis.

DAE. Pro di ínmortales, quíd illuc est, Scepárnio,

Hominúm secundum lítus?

SC. Vt mea opníost,

Proptér uiam illi súnť uocati ad prándium.

150

DAE. Qui?

SC. Quía post cenam, crédo, lauerúnť heri.

DAE. Confrácta nauis ín marist illís.

SC. Itast :

At hércle nobis uílla in terra et tégluae.

DAE. Hui,

153, 154

Homúnculi quanti éstis! eiecti út natant!

155

PL. Vbi súnť isti homines, ópsecro?

DAE. Hac ad d́exteram :

Vidén secundum lítus?

PL. Video : séquimini.

Vtinam ís sit quem ego quaéro, uir sacérrumus.

Valéte.

SC. Si non móneas, nosmet méminimus.

Sed ó Palaemon, sáncte Neptuní comes,

160

† Qui Herculis socius esse diceris,

Quod fácinus uideo?

DAE. Quíd uides?

SC. Muliérculas

Videó sedentis ín scapha solás duas.

Vt ádflictantur míserae! euge, euge, pérbene,

Ab sáxo auortit flúctus ad litús scapham.

165

Neque gúbernatorum quísquam potuit réctius.

Non uídise undas mé maiores cénseo.

146. Amorem M, corr. Meursius. cerea C, cères D, uenus B. 149. ut Z, aut M. est opinio M, corr. Reiz. 151. Quia B, Qui CD. 152.
 DAE. Uss., om. M. SC. Uss., DAE. FZ, Fleck. 153. nouis M (*). uillā in B. 154. DAE. Cam., om. M. 155. eiecti ut natant Prisc., Z, electi ut narrant M. 156. isti Seyff., hi B, om. CD. dextram B. 161.
 hercule CD (*). 162. muerculus C, merculus D. 166. quisquam Par., quam M. rectius Bent., Reiz, om. M.

Saluaé sunt, si illos flúctus deuitáuerint.
 Nunc núnc periclumst: únda eiecit álteram.
 At in uadost: iam fáctile enabit. eúgepae! 170
 [Viden álteram illam ut flúctus eiecit foras?]
 Surréxit, horsum sé capessit; sálua res!
 Desfluit haec autem áltera in terram é scapha.
 Vt praé timore in génua in undas cóncidit!
 Saluást! euasit éx aqua: iam in lítores. 175
 Sed déxtrouorsum auórsa it in malám crucem.
 Hem, errábit illaec hódie.

DAE. Quid id refért tua?

SC. Si ad sáxum, quo capéssit, ea deorsúm cadit, Errátionis fécerit compéndium. 180

DAE. Si tú de illarum cénaturus uésperi's, Illís curandum cénseo, Scepárnio:
 Si apud méd essurus és, mihi dari operám uolo.

SC. Bonum aéquomque oras.

DAE. Séquere me hac ergó.

SC. Sequor.

PALAESTRA.

MVLIER.

Nimio hóminum fortunaé minus miseraé memorántur 185
Quam quántum experiundo ís datur acérbítátum.

168. deuitauerint Pyl., deuitarunt B, deuitauerunt CD (*). 169. unda Guyet, Lang., om. M. 170. eugepace M, corr. Cam. 171. Vide ne
M. I have bracketed the line as a duplicate of 169 (*). 172. orsum CD.
 177. Em B. 181. Sit M, corr. Z. uesperis es Cam., ueperies M. 183.
 med Reiz, me M. es Pyl., om. M.

Sicut nunc hoc deo cónplacitumst	187 ^a
Me hoc órnatu ornatam ín incertas	b
Regiónes timidam eiéctam.	188
Hancíne ego ad rem natam esse me miserám memorábo?	189 ^a
Hancíne ego partem cápío	b
Ob píetatem praecípua?	c
Nam mi hóc haud labórist labórem hunc potíri,	190
Si ego érga paréntis aut deós me inpiáui:
Sed íd si paráte curáui ut cauérem,
Tum mi hóc indecóre, ínque, inmodéste
Datis dí: nam quid habebúnt sibi	194 ^a
Insigne posthac ínpii,	b
Si ad hunc modumst innóxiis	195 ^a
Honór apúd uos?	b
Nam mé si sciám quid fecísse aut paréntis
Scelēste, minus me míserer.
Sed eríle scelus me sóllicitat, eius ínpietas me mále
habet:
Ís nauem atque ómnia pérdidit ín mari.
Haéc bonorum éius sunt réliquiae.	200 ^a
Étiam quae simúl	b
Vécta mecum ín scaphast, éxcidit:	201 ^a
Égo nunc sóla súm.	b

185-188. restored by Seyff. ; lacunae in M. B has :

Nimio hominum fortune minus misere memorantur experiundo iis datur acerbum hoc deo cōplacitum est me hoc ornatu ornatam
 In incertas regiones timidam eiectam.

(185. fortunę C; miseræ Z.)

189^a. I have supplied esse me, om. M. 189^{b c} form one verse in M. 190.
 hoc mihi M, transp. Bo. ()*. 191. I have supplied ego, om. M. parentis Fleck., parentem M. 193. hoc mihi M, transp. Fleck. 194^{a b}. one verse M. sibi igni (sibigni B) impii posthac M, corr. Otto (insigne) and Seyff. ()*. 196, 197. one verse B. quid Seyff., om. M. sceleste parentis B. 197. mei M, corr. Cam. 198. me impietas M, transp. Brix.

Quaé mihi sí foret sálua saltém labor
Lénior éssét híc mi éius opera.
Nunc quám spem aut opem aut consilí quid capéssam?
Ita híc sola sólis locís	205 ^a
. conpotíta sum.	b
Hic sáxa sunt, híc máre sonat,	206 ^a
Neque quísqúam homo uenit mi óbuiam.	b
.
Hóc quod indúta sum, súmmae opes óppido :	207
Néc cibo néc loco técta quo sím scio.
Quaé mihist spés qua me úluere uelim?
Néc loci gnára sum néque etiamdum híc fui.	210
Sáltem aliquém uelím	211 ^a
Quí mi ex híis locís	b
Aút uiam aut sémitam mónstret : ita nunc
Hác an illác eam, incérta sum cónsili :
Néc prope usquam híc quidem cúltum agrum cónspicor.
Álgor, errór, pauor me ómnes uná tenent.	215
Haéc, parentés mei, haud scítis miseri	216 ^a
Me núnc miseram esse ita utí sum.	b
Líbera ego prognáta fui máxume, nequíquam fui.
Nunc quí minus seruio, quám sí	218 ^a
Seruá forem náta?	b
Neque quícuqúam umquam illis prófui, qui mé sibi eduxérunt.

202-216. The page of A containing these verses is preserved, but very little is legible. 204. NUNCQ—As, Numquam M (). 205^a b. one verse M (omitting sola : B has a small space after locis, acc. to Ramsay), two verses As, in which only . . . A. ICSOL . . . L is legible (). 206^a b. one verse M, two verses As, in which only — Q. QUISQ— is legible (). mihi obuiam uenit B, mihi (mi D) obueniam uenit CD, transp. Pyl. Between 206^b and 207 A has two verses, illegible. 210. neque etiamdum Seyff., nec diu M. 213. incerta sum Gruter, incerta B, incertam CD, S—As. 215. om. As. omnes una Seyff. (cf. Epid. 528), omã B, omnia CD (). 216^a b. one verse M (B has Me, with a capital), two verses As. haud CD, KAU. As, aut B. ita B, om. CD. 217-229^a form one page in As, legible. 217. ego M, om. A. 218^a b. one verse in AM (*). S FOREM As, serua B, forem serua CD. 219. ILLIS As, his B, us C, iis D. PROFU . . As, profuit M, corr. Cam. ME ACD, om. B.

AMPELISCA. PALAESTRA.

MVLIERES II.

- AM. Quid mñhi meliust, quid mágis in remst, quam a córpore uitam ut sécludam? 220 Ita mále uiuo atque ita mñhi multae in pectóre sunt
curae exánimales:
Ita rés se habent: uitae háu parco: perdídi spem qua me obléctabam.
Omnía iam circumcúrsaui atque omníbus latebris perréptauí Quaerére conseruam uóce, oculis, auríbus, ut peruestí-garem.
Neque eam úsqvam inuenio néque quo eam neque quá quaeram consúltumst, 225
Neque quém rogitem respónsorem quemquam ínterea conuénio.
Neque mágis solae terrae solae sunt quam haéc sunt loca atque hae régiones.
Neque sí uiuit eam úua umquam quin ínueniam desístam.
PA. Quofanam uóx mihi 229^a Prope híc sonat? pertímui. ^b
AM. Quis híc loquitúr propé? 230

220. ACORPORE As, corpore M (*). UT A, om. M. 221. EXANI-MABILES A. 222. ITARESSEKABENT A, . . . dent M. AU A, haud M. 223. So As, omnibus in latebris B, in latebris omnibus CD (*).

224. QUABERERE A, Querire M. OCULISQ. A. UTPERUESTI-GARE As (the sign of contraction - having been obliterated). 225. (*).

226. CÔUENIO As, inuenio M. 227. SUNTLOCA A, loca M (*).

228. UIUAUMQUAM As, uiuam numquam M. 229-235. I have arranged these lines according to As. M have Quianam uox mihi prope hic sonat pertimui, then 6 lines in the following order: 230 (B begins with Pertimui),

- PA. Spés bona, ópsecró, 231^a Súbuentá mihí. b
- AM. Éx hoc éxímés 232^a Mé miserám metú? b
- PA. Céрто uox múliebris aúris tetigt meas. 233
- AM. Múlier est: múliebris uóx mi ad aurís uenit. 234
- PA. Num Ámpelisca ópsecrost?
- AM. Tén, Palaestra, aúdio? 235
- PA. Quín uoco, ut me aúdiat, nómine illám suo?
 Ámpelisca.
- AM. Hé m, quis est?
- PA. Égo, Palaestra.
- AM. Ópsecro,*
- Díc ubi's.
- PA. Pól ego nunc ín malis plúrumis.
- AM. Sócia sum néc minor párs meast quám tua.
 Séd uidere éxpeto té.
- PA. Mihi's aémula. 240
- AM. Cónsequamúr gradu uócem: ubi's?
- PA. Écce me:
- Áccede ad me átque adi cóntra.
- AM. Fit sédulo.
- PA. Cédo manum.
- AM. Em, áccipe.
- PA. Díc uiuisne, ópsecro.
- AM. Tú facis mé quidem ut núnc uelim úiuere.
 Quóm mihi té licet tángere: ut uíx mihi 245
 Crédo ego hoc, té tenere! ópsecro, ampléctere, Spés mea: ut me ómnium iám laborúm leuas!

231^a b, 234, 232^a b (eximes ex hoc, om. Me), 233, 235. A has at the bottom of a page QUOIANAMUOXMIKI, then on the next page 8 lines, of which the first five are illegible and the last three begin with CERTO, MULI, NUMAM respectively; probably 232^a b were written in one line. The rest of the page (236-246) is mostly illegible, except at the beginnings of lines (*).

237. ego palēst B, ego palam est CD, corr. FZ, (Seyff. supplying AM. ópsecro).

243. Em Seyff., om. M. 244. ut uiuere nunc uelim M, transp. Seyff. (with alliteration).

245. QUOM As, Quā M. 247-262. One page in As, mostly illegible except at ends of lines. 247. leuias CD.

PA. Óccupas praéloqui, quae meá orátioſt.
Núnc abire hínc decet nós.

AM. Quo amabo íbimus?

PA. Lítus hoc pérſequamúr.

AM. Sequor quó lubet. 250

Sícine hic cum úuida uéſte graſſábimur?

PA. Hóc quod eſt íd neceſſáriumſt pérpeti.

AM. Séd quid hoc ópſecroſt? uíden, amabó?

PA. Quid eſt? 253^a

AM. Fanúm uidésne hoc? ^b

PA. Vbíſt?

AM. Ad déxtram. ^c

Videó decorum díſ locum uidérier.

PA. Haud lónge abeſſe ópórtet homines hínc: ita hic lepidúſt locus. 255

Quisquis eſt deus, uéneror ut nos éx hac aerumna éximat,

Míſeras, inopes, aérumnoſas út aliquo auxilio ádiuuet.

PTOLEMOCRATIA ET EAEDEM.

SACERDOS.

MVLIERES.

PT. Qui ſúnt, qui a patrónã precés meã expetéſſunt?

Nam uóx me precántum huc forás excitáuit.

Bonam átque opſequéntem deam átque haud grauátam 260

Patrónam exſequóntur benignamque múltum.

248. quae meae oratio M, corr. Reiz. 251. hic FZ, Macrobius, hic M. uidida ueste Saracenus, uiuo aueste M, umida ueste Macrobius. 252, 253^a.
I have supplied PA. and AM. 253^a. obsecro (obsecra) es, corr. D³FZ.
PA. quid AM. uiden amabo M, transp. Stud. (supplying est). 253^c. dextram B, dexteram CD, . . . XTERAM As. 254. (*). 256. Quisquis
Cam., om. M (with space). EXIGAT A. 257. inopes F, Fleck., inopis
M. adiuuat *CD*¹ (*). 259. precantum me CD.

- PA. Iubémus te sáluere, máter.
 PT. Saluète,
 Puéllae. sed únde
 Íre uos cum úuida uéste dicam, ópsecro,
 Tam maéstiter uestítas? 265
- PA. Ílicō hinc ímus haud lóngule ex hóc loco:
 Vérum longe hinc abest, únde aduectae húc sumus.
- PT. Némpe equo lígneo pér uias caérulas Éstis uectae?
 PA. Ádmodum.
 PT. Ergo aéquius uós erat
 Cándidatás uenire hóstiatásque: ad hoc 270
 Fánum ad istúnc modum nón uenirí solet.
- PA. Quáene eiectae é mari símus ambae, ópsecro?
 Vnde nos hóstias uóluisti huc ádigere?
 Núnc tibi ampléctimur génuā egentés opum,
 Quae ín locis nésciis néscia spé sumus, 275
 Vt tuo récipias técto seruésque nos,
 Míseriarúmque te ambárum uti mísereat,
 Quibús nec locúst ullus néc spes paráta,
 Neque hóc quod uidés ampliús nobis quícquamst.
- PT. Manús mihi date, éxsurgite á genibus ámbae: 280
 Miséricordiór nulla mést feminárum.
 Sed haéc pauperés res sunt ínopes, puéllae:
 Egomét uix uitam sic colo: Venerí cibo meo séruio AM. Venerís fanum, ópsecro, hóc est?
 PT. Fateór: ego huius fáni 285^a Sacérdos clúeo. ^b

264. uos ire (Ire B) M, Nonius, corr. Fleck. uuidauest edicam M.
 265. aestiter CD¹. 266. aut longula M, corr. F. 267. abes bunde uectę sumus (without huc) CD¹. 268. equo FZ, et quo (quod B) M. caeruleas Guyet, caeruleas M. 269. At modum M. suos B. orat CD¹. 272. Quae nec M., Quae nec M. sumus M, corr. Bent., Fleck.
 273. uoluisti huc adigere Speng., agere uoluisti huc M (*). 274. tibi iam plectimur M. 277. Miseriarum quae M. 278. locus M, corr.
 Reiz. parata est M, corr. Reiz. 279. hoc amplius quam quod (quot BC) uidens nobis qui quast M, transp. Fleck. (quod Reiz: uides FZ). 282.
 res om. CD. sunt inopes Seyff., inopes sunt Herm., sunt inopesque M.
 283. sic Seyff., om. M. ueniri M, corr. D³ FZ. seruiuo M, corr. D¹.

Verúm quidquid ést comitér fiet á me,
 Quod cópia ualébit.
 Ite hác mecum.

PA. Amíce benígneque honórem, Matér, nostrum habes.

PT. Opórtet.

PISCATORES.

Omníbus modis qui paúperes sunt hómines miseri ufuont, 290
 Praesértim quibus nec quaéstus est nec dídicere artem nállam.

Necéssitate quídquid est domi íd sat est habéndum.
 Nos íám de ornatu própemodum ut locuplétes simus scítis.

Hisce hámi atque haec harúndines sunt nóbis quaestu et cúltu.

Cotidie ex urbe ad mare huc prodímus pabulátum : 295

Pro exércitu gymnástico et palaéstrico hoc habémus.

Echínos, lopadas, óstreas, balanós captamus, cónchas,

Marínam urticam, músculos, placúsias striátas ;

Postíd piscatum hamátilem et saxátilem adgredímur.

Cibúm captamus é mari. si euéntus non euénit 300

Neque quícquam captumst píscium, salsí lautique púre

Domúm redimus clánculum, dormímus incenáti.

Atque út nunc ualide flúctuat mare, núlla nobis spés est :

Nisi quíd concharum cápsimus, cenáti sumus profécto.

Nunc Vénerem hanc ueneremúr bonam, ut nos lépide adiuerit hódie. 305

287. quo nunc (non C) copia M. 291. nullam Speng., ullam M. 294.
 Hisce hami Cam., His cenam i M (CD omit i). haec Bent., hae M. 295.
 Cotidie cod. vet. Lamb., Cam., om. M, but with space (*). 296. paestrice F, paestriceum M. 297. balanos F, balano M. 298. plagusias M, corr. Salmasius. 299. aggredimur Z, aggreditur M. 300. euenit Bo., uenit M (cf. 300, 400). 303. ut om. B. 304. conclarum M. cenati Reis, incenati M, from 302. 305. adiuerit M, corr. Bent.

TRACHALIO ET IDEM.

SERVOS. PISCATORES.

- TR. Animum áduorsauí sédulo, ne erum úsquam praeterírem :
 Nam quóm modo exhibát foras, ad pórtum se aibat íre :
 Me huc óbuiam iussít sibi ueníre ad Veneris fánum.
 Sed quós perconter cómmode eccos uídeo astare : adíbo.
 Saluété fures máritumi, conchítæ atque hamiótae, 310
 Famélica hominum nátio : quid ágitis ? ut perítis ?
- PI. Vt píscatorem aequómst, fame sitíque speque algúque.
- TR. ecquem adulescéntem
 Huc, dum híc astatís, strénua facié, rubicundum, fórtem, Qui trís secum homines dúceret chlamydátos cum 315^a machaéris,
 Vidístis uos uenire ? ^b
- PI. Nullum ístac facié, ut praédicas, uenísse huc scimus.
- TR. Écquem
- Recáluom ad Silanúm senem, statútum, uentriósum, Tortís superciliís, contracta frónte, frauduléntum, Deorum ódium atque hominum, málum, mali uití pro-brique plénium,
 Qui dúceret muliérculas duas sécum satis uenústas ? 320
- PI. Cum istíus modi uirtútibus operísque ornatus quí sit,

306. animo M, corr. Bo. praeterimus B. 307. aibat Acid., aiebat M. 309. eccos *D*³, eccos si B, eo cons *CD*¹. adibo FZ, adito M (*).

312-317. So Seyff.: M have—

Vt piscatorem aequum est fame sitique speque

Eo quem adolescentem huc dum hic astatís

Strenua facie rubicundum fortem qui tres

Duceret clamidatos cum macheris uidisti seni

Nullum istac facie ut praedicas uenisse huc scimus

ec quem Becaluom at silanum senem statutum uentriosum (*).

(312. alguque Schoell, but before speque; cf. Most. 193. 315. secum homines Mischerlich; Lamb. quotes semihomines from some of his 'libri ueteres.' cum machaeris Saracenus). 319. uitii M. 321. modis B. I have written ornatus for natus M. sit Pyl., siet M (*).

Eum quídem ad carnificemst aéquius quam ad Vénerem conmeáre.

TR. At sí uidistis, dícite.

PI. Huc profécto nullus uénit.

Valé.

TR. Valete. crédidi : factúmst quod suspicábar :

Data uérba ero sunt : léno abít sceléstus exulátum. 325

In náuem ascendit, múlieres auéxit : hariolús sum.

Is húc érum etiam ad prándium uocáuit, sceleris sémen.

Nunc quíd mihi meliust, quam sílico hic oppériar erum dum uéniat ?

Eadem haéc sacerdos Véneria si quídpiam ampliús scit,

Si uídero, exquisúero : faciét me certiórem. 330

AMPELISCA. TRACHALIO.

MVLIER.

SERVOS.

AM. Intéllego : hanc quae próxumast me uíllam Veneris fáno Pulsáre iussisti átque aquam rogáre.

TR. Quóia ad aúris

Vox mi áduolauit ?

AM. Ópsecro, quis hic lóquitur ? quem ego uídeo ?

TR. Estne Ámpelísca haec, quae foras e fáno egreditur ?

AM. Éstne híc

Trachálio, quem cónspicor, calátor Plesidíppi ? 335

TR. Eást.

AM. Is est : Trachálio, salué.

TR. Salue, Ampelísca :

322. comeare B. 324. quod FZ, quo M. 328. Nunquid C, Numquid D. melius B. 329. haec Z, cod. vet. Lambini, hanc M. si quidpiam Schoell, síquid (-quit) M. 331. me Bent., om. M (uillam me Weise). 332-379. names of speakers confused in M. 332. atquaquam
M (the archetype probably had. ATQ. AQUAM). 334. haec Pyl., ñ B, om. CD.

Quid tú agis?

AM. Aetatem haúd malam male.

TR. Mélius omináre.

AM. Verum ómnis sapientís decet conférre et fabulári.

Sed Plésidippus túos erus ubi amábost?

TR. Heia uéro,

Quasi nón sit intus.

AM. Néque pol est neque húc quidem ullus uénit. 340

TR. Non uénit?

AM. Vera praédicas.

TR. Non ést meum, Ampelísca.

Sed quám mox coctumst prándium?

AM. Quod prándium, opsécro te?

TR. Nempe rém diuinam fácitis hic?

AM. Quid sómnias, amábo?

TR. Certe húc Labrax ad prándium uocáuit Plesidíppum, Erúm meum erus uostér.

AM. Pol haud miránda facta dícis: 345

Si deós decepit ét homines, lenónum more fécit.

-TR. Non rém diuinam fácitis hic uos néque erus?

AM. Harioláre.

TR. Quid tu ágis hic igitur?

AM. Éx malis multís metuque súmmo

Capitálique ex periculo orbas aúxilique opúmque huc

Recépit ad se Véneria haec sacérdos me et Palaéstram. 350

TR. An híc Palaestrast, ópsecro, erí mei amica?

AM. Céрто.

TR. Inést lepos in núnzio tuo mágnus, mea Ampelísca.

Sed istúc periculum pérubet quod fúerit uobis scíre.

AM. Confráctast, mi Trachálio, hac nócte nauis nóbis.

337. tu agis Fleck. (cf. 348), agis tu M. mala male B. 339. plenidippus M. Heia uero D. Helauero BC. 340. ullus quidem huc
D. 343. hic hic B. 344. plesidippum ad prándium uocauit (uocauit ad prándium B.) M. transp. Reiz. 348. hic om. B. 349.
periculo FZ. pericolo M. auxiliique M. 350. Recept D^s FZ. Recept
M. 351. palestra sit B. amica B.

TR. Quid, náuis? quae istaec fábulast? ✓

AM. Non aúdiuisti, amábo, 355

Quo pácto leno clánculum nos hínc auferre uóluit
In Síciliam et quidquíd domi fuit ín nauem inposuit?
Ea núnc perierunt ómnia.

TR. Oh, Neptúne lepide, sálue :

Nec te áleator núllus est sapiéntior profécto.
Nimis lépide iecisti bolum : periúrum perdidísti. 360
Sed núnc ubist lenó Labrax?

AM. Perist potando, opínor :

Neptúnus magnis póculis hac nócte eum inuitáuit.

TR. Credo hércle ἀναγκαίῳ datum quod bíberet. ut ego amó te,

Mea Ámpelisca, ut dúlcis es, ut múlsa dicta dícis!
Sed tu ét Palaestra quó modo saluae éstis?

AM. Scibis fáxo. 365

De náui timidae ambae ín scapham insilúimus, quia uidémus

Ad sáxa nauem férrer : properáns exsolui réstim, Dum illí timent. nos cúm scapha tempéstat dextrouórsu

Différt ab illis. itaque nos uentíisque fluctibúsque
Iactátae exemplis plúrumis miseraé perpetuam nóctem : 370
Vix hódie ad litus pértulit nos uéntus exanimátas. 372

TR. Nouí, Neptunus ita solet : quamús fastidiósus Aedllis est : si quae ínprobæ sunt mérces, iactat ómnis.

AM. Vae cápiti atque aetatí tuæ.

TR. Tuóst, mea Ampelísca. 375

Sciúf lenonem fáxere hoc quod fécit : saepe díxi.
Capíllum promittam óptumumst occúpiamque hariolári.

355. nauis que ista eo M. 357. imposiuit Cam., inposuit M. 358.
Ioh B (). 359. (). 360. lecastibolum B. per iurum B.
peurum CD. 361. perit M. 362. Neptunus B. 363. herche
B. ἀναγκαίῳ Schoell., anancaeo Cam., Turneb., an ancaeo B., anan eo CD.
364. multa C. 365. Sed tu FZ. Scitu C¹D., scita B. 366. De navi Fleck., nauis M. 367. exsoluisti CD. restem B. 372. nos om.
B. 373. quauist a fastidiosus B. 375. Tuost Seyff., Tuo M.
376. I have written faxere for facere M (*).

AM. Cauístis ergo, tu átque erus, ne abíret, quom scibátis?

TR. Quid fáceret?

AM. Si amabát, rogas quid fáceret? adseruáret

Dies nóctesque: in custódia esset sémper. uérum ecástor

380

Vt múltifecit, íta probe curáuit Plesidíppus.

TR. Quor tu ístuc dicis?

AM. Rés palamst.

TR. Scin tu, étiam qui it lauátum

In bálineas, quom ibi sédulo sua uéstimenta séruat, Tamen súbrupíuntur: quíppe qui quem illórum opseruat fálsust:

Fur fáciie quem opseruát uidet: custós qui fur sit néscit.

385

Sed dúce me ad illam, ubíst.

AM. I sane in Véneris fanum huc íntro:

Sedéntem flentemque ópprimes.

TR. Vt iam ístuc mihi moléstumst!

Sed quíd flet?

AM. Ego dicám tibi: hoc sése excruciat ánimi,

Quia léno ademit cístulam ei, quam habébat ubique habébat

Qui suós parentis nóscere possét: eam uerétur

390

Ne péríerit.

TR. Vbinam éa fuit cistéllula?

AM. Ibidem in náui:

Conclúsit ipse in uídulum, ne cópia esset éi

Qui suós parentis nósceret.

TR. O fácinus inpudícum,

Quam líberam esse opórteat, seruífre postulóre.

AM. Nunc eúm cum nauí scílicet abísse pessum in áltum.

395

Et aúrum et argentúm fuit lenónis omne ibídem.

378. (*). cum CD.

379. asseruaret Cam., at (aut) seruaret M.

383. ibi

D.

384. (*).

386. (*).

387. molestust M., corr.

eius M.

390. quis uos B., qui uos CD.

392. ne opia B.

ei Luchs.

CD.

393. parentes M.

395. eam M., corr. Bent., Reiz.

abiisse

396. omne om. CD.

TR. Credo aliquem inmersisse atque eum excepisse.

AM. Id misera maestast,

Sibi eorum euenisse inopiam.

TR. Iam istoc magis usus factost,

Vt eam intro consolérque eam, ne sese excruciet animi.

Nam multa praeter spem scio multis bona euenisse. 400

AM. At ego etiam, qui sperauerint spem decepisse multos.

TR. Ergo animus aequos optimumst aerumnae condimentum.
Ego eo intro, nisi quid uis.

AM. Eas: ego quod mihi imperauit

Sacerdos id faciam atque aquam hinc de proximo rogabo.

Nam extemplo, si uerbis suis peterem, daturos dixit. 405

Neque digniorem censeo uidisse anum me quemquam, Quoi deos atque homines censeam bene facere magis decere:

Vt lepide, ut liberaliter, ut honeste atque haud grauate
Timidas, egentis, uidas, eiectas, exanimatas

Accipit ad sese, haud secus quam si ex se simus natae! 410

Vt eapse nunc succincta aquam calefactat, ut lauemus.
Nunc, ne morae illi sim, petam hinc aquam, unde mi imperauit.

Heus, ecquis in uillast? ecquis hoc recludit? ecquis prodit?

397. TR. Cam. (space in M.). AM. Bo. (space in M.). 398. uenisse CD, cf. 300 (*). 399. Vt Cam., Ne M. sese Seyff., se sic M. (the arche- type probably had SESI) (*). 405. exemplo M, corr. *D*¹. siue M, corr.

*D*². 406. dignior B. 409. egente is uidas M, corr. *D*², *D*³.

410. Accipit F, Accipit M. 411. eapse Ugoletus 'ex codd.', ea spe M.
nunc Seyff., om. M. 412. nemora illis impetam M, corr. Cam.

413. recludite quis B.

SCEPARNIO. AMPELISCA.

SERVOS.

MVLIER.

Sc. Quis est qui nostris tām proterue fóribus facit iniúriam?

Am. Égo sum.

Sc. Hem, quid hoc bonist? eu edepol spécie lepida mú-lierem.

415

Am. Sálue, adulescens.

Sc. Ét tu multum sálueto, adulescéntula.

Am. Ád uos uenio.

Sc. Accípiam hospítio, sí mox uenis

Ítem ut adfectam: nám nunc nihil est quí te inanem

Séd quid ais, meá lepida, hilara?

Am. Ah, nímium familiáriter 420

Me áttrectas.

Sc. Pro di inmortales, Véneris ecfigia haéc quidemst.

Út in ocellis hílaritudost: héia, corpus quofusmodi,

Súbuolturium—illúd quidem ‘subáquillum’ uolui dícere.

Vél papillae quofusmodi: tum quae índoles in sáuiost.

Am. Nón ego sum pollúcta pago: pótin ut me apstineás manum?

425

Sc. Nón licet te síc placidule béllam belle tángere?

Am. Ótium ubi erit, túm tibi operam lúdo et delíciáe dabo.

Núnc, quam ob rem huc sum míssa, amabo uél tu mi aias uél neges.

430

Sc. Quíd nunc uis?

Am. Sapiénti ornatus quíd uelim indiciúm facit.

415. heu D. mulier M., corr. Dousa. 417. uenis BD^s, ueni is (with space of 10 letters) *CD*¹, uenies uesperí cod. vet. Lambini. 418. inanem B. manem (with space of 9-11 letters) CD, mane mulierem cod. vet. Lam- bini. 420. nimium CD, animum B. 421. adtractas CD. 424.
sauio est CD, salost B. 426. placidule Fleck., placide M. After this verse B has space of two lines, as if for commencement of new scene. 430. mihi (mi) alas M., corr. FZ. 431 f. sapientior natus M.

Sc. Méus quoque hic sapiénti ornatus quíd uelim indiciúm facit.

AM. Haéc sacerdos Véneris hinc me a uóbis iussit pétere aquam. 433

Sc. Át ego basilícus sum: quem nisi óras, guttam nón feres. 435

Nóstro illum puteúm periclo et férramentis fōdimus.

Nísi multis blandítiis a me gúttá non ferrí potest.

AM. Quór tu aquam grauáre amabo, quam hóstis hosti cómmodat? 438

Sc. Quór tu operam grauáre mihi, quam clúis ciui cómmodat? 440

AM. Ímmo etiam tibi, méa uoluptas, quaé uoles faciam ómnia.

Sc. Eúgepae, saluós sum: haec iam me suám uoluptatém uocat.

Dábitur tibi aqua, né nequiquam mé ames. cedo mi urnám.

AM. Cape:

Própera amabo ecferre.

Sc. Manta: iam híc ero, uoluptás mea. 444

AM. Quid sacerdotí me dicam hic démoratum tám diu?

Vt etiam nunc mísera timeo, ubi óculis intueór mare!

Sed quíd ego mísera uídeo procul in lítore? 450

Meum erúm lenonem Síciensemque hóspitem,

Quos périisse ambos mísera censebam ín mari.

Iam illúd mali plus nóbis uiuit quá m ratae.

Sed quíd ego cesso fúgere in fanum ac dícere haec

Palaéstrae, in aram ut cónfugiamus príus quam is huc 455

433. Hic CD. petere aquam iussit auobis M (after which B has space of 1 line), corr. Ussing. 435. basilicicus B, basiliscus C. 436. Nostro

illum FZ, Nos pro illum M. periculo M. 437. (*). 438. cur

M. tua quam B. After 438 space of 1 line B. 440. cur M. 443.

meam scedo B. urnam cape (without space) M. 444. efferre M.

After 444 space of 2 lines B. Then follows the line Quid sacerdoti me (meo CD) dicam hic demoratum (demoratum Müll.) tam diu, then a space of 1 line, then Vt etiam nunc, &c., then again a space of 1 line. 449. miserati meo

CD. 450. procul uideo B. 451. Sicillensemque B. 453. plus mali M, corr. Cam. 455. cum fugiamus CD. is Seyff, om. M.

Sceléstus leno uéniat nosque hic ópprimat?
 Confúgiam huc: ita res súppetit subitó noua.

SCEPARNIO.

SERVOS.

Pro di ínmortales, ín aqua numquam crédidi
 Voluptátem inesse tántam! ut hanc traxí lubens!
 Nimió minus altus púteus uisust quám prius: 460
 Vt síne labore hanc éxtraxi! praeffiscine,
 Satin néquam sum, utpote qui hódie amare incéperim?
 Em tíbi aquam, mea tu bélliata: em síc uolo
 Te férre honeste, ut égo fero, ut placeás mihi.
 Sed úbi tu's delicáta? cape aquam hanc síc: ubi's? 465
 Amat hércle me, ut ego opínor: delituít mala.
 Vbi tú's? etiamne hanc úrnam accepturá's? ubi's?
 Commódule metuis: tándem uero sério,
 Etiam áceptura's úrnam hanc? ubi tu's géntium?
 Nusquam hércle equidem illam uídeo: ludos mé facit. 470
 Adpónam hercle urnam íám ego hanc in mediá uia.
 Sed áutem quid si hanc hínc apstulerit quispiam
 Sacram úrnam Veneris? mi éxhibeat negótium.
 Metuo hércle ne illa múlier mi insidiás locet,
 Vt cóprehendar cúm sacra urna Véneria. 475
 Nempe óptumo me iúre in uinclis énicet
 Magistrátus, si quis me hánc habere uíderit.

457. huc cod. uet. Lambini, huio M. res ita CD. subito FZ, subit M.
I have supplied noua, om. M ().* Here follow 466, 467 in B. 461. praefiscine Cam. (in note), praefiscine M. 462. Satis M, corr. Bo. ut prote M, corr. Cam. inceperim amare M, transp. Fleck. 463.
 Hem CD. 464. ferro C. 465. tu es B, es CD. si
CD. 467. tu es B, tu est CD. anc urnam (an curnam) M. acceptura B. 468. metuis Seyff., melius M ().* ueruo C. 470. fecit
B. equidem . . . hercle (471) om. CD, the scribe having passed from hercle 470 to hercle 471. 476. obtimo C, obtime *D*¹. me Cam., om. M.
 477. magistra iussi *CD*¹.

Nam haec litteratast: eapse cantat quóia sit.
 Iam hercle euocabo hinc hanc sacerdotém foras,
 Vt hanc accipiat úrnám: accedam huc ad foris. 480
 Heus, éxi Ptolemocrátia, cape hanc urnám tibi:
 Muliércula hanc nescioquae huc ad me détulit.
 Intró ferundast: répperi negótium,
 Siquidem hís mihi ultro ádgerunda etiámst aqua.

LABRAX. CHARMIDES.

LENO. PARASITVS.

LA. Qui homó sese esse míserum et mendicúm uolet, 485
 Neptúno credat sése atque aetatém suam:
 Nam sí quis cum eo quíd rei conmíscuit,
 Ad hóc exemplum amíttit ornatúm domum.
 Edepól, Libertas, lépida's, quae numquám pedem
 Voluísti in nauem cum Hércule una inpónere. 490
 Sed úbi ille meus est hóspes qui me pérdidit?
 Atque éccum incedit.

CH. Quó, malum, properás, Labrax?

Nam equidém te nequeo cónsequi tam stréne.

LA. Vtinám, te prius quam ego óculis uidissém meis, 495
 Maló cruciatu in Sícilia perbíteres,
 Quem própter hoc mihi óptigit miseró mali.
 CH. Vtinám, quom in aedis me ad te adduxistí tuas,
 In cárcere illo pótius cubuissém die:
 Deosque ínmortalis quaéso, dum uiuás, uti

478. litterat est B, litteratas CD. eapse B, abse CD. 481. Heus, exi Seyff., Eu si B, Eus (Heus) si CD (with space). ptolemo (ptolemeo) gratia M. 482-489. One page in As, mostly illegible except at beginnings of lines. 483. Introfundast cod. vet. Lambini, In proferundast B, Inpro ferundast CD. 485. esse Bent., om. M. mirum C. 490. herole M, corr. Cam. unã B (). 494. ego Goetz, Brix, om. M (). 495. sicilliam M, corr. Cam. 496. optigi CD. 497. tuas Cam., om. M. 498. incarceration CD¹. 499-517. One page in As, mostly illegible.

- Omnis tui similis hospites habeas tibi. 500
- LA. Malam Fortunam in aedis te adduxi meas.
 Quid mihi scelesto tibi erat auscultatio?
 Quidue hinc abitio? quidue in nauem inscensio?
 Vbi perdidisti etiam plus boni quam mihi fuit.
- CH. Pol minime miror, nauis si fractast tibi, 505
 Scelus te et sceleste parva quae uexit bona.
- LA. Pessum dedisti me blandimentis tuis.
 CH. Scelstiozem cenam cenauit tuam Quam quae Thyestae quondam adposita et Tereost.
- LA. Perii, animo male fit: contine quaeos caput. 510
 CH. Pulmoneum edepol nimis uelim uomitum uomas.
- LA. Eheu, Palaestra atque Ampelisa, ubi estis nunc?
 CH. Piscibus in alto credo praebent pabulum.
- LA. Mendicitatem mi optulisti opera tua, Dum tuis ausculto magnidicis mendaciis. 515
- CH. Bonam est quod habeas gratiam merito mihi, Qui te ex insulso salsum feci opera mea.
- LA. Quin tu hinc is a me in maxumam malam crucem?
 CH. Eas: easque res agebam commodum. 520
- LA. Eheu, quis uiuit me miserior?
 CH. Ego multo tanto miserior quam tu, Labrax.
- LA. Qui?
 CH. Quia ego indignus sum, tu dignus qui sis.
- LA. O scirpe, scirpe, laudo fortunam tuam, Qui semper seruas gloriam aritudinis.
- CH. Equidem me ad uelitationem exerceo: 525 Nam omnia corusca prae tremore fabulor.
- LA. Edepol, Neptune, es balineator frigidus:
 Cum uestimentis postquam abs te abii, al-algeo.
500. tui FZ, lui M. 502. erit CD. 503. abitio FZ, abito M.
 505. tibi F, ibi M. 509. adposita et Tereost Koch and Nettleship (independently), anteposita est Tereo M. 510. Peri M. 512. amplisca
BC. 518-587. Four pages in As, legible. 518. KINCHEIS A. 519.
 EASEASQ. A, Cam., Das easque M. 520. miserrior CD. 521.
 TANTA AM (corr. B²). 524. gloria amaritudinis CD. 525. AD-UELITATONEM A, atuelitationem M. 526. PRAETEREMORE As.
 527. BALINEATOR As, balneator M. 528-538. See Commentary.
 528. Cum M, QUOM A. APSTEABII As, abs te (a te B) abi M (*).

- Ne thérmpoliúm quidem ullum in-Instruit:
Ita sálsam praehibet pótionem et frígdam. 530
- CH. Vt fórtunati súnť fabri ferrárii, Qui apúd carbones ádsident: sempér calent.
- LA. Vtinámí fortuna núnc anetina ut-úterer, Vt, quom éxissem ex aqu-áqu-aqua, ar-arereréť tamen.
- CH. Quid si áliquo ad ludos mé pro manducó locem? 535
- LA. Quapróptér?
CH. Quia pol cláre crepito déntibus.
Iure óptumo me el-el-elauisse árbitor.
- LA. Qui?
CH. Qui-quia auderem técum in nauem ascéndere,
Qui a fúndamento mi úsque mouistí mare.
- LA. Tibi áuscultáui: tú promittebás mihi 540
Illi ésse quaestum máximum meretrícibus:
Ibi mé conruere pósse aiebas díťias.
- CH. Iam póstulabás te, ínpurata bélua, Totám Siciliam déuoraturum ínsulam.
- LA. Quaenam ballaena meúm uorauit údulum, 545
Aurum átque argentum ubi ómne conpactúm fuit?
- CH. Eadem ílla credo quae meum marsúppium, Quod plénium argenti fúit in saccipério.
- LA. Eheú, redactus sum úsque ad unam hanc tuniculam Et ad hóc misellum pállium: perii óppido. 550
- CH. Vel cónsociare mší quidem tecúm licet:
Aequás habemus pártis.
LA. Saltem sí mihi
Mulíerculae essent sáluae, spes aliquaé forent.
Nunc sí me adulescens Plésidippus uiderit,

529. TKERMIPOLIUM A, thermopolium M. 530. PRAEKIBET
A, praebet M. 533. ANETINA As, M. fortunam nunc anutinam terent
Nonius. 534. QUOM A, cum M, Non. aquá D. 537. elauisse Fleck., LAUISSE AM. 538. quia M, QUI A. 540. aut auscultaui CD. 541. ILLI A, illic M. 542. aiebas ditias Fleck., AIE- BASDIUITIAS A, alebas diuitias M. 543. bellula CD. 544.
SICELLIAM As. deuortaturum *B*¹ CD. 545. BALLAENA As, ballena B, bellana CD. 546. omnem CD. 547. MARSUPPIUM
AC, marsippium B. 549. hanc unam CD. TUNICULÁ A.
550. palbum CD. 551. CONSOCIARE A, consociare M.

Quo ab árrabonem pró Palaestra accéperam, 555
Iam is éxhibebit híc mihi negótium.

CH. Quid, stúlte, ploras? tibi quidem edepol cópiast, Dum língua uiuet, quí rem soluas ómnibus.

SCEPARNIO. LABRAX. CHARMIDES.

SERVOS.

LENO.

PARASITVS.

SC. Quid illuc opsecró negotist, quód duae muliérculae
Híc in fano Véneris signum fléntes amplexae tenent 560

Néscioquem metuéntes miserae? nócte hac aiunt próxima
Sé iactatas, átque eiectas hódie esse aiunt é mari.

LA. Ópsecro hercle, aduléscens, ubi istaec súnt quas memoras múlieres?

SC. Híc in fano Véneris.

LA. Quot sunt?

SC. Tótidem quot ego et tú sumus.

LA. Némpe meae?

SC. Nempe néscio istuc.

LA. Quá sunt facie?

SC. Scítula: 565

Vél ego amare utrámuis possum, sí probe adpotús siem.

LA. Némpe puellae?

SC. Némpe molestus és: i uise, sí lubet.

LA. Meás oportet íntus esse hic múlieres, mi Chármides.

CH. Iúppiter te pérdat, et si súnt et si non súnt tamen.

555. QUOABARRABONE A, A quo arrabonem M. 556. IAMIS-EXIBEBIT A, iam se exhibebit (sexhibebit B) M. 559. QUIDIL-LUCOPSECRONEGOTI A, Quid illuc est (est illuc CD) obsecro negotii (negocii B) M, corr. Fleck. 561. NESC . . . U . . . As; Nescio quem M. AIUNT As, nō (i. e. nunc) B, non CD. 562. EIE . . . AS As, iectas M. 563. istec M, ISTAE A. 564. quot (before ego) B,
Q . . . D As CD. 566. POSSUMSI As M. PROBEADPOTUSSIEM
As, probe at potussiem B, probeat potuissim CD. 567. Nempe puel-lae CD, NEPUPELLAE A, Nempe pulle B. ESTUEISSE A, est uise
M. 568. esse intus esse B. MI A, me M.

LA. Intro rumpam iam huc in Veneris fanum.

CH. In barathrum mauelim. 570

Opsecro, hospes, da mihi aliquid ubi condormiscam loci.

SC. Istic ubi uis condormisce: nemo prohibet, publicumst.

CH. At uides me, ornatus ut sim uestimentis uuidis.

Recipe me in tectum, da mihi uestimenti aliquid aridi,

Dum arescunt mea: in aliquo tibi gratiam referam loco. 575

SC. Tegillum ecillud—mihi unum id aret: id si uis, dabo.

Eodem amictus, eodem tectus esse soleo, si pluit.

Tu istaec mihi dato: exarescent faxo.

CH. Eho, an te paenitet,

In mari quod hodie elai, ni hic in terra iterum eluam?

SC. Eluas tu an exunguare, ciccum non interduim. 580

Tibi ego numquam quicquam credam nisi si accepto pignore.

Tu uel suda uel peri algu uel tu aegrota uel uale.

Barbarum hospitem mi in aedis nil moror: sat litiumst.

CH. Iamne abis? uenalis illic ductitauit, quisquis est:

Non est misericors. Sed quid ego hic asto infelix uuidis? 585

Quin abeo hinc in Veneris fanum, ut edormiscam hanc crapulam, Quam potaui praeter animi quam lubuit sententiam?

Quasi uinis Graecis Neptunus nobis suffudit mare,

Itaque aluom prodi sperauit nobis salsis poculis.

570. BARATRŪ ACD. 571. loci ubi condormiscam CD. 572. PUPL . . UMEST As. 573. ornatus ut M, UTOBNATUS A. 574. ALIQUIDUESTIMENTI A, uesti aliquid M. 575. So A, loco om. M. 576. TEGILLUMECILLUM A, Tigillum ec (eo CD) illud M. IDARETID A, aretit M. 577. si pluuit M, U (perhaps UBIPLUIT) As. 578. istec BD. 579. I have supplied hodie, om. M. delai CD. NE AM, nisi membr. Turn. Cam., ni Vulg. iterum om. CD (*). 580. tuanexungare B, tua ne exungare CD, — UARE, A. INTERDUIM A, interdum M. 581. QUICQUAM-CREDAM ACD, credam quicquam B. nisi si M, NISI A. 583. AEDIS A, aede is (aedeis C) M. 584. ABEIS A. uenalis uenalis BD. IILLIC A. 586. hinc M, KUC A (cf. 457). 587. LIBUIT AM. 588-619. Two pages in As, mostly illegible. 588. grecis CD. 589. ALUUM AM. prodi sperauit Gul., prodisperauit B, pro disperauit CD. salsis B, Falsis CD.

Quid opust uerbis? si inuitare nós paulisper pérgeret, 590
 Íbidem obdormissémus: nunc uix ufuos amisit domum.
 Núnc lenonem quíd agit intus uísam, conuiuám meum.

DAEMONES.

SENEX.

Miris modis di lúdos faciunt hóminibus: 593
 Ne dórmentis quídem sinunt quiéscere. 595
 Velút ego hac nocte quaé praecessit próxima
 Mirum átque inscitum sómniaui sómnum.
 Ad hirúndinim nídum uisast símia
 Ascensionem ut fáceret admolfrier:
 Neque eás eripere quíbat inde. póstibi 600
 Vidétur ad me símia adgredírier,
 Rogáre scalas út darem utendás sibi.
 Ego ad hóc exemplum símiae respódeo,

 Natás ex Philomela Áttica esse hirúndines.
 Ago cum illa, ne quíd nóceat meis populáribus. 605
 Atque illa nimío iám fieri ferócior:
 Vidétur ultro míhi malum minitárier,
 In iús uocat med. sibi ego nescio quó modo
 Irátus uideor médiam arripere símiam:
 Conclúdo in uincla béstiam nequíssumam. 610
 Nunc quam ad rem dicam hoc áttinere sómnum, Nunquam hódie quiui ad cóniecturam euádere.

590. nobis CD (from 589). 593. M . . R . . MO-As, Miris modis D, modis BC. After this v. AM have Mirisque (Virisque B) exemplis omnia (Nam omnia CD, somnia Cam.) in somnis danunt, taken from Merc.
 II. 1: cf. Ritschl Opusc. II. 282 f., Langen Pl. Stud. 368 f. 596. praecessit FZ, cod. uet. Lamb., processit M (*). 599. Ascensionem CD. After this v. A has an extra v. beginning UT NIBUSRU . . SIT. 601. UIDETUR
 As, Videbatur M. Between 603 and 604 A has an extra v. 604. Attica Schoell, atque ex progne M (). 605. nequit B. 606. nimio Acid., animo M (). 608. me M, corr. Guyet. 611. Nunc quam FZ, Nunquam (Numquam) M. 612. col ecturam B.

Sed quid hoc in Veneris fáno meae uicinia
Clamóris oritur? ánimus miratúr meus.

TRACHALIO. DAEMONES.

SERVOS.

SENEX.

TR. Pró Cyrenensés populares, uóstram ego inploró fidem, 615
Ágricolae, adcolae propinqui qui éstis his regiónibus, Férte opem inopiae átque exemplum péssumum pessúm date.

Víndicate, ne ípiorum pótiór sit polléntia

, Quam ínnocentum, quí se scelere fferi nolunt nóbilis :

Státuite exemplum ínpudenti, dáte pudori praémium: 620

Fácite hic lege pótiús liceat quám ui uicto úfuere.

Cúrrite huc in Véneris fanum, uóstram iterum inploró fidem,

Quí prope hic adéstis quiqúe audítis clamorém meum.

Férte suppetiás qui Veneri Véneriaeqúe antístitae

Móre antiquo in cústodiam suóm commiserúnt caput. 625

Praétorquete iniúriae prius cóllum quam ad uos péruenat.

DAE. Quid istuc est negóti?

TR. Per ego haec génuá te optestór, senex,

Quísqúis es—

DAE. Quin tu érgo omítte génuá et quid sit mi éxpedi, Quód tumultués.

TR. —teque oro et quaéso, si sperás tibi

Hóc anno multúm futurum sírpe et lasserpícium 630

Eámque euenturam éxagogam Cápúam saluam et sóspitem,

Átque ab lippitúdine usque síccitas ut sít tibi—

DAE. Sánun es?

TR. —seu tibi confidis fóre multam magúdarim,

Út te ne pigeát dare operam míhi quod te orabó, senex.

613. quid hoc Fleck., quid hic BC, quid D. fanom B. meae uicinia cod. uet. Turneb., Lamb., om. M. 614. miratur meus Cam., mirat M (archetype defaced at end of 613 f.) 624. antistę C, antiste D. 625. custodiam M, corr. Grut. 626. perueniat M, corr. Guyet. 627, 638, 641. negotii (negocii) M. 628. expeti B. 629. Quod tu- Lamb., om. M. 630. lasserpiciũ B, lasserpícium CD. 633. magudarim CD, Prisc., magidarim B.

DAE. Át ego te per crúra et talos térgumque optestór tuom, 635

Út tibi ulmeam úberem esse spéras uirgídémiam
Ét tibi euentúram hoc anno úberem messém mali, Út mi istuc dicás negoti quíd sit, quod tumúltues.

TR. Quí lubet maledícere? equidem tíbi bona optaui ómnia.

DAE. Béne equidem tibi díco, qui te dígna ut eueniánt precor. 640

TR. Ópsecro, hoc praeuórtere ergo.

DAE. Quid negotist?

TR. Múlieres

Dúae innocentes íntus hic sunt, túi indigentes aúxili, Quíbus aduorsum iús legesque hic ínsignite iniúria
Fáctast fitque in Véneris fano. túm sacerdos Véneria Índigne adffictátur.

DAE. Quis homost tánta confidéntia, 645

Quí sacerdotem aúdeat uioláre? sed eae múlieres
Quaé sunt? aut quid ís iniqui fít?

TR. Si das operam, éloquar.

Véneris signum súnť amplexae: núnc homo audactissimus
Eás deripere uólt. eas ambas ésse oportet liberas.

DAE. Quis ístic est, qui deós tam parui péndit? paucis expedi. 650

TR. Fraúdis, sceleris, párricidi, périuri pleníssimus,

Légirupa, inpuđens, inpurus, ínuerecundíssimus:

Úno uerbo apsóluať, lenost: quíd illum porro praédicem?

DAE. Édepol infortúnio hominem praédicas donábilem,

TR. Quí sacerdotí scelestus faúcis interprésserit. 655

DAE. Át malo hercle cúť magno suo fécit. ite ístínc foras,

Túrbalio, Sparáx: ubi estis?

TR. I ópsecro intro, súbueni

636. ulmeam FZ, uimeam M. ubereť CD, ubi re B. speras D, speres BC.
637. hoc anno euenturam CD. 639. libet B. optaui Guyet, exoptaui M.
641. praeuortere Turneb., reuortere M. DAE. Gronov., om. M.
642. auxilii M. 643. insignitae iniuria hic M (with hiatus), transp. Reiz. 646. uiolare audeat M, transp. Pyl.
647. iis M. 648. homo audacissimus cod. uet. Lamb., om. M. 649. liberas Cam., om. M.
650. paucis expedi cod. uet. Lamb., om. M. 651. parricidii periurii M. plenissimus Cam., plenis (plenus) M (archetype defaced at end of 648-651). 655. sacerdotis D. fauces B. 656. At malo cum magno suo fecit hercle M, transp. Brix (cf. Crit. App. on l. 1384).

íllis.

DAE. Iterum haud ímperabo. séquimini hac.

TR. Age núnciam,

Iúbe oculos elídere, itidem ut sépiis faciúnt coqui.

DAE. Prórípíte hominem pédibus huc itidém quasi occisám suem. 660

TR. Aúdio tumúltum : opinor, léno pugnis péctitur.

Nímis uelim inprobíssimo homini málas edentáuerint.

Séd eccas ipsae huc égrediuntur tímidae exsangués múlieres.

PALAESTRA. AMPELISCA. TRACHALIO.

MVLIERES II.

SERVOS.

PA. Núnc id est, quom ómnium cópiarum átque opum, Aúxili, praésidi ulduitas nós tenet. 665

Núlla spes néc uiaſt quae salutem ádferat,

Nec scímus quam in pártem ingredi persequámur.

Nímis magno míserae in metú nunc sumus ámbae.

Tánta inportúnitas tántaque iniúria

Fácta in nos ést modo hic íntus ab. nóstro ero, 670

Quí scelestús sacerdotem anum praécipes

Réppulit, própulit pérquam indignís modis

Nósque ab signo íntumo ul deripuit sua.

Sed núnc se ut ferúnt res fortúnaeque nóstrae,

Par nós est moríri

675^a

658. aut CD. 659. sepius B²CD, Nonius. 660. Porrigitte B¹. occisa C. 661. plectitur CD. 662. improbissimo FZ, im(in)pro- uissimo M. 663. eccas Bent., ecce M. exsangués Nettleship, asfandae (efandae) M. 665. -ii -ii M. 666-671 beginnings of lines blank in M (archetype mutilated), supplied by Fleck., who in part follows older editions.
666. (*). 671. scelestu B. 673. uideri potuit sua CD. 674.
sese M, corr. Guyet. 675-678. M have:—

Pars est moriri neque est melius morte in malis

Rebus meiseriis (B, meis seriis CD) Quid est quae illec oratioſt Cesso ego has consulari heus palestra (PA. D) Qui uocat

(TR. D) Ampelísca (A D) obsecro quis est qui uocat

Quis is est qui (ē qui is D¹) nominat (TR. D) si respexes scies.

675^a. nos Schoell.

Neque ést melius morte ín malis rebús, misériis. 675^b
 TR. Quid ést? quae illaec orátios? cesso égo illas consolári?
 Heús, Palaestra!

PA. Quí uocat? 677^a

TR. Ámpelisca!

AM. Ópsecro, nam quis est quí uocat?

Quís is est qui nóminat?

TR. Sí respexís, scies.

PA. Ó salutís meae spés.

TR. Tace ac bóno animo es:

Mé uide.

PA. Sí modo id líceat, uis ne ópprimat: 680

Quaé uis uim mi ádferam ipsa ádigit.

TR. Ah désine: 681^a

Nímis inépta's.

PA. Desíte dictis núncliam miserám me consolári.

AM. Nisi quíd re praesidi ádparas, Trachálio, acta haec rés est.

PA. Certúmst moriri quam húncl pati utl ui lenonem ín me.
 Sed múliebri animo súm tamen: miseráe quom uenit
 in méntem 685

Mihi mórtis, metus membra óccupat.

TR. Edepól quamquam hoc acérbumst,

Bonum ánimum habete.

PA. Nam ópsecro unde is ánimus mi inuenítur?

TR. Ne, inquám, timete: adsídite hic in ára.

AM. Quid istaec ára

Prodésse nobis plús potest quam sígnum in fano hic íntus

676. illas Fleck. 677^b. nam Seyff. 678. respexis FZ. 680.
ius ne D. 682. dictus M, corr. Pyl. nuno iam M. consulari M.
 683. praesidium M, corr. Fleck. 684. Certun st B. moreirei B, morire CD. uti ui Seyff., om. M (with space). 685. quom uenit Fleck., om. M (with space). 686. membra B. quamquam Fleck., om. M (with space). hoc Pyl., hunc M acerbum M, corr. Fleck. 687. is ani- Seyff. after Pyl., om. M (with space of 4 or 5 letters). Archetype defaced in 684-687. 688. adsidete B, ne adsidete CD, corr. Pyl. ista^h B, ista CD, corr. Cam. 689. plus Cam., om. M.

Venerís, quod amplexaé modo, unde abréptae per uim míserae? 690

TR. Sedéte hic modo : ego hinc uós tamen tutábor. aram habéte hanc

Vobís pro castris : moénia haec : hinc égo uos defensábo.
Praesídio Veneris málitiae lenónis contra incédam.

AM. ET PA. Tibi aúscultamus ét Venus alma ámbae te opsecrámus

Aram ámplexantes hánc tuam lacrumántes, genibus níxae, 695

In cústodelam nós tuam ut recípias et tutére :

Illós scelestos, qui tuom fecérunt fanum páruí,

Fac ut úlciscare nósque ut hanc tua páce aram opsidére

Patiáre : elautae ambae sumus operá Neptuni nóctu :

Ne inulsas habeas néue idcirco nobis uitio uórtas, 700

Si quídpiamst minus quód bene esse laútum tu arbitráre.

TR. Vt aéquom has petere intéllego, decet ábs te id impetrári :

Ignóscere his te cónuenit : metus hás id ut faciant súbigit.

Te ex cóncha natam esse aútumant : caue tu hárum conchas spérnas.

Sed óptume eccum exít senex, patrónus mihique et uóbis. 705

690. abreptae Z, arreptae M (cf. Mil. 177 A, Curc. 598, 695). 692-724 two pages in As, mostly illegible. 692. haec Lamb., om. M. uos om. B.
694. I have given this speech to AM. and PA. 696. custodiam M, corr.
Pius. 698-700. Archetype of M evidently defaced at the beginnings of lines. 698. FACUTULCISCARE As, are M. han B. obsedere CD. 699. PAT LAU As, aut hae (ae) M.
700. Ne inuisas Cam., NE — As, om. M (with space B). 701. lautum tu Cam., lautu M. 702. UT As, om. M (with space). 703. IG-NOS — As, ignoscere B, noscere CD (with space).

DAEMONES. LABRAX.

SENEX.

LENO.

LORARII.

PALAESTRA. AMPELISCA. TRACHALIO.

MVLIERES II.

SERVOS.

DAE. Éxi e fano, nátum quantumst hóminum sacrilegíssume.
Vós in aram abíte sessum. séd ubi sunt?

TR. Huc réspice.

DAE. Óptume : istuc uólueramus. iúbe modo accedát prope.
Tún legirupiónem hic nobis cúm dis facere póstulas?
Púgnum in os impínge.

LA. Iniqua haec pátiór cum pretió tuo. 710

DAE. Át etiam minitátur audax?

LA. Iús meum ereptúmst mihi:

Meás mihi ancillás inuito me éripis.

TR. Cedo arbitrum

Dé senatu Cýrenensi quémuis opulentúm uirum,
Sí tuas esse opórtet niue eas ésse oportet líberas,
Níue in carcerém conpingi tést aequom aetatémque ibi 715
Te úsque habitare, dónec totum cárcerem contríueris.

LA. Nón hodie isti rei aúspicaui, ut cúm furcifero fábuler.
Té ego appello.

DAE. Cum ístoc primum quí te nouit dísputa.

LA. Técum ago.

TR. Atqui mécum agundumst. súntne illae ancillaé tuae?

LA. Súnt.

TR. Agedum ergo, tánge utramuis dígitulo minumó modo— 720

707. sunt huc M (without space). 709. Tun Cam., Tunc M. legi-rupionem F, lege rupionem M. 710. impinge B, impunge CD. 712.
Meas ancillas mihi inuito . . . eripis CD. I have supplied Cedo arbitrum after Stud., om. M (archetype defaced at end of 712 f). In A Stud. reads doubt-fully —EDO—. 713. cirenensi M. UIRUM As, om.
M. 714. eas oportet esse M, transp. Z. 715. Neute in carcerem conpingi est aequom (aequum CD) M, transp. Uss. (Niue Acid.). 719.
Broken into two lines in As. 720. agedum F, agendum M.

LA. Quid, si attigero?

TR. Extémplo hercle ego te fóllem pugilatórium Fáciam et pendentem încursabo púgnis, periuríssume.

LA. Míhi non liceat meás ancillas Véneris de ara abdúcere?

DAE. Nón licet: est léx apud nos.

LA. Míhi cum uostris légibus

Nil quicquamst conmérci: equidem istas iam ámbas educám foras. 725

Tú senex si istás amas, huc árido argentóst opus;
Sí autem Veneri cónplacuerunt, hábeat, si argentúm dabit.

DAE. Deí tibi argentúm? nunc adeo meam út scias sen-téntiam,

Óccipito modo illís adferre uím ioculo pausíllulum: Íta ego te hinc ornátum amittam, ut tu ípsus te non núeris. 730

Vós adeo, ubi ego innúero uobis, ni eí caput exocu-lássitis,

Quási murteta iúncis item ego uírgis circumuínciam.

LA. VÍ agis mecum.

TR. Etiam óprobras uim, flágití flagrántia?

LA. Tún trifurcifér mihi audes înclementer dicere?

TR. Fáteor, ego trifúrcifer sum, tú's homo adprimé probus: 735
Númqui minus hasce ésse oportet líberas?

LA. Quid 'líberas'?

721. pugillatorium M. 723. ABDUCERE As, adducere M. 724.
Non licet Turneb., NONLI — As, om. M (archetype defaced at beginning of 724 f.) 725-762 two pages in As, partially legible. 725. Nil quic-quamst Seyff., om. M. commercli (commerdi) M, corr. Z. 726. amabas CD. 727. SI MUEN . . . I As, Hae autem Veneri M.
This v. is continued to LA. by Seyff., partly with CD, partly with B.
728. DEI As, Seyff., Do M. MEAMUTS — As (cf. Cist. II. i. 54), ut scias meam M. 730. ITAEGOTEKINCORNATUMAMITTA-MUTTUIPSU — UERIT As, Ita hinc ego te ornatum te amittam tu ipsus te ut non noueris M. 731. innuero uobis ni ei Reiz, INNU BIS . . . I As, inuero uobis sine ei M. 732. iuncis M, corr. Z. ego uos M, corr. Guyet. circum uinclam M, corr. Pyl. 733. mecum M, om. As. opprobras uim Fleck., uim proportas M (*). 735. atprime CD. 736. NUMQUI A, Nunc qui M. KASESS — As, hasce oportet esse M.

TR. Átque eras tuás quidem hercle atque éx germana Graécia :
Nam áltera haec est náta Athenis ingenuis paréntibus.

DAE. Quíd ego ex te audio?

TR. Hánc Athenis ésse natam líberam.

DAE. Méa poplaris ópscero haec est?

TR. Nón tu Cyrenénsis es? 740

DAE. Ímmo Athenis nátus altusque éducatuſque Átticis.

TR. Ópscero, defénde ciuis tuás, senex.

DAE. O filia

Méa, quom hanc uideo, meárum me apſens míſeriarum cómmones.

Tríma quae perít mihi, iam tanta éſſet, ſi uiuít, ſcio.

LA. Árgentum ego pro iſtíſce ambabus, quóiae erant, dominó dedí. 745

Quíd mea refért, Athenis nátae haec an Thebís ſient, Dúm mihi recte séruitutem séruiant?

TR. Itane, ínpudens?

Túne hic faelis uírginalis líberos paréntibus

Súblectos habébis atque indígno quaestu cónteres?

Námque huic alteraé quae patria ſít, profecto néſcio: 750

Níſi ſcio probiórem hanc eſſe quám te, ínpuratiſſume.

LA. Túa enim iſtae ſunt.

TR. Cóntende ergo, utér ſit tergo púrior:

Ni ófferumentás habebis plúris in tergo tuo

Quam úlla nauis lónge clauos, tum égo ero mendaciſſu-mus.

Póſtea aſpició meum, quando égo tuom ínſpectáuero: 755

738. NAM E ——— (perhaps NAMQ. KAECALTERA)
As. ingenuis parentibus Cam., ——— ISPARENTIB. As, in e ti-bus B, sine tibus CD (archetype defaced: *). 740. poplaris Fleck., POPULARIS AM. opscero om. A. CY NS . . A, cirenensis CD, cirerensis B. 741. ATTICIS A, attigis M. 742. ciues M. 743.
MEQUOMKANC A, Mea cum ego hanc M. mearum me absens B, mearum absens CD, MEMETA . . . NS As. 745. ego om. CD. 746.
Athenis natae haec Schoell, hae athenis natae M. thebe CD (*). 748.
fallis M (a corruption of faelis). 749. Subiectos BD¹. 750. Namque Reiz, Nam M. . UAEPATR . . As, patria quae M. 751. Nisai B.
752. Tua enim istae sunt Seyff., Tuae istae sunt M. purior Seyff., ——— UB
(OR) As, ueri— M (). 755 ().

Ní erit tam sincérum, ut quiuis dícat ampulláriu
 Óptumum esse operí faciundo córium et sinceríssumum, Quid causaest quin uírgis te usque ad sáuritatem saú-ciem?

Quid illas spectas? quas si attigeris, óculos eripiám tibi.

LA. Átqui, quia uótas, utramque iám mecum abducám semul. 760

DAE. Quid facies?

LA. Volcánum adducam: is Vénerist aduorsáriu.

TR. Quó illic it?

LA. Heus, écquis hic est? heús.

DAE. Si attigeris óstium,

Iam hércle tibi fiét in ore méssis mergis púgneis.

LOR. Núllum habemus ígnem: ficis uctitamus áridis.

TR. Égo dabo ígnem, síquidem in capite tuó conflandi cópiast. 765

LA. Íbo hércle aliquo quaéritatum lígnum.

DAE. Quid, quom inuéneris?

LA. Ígnem magnum hic fáciam.

DAE. Quin inhúmanum, exurás tibi?

LA. Ímmo hasce ambas híc in ara ut uíuas comburam, íd uolo.

TR. Iam hércle ego te contínuo barba arrípiam, in ígnem cóniciam,

Téque ambustulátum obiciam mágnis auibus pábulum. 770

DAE. Quóm coniecturam égom et mecum fácio, haec illast símia, Quae háshirundínés ex nido uólt eripere ingrátiiis,

Quód ego in somnis sómniaui.

TR. Scín quid tecum oró, senex?

756 (*). 757. opere M, corr. Pyl. 760. Atquin M, corr. Cam. semul
M, SIMUL A. 761. UENERIST As, ueneris est M. 762. So A; heus si (without space) M. 763-797 two pages in As, legible. 763.
 I have transposed MESSISINOREFIET AM. MERGEISPUGNEIS
A, mergis pugnis M. 764. IGNEMOLFICIS A. uictimamus B. ARID . . S As. 766. I have written lignum (ligna Brix) for ignem M, . G NEM As (*). 767. QUININKUMANUMEXURAS As, quin ut humanum exurias M. 768. hasce M, KAS A. ut uias
CD. 769. IAM A, Nam M. CONTINUOBARBAARRIPIAMIN
A, barba continuo arripiam et in M. 770. ambustilatatum M. 772.
 ex nido M, ENUDO As. INGRATIEIS As, ingratus *CD*².

Út illas serues, úm defendas, dúm ego erum adducó meum.

DAE. Quaére erum atque addúce.

TR. At hic ne—

DAE. Máxumō malō suo, 775

Si áttigerit siue óceptassit.

TR. Cúra.

DAE. Curatúmst: abi.

TR. Húnc quoque adserua ípsum, ne quo abítat. nam promísimus

Cárnufici aut taléntum magnum aút hunc hodie sístere.

DAE. Ábi modo: ego, dum abés, curabo récte.

TR. Iam ego reuénero.

DAEMONES. LABRAX. PALAESTRA. AMPELISCA.

SENEX.

LENO.

MVLIERES II.

DAE. Vtrúm tu leno cúm malo lubéntius 780

Quiéscis an sic síne malo, si cópiast?

LA. Ego quaé tu loquere flócci non fació, senex.

Meas quídem ted inuito ét Venere et summó Ioue

De ará capillo íám deripiam.

DAE. Tángedum.

LA. Tangam hércle uero.

DAE. Ágedum ergo, accede húc modo. 785

LA. Iubedúm recedere ístos ambo illúc modo.

DAE. Immo ád te accedent.

LA. Nón hércle equídem cénseo.

774. seruas CD. EROADDUCO As. 776. OCCEPTASSIS
As. 777. ne quo abítat (habitat B, cf. 812, 834) nam M, NEKABI-

TATAUT A. 779. Not in M: As has ABIMODOEGODUMKOCQ

?
? ? ? ? ?
TABORECTE IAMEGOREUENERO (dum abes Fleck., curabo Stud., doubtfully). 781. si om. C. 783. ted Pius, TE AM. 785. uere B.

786. AMBOS AB, amabo C.

787. EQUIDEM A, egomet M.

DAE. Quid agés, si accedent própius ?

LA. Ego recéssero.

Verúm, senex, si te úmquam in urbe offéndero,

Numquam hércle quisquam mé lenonem díxerit, 790

Si té non ludos péssumos dimísero.

DAE. Facito ístuc quod minitáre. sed nunc ñnterim

Si illás attigeris, dábitur tibi magnúm malum.

LA. Quam mágnum uero ?

DAE. Quántum lenoní sat est.

LA. Minácias ego flócci non faciám tuas: 795

Equidem háš te inuito iam ámbas rapiam.

DAE. Tángedum.

LA. Tangam hércle uero.

DAE. Tánges? at scin quó modo?

Idúm Turbalio cúrriculo, adfer húc domo

Duas cláuas.

TURB. Clauas ?

DAE. Séd probas: properá cito.

Ego te hódie faxo récte acceptum, ut dígnus es. 800

LA. Ehéú, scelestus gáleam in nauí pérdidi:

Nunc mi ópportuna hic éšset, salua sí foret.

Licét saltem istas mi áppellare ?

DAE. Nón licet.

Ehem; óptume edepol éccum clauator áduenit. 805

LA. Illúd quidem edepol tinnimentumšt aúribus.

DAE. Age, áccipe illinc álteram clauám, Sparax.

Age, álter istinc, álter hinc adsístite.

Adsístite ambo síc. audite núnciam:

Si hercle fillic illas hódie digito tétigerit 810

788. propius accedent CD. 789. uerum sit senex eum quam CD. deféndero C (*). 791. TENON A, non te M. DIMISSERO A, dimiserio M. 792. MINITARE A, Seyff., minitares CD, minitaris B. 794. QUANTUM ACD, quam magnum B. 795. So A, ego istas flocci non facio M. 796. KAS A, eas M. TANGEDUM As M. 797. TANGESAT As, tange sat M. 798. affert CD. huc domo Reiz, om. M (archetype defaced). 799. TURB. Seyff. for LA. vulg. 802. foret FZ, fortet M. 807. illin D. 809. nunc iam M.

Inuítas, ni istunc ístis inuitássitis
 Vsque ádeo, donec quá domum abeat nésciat,
 Perístis ambo. si áppellabit quémpiam,
 Vos rêspondetote ístinc istarúm uicem.
 Sin ípse abíttere hínc uolet, quantúm potest 815
 Extémplo amplectitóte crura fústibus.

LA. Etiám me abire hinc nón sinent?

DAE. Dixí satis.

Et úbi ille cum ero séruos huc aduénerit,
 Qui erum árcessiuit, ítote extémplo domum.
 Curáte haec sultis mágna diligéntia. 820

LA. Heu hércle, ne ístic fána mutantúr cito:

Iam hoc Hérculi fit, Véneris fanum quód fuit:
 Ita dúo destituit sígna hic cum clausí senéx.
 Non hércle quo hinc nunc géntium aufugiám scio:
 Ita núnc mi utrumque saéuit, et terra ét mare. 825 Palaéstra!

LO. Quid uis?

LA. Ápage, controuórsias:

Haec quídem Palaestra quae respondit nón meast.
 Heus, Ámpelisca!

LO. Cáue sis infortúnio.

LA. Vt pótis est, ignaui hómínes satis recté monent.
 Sed uóbis dico, heús uos, num moléstiaest 830
 Me adíre ad illas própíus?

LO. Nil—nobís quídem.

LA. Numquíd molestum míhi erit?

LO. Nil, si cáueris.

LA. Quid ést quod caueam?

LO. Em, á crasso infortúnio.

811. ne ís tunc M, corr. Cam., Par. ístis om. CD. 812. habeat BC. 815. sin FZ, sine M. ípse CD, dpse B. abíttere (abb.) Acid., abíle *B*¹, abire CD. 817. Ettiam C. sinent Pyl., desinent M.
 818. seruus cum ero M, transp. Seyff. 819. accersíuit BD. 820.
 sultis Festus, stultis M. deiligéntia B. 821. heu Z, eheu M. mittantur D. 822. fit Palmer, est M. 825. míhi nunc D. 827. quídem Acid., equídem M. 829. potis est Bo., potest M. monent om.
C. 830. molestia est M, corr. Müll. 831. uobis C. 833. hem a crasso FZ, emacraeso M.

LA. Quaeso hércle abire ut líceat.

LO. Abeas, sí uelis.

LA. Bene hércle factum: uóbis habeo grátiam.

835

Non cédam potius: illic astate flico.

Edepól proueni néquiter multís modis:

Certúmst hasce hodie usque ópsidione uíncere.

PLESIDIPPVS. TRACHALIO. LABRAX.

ADVLESCENS.

SERVOS.

LENO.

PALAESTRA. AMPELISCA. CHARMIDES.

MVLIERES II.

PARASITVS. LORARII.

PL. Meamne ille amicam léno ui, uioléntia

De ará deripere Véneris uoluit?

TR. Ádmodum.

840

PL. Quin óccidisti extémplo?

TR. Gladius nón erat.

PL. Caperés aut fustem aut lápidem.

TR. Quid, ego quási canem

Hominem ínsectarer lápidibus nequíssimum?

LA. Nunc pól ego perii: Plésidippus éccum adest:

Conuórret iam hic me tótum cum puluúsculo.

845

PL. Etiámne in ara tunc sedebant múlieres,

Quom ad mé profectu's íre?

TR. Ibidem núnc sedent.

PL. Quis illás nunc illic séruat?

TR. Nescioquís senex,

Vicínus Veneris, ís dedit operam óptumam:

Ís núnc cum seruis séruat: ego mandáueram.

850

834. abire FZ, adire M. abeas FZ, habeas M. 835. ergo hercule CD. habeo uobis M, transp. Bo. 836. cedam Seyff., accedam M.
 837—872 two pages in As, mostly illegible. 839. lenoni ui CD. 841.
 gladius FZ, claudius M. 842. qua sic non amem CD. 843. ínsectarer FZ, inspectarer M. 846. tunc FZ, nunc M. 847. profectus M, corr. Acid. 849. ueneris ís *D*², FZ, ueneri sis M. dedito operam CD.

PL. Duc me ad lenonem recta. ubi illic est homo?

LA. Salué.

PL. Salutem nŕi moror. opta ócius:

Rapŕi te optorto cóllo mauiŕi án trahi?

Vtrúmuis opta, dúm licet.

LA. Neutrúm uolo.

PL. Abi sáne ad litus cúrriculo, Trachálio, 855
Iube illós in urbem ire óbuiam ad portúm mihi,
Quos mécum duxi, hunc qui ad carnuficem tráderent:
Post húc redito atque ágitato hic custódiám.
Ego hunc scelestum in iús rapiam exulés dica:
Age, ámbula in ius.

LA. Quid ego deliqui?

PL. Rogas?

860

Quin árrabonem a me ácepisti ob múlierem

Et eam hinc auexti?

LA. Nón auexi.

PL. Quór negas?

LA. Quia pól prouexi: auéhere non quiuí miser.
Equidém tibi me díxeram praestó fore
Apud Véneris fanum: *num*quid muto? súmne ibi? 865

PL. In iúre causam dícito: hic uerbúm sat est.
Sequere.

LA. Ópsecro te, súbueni, mi Chármides:

Rapiór optorto cóllo.

CH. Quis me nóminat?

LA. Vidén me ut rapior?

CH. Vídeo atque inspectó lubens.

LA. Non súbuenire mi aúdes?

CH. Quis homo té rapit?

870

LA. Aduléscens Plesidíppus.

CH. Vt nancú's, habe:

856 (*). 857. qui hunc M, transp. Cam. 859. exules dica Palmer, exulem M, EXILEM A (*). 861. ——— EM As, mulierem est M.
862. Et eam hinc auexti Fleck., iam hinc abduxisti M. our M. 864.
tibi ume B. 865. numquid Bent., quid M. muto Grut., multo M.
867. mi Z, mei M. 868. obtorto CD, opto B. 869. Viden FZ, uinden M. 871. Pleusidippus C. nancus M, corr. Acid.

- Bono ánimo meliust te ín neruom conrépere:
 Tibi óptigit quod plúrumi exoptánt sibi.
- LA. Quid id ést?
- CH. Vt id quod quaérant inueniánt sibi.
- LA. Sequere, ópsecro, me.
- CH. Páriter suades, quális es: 875
- Tu in néruom rapere: eo me ópsecras ut té sequar?
- PL. Etiám retentas?
- LA. Périi.
- CH. Verum sít uelim.
- PL. Tu méa Palaestra et Ámpelisca, ibidem flico Manéte, donicum húc redeo.
- LO. Equidem suádeo
 Vt ad nos abeant pótius, dum recipís.
- PL. Placet: 880
- Bene fáctis.
- LA. Fures mi éstis.
- LO. Quid 'fures'? rape.
- LA. Oro, ópsecro, Palaéstra.
- PL. Sequere, cárnufex.
- LA. Hospés—
- CH. Non sum hospes: répudio hospitiúm tuom.
- LA. Sicíne me spernis?
- CH. Síc ago: semél bibi.
- LA. Di te infelicient.
- CH. Ísti capiti dícito. 885
- Credo álium in aliam béluam hominem uórtier:
 Illic ín columbum, crédo, leno uórtitur:
 Nam in cólumbári cóllum haud multo póst erit.
 In néruom ille hodie nídamenta cóngeret.
 Verúm tamen ibo, ei áduocatus út siem, 890
 Si quí mea opera cítius—addicí potest.
872. melius st CD. CONREPHERE A, correpere B, corripere CD.
 875. obsecro me Cam., obsecrom B, obsecro CD. 877. PL. Fleck.
 CH. FZ. 878. PL. FZ. 879. donicum huc Nettleship, dum ego huc B, dum ego huic C, dum huc ego D (). 881 (). 884. Sicine DZ, Sicine BC. I have written bibi for bibo M (*). 888. collumbari Brix, columbari M, Prisc. collus haud multum Prisc. 891. adduci B.

DAEMONES.

SENECA.

Bene factum et uolup est me hodie his mulierculis,
 Tetulisse auxilium : iam cluentas repperi,
 Atque ambas forma scitula atque aetula. 895
 Sed uxor scelestas me omnibus scrutat modis,
 Ne qui significem quidpiam mulierculis.
 Sed Grampus seruos noster quid rerum gerat,
 Miror, de nocte qui abiit piscatum ad mare.
 Pol magis sapisset, si dormiisset domi :
 Nam nunc et operam ludos facit et retia, 900
 Ut nunc tempestas est atque ut noctu fuit.
 In digitis hodie percoquam quod ceperit :
 Ita fluctuare uideo uehementer mare.
 Sed ad prandium uxor me uocat : redeo domum.
 Iam meas sua opplebit auris uaniloquentia. 905

GRIPVS.

PISCATOR.

Neptuno hasce ago gratias meo patrono,
 Qui salis locis incolit pisculentis,
 Quom modo ex suis pulchre ornatum expedit
 Templis redducem, plurima praeda onustum

892. uolup est B, uolup est CD : cf. 1176. 893. dientas CD.
 894. sortula C, soitula D. 896. Nequid M, corr. Acid. 897. grippus CD. 899. sapisset F, sapis sed B, sapis Sed C, sapisset Sed D, sapisset codd. uet. Lamb., Priscian. dormisset Prisc. 900. Iam
D. facit Priscian, dat M (*). retiam Prisc. (cf. M in 1071). 901.
 Ut tempestas est nunc M, transp. Gepp. 902. coeperit B. 905. I have transposed opplebit (opplebit D³FZ) aures sua M (*). 906. hasce Schmidt, has M. meo patrono gratias M, transp. Reiz. 908. med ex suis pulchre Reiz, me ex suis locis pulchre M (*). 909. redducem Reiz, reducem M. onustum Z, honestum M.

Salúte horiae, atque in mari fluctuóso 910
 Piscátu nouó me uberí conpotfuit.
 Miróque modo atque increíblei hic piscátus mihi
 lepide éuenit :
 Neque píscium ullam unciam póno hodie cepí nisi hoc quod fero hic ín rete. 913, 914
 Nam ut dé nocte múlta inpigréque exsurrexi, 915
 Lucrúm praeposuí sopóri et quiéti :
 Tempéstate saéua experíri expetúui,
 Paupértatem erí qui et meám seruitútem
 Tolerárem : opera haud fui párcus mea.
 Nímis homo nihilist qui ést piger, nímisque id genus odi égo male. 920
 Vigiláre decet hominém qui uolt sua témperi conficere ófficia :
 Non énim illum expectare id oportet, dum erus se ad
 suom suscitét óffícium.
 Nám qui dormiúnt lubenter, síne lucro et cum málo quiescunt.
 Nám ego núnc mihi, 924^a Qui inpiger fui, b
 Répperi út piger c
 Sí uelím siém. d
 Hóc ego ín mari, 925^a Quidquíd inest, répperí : b
 Quidquíd inest, gráue quidémst. c Aurum híc ego inesse reór, nec mi conscúsus est ullus homó : nunc haec
 Tibi occasio, Gripe, óptigit, ut † liberés ex populo praeter te.

910. horiae atque Seyff., horeia (horreia) quae (que) M. 912. incre-dibile CD. 913. unciam BC, uno iam D. hodie pondo M, transp.
Pyl. hic om. CD. 916. praeposui B, propositi CD, corr. Cam.
 918. seruitutem Cam., sententiam M (*). 920. So B, excepting quis for qui. quis piger est CD. 922. id Seyff., om. M. 924^a. Reperi
B. 925^a. quidemst Cam., quidē inst M. 926. mihi M. 927.
 gripe B, pigre CD. † Rest of v. corrupt. B has sign of transposition after po(u)pulo : ut liberet te ex pōpulo praetor Fleck. (after Pyl. and Cam.).

Nunc sic faciam, sic cónsiliumst: ad erúm ueniam docte átque astu.

Pauxíllatim pollicitor pro cápite argentum, ut sím liber.

Iam ubí liber ero, igitúr demum mi instrúam agrum átque aedis, máncipia: 930

Naufbus magnis mercáturam faciam: ápuđ reges rex pérhibebor.

Post ánimi causa mshi nauem faciam átque imitabor Strátonicum,

Oppída circumuectábor. ubi nobílitas mea erit clára, Oppídum magnum conmoénibo: ei ego úrbi Gripo in-dám nomen,

Moniméntum meae famae ét factis; ibi régnum mag- 935
num instítuam.

Magnás res hic agito ín mentem instruere. hunc nunc uidlum cóndam.

Sed hic réx cum aceto pránsurust et sále, sine bono pulfménto.

TRACHALIO. GRIPVS.

SERVOS. PISCATOR.

TR. Heus máne,

GR. Quid maneam?

TR. dum hánc tibi 938^a

Quam tráhis rudentem cónplico. ^b

GR. Mitté modo.

TR. At pol ego te ádiuuo: 939^a

Nam bónis quod bene fit, haúd perit. ^b

928. sic B, sicut CD. astu Reiz, astute M. 930. liber ero igitur
Cam., liber erigitur B, liber... igitur CD. mi Seyff. om. M. atque aedis B, adaedes CD. 931, 932. apud reges faciam om. B. 934. ei ego Z, elego M. grippo C. indaim nomen B, indamno CD. 935, 936. I have written ibi for ibique M (a common mistake, cf. Capt. 791 &c.), trans- posed nunc hunc M, and written uidlum for uidulum M. 939. adiuuo Müll., adiuuabo M. donis D. aut D.

GR. Turbída tempestas héri fuit :	940
Nil hábeo, adulescens, píscium :	941 ^a
Ne tú mihi esse póstules.	b
Non uídes referre me úuidum	942 ^a
Reté sine squamosó pecu?	b
TR. Non édepol píscis éxpeto	943 ^a
Quam tuí sermonis sum índigens.	b
GR. Enícas iam me odio, quísqvis es.	944 ^a
TR. Non sínam ego abire hinc té : mane.	b
GR. Caue sís malo : quid tú, malum, nam mánu me re- trahis?
TR. Aúdi.	945
GR. Non aúdio.
TR. At pol qui aúdiés.
GR. Post.
TR. Núnc.
GR. Quin loquere quíduis.	946
TR. Ehodum húc modo : operae prétiúmst	947 ^a
Quod tibi ego uolo narráre.	b
GR. Elóquere quid id est.
TR. Víde, num	948 ^a
Quisplam consequitur própe nos.	b
GR. Écquid est quód mea réferat?
TR. Scíllicet :
Séd boni cónsili écquid in té mihist?	950
GR. Quíd negotíst, modo díe.
TR. Dicám, tacé,
Si fídem modo
Das míhi te non fore infídum.
GR. Do fídem tibi :

942^a. Nam B. me referre D. 942^b. Retem Prisc., cf. 984. sines quã mos opte CD. 943^b. sum om. CD. 944. Enecas B. 945.
I have written nam manu me for nam me M, Manu me Stud. 946. GR.
Post. TR. Nunc Seyff., post M. 947^a. I have written Ehodum huc for Eho
M, and transposed est opere ptium M. 947^b. narrare uolo M, transp.
Pyl. 948. I have adopted num quispiam from Cam. : uide nuspiam CD, uiden uspiam B. The reading in this and the preceding line is quite uncertain. 950. bonis CD. consilii Cam., consiliis M. eo quid D.

Fidús ero, quísqvis es.
TR. Aúdi.		955
Furtum égo uidi qui fáciebat :		956 ^a
Norám dominum id quoi flebat.		b
Post ad furem egomet déuenio		957 ^a
Feroque ei condicionem hóc pacto :		b
'Ego istúc furtum scio quof factumst :		958 ^a
Nunc míhi si uis dare dímidium,		b
Indícium domino nón faciam.'		959 ^a
Is míhi nil etiam réspedesit.		b
Quid inde aéquomst dari mihi? dímidium		960 ^a Volo ut dícas.
GR. Immo hercle étiam plus :		b
Nam nísí dat, domino dícundum		961 ^a Censéo.
TR. Tuo consilió faciam.		b
Nunc áduorte animum : námque omne hoc		962 ^a Attínet ad te.
GR. Quid fáctumst ?		b
TR. Vidulum istum quóíust noui ego hómínem iam pridém.
GR. Quid est ?
TR. Ét quo pacto périit.
GR. At ego quó pacto inuentúst scio :
Ét qui inuenit hómínem noui, et dómínus qui nunc ést
scio.		965
Níhilo pol plurís tua hoc quam quánti illud refért mea.
Égo illum noui quóíus nunc est : tú illum quoíus antehác fuit.
Húnc homo feret á me nemo : né tu te sperés potis.
TR. Nón ferat, si dómínus ueniat ?
GR. Dómínus huic, ne frústra sis,
956 ^b . noueram M , corr. Guyet .	957 ^a . Portat CD .	959 ^b . nihil
M .	960 ^b . etiam plus Seyff. , etiam amplius M (dittography).	961 ^a .
Nam si D .	962. Num CD ^a . hoc omne M , transp. Brix .	963.
cuius est FZ , cuius nest B , cuiusmest CD .	964. perit Z , perit M .
inuentumst M (cf. 977), corr. Acid .	965. (*).	968. potis Be-
noist , potius M .	969. ne frustra sis Reiz , nemo ne frustrases (frus-
trasses) M .

Nisi ego nemo natus, hunc qui cepi in uenatu meo. 970
TR. Itane uero?

GR. Ecquem esse dices in mari piscem meum?
Quos quom capio, siquidem cepi, mei sunt: habeo pro meis.

Nec manu adseruntur neque illinc partem quisquam postulat.

In foro palam omnis uendo pro meis uenabilibus.
Mare quidem commune certost omnibus.

TR. Assentio: 975

Qui minus hunc communem quaeso mihi esse oportet uidulum?

In mari inuentumst communi.

GR. Itane impudenter impudens?

Nam si istuc ius sit quod memoras, piscatores perierint.

Quippe quom extemplo in macellum pisces prolati sient,
Nemo emat: suam quisque partem piscium poscant sibi: 980
Dicant in mari communi captos.

TR. Quid ais, impudens?

Ausus etiam comparare uidulum cum piscibus?
Eadem tandem res uidetur?

GR. In manu non est mea:

Vbi demisi rete atque hamum, quidquid haesit extraho.
Meum quod rete atque hami nacti sunt, meum potissumumst. 985

TR. Immo hercle haud est, siquidem quod uas excepisti.

GR. Philosophes!

TR. Sed tu, enumquam piscatorem uidisti, uenefice, uidulum piscem cepisse aut protulisse ullum in forum?

970. coepi B, cepi C. 972. coepi B. 975. assentio FZ, at sentio
M. 977. inuentumst D (cf. 964). communi. GR. Itane Seyff., commune est ne M (*). 978. iussit B¹ CD¹. perierunt D. 980.
eat CD¹. poscant Prisc., poscat M. 981. Dicant CD, Prisc., Dicat B. mare Prisc. (quoted as a form of the abl.; cf. Kühner, Lat. Gr. I. p. 202. 1).
982. Ausus M, corr. Fleck. 984. retem CD, Prisc. haesit Prisc., aessit
B, hesit CD. extrabo B. 985. (h)ami meum nacti CD. potissimust M. 987. tue (tuę CD) numquam M.

Nón enim tu hic quidem ócupabis ómnis quaestus
quós uoles:

Èt uitorem et piscatorem té esse, impure, póstulas. 990

Vél te mihi monstráre oportet piscis qui sit uídulus:

Vél quod in marí non natumst néque habet squamas né feras.

GR. Quid tu? numquam audísti esse antehac uídulum piscém?

TR. Scelus,

Núllus est.

GR. Immóst profecto: ego qui sum piscatór scio.

Vérum rare cápitur: nullus mínus saepe ad terrám uenit. 995

TR. Níl agis: dare uérba speras míhi te posse, fúrcifer, Quó colorest?

GR. Hóc colore cápiuntur pauxílluli:

Súnt alii puníceo corio, mágni autem, atque atrí.

TR. Scio:

Tu hércle, opino, in uídlum piscem té conuortes, nési
caues:

Fiet tibi puníceum corium, póstea atrum dénuo. 1000

GR. Quód scelus hodie hóc inueni?

TR. Vérba facimus: ít dies.

Víde sis, quoius árbitratu fácere nos uis.

GR. Víduli

Árbitratu.

TR. Itane?

GR. Íta enimuero.

TR. Stúltus es.

GR. Salué, Thales!

993. Quid Cam., Qui M. audiuisti M., corr. Bent. 995. Verum Charisius, Vero M. rare Charisius, raro M. 996. Nihil B. furcifer, Quo colorest? Seyff., furcifer. Quo colorest? vulg. 997. (*). 998.
corio B., colore CD. magni autem Seyff., magni item CD., magnitem
B. (*). 999. opino Bo., opinor M. uidlum (Bo.) piscem te Seyff., uidulum te piscem M. 1002. facere nos uis Brix (with alliteration), nos facere uis M. 1003-1088 two pages in As (1003 f. illegible; 1005-1020 partially legible; 1021-1088 mostly illegible). 1003. Itane? GR. Seyff., om. M.
TR. Brix, om. M.

TR. Tú istunc hodie nón feres, nisi dás sequestrum aut árbítrum, Quóius haec res árbítratu fiat.

GR. Quaeso sánun es?

1005

TR. Élleborosus sum.

GR. Át ego cerritus: húnc non amittám tamen.

TR. Vérbum etiam adde unúm, iam in cerebro cólaphos apstrudám tuo.

Iam égo te hic, itidem quási peniculus nóuos exurgeri solet,

Ni húnc amittis, éxurgebo quídquid umorís tibist.

GR. Tánge: adfligam ad térram te itidem ut píscem soleo pólypum.

1010

Vís pugnare?

TR. Quíd opust? quin tu pótius praedam dúuide.

GR. Hínc tu nisi malúm frunísci níl potes, ne póstules.

Ábeo ego hinc.

TR. At ego hínc oíflectam náuem, ne quo abeás: mane.

GR. Sí tu proréta ísti nauí's, égo gubernatór ero.

Mítte rudentém, sceleste.

TR. Míttam: omítte uídulum.

1015

GR. Númquam hercle hinc hodié ramenta fíes fortunátior.

TR. Nón probare pérnegando míhi potes, nisi párs datur

Aút ad arbítrúm reditur aút sequestro pónitur.

GR. Quémne ego excepi ín mari—

TR. At ego ínspectaui e lítore.

GR. Méa opera labóre et rete et hória?

TR. Numquí minus,

1020

Sí ueniat nunc dóminus quoiust, égo qui ínspectaui procul

1005. A has — EES at end of v. (i.e. originally SANUSNEES), M sanus es. 1006. So M: A begins the line with ELL — (Stud.).. ad BC.

EMITTAM As (*). 1007. adde etiam CD. 1008. Iam ego Brix,

IAM — As, Ego iam M. peniculus Guyet, penicillus M. — UR-

GERI A, exurgere M. 1010. te adterram CD. POLYPUM As, polipum M. 1012. nihil MA. nepotules B, nisi postulas CD.

1018. ABEO As, ab eo D, Habeo BC. habeas M. 1018. arbitrium D.

1020. NUNQ. . MINUS As, Num qui mini B. 1021. domini B (*).

Te hunc habere, fúr sum quam tu ?

GR. Níhilo.

TR. Mane, mastígia :

Quo árgumento sócius non sum et fúr sum, facdum ex té sciam.

GR. Néscio : neque ego ístas uostras léges urbanás scio ;
Nísi quia hunc meum ésse dico.

TR. Ét ego item esse aió meum. 1025

GR. Máne : iam repperí quo pacto néc fur nec sociú-sies.

TR. Quó pacto ?

GR. Sine me hinc abire : tú abi tacitus tuám uiam, Néque tu me quoiquam índicassis néque ego tibi quicquám dabo.

Tú taceto : ego mússitabo : hoc óptimum atque aequíssimumst.

TR. Écquid condiciónis audes férre ?

GR. Iam dudúm fero : 1030

Út abeas, rudéntem amittas, míhi molestus né sies.

TR. Máne, dum refero cóndicionem.

GR. Te, ópsecro hercle, aufér modo.

TR. Écquem in his locís nouisti ?

GR. Opórtet uicinós meos.

TR. Vbi tu hic habitas ?

GR. Pórró illic longe úsque in campis últumis.

TR. Vín qui in hac uilla hábitat eius árbitratu fieri ? 1035

GR. Paúlisper remítte restem, dúm concedo et cónsulo.

TR. Fíat.

GR. Euge, sálua res est : praéda haec perpetuást mea.

Ád meum erum arbitrúm uocat me hic íntra praesepeís meas.

1022. fur sum F, furtum M. 1024. urbanas om. C. 1025. alo
B. 1026. repperi Fleck. (punctuating after iam), reperi rem B, repperi-rem C, reperirem D. 1028. NEQ— A (according to Schoell), Nec
M. 1029. musitabo M. 1030. Eo quid D. 1031. habeas CD. amittas C. 1032. aufert B. 1033. heis B. 1035.
fieri FZ, fieri M. 1036. remittere stem B, remitterest hem CD, corr.
Z. 1038. aerum B. meis CD.

Númquam hercle hodie abiúdicabit áb suo trióbolum.
Né iste haud scit quam cóndicionem tétulerit: éo ad árbitrum. 1040

TR. Quíd igitur?

GR. Quamquam ístuc esse iús meum certó scio,
Fíat istuc pótius quam nunc púgnem tecum.

TR. Núnc places.

GR. Quámquam ad ignotum árbitrum me adpéllis, si adhi-bebít fidem,

Étsi ignotust, nórust: si non, nótus ignotíssumust.

IDEM. DAEMONES. PALAESTRA. AMPELISCA.

SENEX.

MVLIERES II.

DAE. Sério edepol, quámquam uobis uólo quae uoltis, múlieres, 1045

Métuo propter uós ne uxor méa me extrudat aédibus,

Quaé me pelicés adduxe dícet ante oculós suos.

Vós confugite in áram potius quám ego.

Mv. Miserae péríimus.

DAE. Égo uos saluas sístam: ne timéte. sed quid uós foras

Prósequimini? quóniam ego adsum, fáciat nemo iniúriam. 1050

Íte, inquam, domum ámbo nunciam, éx praesidio praésides.

GR. Ó ere salue.

DAE. Sálue, Gripe. quíd fit?

TR. Tuosne hic séruos est?

GR. Haúd pudet.

TR. Nil ago técum.

GR. Ergo ábi hinc sis.

TR. Quaéso respondé, senex:

1039. triobolus B, tribolus C, tribulus D. 1040. I have written eo for ibo M: cf. 989 (). 1041. ius BD, nis C. certe D. 1042. ().
1043. me appellis FZ, mea pillis (pellis CD) M. 1044. Etsi ignotust Acid., Et sist (si est) ignotus M. 1045. erio (with space for capital letter)
M. uolo Grut., om. M. 1046. (*). 1047. adduxe Cam., adduxisse
M. 1048. perimus Cam., perimus M. 1049. Ergo CD. 1051. nunc iam M. 1052. O here Cam., O pre M. grippe CD (*). 1052. nihil BC.

Túos hic seruost?

DAE. Méus est.

TR. Em istuc óptume, quandó tuost.

Íterum te salúto.

DAE. Et ego te. tún es, qui haud multó prius 1055

Ábāsti hinc erum áccersitum?

TR. Ego ís sum.

DAE. Quid nunc ús tibi?

TR. Némpe hic tuos est?

DAE. Méus est.

TR. Istuc óptume, quandó tuost.

DAE. Quíd negotist?

TR. Vír scelestus íllic est.

DAE. Quid fecít tibi

Vír scelestus?

TR. Hómini ego isti tálos suffringí uolo.

DAE. Quíd est qua de re lítigatis núnc inter uos?

TR. Éloquar. 1060

GR. Ímmo ego eloquár.

TR. Ego, opinor, rém facesso.

GR. Sí quidem

Sís pudicus, hínc facessas.

DAE. Grípe, animum aduorte ác tace.

GR. Vtin ístic prius dícat?

DAE. Audi. lóquere tu.

GR. Alienón prius

Quám tuo dabis orátionem?

TR. Vt nequitur cónprimi!

Íta ut ocepi dícere, illum quém dudum e fanó foras 1065

Lénonem extrusísti, hic eius údulum eccillúm tenet.

1054. em Ribbeck, hem CD, om. B. istum C. 1055. saluto te CD. tune M. 1056. Abiisti Grut., Abisti M. arcessitum C. ego istum CD. 1059. subfringi M (*). 1060. nunc litigatis M, transp.
Cam. 1061. pinor B. 1062. Si B. grippe CD. 1063.
 Utin' ístic Cam., Ut in ístic B, utm ístic CD. dica (dicā) M. 1064. nequitur CD. compremi B. 1065. e fano foras Schoell (e fano Veneris Lamb.), om. M (archetype defective; cf. next line). 1066. eccillum tenet Guyet, ecillum M.

GR. Nón habeo.

TR. Negás quod oculis uideo?

GR. At ne uideás uelim.

Hábeo, non habeo: quid tu me cúras quid rerúm geram?

TR. Quó modo habeás, id refert, iúrene anne iniúria.

GR. Ní istum cepi, núlla causast quín me condonés cruci. 1070

Si in mari retí prehendi, quí tuom potiust quám meum?

TR. Vérba dat: hoc modó res gestast, út ego dico.

GR. Quid tu ais?

TR. Quód primariús uir dicat, cónprime hunc sis, sí tuost.

GR. Quid tu? idem mihi uis fieri, quód erus consueuít tibi?

Sí ille te conprimere solitus, híc noster nos nón solet. 1075

DAE. Vérbo illo modo ille uicit. quíd nunc tu uis? díe mihi.

TR. Équidem ego neque pártem posco mñhi istinc de istoc uidulo

Néque meum esse hodie úmquam dixi: séd isti inest cístéllula

Húius mulierís, quam dudum díxi fuisse líberam.

DAE. Némpe tu hanc dicis, quam ésse aiebas dúdum popularém meam? 1080

TR. Ádmodum: et ea quae ólim parua géstauit crepúndia

Ísti in ista cístula insunt, quae isti inest in uidulo.

Hóc neque isti usúst et illi míserae suppetiás feret,

Si íd dederit, qui suos parentis quaérat.

DAE. Faciam ut dét: tace.

GR. Níhil hercle ego sum istí daturus.

TR. Níhil peto nisi cístulam 1085

Ét crepundiá.

GR. Quid, si ea sunt aúrea?

TR. Quid istúc tua?

Arúrum auro expendétur, argentum árgento exaequábitur.

1069. iure ne B, iure CD.

1070. cepi C, coepi D.

1071. reti

Z, retia M.

1072. (*).

1075. solitus M, corr. Fleck.

1077.

neque ego D.

1078. hodie é D (éè D^o).

dixisset CD.

1080.

aiebas FZ, aiebas M.

1082. Istic M, corr. Bo. (twice).

1088. misere

B.

1086. istic C, isic D (cf. 1109).

1087. exaequabimus C, exae-quabimur D.

GR. Fác sis aurum ut uídeam : post ego fáciam ut uideas cístulam.

DAE. Cáue malo ac tace tú : tu pèrge ut ócepesti dícere.

TR. Vnum te opsecro, út ted huius cónmiserescat múlieris, 1090

· SÍ quidem hic lenónis eiust uídulus, quem súspicor.

Híc nisi de opínione cértum nil dicó tibi.

GR. Vídén? scelestus aúcupatur.

TR. Síne me ut ocepí loqui.

SÍ scelesti illfús est hic quóius dico uídulus,

Haéc poterunt nouísse : ostendere hís iube.

GR. Ain osténdere? 1095

DAE. Haúd iniquom dícit, Gripe, ut óstendatur uídulus.

GR. Ímmo hercle insigníte inique.

DAE. Quídum?

GR. Quia, si osténdero,

Cóntinuo hunc nouísse dicent scílicet.

TR. Scelerúm caput,

Vt tute's, item ómnis censes ésse? periurí caput!

GR. Ómnia ego istaec fáciie patior, dúm hic hinc a me séntiat. 1100

TR. Átqui nunc abs té stat, uerum hinc cíbit testimónium.

DAE. Grípe, aduerte animúm. tu paucis éxpedi quid póstulas.

TR. Díxi equidem : sed sí parum intelléxti, dicam dénuo.

Hásce ambas, ut dúdum dixi, ita ésse oportet líberas :

Haéc Athenis párua fuit uírgo surpta.

GR. Díc mihi, 1105

Quíd id ad uidlum pértinet, seruae sint istae an líberae.

TR. Ómnia iterum uís memorari, scélus, ut defíat dies.

DAE. Ápstine maledíctis et mihi quód rogauí dílue.

TR. Cístellam isti inéssé oportet caúdeam in isto uídulo,

1088. Fac sis Grut., Faciis M. 1090. te M, corr. Cam. 1092. nihil
M. tibi om. CD. 1093. aucupatur Seyff., usaucupatur B, is aucupatur
CD. 1095. his Pyl., hic M. 1096. grippe C. 1097. quia si CD, quasi B. 1100. istaec (istec D) ego M, transp. Bo. ().* 1101. Atque
D. cibit Acid., ibi M. 1105. surpta Hermann, surrupta M. 1106.
id Bo., ita B, ista CD. uidulum M, corr. Spengel. pertinent CD.
1109. isti Bo., istio BC, isio D. caudeam Placidus, gaudeam M. in isto
D, isto B, om. C.

- Vbi sunt signa quae parentis noscere haec possit suos, 1110
 Quibuscum periiit parua Athenis, sicuti dixi prius.
- GR. Iuppiter te dique perdant. quid ais, uir uenefice?
 Quid, istae mutae sunt, quae pro se fabulari non queant?
- TR. Eo tacent, quia tacitast melior mulier semper quam loquens.
- GR. Tum pol tu pro portione nec uir nec mulier mihi's. 1115
 TR. Quidum?
- GR. Quia enim neque loquens es neque tacens unquam bonus.
- Quaeso, enumquam hodie licebit mihi loqui?
 DAE. Si praeterhac
Vnum uerbum faxis hodie, ego tibi conminuam caput.
- TR. Ut id cecepi dicere, senex, eam te quaeso cistulam Ut iubeas hunc reddere illis: ob eam si quid postulat 1120
 Sibi mercedis, dabitur: aliud quidquid ibist habeat sibi.
- GR. Nunc demum istuc dicis, quoniam ius meum esse inter legis:
 Dudum dimidiam petebas partem.
 TR. Immo etiam nunc peto.
- GR. Vidi petere mihi, etiam quom nihil auferret tamen.
 DAE. Non ego te comprimere possum sine malo?
 GR. Si istuc tacet, 1125
 Ego tacebo: si iste loquitur, sine me meam partem loqui.
- DAE. Cedo modo mihi istum uidlum, Græpe.
 GR. Concredam tibi:
 At, si istorum nil sit, ut mihi reddas.
 DAE. Reddetur.
 GR. Tene.

1111. I have written periiit parua for parua periiit M (cf. Prol. 39; Fleck. par. Ath. per.) siout C, siō D. 1112. uir om. D. 1114. tacitast melior Bent. (on Phorm. II. 3. 21), tacita bonast M. seper B. 1115. tu pol CD (*). 1117. en unquam CD. 1118. Vnum Cam., om. M (with space). 1118. (*). 1119. senex eam te queso senex cistulam B (*). 1120. postulat FZ, postulas M. 1122. uis C. esse om. B. 1124. auferret D, auferet C, aufert B. 1125. sustic C. 1126. me meam partem Gronov., me (mea CD) pro re mea parte M. 1127. uidulum M. 1128. At Lamb., Ao M. nihil M.

DAE. Aúdi nunciám, Palaestra atque Ámpelisca, hoc quód loquor :

Éstne hic uidlus, úbi cistellam túam inesse aiebás?

PA. Is est. 1130

GR. Périi hercle ego misér : utí prius quam pláne aspexit flico Eum esse dixit!

PA. Fáciam ego hanc rem ex prócliua planám tibi.

Cístellam isti inesse oportet caúdeam in isto údulo :

Íbi ego dicam quídquid inerit nóminatim : tú mihi

Núllum ostenderís. si falsa dícam, frustra díxero : 1135

Vós tamen istic quídquid inerit uóbis omne habébitis.~

Sí erunt uera, tum ópsecro te ut méa mi reddantúr.

DAE. Placet :

Iús merum oras meó quidem animo.

GR. Át meo hercle iniús merum.

Quíd, si ista aut supérstitiosa aut háriolast atque ómnia

Quídquid inerit uéra dicet? áne habebit háriola? 1140

DAE. Nón feret, nisi uéra dicet : néquiquam hariolábitur.

Sólue uidulum érgo, ut quid sit uérum quam primúm sciam.

TR. Hóc habet!

GR. Solútust.

DAE. Aperi.

PA. Vídeo cistellam.

DAE. Haécinest?

PA. Ístaec est. o mei parentes, híc uos conclusós gero :

Húc opesque spésque uostrum cógnoscendum cóndidi. 1145

GR. Túm tibi hercle deós iratos ésse oportet, quíscuis es, 1130. uidulus M. in esse alebas B (*). 1131. Perei B. uti Bo., ut M. aspexi B. 1132. dixi B. ex procliui planam Gul., nam (M. after space of 16 letters).

1133. isti inesse Bo., isticine esse M. gaudéam M (cf. 1109).

1136. So Seyff., for Vos tamen istalec (istec D) quidquid (quicquid CD) istic inerit uobis habebitis M (*). 1137. Si

Müll., Sed si M. meam M. placit B. 1138. uis merum C. Ius meum B. inius merum Seyff., om. M. 1140. inerit Müll., insit

M. anne Valla, in me M. 1141. fert B. hariolabitur Pyl., ariolatur M. 1142. quid Cam., qui quid B. quic quid CD. sciam B. faciam CD. 1143. abet D. solutum est M. corr. Acid. GR. and

DAE. Weise, om. M (without space). 1144. esto M. mi M.

Quaé parentis tám in angustum tuós locum conpégeris.
DAE. Grípe, accede huc, túa res agitur: tú, puella, istinc procul

Dícito quid ínsit et qua fácie: memorato ómnia.

Si hércle tantillúm peccassis, quód posterius póstules 1150

Te ad uerum conuórti, nugas, múlier, magnas égeris.

GR. Iús bonum oras.

TR. Édepol haud tuom órat: nam tu iniúriu's.

DAE. Lóquere nunciám, puella. Grípe, animum aduerte ac tace.

PA. Súnt crepundia.

DAE. Écca uideo.

GR. Périi in primo proélio:

Máne: ne ostenderis.

DAE. Qua facie súnt? responde ex órdine. 1155

PA. Énsiculust auréolus primum lítteratus.

DAE. Dícedum,

Ín eo ensiculo lítterarum quíd est.

PA. Mei nomén patris.

Póst altrinsecúst securicula áncipes, itidem aúrea,

Lítterata: ibi mátris nomen ín securiculást.

DAE. Mane:

Díc, in ensiculó quid nomen ést patrum.

PA. Daémones. 1160

DAE. Di ínmortales, úbi loci sunt spés meae?

GR. Immo edepól meae?

TR. Pérgite, opsecró, continuo.

GR. Plácide, aut ite in málam crucem.

DAE. Lóquere matris nómen hic quid ín securiculá siet.

PA. Daédalis.

DAE. Di mé seruatum cúpiunt.

GR. At me pérditum.

1148. tu puella tu puella C. 1150. quot posteris M, corr. Cam.
1151. conuerte C. 1152. I have written tuom for te M. 1153. aduortite CD. 1154. peri M, corr. Pyl. 1156. Insiculust C. 1157.
litteratum B. 1158. itidem Prisc., item M. 1160. doemones B, demones CD (so too in 1174). 1162. GR. Acid., om. M (without space) (*). 1164. Dedalis M.

DAE. Fíliam meam esse hánc oportet, Grípe.

GR. Sit per mé quidem. 1165

Quí te di omnes pérđant, qui me hodie óculis uidistí
tuis,

Méque adeo sceléstum, qui non círcumspexi céntiens
Príus me, ne quis ínspectaret, quám rete extraxi éx aqua.

PA. Póst sicilicula árgenteola et duaé conexae mániculae, Súcula —

GR. Quín tu i dírecta cúm sucula et cum pórculis. 1170

PA. Ét bulla aureást, pater quam dédit mi natalí die.

DAE. Éast profecto : cóntineri quín conplectar nón queo.

Fília mea, sálue : ego is sum quí te produxí pater :

Égo sum Daemonés, et mater túa eccam hic intus Daédalis.

PA. Sálue, mi pater ínsperate.

DAE. Sálue : ut te amplectór lubens. 1175

TR. Vólup est quom istuc éx pietate uóstra uobis cóntigit.

DAE. Cápedum : hunc sí potés fer intro uidulum, age Trachálio.

TR. Écce Gripi scélera ! quom istaec rés male euenít tibi, Grípe, gratulór.

DAE. Age eamus, méa gnata, ad matrém tuam.

Quae éx te poterit árgumentis hánc rem magis exquírere : 1180

Quaé te magis tractáuit magisque sígna pernouít tua.

PA. Eámus intro omnés simul, quando óperam promiscám damus.

Séquere me, Ampelísca.

AM. Quom te dí amat, uoluptatíst mihi.

1169. Post sicilicula Bo., Post in sicilicula B., postin sicula CD. M have et at the end of the line (cf. 862): Pyl., followed by Fleck. and Schoell, transfers it to 1170 (before sucula), where however it disturbs the metre: Priscian (Inst. III. p. 108, 1 H.) quotes 1170 as it stands in M, without et. 1170. So M (except that C omits cum before porculus) and Prisc. 1171. E tabula B. mihi M. 1172. nequeo C. 1173. salue mea CD. 1174. eccam Fleck., ecca M. 1175. salue into C. 1176. Volupest CD., Volupe est B. 1177. intro uidum CD (*). 1178. grippiscelera D. ista B. 1182. PA. Seyff., TR. vulg. (PA. Sequere 1183). simul Schoell, om. M. promiscuam CD.

GR. Súmne ego homo sceléstus, qui illunc hódie excepi údulum?

Aút quom excepi, qui non aliqubi in solo apstrusí loco? 1185

Crédebam edepol túrbulentam praédam euenturám mihi,

Quía illa mihi tam túrbulenta témpestate euénerat.

Crédo edepol ego illíc inesse argénti et auri lárghiter.

Quíd meliust quam ut hínc intro abeam et mé suspendam clánculum,

Sáltem tantispér dum apscedat haéc a me aegrimónia? 1190

DAEMONES.

SENEX.

Pro di ínmortales, quis mest fortunátior,

Qui ex ínprouiso fíliam inuení meam,

[Satín si quoi homini dí esse bene factúm uolunt,

Aliquo íllud pacto optíngit optatúm piis?

Ego hódie, nil neque spéraui neque crédidi: 1195

Is ínprouiso fíliam inuení tamen]

Et eám de genere súmmo adulescentí dabo

Íngénuo Atheniénsi et cognató meo?

Eum ego ádeo arcessi huc ad me quam primúm uolo,

Iussíque exire huc éius seruom, ut ad forum 1200

Írét. nondum egressum ésse eum, id mirór tamen.

Accédam opinor ad foris. quid cónspicor?

Vxór complexa cóllo retinet fíliam.

Nimis paéne inepta atque ódiosa eius amátios!

1184. homo Fleck., om. M. illuc M., corr. Cam. 1187. tam om.
CD. 1188. auri & argenti CD. 1191. ro dii (di) BC (with space for capital letter). 1192. prouiso C. 1193–1196 probably *ditto*graphy to 1191 f.; Langen Plaut. Stud. p. 369 f. 1193. dei esse FZ, delesse M. uolunt Valla, uolo M (from 1199). 1195. nil Seyff., om.
M. 1196. tamen B. 1199. Ego eum M., transp. Bo. (cf. Bacch.
968). accersi D. 1200. seruum eius M., transp. Acid. 1204. paene om. CD.

DAEMONES. TRACHALIO.

SENEX.

SERVOS.

DAE. Aliquando osculándo meliust, úxor, pausam fferi: 1205

Atque adorna ut rém diuinam fáciam, quom intro aduénero,

Láribus familiáribus, quom auxérunt nostram fámiliam.
Súnt domi agni et pórci sacres. séd quid istum remo-rámini,

Múlieres, Trachálionem? atque óptume eccum exít foras.

TR. Vbi ubi erit, iam inuéstigabo et mécum ad te adducám simul 1210

Plésidippum.

DAE. Elóquere ut haec res óptigit de fflia.

Eúm roga ut relínquat alias rés et huc ueniát.

TR. Licet.

DAE. Dícito datúrum meam illi ffliam uxorem.

TR. Licet.

DAE. Ét patrem eius mé nouisse et mfi esse cognátum.

TR. Licet.

DAE. Séd propera.

TR. Licét.

DAE. Iam hic fac sit, céna ut curetúr.

TR. Licet. 1215

DAE. Ómnian 'licét'?

TR. Licet. sed scín quid est quod té uolo?

Quód promisisti út memineris, hódie ut liber sím.

DAE. Licet.

TR. Fác ut exores Plésidippum, ut mé manu emittát.

DAE. Licet.

1205. liquando BC (as in 1191).
tamen CD.

1210. iam Guy., tamen iam B,

1211. Pleusidippum CD (also in 1218). res om. B.

1212. roga Bent., rogat B, rogato CD: relinquit B. 1213. daturam

D: 1215. sit Acid., sis M. 1216. Omnia inlicet M, corr. Cam.

1218. me om. B. manu Cam., om. M.

TR. Ét tua filiá facito oret : fáçile exorabít.

DAE. Licet.

TR. Átque ut mi Ampelísca nubat, úbi ego sim libér.

DAE. Licet. 1220

TR. Átque ut gratum míhi beneficium fáctis experiár.

DAE. Licet.

TR. Ómnian 'licét'?

DAE. Licet. tibi rúrsum refero grátiam.

Séd propera ire in úrbem actutum et récipe te huc rursúm.

TR. Licet.

Iam híc ero. tu intéribi adorna céterum quod opúst.

DAE. Licet.

Hércules istum ínfelicet cúm sua licéntia :

1225

Íta meas repléuit auris. quídquid memorabám, 'licet.'

GRIPVS. DAEMONES.

PISCATOR. SENEX.

GR. Quam móx licet te cómpellare, Daémones?

DAE. Quid ést negoti, Grípe?

GR. De illo údulo,

Si sápias, sapias : hábeas quod di dánt boni.

DAE. Aequóm uidetur tíbi ut ego alienúm quod est

1230

Meum ésse dicam?

GR. Quódne ego inueni ín mari?

DAE. Tanto illi melius óptigit qui pérdidit :

Tuom ésse nihilo mágis oportet údulum.

GR. Istó tu pauper és, quom nimis sancté pius.

DAE. O Grípe Gripe, in aétate hominum plúruramé

1235

1220. mihi M. 1221. beneficium Ritschl, beneficium CD, benefi-ficium B. facitis B. 1222. Omnia M, corr. Cam. 1223. prepara B. 1225. Hecules B, TR. Hercules CD. 1227. uam mox BC (as in 1191). 1229. DEM. Si CD. di danunt dant boni C, di boni danunt dant D. 1232. melius illi M, transp. Bent. 1234.
 pius M, corr. Par.

- Fiúnt transennae, ubí decipiuntúr dolis.
 Atque édepol in eas plérumque esca inpónitur,
 Quam sí quis audus póscit escam auáriter,
 Decípitur in transénna auaritiá sua.
 Ille quí consulte, dócte atque astuté cauet, 1240
 Diútine uti béne licet partúm bene.
 Mihi istaéc uidetur praéda praedatum írier,
 Vt cúm maiore dóte abeat quam aduénérit.
 Egone út quod ad me adlátum esse alienúm sciam
 Celém? minume istuc fáciat noster Daémones. 1245
 Sempér cauere hoc sápiéntis aequíssimumst,
 Ne cóncii sint ípsi malefici suis.
 Ego mñhi cum frude nñl moror ullúm lucrum.
 GR. Spectáui ego pridem cómicos ad istúnc modum
 Sapiénter dicta dícere atque is plaúdiar, 1250
 Quom illós sapiéntis móres monstrabánt poplo.
 Sed quom índé suam quisque íbant diuorsí domum,
 Nullús erat illo pácto ut illi iússerant.
 DAE. Abi íntro, ne moléstu's, linguae témpera.
 Ego tíbi daturus nñl sum, ne tu frástra sis. 1255
 GR. At égo deos quaeso, ut quídquid in illo uídulost, Si aurúm, si argentumst, ómne id ut fiát cinis.
 DAE. Illúc est quod nos néquam seruis útimur.
 Nam illíc cum seruo sí quo congressús foret,
 Et ípsum sese et íllum furti adstríngeret. 1260
 Dum praédam habere sé censeret, ínterim
 Praeda ípsus esset: praéda praedam dúceret.
 Nunc hínc intro ibo et sácrificabo: póstibi
 Iubébo nobis cénam continuó coqui.

1238. ponit D. 1239. trasenna M. 1243. docte B. 1244. ame
D. 1247. maleficiis M, corr. Gul. 1248. frude Seyff, lusi M (*).
 1250. iis M. 1251. monstrabat M, corr. Pyl. potio M, corr.
Cam. 1254. molestus M, corr. Reiz. 1255. nihil M. 1258.
 nequaquam B. 1260. forti M, corr. Pyl. 1261. haber& D.

PLESIDIPPVS. TRACHALIO.

ADVLESCENS.

SERVOS.

PL. Íterum mihi istaec ómnia ítera, mi ánime, mi Trachálio, 1265
 MI liberte, mí patrone, ímmo potius mí pater :
 Répperit patrém Palaestra suom átque matrem?

TR. Répperit.

PL. Êt popularis ést?

TR. Opino.

PL. Et núpturast mihi?

TR. Súspicor.

PL. Cénsen hodie déspondebit eám mihi, quaeso?

TR. Cénséo.

PL. Quíd, patri etiam grátulabor quom íllam inuenit?

TR. Cénséo. 1270

PL. Quíd, matri eius?

TR. Cénséo.

PL. Quid érgo censes?

TR. Quód rogas,

Cénséo.

PL. Dic érgo quanti cénses.

TR. Egone? cénséo.

PL. Ádsum equidem, ne cénsionem sémpér facias.

TR. Cénséo.

PL. Quíd, si curram?

TR. Cénséo.

PL. An sic pótius placide?

TR. Cénséo.

PL. Êtiam eam adueniéns salutem?

TR. Cénséo.

PL. Etiám patrem? 1275

1265. terum BC (as in 1191). 1267. Reperit D. adque C. 1268.
opino Bo., opinor M. mihi (mi) nuptura est CD. 1272. censebo D¹.
 1273. At sume quidem M, corr. Turneb. 1274. curam B. 1275.
I have written Etiam for Etiamne M ().*

TR. Cénseo.

PL. Post éius matrem?

TR. Cénseo. quid póstea?

PL. Étiamne adueniéns complectar éius patrem?

TR. Non cénseo.

PL. Quid, matrem?

TR. Non cénseo.

PL. Quid, eámpse illam?

TR. Non cénseo.

PL. Périi, dilectúm dimisit: núnc non censet, quóm uolo.

TR. Sánus non es: séquere.

PL. Duc me, mí patrone, quó lubet. 1280

LABRAX.

LENO.

LA. Quis mést mortalis míserior qui úuat alter hódie,

Quem ad récupérateurés modo damnáuit Plesidíppus?

Abiúdicata a mé modost Palaéstra: perditús sum.

[Nam lénones ex gáudio credo ésse procreátos:

Ita omnés mortales, sí quid est malí lenoni, gáudent.] 1285

Nunc álteram jllam quae meast uisam húc in Veneris fánum,

Saltem út eam abducam; dé bonis quod réstat reli-quíarum.

1276 f. PL. Quid postea? Etiamne M, corr. Seyff. 1279. Peri CD. 1281. uis M (with space for capital letter, B). mortalium M, corr. Bent. 1282. Quae matre cuperato ris B. dampnauit C.
1284 f. I have bracketted as an interpolation. procreatores B. 1287. reli-quarum B.

GRIPVS. LABRAX.

PISCATOR. LENO.

GR. Numquam édepol hodie ad uésperum Gripum ínspicietis úfuom,

Nisi úfdulus mihi rédditur.

LA. Perí: quom mentiónem

Fieri aúdio usquam úfduli, 1290^a

. quasi pálo pectus túndat. ^b

GR. Istíc scelestus líber est: ego qui ín mari prehéndi Rete átque excepi úfdulum, ei dári negatis quícquam?

LA. Pro di ínmortales, suó mihi hic sermóne arrexít aúris.

GR. Cubitum hércle longis lítteris signábo iam usquequáque,
Si quís perdiderit úfdulum cum auro átque argento múlto, 1295
Ad Grípum ut ueniat. nón feretis ístum, ut postulátis.

LA. Meum hércle illic homo úfdulum scit quí habet, ut ego opínor.

Adeúndus mihi illic ést homo: di quaéso subueníte.

GR. Quid me íntro reuocas? hóc uolo hic ante óstium ex-tergére.

Nam hoc quídem pol e robígine, non ést e ferro fáctum: 1300

Ita quánto magis extérgeo, rutilum átque tenuiús fit.

[Nam hoc quídem uenenatú^mst uerum: ita in mánibus consenésцит.]

LA. Aduléscens, salue.

GR. Dí te ament cum inrásó capite.

LA. Quid fit?

GR. Verum éxtergetur.

LA. Vt uales?

GR. Quid tú? num medicus quaéso's?

1288. unquam M (as in 1281). 1289. reddatur CD. peri M.
1290. lacuna Seyff. (*). 1292. recte C. darei M, dare FZ. 1293. mihi om. CD. 1294. iam om. CD. 1296. Ad grippum FZ, A gripum B, agrippum CD. 1300. non e ferro (efero CD, effero B) factum est M, transp. Bo. 1301. quanti M, corr. Pius. 1302. Nam quidem hoc uenenatú^mst (uenatu st B) M, transp. and corr. Bo; bracketted as ditto-graphy by Guyet, Bent., Fleck., Langen. 1304. ut FZ, aut M.

LA. Immo édepol una líttera plus súm quam medicus.

GR. Túm tu 1305

Mendícus es.

LA. Tetigísti acu.

GR. Vidétur digna fóрма.

Sed quíd tibist?

LA. Hac próxima nocte ín mari mi et álíi

Confráctast nauis, pérdidi quidquíd erat miser ibi ómne.

GR. Quid pérdidisti?

LA. Vídulum cum auro átque argento múlto.

GR. Ecquíd meministi in vídulo qui pérít quid ibi infúerit? 1310

LA. Quid réfert, qui perít?

GR. Tamen—

LA. Sine : áliud fabulémur.

GR. Quid, si égo sciam qui inuénerit? uolo éx te scire sígna.

LA. Nummi óctingenti auri probi in marsúppio infuérunť, Praetérea centum tétrachuma Philippa ín pasceolo sórsus.

GR. Magna hércle praedast : lárígiter mercédís indípíscar : 1315

Di me ómnes respiciúnt : bene hercle ego hínc praeda-tus íbo.

Proféctost huius vídulus. perge ália tu expedíre.

LA. Taléntum argenti cómmodum magnum ínerit in crumína, Praetérea sinus, cántharus, epíchysis, gaulus, cýathus.

GR. Papaé : diuitias tú quidem habuísti luculéntas. 1320

LA. Miserum ístuc uerbum et péssumumst 'habuísse' et nihil habére

GR. Quid dáre uelis qui istaéc tibi inuestíget indicétque,

- | | | |
|--|--|---------------------------|
| 1306. Medicus B. | 1307. mi Seyff. om. M. | 1308. Contra facta |
| est M, corr. Pyl. | 1310. Eo quid CD. | perit F, perit BD, per id |
| CD. ibi infuerit Bent., Reiz, infuere tibi M. | | 1311. perit M, corr. |
| Pyl. I have written LA. Sine for si non hoc M. | aliut B (*). | 1313. |
| auri probi in Seyff., auri in CD, aurii B. (Archetype probably defaced in this and the same place of the following verse.) | 1314. tetrachuma Philippa | |
| Seyff., mna philippia M, denaria philippea Nonius (p. 151), FZ. seorsum | | |
| Non. (*). | 1316. me omnes Weise, homines M. | hercle ego Seyff., ergo |
| B, ego CD (*). | 1317. Profecto huius est M, transp. Pyl. | 1319. |
| epichysis cantharus caulus M, transp. Bo. (gaulus Z). | | 1320. Parae M, |
| corr. D ^s . | 1321. quidem istuc B. | |

Elóquere propere céleriter.

LA. Nummós trecentos.

GR. Trícas—

LA. Quadrigéntos.

GR. Tramas pútidás—

LA. Quingéntos.

GR. Cassam glándem—

LA. Sescéntos.

GR. Curculiúnculos minútos fabuláre.

1325

LA. Dabo séptingentos.

GR. Ós calet tibi : núnc id frigefáctas.

LA. Millé dabo nummum.

GR. Sómniás.

LA Nihil áddo.

GR. Abi igitur.

LA. Aúdi:

Si hercle ábiero hinc, hic nónc ero. uin céntum et mille?

GR. Dórmis.

LA. Elóquere quantum póstules.

GR. Quo níhil inuitus áddas,

Taléntum magnum : nónc potest trióbolum hinc abésse : 1330

Proin tú uel aias uél neges.

LA. Quid istíc? necessumst, uídeo :

Dabitúr talentum.

GR. Accédedum huc : Venus haéc uolo adrogét te.

LA. Quod tibi lubet, id mi ímpera.

GR. Tange áram hanc Veneris.

LA. Tángo.

1323. tricas F, trichas M. 1324. quadringentos M, corr. Reiz.
 1326. Dabos B. nungit M, corr. Cam. frigefactas Valla, codd. uet. Lamb., frigede (frigide) factas M. 1327. nummos CD. 1328. I have continued the words Si hercle abiero hinc, hic non ero to Labrax; M have GR. Si hercle abiero hinc hic non ero LA. Vin &c. ()*. 1329. quó B.
 1330. triobolum FZ, tri bolum B, tribolum CD. 1331. aias FZ, alas
M. 1332. arroget FZ, at roget M. 1333. mihi M. impera FZ, imperat M.

GR. Per Vénerem hanc iurandúmst tibi.

LA. Quid iúrem?

GR. Quod iubébo.

LA. Praei uérbis quiduis: quód domist, numquam úlli sup-plicábo. 1335

GR. Tene áram hanc.

LA. Teneo.

GR. Déiera te argéntum mihi datúrum Eodém die tui uíduli ubi sís potitus.

LA. Fíat.

Venus Cýrenensis, téstem te testór mihi,

Si uídulum illum, quém ego in nauí pérdidi,

Cum auro átque argento sáluom inuestigávero 1340

Isque ín potestatém meam peruénerit,

Tum ego huic—

GR. 'Tum ego huic Gripo' ínquito et me tángito.

LA. Tum ego huic, huic Gripo díco, Venus, ut tú aúdias,

Taléntum argenti mágnum continuó dabo.

GR. Si quid fraudassis, díe ut te in quaestú tuo 1345

Venus éradicet cáput atque aetatém tuam.

Tecum hóc habeto támen, uti iuráueris.

LA. Illaéc aduorsum sí quid peccassó, Venus,

Venerór te ut omnes míseri lenonés sient.

GR. Tamen fiet, etsi tú fidem seruáueris. 1350

Tu hic ópperire: iam égo faxo exhibít senex:

Eum tú continuo uídulum repóscito.

LA. Si máxume illum míhi reddiderit uídulum,

1334. iubeo CD. 1335. Prae (pre) M, corr. Z. quod Bent., Reiz, id quod M. numqui B. ulli FZ, ulli M (*). 1336. Tene haram B, teneram CD¹. deiura M, corr. Bent., Reiz. mihi argentum M, corr.
Bo. 1337. tui Seyff., om. M. 1338. cirenensis M. testem B, testorem CD (preceded by space for new speaker). 1340. Cum FZ, Quam M. 1342. Tum ego huic Schoell, om. M. gripo dico CD. 1343.
huic Reiz, om. M. 1345. quid Seyff., om. M. 1347. uti Seyff., ubi
M (*). 1348. Illaec aduorsum Müll., Illa egat (negat CD) uorsum M (cf. the g for c in 1326, 1356). 1349. sint M, corr. Pyl. 1351.
opperire D¹. 1353. mihi illum M, corr. Pyl.

Non égo illic hodie débeo trióbolum.
 Meus árbitratusz, línguã quod iurét meã. 1355
 Sed cónticiscam: eccum éxit et ducit senem.

GRIPVS. DAEMONES. LABRAX.

PISCATOR. SENEX. LENO.

GR. Séquere hac.

DAE. Vbi istic lenost?

GR. Heus tu. ém tibi, hic habet uídulum.

DAE. Hábeo et fateor ésse apud me: et, sí tuos est, habeás tibi.

Ómnia ut quidque infuit ita sálua sistentúr tibi.

Téne, si tuost.

LA. O di ínmortales: méus est. salue, uídule. 1360

DAE. Túosne est?

LA. Rogitas? sí quidem hercle Ióuis fuit, meus ést tamen.

DAE. Ómnia insunt sálua: una istinc cístella exceptást modo Cúm crepundiís, quibuscum hodie fíliam inuení meam.

LA. Quám?

DAE. Tua quae fuít Palaestra, ea fília inuentást mea.

LA. Béne mehercle fáctumst: quom istaec rés tibi ex senténtia 1365

Púlchre euenit, gaúdeo.

DAE. Istuc fácale non credó tibi.

LA. Ímmo hercle, ut sciás gaudere mé, mihi trióbolum

Ób eam ne duís: condono té.

DAE. Benigne edepól facis.

1354. illic Fleck., illi M. triobulum B. 1355. arbitratus lingua FZ., arbitratus tungua M., corr. Cam., Lamb. 1356. conticescam FZ., conti-giscam M., corr. D^s 1357. equere BC (with space for capital). DAE., GR., Fleck. in Epist. Crit., om. M. lenost Cam., leno et (&) M. hem CD. 1359. quidque Reis., quicquid CD., quit quit B. infuit Fleck., infuere M. 1361. est (after meus) om. D. 1365. Bene hercle
B. exententia BC. 1367. me B., mei CD. triobulum B. 1368. dius CD.

LA. Ímmo tu quidem hércle uero.

GR. Heús tu, iam habes uídulum.

LA. Hábeo.

GR. Propera.

LA. Quíd properabo?

GR. Réddere argentúm mihi. 1370

LA. Néque edepol tibi dó neque quicquam débeo.

GR. Quae haec fáctioſt?

Nón debes?

LA. Non hércle uero.

GR. Nón tu iuratús mihi's?

LA. Iúratuſ sum, et núnc iurabo, ſí quid uoluptatíſt mihi:

Iús iurandae rei ſeruandae, nón perdundae cónditumſt.

GR. Cédo ſiſ mihi taléntum magnum argénti, periuríſſime. 1375

DAE. Grípe, quod tu íſtúm talentum póſciſ?

GR. Iuratúſt mihi

Dáre.

LA. Lubet iuráre: tun meo póntifex peiúrio's?

DAE. Quá pro re argentúm promiſit híc tibi?

GR. Si uídulum

Húnc redegiſſem ín poteſtatem éiúſ, iuratúſt dare

Míhi talentum mágnum argénti.

LA. Cédo quicum habeam iúdicem, 1380

Ní dolo malo ínſtipulatuſ ſiſ ſiue etiandúm ſiem

Quínque et uiginti ánnos natuſ.

GR. Hábe cum hoc.

LA. Immo alióſt opuſ.

DAE. †Iam ab iſto auferre aut ſim ſi iſtunc condemnauro.

Prómiſiſtín huíc argéntum?

LA. Fáteor.

DAE. Quod ſeruó meo

1369. habeo M, corr. Pyl. (*). 1371. factio est FZ, factio es M, corr. D.*. 1374. rei seruandae (-e) CD. 1375. periurissime FZ, periurissime (peritissime B, acc. to Ramsay) M (*). 1377. tum meo M, tunc F, tunc o Z. peiurio es CD, pelurio es B (cf. Prol. 17). 1379. Hunc BC, istum D. iuratus M, corr. Lamb. 1381. siue Priscian, niue M. 1382. annos natus Prisc., natus annos M. immo Fleck., om. M (*). 1383. corrupt. 1384. Promisisti M, corr. Reiz. fateor FZ, Inteor B, intueor CD. meo Pyl., om. M (*).

Promisisti, méum esse oportet. né tu, leno, póstules 1385
Te híc fide lenónia uti: nón potes.

GR. Iam té ratu's

Nánctum hominem quem défraudares? dándum huc argentúmst probum:

Íd ego continuo huíc dabo, adeo mé ut hic emittát manu.

DAE. Quándo ergo erga té benignus égo fui atque operá meá
Haéc tibi sunt seruáta—

GR. Immo hercle meá, ne tu dicás tua. 1390

DAE. Sí sapiés, tacébis—tum te míhi benigne itidem áddecet Béne merenti béne referre grátiam.

LA. Nempe pró meo

Iúre oras?

DAE. Mirúm quin tuom ius meó periclo abs te éxpetam.

GR. Sáluos sum: lenó labascit: líbertas porténditur.

DAE. Vídulum istuc ille inuenit: illud mancupiúm meumst. 1395
Égo tibi hunc porró seruauí cúm magna pecúnia.

LA. Grátiam habeo et dé talento núlla causast quin feras, Quód isti sum iurátus.

GR. Heus tu, míhi dato ergo, sí sapiés.

DAE. Tácen an non?

GR. Tu meám rem simulas ágere: tibi múnificus es.

Nón hercle istoc me ínteruortes, si áliam praedam pér-didi.

1400

DAE. Vápulabis, uérbum si addes isto unum.

GR. Vel hercle énica:

Nón tacebo umquam álio pacto, nísi talento cónprimor.

1385. Promisti CD. oportet B. 1386. fide lenonia uti FZ, fidele non lautí B, fide lenoni lautí CD. ratus M, corr. Reiz. 1387. Nactum M (cf. 871). defraudandum dares dandum M, corr. Cam. huic CD. 1389. te benignus D, tibi nignus B, tibi benignus C. ego Guyet, om. M. adque C. haec tibi opera mea sunt seruata D. 1391.
benigne FZ, benione M, corr. D^s. addcet FZ, addem M. 1392. referre Lamb., ferre M. 1393. expectam C. 1394. protenditur D.
1395. istio M, corr. Dousa. 1397. habeto CD. 1399. Tu Fleck., Tum M. rem simulas FZ, resimulas M. múnificus es Seyff., mu M (with space of 6-11 letters CD). 1401. si uerbum DFZ. addes FZ, adde M, corr. D^s. isto Speng., istuc M (*). 1402. tabebo CD.

LA. Tíbi operam hic quidem dát: tace.

DAE. Concédé hoc tu lenó.

LA. Licet.

GR. Pálam age, nolo ego múrmurillum néque susurrum fferi.

DAE. Díc mihi, quanti íllam emisti tuam álteram muliérculam

1405

Ámpeliscam.

LA. Mílle nummum dénumerai.

DAE. Vín tibi

Cóndicionem lúculentam férre me?

LA. Sané uolo.

DAE. Dífuiduom taléntum faciam.

LA. Béne facis.

DAE. Pro illa áltera,

Líbera ut sit, tíbi dimidium súde, dimidium húc cedo.

LA. Máxume.

DAE. Pro illó dimidio égo Gripum emittám manu, 1410

Quém propter tu uídulum et ego gnátam inueni.

LA. Béne facis:

Grátiam habeo mágnam.

GR. Quam mox mi árgentum ergo rédditur?

DAE. Rés solutast, Grípe. ego habeo.

GR. Tu hércle: at ego me máuolo.

DAE. Níhil hércle hic tibist, né tu speres: iúris iurandí uolo Grátiam faciás.

GR. Perii hércle: nísi me suspendo, óccidi. 1415

Númquam hércle iterum défraudabis mé quidem post húnc diem.

DAE. Híc hodie cenáto, leno.

LA. Fíat: condició placet.

DAE. Séquimini intro. spéctatores, uós quoque ad cenám uocem,

1403. tace Guyet, tacebo M. LA. Pyl., om. CD, space in B. 1404.
ego F, Nonius, om. M. murmurillum Nonius, murmur ullum (illum) M.
1406., nummos CD. 1407. ferre FZ, fere M, corr. D^s. 1408. facis F, Cam., facias M. 1409. huic CD (*). 1410. griphum M. 1413.
soluta es B. griphe M. tu Reiz, om. M. ad B. 1415. facias FZ, faciam (fatiam) M. Peri B.

Ní daturus níl sim neque sit quícquam polluctí domi,
 Níue adeo uocátos credam uós esse ad cenám foras. 1420
 Vérum si uolétis plausum fábulæ huic clarúm dare,
 Cómisatum omnés uenitote ád me ad annos sédecim.
 [Vós hic hodie cénatote ambó.

GR. ET LA. Fiat.

CANTOR. Plausúm date.]

1419. sum CD. 1420. Neue M, corr. Dousa. 1422. Comesatum
 D^s. 1423 bracketted as spurious by Weise; in CD the line stands after a space of about 25 letters. GR. ET LABR. Schoell, om. M.

NOTES.

ARGUMENT.—Of the twenty plays of Plautus preserved to us, nineteen are provided with acrostic arguments; five of these have also non-acrostic arguments, the Amphitruo, Aulularia, Mercator, Miles Gloriosus, and Pseudolus, and there are traces of non-acrostic arguments to the Persa and the Stichus in the Ambrosian palimpsest (A); one play, the Bacchides, has no argument, the beginning of the piece having been lost. All these arguments are certainly post-plautine. Ritschl (Prolegomena to Trinummus, p. 316 f.) held them to be of the time of the Antonines (2nd century A.D.), a time when early Latin literature was eagerly studied by the learned, and when the metrical arguments to the books of the Æneid and the plays of Terence were written. This date is generally accepted for the non-acrostic arguments (see Opitz, De acrostichorum Latinorum arte et origine, 1883). But the acrostics are held by Seyffert and Teuffel to be not later than a century after the death of Plautus, i. e. B. C. 84 (cf. Cicero, Brutus 15, where Plautus is said to have died in the year of Cato's censorship, B. C. 184), this opinion being based on the fact that the acrostics show an acquaintance with Plautine metre and prosody which it is not likely that a writer of the age of the Antonines possessed.

1. Scan ~~extraxit~~: the syllables māri extrāx- form an anapaest, cf. Introduction to Captivi A (ii), p. 11, where such scansiones as senēctūti, uolūntāte, uetūstāte, in occūllo, ita ūt dīcis, &c., are quoted from Plautus. The writer of the acrostics for the most part used such shortenings of long syllables only in the first foot. uīdulus, a wicker basket (cf. 990 uitorem), covered with leather of various colours (cf. 998) and used to pack minor articles in (cf. 1130 cistellam, Men. 1036 maruppium cum uiatico). The first syllable is always long, so from twenty to thirty times in this play and in Men. 1036, Epid. 22. [Insert the quantity in Lewis and Short.]

2. crepundia; cf. on 1081.

3. ad aliquem uenire here=in alicuius potestatem uenire: 'had fallen into the hands of a master who was a slave dealer'; cf. Mil. 95 ad hunc deuenerim in seruitutem (contrast the phrases quoted on 5).

4. suipte=sui, cf. meopte, meapte, nostrapte, suompte, mepte; Cic. has suopte, suapte.

5. deuenire is a thoroughly Plautine word; in insidias d. Men. 136, Asin. 105, ad aliquem d., 'to come to a person,' Rud. Prol. 44, 957, Pseud. 287, Bacch. 318, Aul. II. 4. 38, Epid. 364, ad aedis d. Most. 968 (A, according to Stud.), ad mare d. Poen. 627, domum d. Mil. 1103; cf. Mil. 404 (A).

6. amico, 'lover'; cf. amica.

PERSONAE.—Most of the names are significant ('redende Namen,' 'speaking names,' Lessing); cf. Donatus on Ter. Ad. I. 'nomina personarum, in comoediis dumtaxat, habere debent rationem et etymologiam: etenim absurdum est comicum aperte argumenta confingere, uel nomen personae incongruum dare, uel officium quod sit a nomine diuersum.'

Arcturus, 'Ἄρκτοῦρος, Ἄρκτοφύλαξ, 'the warder of the bear,' the brightest star in the constellation Bootes.

Scœparnio, from σκέπαρνον or σκέπαρνος, 'axe'; 'wielder of the axe' is a suitable name for a hewer of wood.

Plesidippus. This form of the name was restored by Fleck. for Pleusidippus, and confirmed by Ritschl, Opusc. III. p. 327. A (554, 871) and B (335, 344, 381, 554, 844, 871, 1211, 1218, 1282) know only the form with e; the MSS. of less authority, C and D, have in some of the above passages the form with eu, in others the form with e, like A and B. In 339 BCD have Plenidippus, a blunder. The derivation of the name is quite uncertain.

Daemones, Δαιμόνης or Δαιμονεύς (cf. Achilles, latinized form of Ἀχίλλεύς); the name perhaps means 'steadfast against the foe,' which would suit the character very well.

Palaestra, παλαίστρα; Ampelisca, ἀμπελίσ; cf. Lucian XLII. 2, LXVII. 8 (Ἄμπελίσ).

Trachalio, from Doric form of τράχηλος, 'quasi robusto collo munitus' (Ussing), i. e. 'bull-necked,' a suitable name for a stout slave.

Labrax, from λάβραξ, a voracious fish, the bass (Lid. & Sc.).

Gripus, from γριπέυς = γρίπων, 'fisherman,' cf. γρίπος, 'haul of fish.'

Charmides occurs as the name of a senex in the Trinummus.

The lorarii are official scourgers (ei qui loris uerberant), cf. Capt. I. 2.

PROLOGUE.—That some of the prologues to Plautine plays are not by Plautus himself is clearly proved by internal evidence—by the reference to seats in the theatre (Capt. Prol. 11 f., Poen. Prol. 20), which did not exist in the time of Plautus, or by the express testimony of the speaker of the prologue (Prol. to Casina). The prologues to the Aulularia, Cistellaria, Rudens, and Trinummus hold an exceptional position, being spoken by gods or allegorical personages. To what extent these are to be ascribed to Plautus is a question on which opinions differ. Dziatzko (Rhein. Mus. XXIV. p. 570 ff.) holds that the prologue to the Rudens is Plautine, with the exception of verses 8, 26, 27 (21), and regards 17-19 and 13-16 as due to a 'gemina recensio.' At any rate, it is quite possible that it contains fragments of an original Plautine prologue. Trautwein (De prologorum Plautinorum indole atque natura, 1890) stoutly maintains the genuineness of this prologue, together with those to the Aulularia, Cistellaria, Trinummus, Miles, and Mercator, as being all 'e more Euripidis conformati,' and quotes a fragment of Philemon (Meineke, frag. com. gr. ed. min. p. 840) in which Aer plays a part similar to that of Arcturus, and which is so far evidence that parts of the present prologue may have stood in the Greek original:

Ὄν οὐδὲ εἰς λεληθεν οὐδὲ ἐν ποιῶν
 Οὐδ' αὐ ποιήσων, οὐδὲ πεποιηκὼς πάλαι
 Οὔτε θεὸς οὔτ' ἄνθρωπος, οὐτός εἰμ' ἐγώ, Ἄηρ, ὃν ἄν τις ὀνομάσειε καὶ Δία, &c.

2. Iouis ciuis, 'a fellow citizen of Jupiter,' cf. 42 ciuis huius ciuitate caelitem, 'of the city of the Celestials,' adjectival abl. describing the place from which a person comes, cf. Asin. 499 Rhodo mercator, 'a merchant of Rhodes,' Merc. 940 hospitem Zacyntho. Similarly in classical Latin, Gn. Magius Cremonā, Ser. Sulpicius Lemoniā (abl. of tribe).

3. ita ut uidetis, 'such as you see me.' The adverbs ita, sic, item, ui, &c. are often used with esse, uideri, &c. as equivalent to the adjectives talis, qualis; cf. Capt. I. 2. 11 non uidere ita tu quidem, Engl. 'you do not seem so,' ibid. II. 1. 35 ero ut me uoles esse, Amph. II. 1. 24 A.M. Homo hic ebrius est. S.O. Utinam ita essem! 'So I wish I were.' stella candida, abl. Arcturus is adorned with a bright star on his head.

4. tempore suo. Arcturus rises in September and sets in November; cf. 71.

7. interdius, 'by day,' the original form of the adverb interdiu, cf. Asin. 599, Aul. 72, Capt. 730, Most. 444, Pseud. 1298, Cato R. R. 83: dius is an old adverbial genitive of a u-stem, (dius = dies, cf. nudius tertius); in Merc. 862 we find haud usquam noctu neque dius, 'by night nor by day': interdius is then precisely parallel to interuias, 'on the way,' from old gen. uias, Germ. 'unterwegs' (Poen. 1162, Aul. 377, Eun. 629, Turpilius 196). Compare the adverb nox for noctis = νυκτός, Germ. 'des Nachts,' and the adverb fors for fortis, 'by chance': in old Engl. we find such adverbial genitives as 'summeres and winteres' = 'in summer and winter.' Bücheler, Lat. Decl. § 158. Note the chiasmus in lines 6, 7.

8. et, 'and . . . too,' cf. Most. 397, 426, 529. accidunt, 'descend,' cf. Poen. 485 tam crebri ibi ad terram accidebant quam pira.

10. aliud alia, 'one here, another there.' The neuter refers to signum. Aliā does not occur elsewhere in Plaut., but is analogous to eā, quā, eādem, &c. disparat, 'disposes': cf. Caes. B. G. VII. 28 disparandos deducendosque ad suos curare. Palmer on Amph. I. 3. 51.

12. ut quemque adiuuet opulentia. The sense required is 'in order that fortune may attend each according to his deserts': but this is not expressed in the words as they stand, whether opulentia be taken as nom. (Opul. personified, like Opportunitas) or as abl. The words might perhaps mean 'in how far fortune furthers (confers blessings on) each,' cf. ut 64; but this hardly suits the context. It is quite possible that a verse may have been lost (see Crit. App. 13-20); Schoell supplies Proinde ut promeritust uirtute et sapientia, which, however, makes the position of quemque unplautine. Quisque in Plaut. often = quicumque, and the right sense would be given by quemque uiderit [pium esse, eum] adiuuet opulentia.

13. falsas litis = res falsas 18, 'fraudulent actions.'

14. in iure, 'before a magistrate,' = apud praeiorem. abiurant, 'deny on oath.' Elsewhere in Plaut. abiurare does not take an object, but means 'to be forsworn,' 'to perjure oneself,' cf. Pers. 478 ne metuo, quibus credidi hodie, ne quis mi in iure abiurassit, Curc. 496.

17. apisci (= adipisci) postulant, 'expect to win,' is the idiomatic Engl. translation, in which 'expect' has the sense of a verb of 'willing': the pres. infin. is quite normal, expressing what is willed (= 'demand that they shall win'), cf. 394, 941, Most. 259, Capt. III. 5. 59-61, Trin. 238, Men. 443, &c., and such phrases as nolebat legatos mitti, 'that the envoys should be sent,' ἀξιώ τυγχάνειν, εἰπας εἰθεῖν Ταυρικῆς μ' ὄρουσ χθονός, 'didst say that I must come.' The same sense is sometimes given by ut with subj., e.g. Capt. V. 1. 17 postulo ut reddas. But in so far as postulare approaches to the sense 'look forward to' it may also take the fut. infin., e.g. Rud. 544 postulabas te deuoraturum esse, 'expected that you would devour.' peiurium = periurium, cf. 1377.

18. malī, 'the rascals.' apud iudicem is not quite the same as in iure 14; cf. on 1040, and Men. 587 aut ad populum aut in iure aut ad iudicem rest (BCD).

19. rem iudicatam iudicare was inadmissible in Roman law; there was no such thing as a Court of Appeal. The point of the passage is that Jupiter does what was not possible in ordinary civil law. There is a slight anacoluthon: 'as for those who . . . ' 17.

20. quam litē auferunt, 'than the action which they win.' Lis may mean here 'the matter in dispute'; Varro L. L. 7, § 93 (Müll.) quibus res erat in controuersia, ea uocabatur lis: cf. litē aestimare.

21. tabulis, 'uide Erasmi Adag. ex Iouis tabula testis: alluditur ad διφθέραν, in qua Iuppiter omnium mortalium acta describere fingitur a poetis' Taubmann.

23. donis, hostiis. 'Donum deorum est: praemium uirorum fortium: munus hominum' Donatus on Eun. V. 8.

25. nihil supplicii, 'no peace offering,' lit. 'nothing by way of expiatory sacrifice,' cf. Truc. 893, 900 supplicium ad te hanc minam fero auri.

30. retinete porro, 'go on and persevere,' 'go on persevering.' Porro here has the derived sense 'further,' cf. 105 quaere porro, 'go on seeking,' 653 quid illum porro praedicem? 'what should I call him further?' Trin. 682, Most. 613, Mil. 1091, Pseud. 379, Merc. 939, and the common phrases perge porro, loquere porro, auscultia porro. For the local sense 'farther' cf. 1034; for the derived sense 'moreover' cf. 1396. But retinete without an object is hard to parallel; Seyffert's conjecture (privately communicated) that a verse has been lost after 29 is now confirmed by Studemund's Apographon.

33. The plural form Cyrenae was the common designation of the city and the district; cf. Catullus VII. 4.

34. uilla, 'cottage,' 'farm-house.'

35. The second syllable of senex is shortened, as in Aul. 293 senex obsonari (cf. Wagner's Intr. to Aul. p. 36), Bacch. 1170 senex bptume, Stich. 563 senex quidem uoluit; cf. uxor Rud. 895.

36. adeo means properly 'thereto'; hence (i) 'moreover,' 'what is more,' e.g. neque adeo Capt. H. 2. 98, Trin. 181, Men. 296, atque adeo Rud. 61, -que adeo 103, 1167, niue adeo 1420: (ii) 'to such a point' of time, e.g. adeo donec 812: (iii) 'to the end that,' adeo ut 1388: (iv) with weakened meaning, emphasizing the preceding word, e.g. uos adeo 731, nunc adeo 728.

37. dum seruat . . . se inpediuit, 'in rescuing . . . he entangled himself'; for the meaning of seruat cf. Mil. 13, Men. 1024, 1065; for the tenses cf. Rud. 366.

38. comitate, 'liberality,' cf. Trin. 333.

39. una=unica; that she was an only daughter is a point of importance to the story and ought to be stated in this place; cf. 106, Poen. Prol. 68, Aul. Prol. 23.

41. For the separation of is from leno and eam from uirginem see Mil. 111 f., Trin. 20.

42. ciuis huius, 'a compatriot of hers,' cf. 2, 742.

43. The 4th foot is a dactyl (cf. Intr. to Most. p. xxii) and the 5th an anapaest; see further in Crit. Appendix. ludus fidicinius, 'music school.'

45. minis triginta= $\frac{1}{2}$ of a talent= \pounds 112 10s., the price paid for Philematium in the Mostellaria:

- 1 Drachma (δραχμή) = 9*d.* of Engl. money.
 20 Drachmae = 1 Philippus (cf. 1314).
 5 Philippi = 1 Mina (μνᾶ).
 60 Minae = 1 Talentum (= £ 225; cf. 778).

destinat, 'buys,' see on Most. 646.

46. arrabo, 'part-payment,' see on Most. 648.

47. is, here scarcely more than Engl. 'the'; cf. unus, 'an,' Capt. III. 1. 22, &c. ut se æquomst, sc. facere (cf. 312, Aul. 122), 'in a manner worthy of himself.' This use of se, sui, sibi, referring to the subject of the governing clause but standing in a clause which is neither oblique nor final, is comparatively rare: but parallels may be found both in Plaut. (Rud. 410 haud secus quam si ex se simus natae, Curc. 479, Poen. 956, 1083) and in later writers (e.g. Cic. de Invent. I. 33. 55, II. 2. 7, Nepos 11, 3, Liv. II. 43 republicam sustinuit, quam exercitus, quantum in se fuit, prodebat): contrast such cases as oravit ut se defenderem. In instances like Rud. 49, Capt. III. 4. 48, Cist. I. 1. 101 se, sui, sibi refer to the logical subject of the sentence (ei erat = habuit, &c.). Compare the interesting remarks on suus in Nettleship's Contributions to Latin Lexicography, where the uses of the word are traced to the ground meaning 'his (her, its, their) own.' "This being the meaning, suus naturally refers as a rule to the logical subject of the sentence, though no necessity was felt to adhere strictly to this usage."

49. quidam, cf. Cas. Prol. 37 est ei quidam seruos. par sui, 'the counterpart of himself.'

50. urbis proditor, 'a fellow who would betray a city.' The sense of habit which attaches to nouns in -tor (e.g. amator, 'amorist') easily passes into that of tendency. Dziatzko (Rhein. Mus. XXIV. p. 576) unnecessarily supposes a reference to some betrayal of Agrigentum to the Carthaginians.

52. Scan œius as one syllable (synzesis: Intr. to Capt. C, p. 13: cf. quoius 83); in Intr. to Most. p. xxii it is shown that the dactyl œiūs | z- would be inadmissible. aliarum . . . mulierculæ, cf. on 77.

54. uoluptarios. Sicilian luxury was proverbial.

55. On the scansion of fiērī see Intr. to Capt. V. p. 12.

61. atque adeo, cf. 327 etiam ad prandium uocauit, and note on adeo 36.

62. ilico, 'straightway,' not with hinc: contrast 266.

65. The pres. indic. with (quom) accompanied by a-pluperf. in the principal clause is found three times in Terence (Eun. II. 3. 51, III. 3. 15, IV. 4. 57): Schoell says it is not Plautine, but he has overlooked Merc. 617.

67. quoniam = quom iam (cf. ἐπειδή), just as nunciam (three syllables) = nunc iam, etiam=et iam. Quoniam in Plaut. (but not in Terence) often retains its original temporal meaning, 'when,' 'after,' e. g. Asin. 350, 711, Mil. 129, and like quom is often joined with the present tense, e. g. Men. 481, Poen. 455, 665, Bacch. 290, 292.

68. Scan ēi, as often in Plaut.

69. increpui hibernum, 'I raised a blustering storm,' cf. Prop. I. 17. 6 saeuas increpat aura minas. For the neuter adj. as cognate object cf. dulce ridet, acerba tuetur, &c.

70. unum acerrimum, 'fierce above all others,' cf. Capt. II. 2. 28 unum pollens atque honoratissimum, Asin. 521, Mil. 52 f., &c.

71. occido, cf. Hor. Od. III. 1. 27 saeuus Arcturi cadentis impetus, Plin. H. N. XVIII. 313. The action of the play falls at the time of the equinoctial gales. 'Arcturum autem pluuiarum et tempestatum esse auctorem Plautus ostendit in Rudente,' Servius on Georg. I. 67.

76. Scan ēas as one syllable (synizesis).

77. If the text is sound, the clause exul ubi habitat senex represents, by a loose construction, the genitive senis: cf. Capt. 179 f. nisi qui meliorem adferet quae mi atque amicis placeat condicio magis, Truc. 275 ni lignae haec sint quas habes Victorias, Poen. 83, 193, Ter. Andr. Prol. 3, Naev. Com. 19. The present case is more difficult because ubi refers to the antecedent uillam; but we may transl. 'to the cottage of the person I mentioned before, where the old man dwells in exile.'

79. qui refers to illic, not to eius.

80. quem uidebitis, 'and you will see him,' cf. Cic. Pro Mil. IX. 26 quos uidebatis.

82. hostes, cf. Capt. Prol. 67 f. ualete iudices iustissimi domi, duellique duellatores optumi. Many of the plays of Plaut. must have been written during the Second Punic War, at the beginning of which the poet was about 36 years old.

ACT I, SCENE I. Enter Sceparnio from the cottage of Daemones, spade in hand.

83. quoiusmodi, three syllables (synizesis), cf. 422, 424, ēius 52.

85. quid uerbis opust? 'in a word,' cf. 135; here transl. 'wind, did I say?' or 'talk of a-wind!'

86. Hermann suggests that in the original of Diphilus the passage may have run:

τί δ' ἄνεμος; Ἀλκμήνη μὲν ἦν Εὐριπίδου.

With the latinized form of the Greek name cf. such forms as Tecumessa, Aesculapius, Patricoles, Procina, mina, techina, &c. The precise point of comparison between the wind and the lost play of Euripides, or the chief character in it, is obscure: the 'tertium quid comparationis' may be either violence in general or the unroofing of a building in particular. Scan fuit as one syllable (synizesis): cf. Trin. 106.

87. ita, 'so true is it that,' cf. 205, 457, 530, 1226, Cist. II. 1. 9 ubi sum, ibi non sum; ita mihi omnia nunc ingenia insunt, and note on Most. 56. Scan ita omnīs, cf. 1285 ita omnēs, Trin. 78, 621 sine omni, Aul. 598.

χ 88. inlustriorem, predicate adjective (sc. uillam): cf. 102. festras, 'Festram antiqui dixerunt, quam nos fenestram' Festus, cf. Bentr. on Ter. Haut. III. 1. 72, Fleck. Epist. Crit. p. X, Jahrb. CI. p. 72, Ennius, p. 180, Fr. XLI (ed. Vahl.).

SCENE 2. Enter Plesidippus from the harbour (by the side door to the left of the spectators), accompanied by three friends in chlamydes, bearing swords (315): he explains to them his object in bringing them to the temple. The friends are κωφὰ πρόσωπα; as they form part of the standing retinue of Ples., they are not mentioned in the heading of the scene. After a few moments enter Daemones, who discusses the storm with Sceparnio. Ples. enquires whether they have seen a 'curly-headed, hoary rascal' anywhere about; the reply is in the negative. Daemones calls attention to two men, visible in the distance, and Ples. with his companions hurries off in the hope that one of them may be the person he is seeking. Sceparnio catches sight of two girls in a boat; one of them is cast out of the boat by the waves, but wades ashore and takes the road towards the cottage; the other leaps out of the boat, and after some struggles makes her way out of the surf, but turns in the wrong direction: hence the two girls are separated (cf. next scene). All this is seen by Scep. and dramatically narrated by him. Daemones tells him to mind his business.

89. uos, i. e. the three friends.

90. id . . . qua gratia, 'that for the sake of which,' cf. Aul. 431 quid est qua gratiā, Asin. 536, Truc. Prol. 9 hoc qua gratiā, and the phrases hāc gratiā, 'for the sake of this,' eā gratiā, istāc gratiā, meā gratiā, Capt. III. 5. 63 ab eo petito gratiam istam, Most. 926 eam gratiam.

92. mea desidia, 'through lack of energy on my part,' qualifying deserere (not nolui).

94. uenio uisere, 'I come to look about me,' infin. of purpose with a verb of motion, cf. 847 profectus ire, Most. 64, Trin. 1015, Bacch. 354, 631, 900. Visere is used (i) intransitively, 'to look about one,' e. g. uise Most. 793, i uise Rud. 567, Bacch. 901, sometimes with an adverbial expression, e. g. Capt. IV. 2. 114 uise ad portum, 'pay a visit to the harbour,' Bacch. 529 uisam huc ad eum, Mil. 520 uise ad me intus: (ii) transitively, 'to inspect,' 'look after,' e. g. Bacch. 900 aedem uisere Mineruae, Epid. 212, Hec. 341: with an adverbial expression as well, Rud. 1286.

95. dixerat for dixit, cf. 708 uolueramus, Most. 519 an quaeso tu appellaueras? 821 empti fuerant (here a special point is made of the ambiguity), 822 emerat, Aul. 627 abstuleras, Amph. I. 1. 229 peccaue-ram, Asin. 715, Stich. 251.

96. si sapiam . . . concinnem, transl. 'I had better put in order,' cf. Men. 603 si sapiam, hinc intro abeam. quod mandatumst, sc. ut concinnem. Lambinus explains me mactat (MSS.) as me fatigat, enecat.

97. heus serves to call the attention of the person addressed; for the vocative cf. 677, 828, heus tu 140, 1357, 1369, 1398, heus uos 830.

98. qui=quis, cf. 677 a, Aul. 348, in dependent question 385, 1297.

99. The text, if sound, means literally, 'It is as though you were to call me your slave,' i. e. 'I suppose you mean to say that I am your slave,' cf. Pseud. 608 f. PS. Conduis promus sum, procurator peni. HA. Quasi te dicas atriensem, ibid. 634 f., Curc. 77 f. PH. multibiba atque merobibast. PA. Quasi tu lagenam dicas, Truc. 641, Merc. 512, Trin. 891. But the point of the above reply of Sceparnio to Daemones (a slave to his master) is not clear: possibly he means to emphasise me and tuom (cf. dedit, 3rd pers., in 98); or is the speech intended for the benefit of the audience? cf. on 843.

102. quam cribrum crebrius, a pun. One might transl. by substituting a pun on totam: 'I see that my cottage must be roofed in, the whole of it; for it is now all holes and lets in day-light like a sieve.'

103. salueto—ambo: hiatus is justified by the pause, after which the greeting is extended to Scep., 'and indeed both of you,' cf. on Prol. 36. saluos sis. Final s was sounded so faintly that it did not necessarily make a 'position' with a following consonant, and may be discarded even in the last foot of a senarius: cf. ésti' nunc 512, occi-disti' me Bacch. 313, pér-di' me Merc. 324. &c.

For a further extension of this law see on 1006.

105. qui . . . uoces, 'that you call,' cf. 1113. porro, cf. on Prol. 30.

107. uirile sexus, 'of the male sex.' Priscian (Inst. V. p. 162, 7 H.) tells us that sexus was used as a neuter by Plaut., and quotes this passage as it stands in the MSS. The common phrase was uirile (muliebre) secus: see Neue Lat. Formenl. I. 485. Here ullum uirile sexus must mean 'any child of the male sex,' the phrase uirile sexus being used as equivalent to a noun. (Compare note in Critical Appendix.)

108. Scep. is indignant at the impertinence of Ples.

109. occupatos occupes; cf. Men. 452, Curc. 540 redditum reddere, Capt. II. 3. 81 inuenum inueni (and note), Trin. 1026.

110. isticine=istice-ne (istice being the unabbreviated form of istic

adv. 'there by you,' compounded of isti and -ce, the demonstrative suffix found in hi-c, hae-c, ho-c, for hod-ce; cf. istuci-ne Eun. 830, istoci-ne Pseud. 83, Ad. 732, istaci-ne Pseud. 847, istosci-ne Asin. 732, and notes on hae-c 294, istis-ce 745.

112. peculiosum; cf. Asin. 498 frugi tamen sum, nec potest peculium enumerari. probum, ironically; cf. 735, 381 (probe). In Poen. 1030 Hanno speaks more plainly: seruom hercle te esse oportet et nequam et malum . . . qui inrideas.

113. The expression quem . . . praetereat oratio, if sound, must have had the same meaning as 119; cf. 248: Palmer transl. 'whose lips a speech passes (escapes),' cf. φύγεν ἔρκος ὀδόντων.

114. inclementer, 'rudely'; cf. 734, Amph. 742, Pseud. 27, Truc. 604.

115. inpudicus often means 'shameless'; cf. 393, Asin. 475, Pers. 194 inpudicitia=inpudentia, Rud. 1062 pudicus= 'possessed of a sense of shame.'

118. istie, dat.=isti: cf. on 110: 'your slave.'

119. praeloqui; cf. 248.

120. paucis, sc. uerbis, 'briefly'; cf. 1102 paucis expedi, Aul. Prol. 1 paucis eloquar, 199, Capt. Prol. 53, Bacch. 589, Trin. Prol. 4, Truc. 864, Men. 252, 779, Pers. 599; with uerbis expressed Amph. 1087, Curc. 333, Mil. 375, Trin. 160. Similarly we find in pauca confer Cas. III. 5. 21 (&c.) side by side with pauca in uerba confer Pers. 661.

121. atque in negotio, 'and what is more in the midst of business': here the original meaning of atque (ad-que) comes out prominently; cf. 894, Capt. II. 2. 104 f. soluite istum nunciam, atque utrumque, Amph. 282, 742 atque id sine malo, Stich. 184, Asin. 231, Pers. 395, Men. 213, Pseud. 739, Bacch. 538.

122. quin is, a question equivalent to a command; cf. 518, 946 b. exicas=exsecas; cf. Cato, R. R. 42 exicaueris, Poen. 456 prosciarier, and the parallel forms enicare, enecare.

123. qui, old abl. of the relative, interrogative or indefinite pronoun, very common in Plaut. with both singular and plural antecedent; cf. 390, 393, 918, 1084, 1110; interrogative 639; indefinite 896; quippe qui 384. sudum=caelum serenum; cf. Mil. 2.

124. For the parallel forms dice and dic cf. face and fac, both used by Plaut.

125. ecquem, 'whether any,' here introducing a dependent question, in 413 &c. an independent question. Ecquis is an interrogative-indefinite pronoun (413, 762, 949 f., 1030, 1033) or adjective (125, 313, 316, 971): in 1310 it almost=an interrogative particle; see note.

127. uiuo may take a predicate adjective, like sum; cf. Trin. 390 lepidus uiuis, Men. 202 una uiuis meis morigera moribus, 908 uiuo miser, Merc. 897, Capt. 828: cf. note on Rud. 290.

128. hic dico, 'I mean (have you seen anyone) here?'

129 f. quique adornaret sibi, 'and preparing'; cf. 315, 320, Men. 144. The subjunctive side by side with qui adduxit is not so strange in Plaut., whose constructions are frequently influenced by metre, as it would be in prose. The sequence of tenses hic dico (ecquem tu uideris) qui adornaret ut faciat is Plautine; the imperf. subj. depending on the form in -erim, -eris, -erit (itself dependent on a pres.) is even classical, e. g. nescio quidnam causae fuerit cur nullas ad me litteras dares; in Plaut. the perfect corresponding to the Engl. form with 'have' takes sometimes the imperf. subj., e. g. Rud. 192, 306, 1200 f., Amph. 909 reuerti ut purigarem, 377, Mil. 1158, Most. 89 b, 715, Truc. 681, Aul. 134, Epid. 500 (Cicero in Verr. I. 2, De Off. II. 1, Caes. Bell. Gall. IV. 1 sub fin., Hor. Sat. I. 4. 46, II. 4. 45, Tac. Hist. I. 83, &c.), sometimes the pres. subj., e. g. Rud. 717, Amph. 870 ueni ut auxilium feram, cf. Ad. 653 uenit ut auehat. The tense chosen depends entirely upon the point of view of the speaker. For the tenses in the last part of the sentence ('preparing to make') cf. Pseud. 796 ut esset hic qui coquat, Poen. 603 ut commonstraremus ubi ames, Aul. 550 ut te accusem . . . meditabar. Adorno may take (i) an acc., e. g. 1224 ceterum, Aul. 155 nuptias, Epid. 615 uiaticum; (ii) an infin., e. g. Epid. 690 imicere; (iii) an ut clause, as here and 1206.

132. istic, 'at the place you speak of,' i. e. here. sacrificare, 'sacrificing' or 'sacrifice,' infin.=predicate adjective or pred. noun, as in the Engl. 'I saw him die'; cf. 988, 1022, 1124, 1250, Verg. Aen. VIII. 93 miratur . . . pictas innare carinas, IX. 318, Georg. IV. 60, &c., and my Lat. Gram. § 334, Obs. 2.

135. aulam extarem, 'a vessel for cooking exta (entrails).'
aliquid, 'something else,' the original meaning of the compound, cf. Aul. 24, 515 (522), Haut. 69, Rud. 766 aliquo, Verg. Aen. IX. 186, II. 48 aut aliquis latet error, Tac. Hist. I. 85 aliqua insignis claritudo; cf. too on omnia 199, ullus 340. quid uerbis opust? (cf. 85) belongs to what follows.

138. ut uerba praehibes, 'according to what you say,'=pro oratione 1115, ut narras Phorm. 368; cf. Asin. 188 alia uerba praehibeas (MSS. perhibeas). For the spelling praehibeo=praebeco cf. 513, 530, Ritschl Opusc. II. 401; the shorter form is found in MSS. about as often as the longer; in Merc. 1022 the metre demands the pronunciation as three syllables. me periisse praedicias, a roundabout way of saying perii; cf. on 611, where the fondness of Plaut. for pleonastic expressions is illustrated.

140 f. The traditional order of lines is characteristic of the speakers. It does not strike Daemones that Ples. calls himself a lost man because he has been disappointed of his breakfast; the suggestion that Ples. is a βωμολόχος is reserved for the slave. This point is lost in Dziatzko's arrangement of the lines, in which 142 follows upon 139. heus tu, cf. on 97.

142 f. The sentence is continued in 143 qui (asyndeton). nullus uenit=non uenit, cf. 323, 340 (neque ullus uenit), Bacch. 90 nullus tu adfueris, Eun. 216 nullus moneas, Hec. 79 nullus dixeris. So too in classical Lat. admodum, 'quite so'; cf. 269.

144. te hinc ire inpr. dom. is subject, nullum periculum predicate noun; cf. Aul. 233 hoc magnumst periculum ab asinis me ad boues transcendere. Transl. 'It is no matter that . . .,' 'I don't care if . . .'

146. curo with dat. 'care for' is ante- and post-classical; cf. 182, Trin. 1057 rebus curem publicis, Truc. 137; but the accus. is the common construction in Plaut. (cf. the passive constr. in 1215), without any notion of advantage, sometimes even with a suggestion of disadvantage, e.g. Stich. 198 sed curiosi sunt hic complures mali, alienas qui res curant, 'mind other people's business.'

147. deludificauit, active, contrast deludificatus, deponent, Most. 1035, 1147. indignis modis, 'shamefully.' As a general rule Plaut. uses the singular abl. modo with pronominal adjectives (eo, hoc, illoc, istoc, eodem, quo, quoquo, alio, aliquo, ullo, nullo, meo, tuo Men. 250, nostro Amph. 221), the plural modis with other adjectives (indignis, malis, miris Rud. 593, &c., miseris, omnibus, suauibus). But we occasionally find modis with a pronominal adj. (quibus Most. 1146, Cas. V. 3. 5), and modo with other adjectives (miro atque incredibili Rud. 912, nouo Mil. 624, Pseud. 659, bono Amph. 996, Merc. 1022); uno modo, tribus modis Pseud. 704 Goetz, triplici modo 1025, multis modis Rud. 837 go without saying.

148. quid illuc est hominum?=qui illi sunt homines?—a common periphrasis in the comic poets, e.g. quid istuc est uerbi? Curc. 31, Epid. 350, Pseud. 608, Cist. II. 3. 61, Phorm. 343, quid hoc (illud) hominis est? Eun. 546, 833, Amph. 576, 769, Poen. Prol. 92, quid tu hominis es Haut. 848, Poen. 856.

150. propter uiam. It appears from ancient grammarians that there was a sacrifice to Hercules offered on starting for a journey and called propter uiam or propteruia, 'on account of a journey,' at which it was customary to burn up all the remnants: see Macrobius, Saturn. II. 4. 4 sacrificium apud ueteres fuit quod uocabatur 'propter uiam': in eo mos erat ut siquid ex epulis superfuisset, igne consumeretur; hinc Catonis iocus est: namque Albidium quendam, qui bona sua comedisset et nouissime domum quae ei reliqua erat incendio perdidisset, 'propter uiam fecisse' dicebat; quod comesse non potuerit, id combussisse: Festus, XIV 'propter uiam' fit sacrificium, quod est proficiscendi gratia, Herculi aut Sanco: Nonius, p. 53 Laberius in Paupertate 'uisus hac nocte bidentis propter uiam facere.' But we know too little about the usages connected with this sacrifice to be able to understand the point of the present passage, which was doubtless intelligible to the audience. Propter uiam may possibly be a pun on secundum litus; cf. Prol. 34 propter mare.

151. In answer to the leading question of Daem. (quæ, 'how so?') Scep. says, 'Because they took a bath yesterday after dinner.' This is explained by Lambinus and Ussing to be a way of saying 'Because they have lost all their possessions by shipwreck'—their ruin being analogous to the burning of the remnants: propter uiam would then be adjectival to prandium, 'a parting breakfast.' But why post cenam? Ussing's explanation is lame: 'instead of following the usual practice of bathing before dinner, these men have bathed after dinner in preparation for the morrow's breakfast.' Why heri? How can Scep. know that the shipwreck did not take place that morning? Does he mean to say that they have been in the water all night (cf. natant 155)? lauerunt, 'bathed.' In Plautus lauère means 'to wash,' lauare (lauari Poen. 220, 229), 'to bathe,' i.e. 'to wash oneself': Seyffert, Stud. Plaut. p. 7. Laui serves as perfect to both verbs; lautus is the perf. part. of lauere (cf. 301, 701); lauatus and lauatum the perf. part. and supine of lauare (cf. 382); Langen, Beitr. p. 297. A good collection of instances is given by Lorenz in his Critical Appendix to Pseud. 8 (10). See too Nettleship's Contributions to Lat. Lex.

154. hui, almost a whistle, 'whew!' Here it serves to call attention to the exclamation which follows; cf. Truc. 29, Haut. 480, Hec. 283: often it expresses surprise, e. g. Pers. 805, Eun. 407, Haut. 92, Phorm. 558, 791; Richter, De usu part. exclam., p. 582.

155. homunculi, 'poor mannikins'; cf. Capt. Prol. 51 homunculi quanti sunt, Trin. 491, ἐφημέριοι ἄνθρωποι. quanti, gen. of price (originally locative), here='how little worth,' as in Capt. Prol. 51. eiecti, 'wrecked'; cf. 272, 409, 562. ut natant, 'how they are swimming!'

158. Scan quæm ðgo (with hiatus in resolved arsis).

159. si approaches the sense of etiamsi, quamuis, or tametsi in Eun. 216 memini tametsi nullus moneas; cf. Bacch. 128 si decem habeas linguas, mutum esse addecet, Asin. 933 pol si aliud nil sit, tui me, uxor, pudet, Most. 351 nec . . . si cupiat potest, Aul. 252 neque si cupiam copias, &c. meminimus may be explained as a case of anacoluthon (like Ecl. IX. 45 numeros memini, si uerba tenerem), si non moneas being a rejected condition of the present (cf. on 196); 'even if you did not give us the hint (ut ualeamus), we bear it in mind,' for meminerimus. But it is impossible to draw a sharp line of demarcation between such examples as this and those treated in my note on 1021.

160. Palaemon, a sea deity worshipped at the Isthmus, among other places (cf. Apollod. III. 4. 3, Paus. II. 2. 1) and identified by the Romans with their Portunus, the protecting deity of harbours: cf. Eur.

I. T. 270 ὁ ποντίας παῖ Λευκοθέας (Melicertes), νεῶν φύλαξ, δέσποτα Παλαίμων, ἰλεως ἡμῖν γενοῦ.

161. Hercules is the god of travel by land and water: Palaemon may therefore very well be called his socius. But the line is defective and requires emendation.

168. si deuitauerint, 'if (once) they escape.' The future perf. is demanded by the sense; for the clause must refer to future time. In expressions of this kind we regularly find either the fut. perf. (Amph. 320 perii si me aspexerit, 428, Most. 212 perii ni enicasso, Men. 416, Mil. 163, Rud. 810), or the pres. (1415, Merc. 381 saluos sum si perpetuast fides, Asin. 320 si obtines salui sumus, 243 interii si non inuenio, 287, Stich. 401; cf. below on 179). Contrast Pseud. 910 interii si abiit, where the sub. clause refers to past time.

172. se capessit, 'betakes herself,' cf. Amph. 262 me capesso, Bacch. 113, 1077, Asin. 158: without se Rud. 179. salua res, cf. una res Capt. III. 1. 28; it seems unnecessary to read rest (= res est) with Fleck., though the MSS. often have est in such expressions, e. g. Merc. 857, Stich. 473, Pers. 223.

176. dextrouersum auorsa it, 'she has turned to the right and is going.'

177 f. hem, interjection, here expressing pity; see Excursus, p. 190. errabit, fut. of expectation, 'will probably,' 'will, I think'; cf. Most. 510 conturbabunt fabulam, Men. 600, Amph. 298, 317, Merc. 399. hodie, 'this blessed day,' expressing not 'time when,' but rather the excitement of the speaker; cf. on Most. 657.

179. si cadit, 'if she falls' (= shall fall). It is unnecessary to read cadet with Reiz and Langen: the present for future in subordinate clauses is a common idiom in early Latin, as in Engl.; 435, 961 (note), 1004, 1009, 1017 f., 1289, with dum, 'till,' 774, 879 f., 1032: cf. Trin. 156 si reuenit reddam, Amph. 721 liber esto si inuenis, Stich. 535, Pers. 234, 236, 827, Merc. 799, Pseud. 144, 587, Phorm. 179, 629, 825, 988, Ad. 531, Haut. Prol. 34. So sometimes even in classical Latin: e. g. Sall. Cat. LVIII. 9 si uincimus, omnia nobis tuta erunt, Livy VI. 15. 6, 38. 7, IV. 42. 6, Cic. ad Att. X. 3 opprior dum cognosco, Cat. IV. 20 antequam ad sententiam redeo, de me pauca dicam, pro Clu. 6, II. Verr. I. 2. 6, Verg. Aen. III. 606 si pereo iuuabit.

180. conpendium facere, with gen. 'to make short work of,' 'to cut short,' cf. Pseud. 605 conpendium ego te facere pullandi uolo, &c. = conpendi facere with acc., e. g. Most. 60 orationis operam compendi face (passive conpendi fieri Asin. 307, &c.). errationis fecerit compendium means 'she will be killed.'

X 181. de illarum uesperis, 'at their expense,' lit. 'from their evening meal,' cf. Mil. 995 de uesperis suo uiuere, 'to be one's own master'; vesper = cena, as in German Mittag sometimes = Mittagsessen, 'mid-day meal.' The abl. of vesper is always vesperi in Plaut.

184. bonum aequomque, 'what is right and fair,' cf. Curc. 65 quicquam aequi bonique, and on Rud. 620, 1138 ius merum oras.

SCENE 3. Enter Palaestra from the shore (to right of spectators), complaining of the cruel fate by which she has been wrecked upon what she believes to be an uninhabited coast. As she delivers her monologue, accompanied by the music of the tibicen, she crosses the stage, keeping her face turned to the audience, so that she does not see the temple and cottage (cf. Introduction). Miscellaneous metres lead on to trochaic and cretic rhythm, as often in Plautus: 185, 186 189 a are 'versus Reiziani,' i.e. verses consisting of an iambic dimeter acatalectic (∪ ∟ ∪ - ∪ ∟ ∪ ∪) followed by an iambic tripod catalectic (∪ ∟ ∪ ∟ ∪), with the usual licences of iambic metres: cf. in Greek Comedy φυσῶντι καὶ πονομένῳ προσδώσете δήπου Aristoph. Pax 954. In criticizing the metrical form of this scene, Vahlen's remark that we are no longer able cantica Plautina canere should be borne in mind. We have no right to depart from the arrangement suggested by the MSS. where it yields a definite rhythm.

185. Sense: Man's lot is far more wretched than it is ordinarily said to be. nimio = multo; cf. 460, Bacch. 122 nimio plus.

186. is, old dat. plur. of is, ea, id; cf. 647, 1250; here referring to hominum 185.

187 a. sicut marks the transition from a general truth to a particular instance which confirms it; cf. Men. 571-587 (general truth), 588 sicut me hodie nimis sollicitum cluens quidam habuit (particular instance).

187 b. ornatu ornatam; cf. Mil. 1177 (Ritschl) ornatu ornatus nauclerico, Pseud. 1062 laetitia laetus, Curc. 533 iratus iracundia, Asin. 506 more moratus, Capt. I. 1. 39 moratus moribus, Men. 203 animo animatus. Ornatus, lit. 'equipment,' has often the sense of 'costume,' as in 293, Mil. 1177, 1282 ornatu thalassico, Trin. 840 cum nouo ornatu, Curc. 2, &c.; but here the phrase hoc ornatu ornata has a vaguer sense, 'in this sorry plight,' = pessume ornatus Aul. IV. 9. 8, ornatus haud ex suis uirtutibus Capt. V. 3. 20; cf. Rud. 488, 730, 908. Scan in incertás, with shortening of the long syllable under the influence of the ictus, Intr. to Capt. A (i), p. 10.

189 a. memorabo, fut. indic. in questions (deliberative), 'shall I say?' = 'am I to say?'; cf. 249, 251, 749, 1370, Mil. 1021 hic astabo tantisper? Stich. 599 solus cenabo domi? Curc. 205; this future is a form of will-speech, closely connected with the use in statements spoken of below (on 989), just as quid dicat (diceret)? 'what is (was) he to say?' is clearly related to dicat (diceret) 'let him say' ('he ought to have said).'

189 c. The sentiment is like Soph. Antig. 921 ποιαν παρεξελθούσα δαμόνων δίκην;

190. labori, predicate dat. The deponent potiri in old Lat. takes either (i) the accus., as here laborem, Asin. 324 bonum, Ad. 871 commoda, 876 gaudia, Phorm. 469 quid, Pacuv. 56, 217, 289, Enn. Ann. 65 M., Acc. 40, 590, Caec. 109; or (ii) the abl., Pseud. 1071 muliere, Asin. 916, Phorm. 830, Afran. 77; or (iii) when = particeps fieri, the gen., Rud. 1337, Amph. 187 (Nonius); cf. on compotiri 205.

191. inpiaui = inpium reddidi; cf. Poen. 384. parentis, plur.; cf. 196.

192. parate = diligenter; cf. Epid. 374 ut parate! (371 parabo). cauerem. For sequence of tenses cf. on 129.

193. Hiatus in caesura.

194. insigne must be taken as adjectival to quid; cf. Eun. 1001 insigne aliquid facere alicui, 'to inflict conspicuous punishment on anyone.'

196. sciam for scirem, a rejected condition of present time; cf. 1062, 1419 (159), Asin. 393 si sit domi, dicam tibi, 188 si ecastor nunc habeas quod des, alia uerba praehibeas, Curc. 164, Andr. 310 tu si hic sis, aliter sentias, &c. So occasionally even in classical verse, e.g. Lucr. V. 195 si ignorem, Verg. Georg. IV. 117 ni uela traham, Ov. Met. I. 400 nisi sit pro teste uetustas.

197. miserari, with accus. (classical); cf. Epid. 533 se miseratur.

198. eius; κατὰ σύνεσιν, as though eri scelus had preceded, cf. 600 eas (referring to hirundinum nidum 598), Mil. 186 earum (ref. to muliebris), 753 i (ref. to proletario), Merc. 303 f. ternas (ref. to litterarium), Cas. Prol. 13 eius (ref. to Plautinas fabulas), Poen. 230 ff., Stich. 88 f., 744 ff. sollicitare, 'to bring trouble upon.' male habere, 'to distress'; cf. Most. 709, Men. 569.

199. omnia, 'everything else'; cf. aliquid 135. The 'syllaba anceps' (ὀμνιᾶ) is admitted in the caesura of the cretic tetrameter; 233 f., 243, Asin. 134, 137, &c. perdidit, with original long vowel; cf. uixit Pseud. 301, optigit Rud. 927, Stich. 384, adduxerit Merc. 924 (condiderit Hor. Sat. II. 1. 82): similarly possēt Rud. 390 (note): see too note on 1072 (Critical Appendix).

200 a. haec (= hae-ce, cf. on 110), old nom. plur. fem. of hic, haec, hoc; used before a consonant, e.g. 1095, Aul. 524, Trin. 390, Stich. 18 f. (A), Poen. 1376 (A), as well as before a vowel or h, e.g. 294, 746 (Schoell), Bacch. 1142, Poen. 1171 (A). The form haec is attested in MSS. of Cicero; Lucretius (see Munro on III. 601, VI. 456) never uses hae. Haec, 'these' (i. e. 'myself and what I have on my person'), is attracted to the gender of the predicate noun reliquiae, as in class. Lat. (hic labor, hoc opus est, &c.). Pronounce eiū, cf. on 103.

203. On this form of verse (— — — — —) see Introduction to Mostellaria, p. xxix, and Spengel, Reformvorschläge, pp. 86 ff. The metre occurs below 209, 212, 216 a.

205. ita; cf. 87. conpotiri only twice in Plaut., here and in 911 (= 'to put in possession of,' with abl.).

206. quisquam homo; cf. nemo homo Pers. 211, homo nemo Cic. N. D. I. 78.

207. quod depending on induta; cf. Men. 190, Epid. 223, 225. summae opes, 'is the sum total of my possessions.' Plaut. frequently omits parts of the verb esse; cf. 172 salua res: in a compound tense 370. oppido, 'absolutely'; cf. 550, 'utterly,' Most. 136, 165 periere haec oppido aedes.

208. nec . . . quo sim, 'how to get food or where to find shelter,' a dependent deliberative question (like nesciebat quid faceret, see my Lat. Gram. § 370†). cibo with tecta by zeugma.

210. neque etiamdum = et nondum, 'and as yet . . . not.' Etiamdum (etiam = adhuc and strengthens dum) is found only in negative sentences, e.g. Pseud. 957 nihil etiamdum, Mil. 992 neque esse hic etiamdum, Truc. 321, Haut. 229, or in sentences with negative meaning (Rud. 1381). Compare etiam without dum Pseud. 280 etiam non dedit, Most. 522 etiamne astas? 851.

213. For an without utrum or -ne cf. 580, 1106, Brix on Men. 722. incerta consili; cf. Phorm. 578, Enn. Trag. 351 (Ribb.), inpos animi Trin. 131, Men. 110, &c. The gen. with incertus reappears in Livy and Tacitus.

217. prognata fui for prognata sum, a frequent form of the perf. pass. or deponent in Plaut.; cf. Trin. 850 natus necne is fuerit, and on Most. 694 uisum fuit, Brix on Mil. 102 legatus fuit; similarly Most. 487 oblitus fueram for oblitus eram, &c. Contrast Most. 163 tectus fui (no true compound tense). maxume must mean 'entirely,' 'beyond all question': cf. note on 1410 ('by all means'). nequiquam. For the form see Ritschl, Prol. to Trin. p. cv. Scan fūi (twice); cf. fūi 1105, Capt. 262, 555, 633, Asin. 782, Mil. 754, 776, 1364, Poen. Prol. 110; Ritschl, Prol. to Trin. p. clxxi, Corssen², II. 681.

218 b. Scan seruā for- (for anapaest).

SCENE 4. Enter Ampelisca from the shore (right), seeking her lost companion, who is now standing at the opposite end of the long stage (in the foreground). At 229 Palaestra catches the sound of a woman's voice. Gradually the two girls approach, at first without seeing one another. At last they meet, embrace and decide upon a course of action. Ampelisca catches sight of the temple in the background, and they approach it together. In the whole scene there is plenty of scope for by-play.

220. meliust quam ut; cf. 1189, Men. 834, Pseud. 1121, Aul. I. 1. 37 f.; melius quam opperiar Rud. 328: melius with acc. and infin. 1205.

221. exanimalis here active (= βιοφθόρος), Bacch. 848 passive.

222. uitae hau parco, 'I care not for my life'; cf. Capt. Prol. 32 nil pretio parsil.

223. omnibus latebris with perreptau, local abl. like ire uia, &c.

224. quaerere depending on perreptau; cf. on uenio uisere 94 and such expressions as operam numquam sumam quaerere Men. 244, pergo quaerere, &c. ut peruestigare, 'in order to track her out' = ad peruestigandum ubi sit illaec Merc. 935.

225 ff. The repeated neque is expressive of despair. consultumst = consultum habeo.

226. responsor = homo idoneus qui respondeat: cf. 50.

227. solae terrae, 'desert lands'; cf. Most. 995, Phorm. 978, solus locus, 'a lonely place,' Rud. 1185, Aul. 665.

228. uiua = dum uiuo; cf. Men. 245 uiuos numquam desistam, Bacch. 515.

229. quoianam; cf. Bacch. 979, Curc. 111, 229, Pseud. 702, Trin. 45. Quoius is the old form of cuius (cf. cuium pecus); -nam as in quisnam, ubinam, &c.

232. eximere ex is the general Plautine constr., e.g. Capt. 356, Men. 8: contrast the abl. without a preposition in Capt. 204.

233. muliebris; cf. on 199 (omnia).

234. uēnit; cf. sonat, loquitur 229 f., and such common phrases as uox auris uerberat (Amph. 333, &c.).

237. hem, 'here I am!' see Excurs. p. 190, ('hem respondendi').

239. minor pars, sc. malorum.

240. expeto, 'desire'; cf. Trin. 366, Haut. 890, and expetesso Rud. 258. mihis aemula, i. e. 'your desire is mine.'

241. consequamur gradu uocem, 'let us follow the voice, step by step,' cf. 493, 948. ecce me, 'here I am!' see Excurs. p. 187.

243. cedo, 'give me' (origin uncertain). em, 'there,' often used before imperatives; see Excurs. p. 189 (ii). accipē; cf. on 199.

244. me facis ut uelim = facis ut ego uelim, the subject of the subordinate clause being anticipated as the object of the principal verb, a construction common in the Latin comedians (as in Greek); cf. Rud. 293, 328, 353, 390, 592, 1068, Pers. 635 patriam te rogo quae sit, Truc. 463, Capt. III. 4. 25, II. 3. 16 (note), Rud. 171, 1297 (anticipation of object).

245. ut, exclamatory.

246. tenere, without subject (me) expressed, Plautine; cf. 405, Most. 55 (note).

247. laborum leuas. Many verbs in old Lat. take the gen. as well as the abl.; complere Amph. 470, Men. 901 (abl. Amph. 251, Cist. I. 2. 5), implere Aul. III. 6. 16, Merc. 409, 795 (abl. Aul. III. 3. 6, Cas. I. 1. 35); the gen. is found with saturare Stich. 18, obsaturare Haut. 869, participare Cist. I. 3. 17, carere Haut. 400, abundare Lucil. VIII. 17, onerare Pacuv. 291 Ribb., priuare Afran. 152 Ribb., orbificare Attius 421.

248. occupas praeoqui=φθάεις προαγορεύειν, cf. Most. 566 occupabo adire, Stich. 89, Poen. 320, Rud. 119 praeferestinet praeoqui.

249. deest in Plaut. often means 'it is advantageous, desirable'; cf. Trin. 478, 548, Truc. 712, Pseud. 1127, Men. 88, 131, 453, Mil. 201, 220, 737, 765, Cist. I. 1. 24—a meaning not elsewhere found in the older writers: Langen, Anal. Plaut. particula III. amabo, 'pray,' lit. 'I shall love (i.e. be grateful to) you,' a parenthetical expression used only by women, or by men in addressing women (Seyff.; cf. Most. 324, 343, 385, Men. 678). ibimus, cf. on 189 a.

251. cum, cf. madida cum ueste grauatum Verg. Aen. VI. 359. uuida=umida, cf. uuida uestimenta Hor. Od. I. 5. 14, uuescunt=humescunt Lucr. I. 306.

252. hoc quod est id, 'what is'; cf. Mil. 352 hoc quod ago id, Most. 841 haec quae possum ea, Aul. 34 hic qui poscet is.

254. 'I see that the place seems worthy of the gods.' For decorus (= dignus) with abl. cf. te decora Mil. 619, haud decorum facinus tuis factis Aul. 220; deceat takes abl. in Asin. 577.

256. quis quis est deus, a common formula to avoid blundering when the name of a god was unknown; cf. Verg. Aen. IV. 577 sequimur te sancte deorum quisquis es, Aesch. Ag. 160 Ζεύς, ὅστις ποτ' ἐστίν, Hor. Sat. II. 6. 20, &c. ueneror=oro, cf. 305, 1349, Poen. 950, Aul. Prol. 8 (also classical).

257. ut adiuuet, 'by aiding.' For the two ut clauses cf. Capt. II. 3. 7, Phorm. 836.

SCENE 5. Enter the priestess from the temple of Venus. She promises protection to the two girls.

258. preces expetessunt, 'ask boons'; prex is properly 'a thing asked,' from the root prac, Germ. frag-, 'ask,' whence also come procus, 'suitor,' and procare; hence preces precari (cognate accus.), cf. Cato, R. R. 134 Iane pater, te bonas preces precor, uti sis uolens propitius mihi. Poscere comes from another form of the same root (= proc-scere or porc-scere); hence the expression preces posco (ut) found in an inscription (Marini, Arv. T. XLVII, Henzen p. ccxxix).

Preces expetessere (cf. expetere 240) is an easy extension of this construction; cf. the letter of Cornelia in Nepos, non pudet te deum preces expetere. mea, one syllable (synizesis), elided.

259. precantum: for the gen. plur. in -um of stems in -nt cf. innocentum 619, absentum Stich. 4, amantum Most. 171, Mil. 625 (Arg. II. 11), Men. 355, Truc. I. 1. 4, Pseud. I. 1. 64, gerentum Truc. II. 1. 13, parentum Amph. 841, Capt. 627, &c.; for the form in -ium (on analogy of i-stems) cf. praesentium Stich. 220, amentium haud amantium Andr. 218, amantium irae amoris integratiost 555.

260 f. The adjectives are predicative: 'the goddess whom they seek is . . .' grauatam, 'grudging'; there are many similar adjectives (not participles) in -atus, formed direct from the stem; e. g. albatus, 'dressed in white'; atratus, 'dressed in black'; barbatus, beluatus, 'adorned with figures of beasts', Pseud. 147; candidatus, 'dressed in white,' Rud. 270, cenatus (incenatus) 304, chlamydatum 315, inpuratus 543, litteratus 478, praedatus 1316; feriatus, russatus, togatus, tunicatus; from the adj. grauatus was formed the adv. grauate 408.

261. exsequi, 'to seek'; cf. Men. 245, Amph. 801, Epid. 572.

264. ire, 'come.' dicam, cf. on 138.

265. maestiter pro maeste (Nonius); cf. Prisc. XV. p. 1010. Similarly amiciter Pers. 255, auariter Curc. 126, blanditer Asin. 222, Pseud. 1290, munditer Poen. 235, saeuiter Pseud. 1290, largiter Rud. 1188; puriter Catull. LXXVI. 19, proteruiter Enn. Frag. (Com. R. p. 5).

266. haud longule ex hoc loco expands ilico hinc ('straight from the neighbourhood'), cf. ilico hic 328, Trin. 608, illic ilico Rud. 836, ilico illo, 'to that very place,' Non. 325, 5, ilico ubi, 'the very moment that,' Stich. 557, Cas. IV. 4. 6. Contrast ilico Rud. 62, where it does not go with hinc. ilico=in loco, a meaning which is obscured when joined with hinc, illo.

267. unde, 'the place whence.'

268. For nempe, 'I presume,' introducing questions cf. 343, 565, 567, 1057, 1080, 1392, Most. 491, 653, 919, Pseud. 353, 1169, 1189, &c., introducing statements 476, 565. equo ligneo, cf. Homer's ἄλός ἵπποι. uias caeruleas (by-form of caeruleus), cf. Ovid. Her. XVI. 104 caerulea peterem quin mea uota uia.

269. admodum, cf. 143. aequius erat, 'it would have been fitter' (classical).

270. candidatas, cf. on 260; Persius 2. 40 negato Iuppiter haec illi, quamuis te albata rogarit.

271. ad istunc modum, 'in the state in which you are,' cf. 699; for ad cf. 317. ueniri, impersonal.

272. quaene=nosne dicis quae, cf. 1019, 1231, Mil. 13, Most. 738, Trin. 358, Epid. 719, Curc. 705, Andr. 768, Phorm. 923. For the subj. simus

(here concessive) cf. Mil. 66 quæm me ambae opsecrauerint (causal), Truc. 534, Merc. 573, Cist. IV. 1. 2. It would also be possible to put a comma after opsecro (as Fleck.), cf. Catull. LXIV. 180 An patris auxilium sperem, quemne ipsa reliqui?

273. For the tense of uoluisti cf. Phorm. 291. adigere, 'drive,' cf. huc oues adigit Bacch. 1121, greges adegero Pseud. 333, in a different sense Rud. 681, Aul. 50.

274. tibi genua: for the dat. cf. anus ei amplexasti genua Cist. II. 3. 25. opes here approaches the meaning auxilium, cf. 664, Cas. III. 5. 4, Cist. I. 1. 30.

275. nesciis = ignotis (with passive sense). Gellius, N. A. IX. 12. 21, says 'nescius quoque dicitur tam is qui nescitur quam qui nescit,' and quotes this passage; cf. Capt. II. 2. 15 si quid nescibo id nescium tradam tibi; so too Tacitus (tributa Ann. I. 59). nescia spe sumus (with active sense), 'do not know what to expect.' Similarly with other adjectives, e. g. caecus = (i) not seeing, (ii) not seen, (iii) not admitting of vision (caecae tenebrae).

279. hoc, abl. of comparison.

283. sic, '(even) as it is'; cf. Pseud. 388 nolo bis iterari; sat sic longae fiunt fabulae, Pers. 275, Bacch. 1005. uitam colo, 'keep body and soul together'; cf. Haut. 136. cibo meo = meo sumptu; cf. 181, Cas. III. 1. 10 cum cibo cum quiqui facito ut ueniant; Ussing compares αὐρόστροφος Athen. VI. p. 248.

285. elueo = dicor, as often in Plaut.

286. quidquid est, 'everything,' Mil. 37 'anything you like'; cf. quidquid est domi, 'what one has of one's own,' 292. For a slightly different use cf. 256, 925, 1140, Mil. 1372. fiet, 'shall be done,' rather a promise than a mere expression of futurity; cf. cras donaberis haedo Hor., and note on 365 (scibus faxo).

287. quōd = quoad, 'so far as'; cf. Capt. III. 5. 12 quod in te uno fuit, Mil. 1160, Haut. 416, Rud. 1073, 'till.' For ualebit cf. quoad uires ualent Asin. 296. Scan copiā, nom., cf. Asin. 762 ne epistulā quidem ūlla sit in aedibus; Bücheler, Lat. Decl.² p. 21. Few certain instances of this original -ā can be quoted from Plaut.; Ter. has always -ā.

289. nostrum (cf. 1145), objective gen. of personal pronoun, for nostrī (a form not found in Plaut.) or nobis (cf. Cist. I. 1. 4). Besides nostrum, uostrum Plaut. also used nostrorum, uostrorum (nostrarum, uostrarum) as gen. of the personal pronouns; Langen, Beitr. p. 132. Scan hábēs (arsis of iambus).

ACT II, SCENE 1. Enter fishermen (left), coming from town to their morning's work on the shore. They are dressed in the ordinary costume of peasants on the stage—a white sleeveless chiton (ἐξοπίς), perhaps with a covering of skins (διφθέραι)—and carry their fishing apparatus on their backs. The scene is delivered in recitative, with an accompaniment by the flute player, the fishermen marching with rapid and business-like steps about the stage—‘Serui, ancillae, parasiti, piscatores citatius mouentur’ Quintilian, XI. 3. 112. The fishermen do not appear again in the play; but their introduction here is very happy, as it contributes to the local colouring of the play and serves as a preparation for Act II, Scenes 2, 3.

290. miseri, predicate adjective; cf. uiuo miser 127. Misere would not be Plautine.

291. quaestus. Fishing is here not regarded as a regular trade, although there were fish markets both at Rome and at Athens. nec artem nullam, ‘nor any craft’; for the double negative cf. 359. The abandonment of the relative construction in this clause is thoroughly Plautine; cf. Amph. 425 quod egomet solus feci, nec ququam alius adfuit, Capt. III. 4. 23 quibus inpsutari saluti fuit atque is (demonstr.) profuit, Andr. I. 1. 66, Ad. I. 2. 4, III. 2. 8.

292. necessitate=necessario, ‘whether one likes it or not’; cf. Pers. 382 necessitate me, mala ut fiam, facis. quidquid est domi, cf. on 286, 1335.

293. iam de ornatu, ‘at once from our get up,’ ‘from our very get up’; for ornatu cf. 187 b. propemodum, ‘pretty well.’ ut . . . scitis, lit. ‘you (addressed to the audience) see to what extent we are rich men,’ i. e. our costume and baskets show us to be fishermen, and therefore poor. With the sense of ut locupletes cf. ut multifecit 381.

294. hisce, an old form of the nom. plur. masc. attested by Priscian, XII. p. 593, and found in Capt. Prol. 35, Pseud. 539, Pers. 856, Mil. 374, 1334, Amph. 974. Similarly illis-ce Capt. 481, 653, Men. 997, Most. 510, 935. On the suffix -ce see note on 110. haec, nom. plur. fem., cf. on 200 a. quaestu et cultu, predicate datives, ‘a source of gain and a livelihood’: cultus=uictus, cf. uitam colo 283. For the dat. in -u cf. Mil. 1073 risu moderarier, Pseud. 306 non est usu, non usust Rud. 1083, Truc. 721.

295. pabulatum, ‘to forage,’ properly a military term.

296. exercitus gymnasticus=exercitatio gymnica, as Cic. would have said. The exercises in the gymnasia of the wealthy are described in Bacch. 428 ff. Ibi [equo], cursu, luctando, hasta, disco, pugilatu, pila, Saliendo sese exercebant; cf. Most. 151.

297 and 298 enumerate the various species (edible?) which the fishermen pick up with their fingers from the shore: echinos, ‘quibus spinae pro pedibus’ Pliny, H. N. IX. 100, Athen. III. p. 91, Hor. Epist. I. 15. 23, ‘sea urchins,’ creatures of the same species as the star fish (‘echinodermata’). lopadas, Greek accus. of lopas, ‘limpet’; Nonius quotes this form in Cas. II. 8. 57, where the MSS. have the form lepidas. The balanus belongs to the order of crustaceans, perhaps the same kind as is now-a-days called the 'acorn-shell' (Lat. balanus=acorn); see Pliny, XXXII. 11. 53, Athen. p. 87 f. conchas here probably some peculiar kind of shell fish. marinam urticam, our 'sea-nettle,' a creature which stings like the jelly fish: Pliny, IX. 146, Athen. p. 89 f. musculos, 'mussels' (Middle Eng. 'muscle,' Old. Eng. 'muxle'); cf. μῦς denoting a kind of shell fish, Aesch. Frag. 25, Athen. p. 86. placusias, perhaps from πλακοῦς, denoting some kind of flat shell fish similar to what are now called 'lamp-shells' or 'scallops': placusiae are not elsewhere mentioned. striatas, 'fluted' (from stria, striare, 'furrow').

299. postid, adv.=postea; cf. Aul. IV. 10. 19, Cas. Prol. 31 and I, 32, 42, Stich. 86, Trin. 529, Truc. 421, 762, Andr. 936; esp. in the phrase postid locorum (cf. ibi loci) Cas. I. 32, Poen. 144, Truc. 661. Postid is formed from poste, a by-form of post, with ablative d (Ritschl, Opusc. II. pp. 270, 565, &c.); poste is found in Asin. 915, Men. 839, Merc. 370, Stich. 380, Enn. Ann. 244 B. hamatitem et saxatitem, alliterative, 'with hooks and from the rocks.' This line speaks of fishing with the rod (contrast 297, 298); but the fishermen are too poor to possess boats, and have to confine themselves to fishing from the rocks on the coast.

300. euentus euenit, figura etymologica.

301. quicquam piscium, 'any fish,' 'anything in the way of fish,' partitive gen.; cf. 304 and on 415. salsi, 'salted' (i. e. by the spray), from salire, 'to sprinkle with salt'; cf. the joke in 517. lautus, 'washed clean,' 'clean,' participle of lauère 'to wash,' cf. 151 (note), 701, Pseud. 164, Mil. 787, Stich. 745, 668 lautus sum, 'I am washed clean'; with derived sense Poen. 1189, Curc. 9. pure, adverb of cognate meaning with lautus, 'perfectly clean,' cf. pure elue Aul. II. 3. 3, and the common phrases bene prodesse, 'to be very helpful,' male taesum, 'horribly bored,' perspicue palam, 'quite clear,' inepte stultus, 'extremely dense,' male odisse &c. (note on Capt. I. 2. 29, Most. 316, Rud. 426, 920, 1392).

302. domum redimus clanculum, 'we sneak home,' i. e. ashamed of ourselves. incenati, 'supperless,' a compound of cenatus, from cena (260), cf. superi incenati sunt et cenati inferi Aul. II. 7. 6, IV. 2. 9.

303. ut . . . fluctuat 'the sea being very rough, as it now is'; for this use of ut ('as is natural considering that') cf. my note on Most. 268, and Palmer's on Amph. I. 1. 175. For the active form fluctuo cf. 903, Merc. V. 2. 49. Plaut. never uses the deponent, which is found in classical Lat. side by side with the active form: cf. on 629.

304. concharum, i. e. there is no chance of catching fish. capsimus, from capso (Bacch. 712, capsit Pseud. 1022), cf. faxo 365, 376, faxis, faxit, respexis 678, exoculassitis 731, occeptassit 776, indicassis 1028, peccassis 1150, defraudassis 1345, peccasso 1348, &c. Such forms are very common in Plaut. and are used (i) as subjunctives—in prohibitions (e. g. 1028), in expressions of wish, in clauses depending on caue, occasionally in final ne clauses, and in sentences like ausim dicere: (ii) as futures or future perfects indicative; so above, and in 678, 731, 776, 1150, 1348. For recent views on the origin of these forms see Brugmann, Morphologische Untersuchungen, III. 33, 37, Stolz, Lat. Gram. § 110, Henry, transl. by Elliott, § 97. cenati sumus, 'we are men who have supped,' i.e. we have had all the supper we are likely to get: cf. respondi tibi Trin. 458 'you have my answer,' dixi satis Rud. 817; uixi, 'I have had my day,' fuius Troes &c.

305. Venerem ueneremur, a pun. ut adiuerit, perf. subj.=pres. subj., common in Plaut., e. g. caue rettuleris pedem Epid. 435; Madv. Opusc. II. p. 103. In classical Lat. the perf. subj. in final clauses differs slightly in meaning from the pres. subj., e. g. Cic. de Fin. I. 16. 50 ut de omni uirtute sit dictum. adiuerit for adiuuerit, cf. Phorm. 537, adiuero Enn. Ann. 339 Vahl., iuerint Catull. LXVI. 18, Prop. II. 23. 22.

SCENE 2. Enter Trachalio from the town (left) in search of his master: although he has been careful to follow instructions, he has not found Plesidippus at the appointed place. He asks for information from the fishermen, who tell him that they have seen no one. He decides to wait.

306. aduorsau, for aduorti. Plaut. frequently uses intensive forms without difference of meaning, cf. defensare 692, essitare, cursitare, haesitare, uentitare, &c. praeterirem, cf. on 129.

307. ire, 'was going' or 'would go'; the present infin. is often used by Plaut. for the future depending on dico, aio, promitto, &c., cf. 541, 589, 636, 1292, dixit se operam dare Asin. 366, 377, 442, 604, scis te tradier Most. 17, nego me dicere Curc. 597, iuratus est se dare Pers. 401, &c. So even in Verg. Aen. IV. 487 promittit soluere.

309. commode, generally in Plaut.= 'suitably' (e. g. Epid. 552), here = commodum (Mil. 1198, Trin. 400, 1136, &c.), 'just at the right moment,' cf. Titinnius (flor. b. c. 160), quoted by Charisius, et commode eccum exit, and Hand, Turs. II. 101 f. eccos, either parenthetical, 'behold,' or as object of uideo: see Excursus, p. 188.

310. fures, 'riflers.' conehitae atque hamiotae, 'men of the shell fish and men of the hook,' formations with Greek patronymic endings, probably borrowed by Plautus from his original: cf. Varro, quoted by Nonius, cohortis cocorum atque amiotarum aucupumque (probably borrowed from Plautus).

311. ut peritis? παρὰ πρόδοκίαν for ut ualetis? (ut interrogative).

314. strenua facie, 'of determined appearance.'

315. qui duceret, 'bringing'; cf. 129, 320. chlamydatos cum machaeris, 'dressed in military cloaks (cf. on 260 f.) and carrying swords.'

317. recaluom ad Silanum, 'with a bald forehead, like a satyr,' 'à la Silanus' (Seyffert). Silenus or Silanus, (the Doric form introduced at Rome by the Sicilian Greeks, cf. silanus, 'a fountain' spiring from the head of a Silenus) was the attendant of Bacchus, and the father of the satyrs. For ad= 'after the fashion of' cf. ad istanc faciem ancilla Merc. 427, Trin. 873, 921 f., Stich. 306, Cist. I. 1. 73, ad hoc exemplum Rud. 488. statutum=commoda statura, 'good sized,' Asin. 402, where Saurea is described as aliquantum uentriosus, truculentis oculis, commoda statura, tristi fronte, a passage very similar to the present.

318. tortis superciliis, 'with bent eyebrows,' like those depicted in certain terra cotta masks and shaped like a \smile . Varro (quoted by Nonius, p. 25) says that Silenus was represented hirsutis superciliis contracta, 'knitted'; cf. contrahit frontem Cic. Clu. XXVI. 72, $\sigma\upsilon\nu\acute{\alpha}\gamma\epsilon\omega\ \tau\acute{\alpha}\varsigma\ \delta\phi\phi\acute{o}\varsigma$ Pollux IV. 145, Soph. Frag. 752.

321. cum . . . operisque ornatus, 'distinguished by,' (ironically, 488, 730). Cato, R. R. 10, has cum loris ornata, 77 cum melle oblinito; as a general rule old Latin frequently employs cum with the abl. where we might expect the abl. alone: cf. 1363, and see Lew. and Sh. The reading of the MSS. natus would have to mean homo. For operis= 'actions' (implied in the adj. fraudentus) cf. Merc. 838 pol haud censebam istarum esse operarum patrem, Capt. II. 3. 69. istius modi occurs six times in Plaut. (Rud. 321, Epid. 119, Most. 746, Merc. 144, Trin. 552, Accius 136) and in all cases it would be possible to scan isttus or isttus; but istius, illius occur in Plaut. more than twice as often as isttus, illius. It would be possible here to scan isttus modt.

323. nullus; cf. 143.

324. credidi, 'I thought so!' 'Just what I expected!'

325. abit, contracted perfect; cf. Mil. 1331, 251 (A), Haut. 818, Ad. 169, C. I. L. 1. 1450, Ovid, Her. II. 99, Mart. I. 99. 9, Stat. Ach. II. 152 (I. 438), Silv. I. 6. 92, &c. exulatum, 'to leave the country' (supine).

326. hariolus sum, 'Oh my prophetic soul!' lit. 'I am a sooth-sayer'; cf. hariola 1139, hariolari 347, 377, 1141, Most. 571 hic homo certest hariolus.

327. semen=origo, fons; so in Cic. stirps ac semen malorum, bellorum semen et causa, &c. Compare seminarium (Lew. and Sh.).

328. ilico hic, 'on this very spot'; cf. 266. opperiar=ut opperiar, cf. 377; with ut 220. erum dum ueniat, cf. on 244.

329. eadem = eadem opera, lit. 'by the same effort,' i. e. 'at the same time,' (= simul); cf. Capt. II. 2. 43, 3. 99, &c. Eadem in Plaut. is always used with the future or a future equivalent.

330. exquisiuero = statim exquiram. The fut. perf. in Plaut. is often nearly equivalent to the future; cf. on Most. 590, Capt. II. 2. 65.

SCENE 3. As Trachalio is about to enquire further about his master at the temple of Venus, Ampelisca steps out, pitcher in hand. Her first words are addressed to the priestess within, who has been giving her instructions where to get water for a bath. Trachalio at first supposes that his master is also in the temple with Palaestra, but is informed by Ampelisca of all that has happened. He goes into the temple to console Palaestra, who is sitting in suppliant attitude by the signum (statue of Venus). Ampelisca, after a short soliloquy, knocks at the door of Daemones' cottage.

331. For the order of words (join quae proxumast Veneris fano) cf. 1134, Pseud. 797, Asin. 232, Cist. IV. 2. 82, Epid. 310, Merc. 405 f., Amph. 712, Aul. 112.

332. quoia; cf. on 229.

333. aduolauit; cf. Amph. 325, Merc. 864. Scan quis hic loquit- (for iambus).

335. calator, 'lackey,' 'footman,' 'man': Merc. 852, Pseud. 1009. 'Calatores dicebantur serui, ἀπὸ τοῦ καλεῖν . . . quia semper uocari possent ob necessitatem seruitutis' Festus; rather calator (from calare) = 'crier,' a slave in attendance whose business it was to remind his master of the names of persons in the streets (= nomenclator; cf. Hor. Ep. I. 6. 50).

337. Amp. plays on the word agere; 'I am passing the age of happiness (i. e. youth) unhappily': mala aetas = 'old age,' Men. 758, Aul. 43. Compare the Book of Ecclesiastes XII 'Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not,' &c. melius ominare = male ominatis parce uerbis (cf. Hor. Od. III. 14. 11).

338. omnis sapientis, 'all sensible people'; cf. 431, 1246. uerum conferre, 'to communicate the truth,' conf. = inter se conf.; cf. Poen. Prol. 34 sermones fabulandi conferant: for an equivalent phrase Curc. 290 conserunt sermones inter se.

339. heia uero, 'a pretty question!' here an expression of remonstrance; cf. Epid. 262, Mil. 1141, Hec. 250. Heia comes from εἶα, though it differs from it in meaning; the spelling with h is supported by a great preponderance of MS. authority. A never has eia, but heia in many places. [Correct Lew. and Sh.]

340. neque ullus = et nullus, 'and he has not'; cf. 143.

341. non uenit? 'he has not come?' = 'do you say that he has not come?' referring to the words of Amp. in 340; cf. 347, 1372, and Most. 950, 595 TR. non debet. DA. non debet? Asin. 480, Poen. 173, 404, Men. 302, 503, Merc. 918, Ad. 112, Eun. 179, 679, Haut. 612, Hec. 342. In such cases, where the words of a previous speaker are repeated in the form of a surprised question, Plaut. always uses non (not nonne). In other cases he uses non before consonants, nonne before vowels (except in Amph. 405 nonne me M), without difference of meaning; cf. Amph. 403-407 where the two words are used side by side.—Questions without any interrogative particle occur about 900 times in Plaut. and Terence, and of these instances about 200 contain a negative word (about 180 non); see Morris in American Journ. of Phil. vol. XI. Examples in the Rudens are (i) with non 347, 355, 426, 723, 740, 870, 942, 969, 1125, 1372; (ii) without non 268, 378, 379, 676, 799, 1011, 1267 f. uera praedicas, 'you speak the truth'; the preceding question of Trach. being treated by Amp. as a statement—a piece of funning of which Plaut. has availed himself in several other places; e.g. Pseud. 1153 f. BA. Te ad me misit Polymachaeroplages? HARP. Vera memoras, Cist. II. 1. 31 AL. Non remissura's mihi illam? ME. Pro me responsas tidi (so A), 'you answer yourself'; Cas. V. 4. 13 CL. Times ecastor. LYS. Egone? CL. Mentire hercle (so A; haud mentire hercle M); sometimes the answer takes the form 'you've guessed it!' e.g. below 347, Asin. 579 LIB. Argenti uiginti minas habes nunc? LEON. Hariolare, lit. 'You divine well,' Cist. IV. 2. 80 HA. Hicine tu ergo habitas? PH. Hariolare. non est meum, 'it is not my habit'; cf. Trin. 123, 631, Asin. 190, Most. 789, Haut. 549, 782, Cic. Fam. III. 9. 3, pro Balbo XV. 34, Hor. Od. III. 29. 57.

342. quam mox always takes the present (not future) tense in Plautus; e.g. Rud. 1227, 1412, Stich. 533 quam mox coctast cena? Truc. 208 quam mox te huc recipis? Men. 154 quam mox incendio rogam? (deliberative, as also Mil. 1406); in dependent questions the present subj. (not future participle with sim), e.g. Men. 704 prouisam quam mox uir meus redeat domum, Mil. 304; coctum is to be taken as an adjective, or coctumst as a pres. perf. = pres.

343. nempe, 'I presume'; cf. on 268. The true rule for the scansion of nempe in Plaut. was first stated by Seyffert (Berl. Phil. Wochenschr. 1888, p. 700); the first syllable is long before a vowel or h, short before a consonant; thus nēmpĕ 268, 1057, nĕpĕ 565, 567, 1080, 1392; whether the first syllable stands in arsis or in thesis makes no difference; the word never occupies a complete foot. rem diuinam; a sacrifice to a god meant a dinner for the sacrificers.

344. certe, 'surely.' I cannot agree with Langen that certe here means 'at any rate' (restrictive); see his Beiträge, p. 25. 'Surely' or 'I am sure that' suits the context in Mil. 433 certe equidem noster sum, Men. 623 certe familiarium aliquoi irata's; it would appear that Plaut. sometimes used certe and certo in the same sense; cf. Mil. 433 with Mil. 353 certo numquam dabunt, Most. 369 (note) with Rud. 351.

345. haud miranda facta, 'nothing surprising.'

346. deos, one syll. (synizesis).

347. hariolare; cf. on 341 (uera praedicas) and 326.

348. quid tu agis hic? 'what are you doing here?' cf. Epid. 345, Most. 293 quid hic uos agitis? Quid tu agis? (without hic: Fleck.) would mean 'how goes it?'

349. capitali periculo=periculo capitis. orbis with gen.; cf. Lucr. V. 840, Ovid, Met. III. 518, XIII. 595, with abl. Afran. 195, 240, Enn. Trag. 77 (Ribb.). In general those adjectives which take an abl. and those which take a gen. in class. Latin are in old Latin constructed with either abl. or gen.; so onustus with gen. Aul. IV. 2. 4, 10, with abl. Bacch. 1069, Rud. 909, Epid. 375, Pseud. 218, &c., largus with abl. Asin. 598, with gen. 533, compos with abl. Capt. 217, Attius 36 (R.), with gen. Amph. 643, &c., parcus with abl. Rud. 919, expers with abl. Asin. I. 1. 31, III. 1. 2, Amph. II. 2. 81, with gen. I. 1. 16, Pseud. 498, Haut. 652, exheres with gen. Bacch. 849, with abl. Most. 234, plenus with abl. Merc. 881, elsewhere always with gen., dignus with gen. Trin. 1153 (Nonius), elsewhere abl. in Plautus. -que . . . -que=et . . . et; cf. Asin. 577 meque teque, Epid. 220 fidemque remque seque teque, Amph. Prol. 7.

350. recepit ad se; cf. accepit ad se 410.

351. certo, 'undoubtedly'; for certo standing alone in answers cf. egon te iussi coquere? certo Men. 389, 1058, 1109, Merc. 534, Pseud. 361. Hiatus (after opsecro) is justified at the end of the first half of the iambic septenarius; Intr. to Most. p. xix. In English the corresponding metre may be written as two lines; e. g.:

There was an old wife lean and poor,
Her rags scarce held together,

(quoted by Palmer in Hermathena XI, p. 314); cf. below 354, 684.

353. fuertit; on the mood see note on 356.

355. quae istaec fabulast? 'what is this that you tell me?' cf. Most. 937, Rud. 676 quae istaec oratiost?

356. uoluit. Dependent questions and dependent exclamations commonly take the indicative in old Latin (parataxis); cf. on Most. 149. But the subjunctive is also found in Plaut., and not only (as Schmalz says, Lat. Gram. § 214) where it has independent meaning (e. g. deliberative, Rud. 208), but also in other cases, as a mere sign of subordination; cf. Rud. 125, 353, 385, 991, 1040, 1149. That the distinction of form between the coordinate question and the subordinate question had not been fully evolved in the time of Plaut. is shown most clearly by the cases in which he uses subj. and indic. side by side, without any distinction of meaning, e. g. Most. 199 uide quae sim et quae fui ante (cf. 969), Cist. I. 1. 58 eloquere et quid tibi est et quid uelis, Amph. Prol. 17 (where see Palmer's note). Schmalz says also that the subj. is used when the subject of the dependant question is 'anticipated' (e. g. Rud. 353, Pers. 685 patriam te rogo quae sit; but cf. Rud. 592). For another special case in which the subj. is more usual see 385.

357. Plautus uses only the form posiui as the perfect of pono and its compounds: Pseud. 1281, Frag. 200 W., Trin. 145 (cf. C. I. L. I. 551, 3; 7. 579 and 656; 9. 745), praeposui Rud. 916, deposui Most. 382, Curc. 536, Bacch. 306; inposiuit Cato, Orat. 2, p. 37 f.

358. f. salue: nec; cf. 406, Asin. 704 laudo: nec te equo magis est equos nullus (ullus M) sapiens, Most. 607 nescit . . . neque ego taetriorem beluam uidisse me . . . censeo. For the double negative cf. also on 291. For the position of perfecto (previous editors put the stop at sapientior) cf. uirtus omnibus rebus anteit perfecto Amph. 649, 1084, Curc. 570, Cas. III. 5. 55, Most. 1082, Stich. 277 (Ritschl), Eun. 395. Transl. 'I am sure there is no more cunning dicer than you.'

360. nimis . . . bolum, 'It was a very pretty cast of yours,' i. e. iecisti basilicum (Curc. 359) and thereby periurum perdidisti. For nimis, 'quite too' = 'very,' cf. 511, 920, Most. 278, Aul. 206, nimio Rud. 185. Bolus = βόλος, Lat. iactus, cf. Curc. 611 tribus bolis.

361. perit potando (alliteration), 'he has died of drinking.'

362. inuitare, 'treat,' 'entertain'; cf. 590, 811. This is its usual sense in Plaut., cf. Palm. on Amph. I. 1. 127: in Trin. 27 'invite,' 'summon.'

363. ἀναγκαίω, either (i) as Turnebus says 'poculum magnum quod in potandi certamine necesse esset ebibere,' or (ii) = ἀνάγκη, ἀναγκαίως (cf. necessitate 292) 'under compulsion.' We may transl. 'he gave him to drink from under the cup of necessity.' Compare the Engl. 'sconce.'

364. mulsa, 'honied'; cf. Stich. 755, Poen. 325.

365. A question addressed to a new person or introducing a new subject is frequently prefaced by sed tu in Plaut.; cf. 987, Most. 522, 1135, Men. 648, Bacch. 195, Cist. I. 1. 88 (Seyff. in Jahresbericht for 1885, p. 58). scibus, old future of 4th conj., common in Plaut. side by side with the ordinary forms, e. g. scibo Most. 997, &c. (sciet 985), Pseud. 174, 480, seruibo six times, congreddibor Most. 783, aggredibor Pers. 15, amicibor (pass.) ibid. 307, &c. scibus faxo (cf. on 304), lit. 'you shall know, I'll warrant'; cf. 578 exarescent faxo. The fut. indic. is found fifty times in the MSS. of Plaut. with faxo, the pres. subj. sixteen times; the latter constr. survived (e. g. Verg. Aen. IX. 150 haud faxo putent, 'I'll warrant they shall not fancy'). The fut.

indic., like the pres. subj., here expresses promise (cf. 286), and is a form of will-speech: so too is the fut. faxo, which expresses resolve (cf. 785). These meanings of the tense called future indicative are far more common in all periods of Latin than is commonly supposed (transl. 'I will,' 'thou shalt,' 'he shall'): so too in other languages which use a simple form for this tense (e.g. Greek, French; contrast German, English). Both faxo scibis and faxo scias are formally paratactic: in Asin. 902 the MS. have faxo ut scias, which is formally hypotactic.

366. uidemus, historical present; cf. 368, 369, Prol. 37.

367. ferrier. In the ordinary metres such forms of the pass. infin. are used by Plaut. only at the end of the verse and in the diaeresis of the iambic tetrameter. restim, the rope by which the scapha was fastened to the navis.

368. illi, vaguely, without grammatical reference=ei qui ibi aderant, 'the company,' here 'the crew' (Charmides has not hitherto been mentioned): cf. 384, 398, 405.

369. differre is very rare in this sense; see dictionary. itaque is often used by Plaut. in the sense of ita.

370-372. Plautus very artistically omits details of the subsequent adventures of the girls, which are already known to the audience.

370. iactatae, sc. sumus; Plaut. often leaves out parts of esse in compound tenses, cf. 453, 690; Fleck. supposed a verse to have dropped out (hence the numeration of the text). exemplis plurumis, 'in every possible way'; cf. pessumis exemplis Most. 192, 212, but hoc (istoc, eo, uno) exemplo Mil. 359, 726, Bacch. 540, Men. 981, &c.; ad hoc exemplum Rud. 488; cf. on 147. perpetuam noctem. Elsewhere (Amph. I. 1. 126, see Palm., II. 2. 100, Truc. 278) Plaut. expresses 'the whole night' by perpetem noctem. For sense cf. on 1037.

372. exanimatas, 'half dead'; cf. 409.

373. Neptunus ita solet, 'that's the way with N.' For the parataxis cf. Pseud. 1138 noui, bona scaeuast mihi, Pers. 243, Stich. 23 noui ego illum; ioculo istaec dicit, Cas. IV. 1. 20. quamuis, &c., 'he is ever so particular as an inspector of markets' (ἀγορανόμος Curc. II. 3. 6); cf. Capt. IV. 2. 43, Mil. 727 ff. sicut merci pretium statuit, quist probus agoranomus; quae probast mers, pretium ei statuit, pro uirtute ut ueneat, quae inprobast ('trashy') pro mercis uitio dominum pretio pauperet. Plaut. uses quamuis only in immediate connection with adjectives or adverbs; so even in the only two passages in which the subj. follows (to be explained paratactically), Trin. 554, Bacch. 82.

374. iactat, 'throws them overboard,' probably a technical term, here used with reference to 370.

375. uae, &c., 'confound your impudence,' a frequent substitute for a repartee in Plaut. capiti (tuo)=aetati tuae=ibi; cf. 486.

tuost, 'it is you that are confounded' (uae est cap. tuo). The reply is not an expression of wish, which would be quite unsuitable to the present context, but a statement: cf. Poen. 783 uae uostrae aetati. — Id quidem in mundo tuaest (= paratum est tibi), Merc. 161 Vae tibi. — Tibi equidem a portu adporto hoc, Asin. 306 Vae tibi. — Istoc testamento Seruitus legat tibi; cf. Poen. 645, Mil. 326, Amph. 741.

376. faxere, infin. from faxo (365). This form (not elsewhere found) I have ventured to introduce into the text for the unmetrical facere of the MSS. Faxere is analogous to other archaic fut. infinitives, e.g. impetrassere Stich. 71, Aul. 687, Mil. 1127, Cas. II. 3. 53, oppugnassere Amph. 210, reconciliassere Capt. 168, aueruncassere Pacuv. 236, and a few others.

377. promittam, cf. on 328. On the long hair of the uates cf. Tib. II. 5. 66 iactauit fusas et caput ante comas.

378. cauistis? cf. on 341. quom, whether temporal, causal (as here), or concessive (as in 383), regularly takes the indic. in Plaut.: cf. on 1124, Lübbert, die Syntax von quom. scibatis=sciebatis, cf. scibis 365.

379. si amabat, 'if he loved her (was her lover),' an open condition of the past; cf. si amabas, inuenires mutuom Pseud. 286, Men. 195, Truc. IV. 2. 35. rogas?=rogasne? again 860, 1361, Epid. 64, Bacch. 206, 216, Capt. 660, Trin. 80, &c. quid faceret, deliberative question (first independent, then dependent): cf. Quid ego facerem? — Quid tu faceres, men rogas? requireres Merc. 633. This subj. is essentially of the same nature as that in adseruaret, 'he ought to have kept watch,' and esset 380; both speak of what ought to have been done or was to be done, the former in a question, the latter in a statement. So, too, in class. Lat. quid diceret? and potius diceret, 'ought to have said.' In this sense (referring to past time) Plaut. always uses the imperf., class. Lat. both the imperf. (e.g. Verg. Aen. VIII. 643 at tu dictis Albane maneres) and the pluperf. (e.g. Cic. Verr. V. 65. 168 asseruasses hominem).

380. dies (synzesis) noctesque. I have left the form noctes (so M) for the sake of the assonance. In other places I have followed the rule of spelling the acc. plur. of i-stems (and stems declined on the analogy of i-stems) -is, the form countenanced by the MSS. (A and M agree in general in giving -is or -eis), though it is at least doubtful whether this was the form current in the time of Plaut.; see Stolz, Lat. Gram. § 83, Bücheler, Lat. Decl.² pp. 54, 33. ecastor (e interjection, 'Oh, Castor') and mecastor (= me Castor adiuuet) are ejaculations used only by women in Plaut.; cf. on amabo 249 and Wilkins on Hor. Epist. I. 7. 92.

381. ut multifecit, ita, &c., 'in proportion as he made much of her, so he took fine care of her,' ironically (so probus 112, 735);

cf. Placidus, ed. Deuerling, 67, 4 'multifacere: magnifacere,' Festus 'multifacere antiqui dicebant sicut magnifacere,' Cato quoted by Paulus neque pudicitiam multifacit. The comparative and superlative pluris facere, plurimi facere are quite common. For the sense of ut multi-, 'how little,' cf. ut locupletes 293.

382. scin (= scisne) tu, 'don't you know,' a lively way of introducing a proposition; cf. scin quid tecum oro, 'do you know what . . .' 773, 1216, scis tu, ut Bacch. 202, non tu scis Asin. 177, 215, Amph. 703: all these instances have parataxis, cf. 373. -ne in Plaut. often = nonne, cf. 865, Most. 622, 660, 850, 887a, Trin. 129, 136.

lauatum, 'to bathe'; cf. on 151.

384. subrupiuntur. That such thefts were common is shown by the term λωποδότης, 'clothes-stealer,' and by the institution in later times of ιματιοφύλακες and capsarii. At Athens these thefts were punishable with death (Arist. Probl. 29. 14), and at Rome they were visited with extraordinary penalties (Digest. XLVII. 17); cf. Catull. XXXIII. o furum optime balneariorum, and note of Ellis. quippe qui. In this phrase, as used by Plaut., qui (in origin the abl. of the relat., interr., and indef. pron., 123) has come to be an indefinite adverb, going closely with quippe; that it was not felt as the relative pronoun by Plaut. is shown by Aul. 348 quippe qui ubi quod subrupias nihil est 'seeing that there is nothing there for you to steal,' Bacch. 369 quippe qui (so B; cui CD) nemo aduenit, Amph. 745 quippe qui (Alcumena is speaking) ex te audiui, Truc. 68, Haut. 538; in the light of these passages we must judge Amph. Prol. 22, Pseud. 1274 quippe ego qui Ionica probe perdidici, Epid. 367 quippe ego qui . . . denumeravi, and the present passage of the Rudens: contrast Epid. 618 quippe ego (sc. bonum animum habeo) quod libertas in mundo sitast.—For other uses of qui see 123, 390, 918 (relative), 639 (interrogative), 760, 896, 946 (indefinite).—Quippe qui in Plautus does not require the subjunctive, though a free subj. may be used: see Pers. 699 quippe qui frater siet (supposition). illorum, 'of the persons present,' 'of the gang,' cf. on 368. opseruat, 'he has his eye upon.' falsust, 'he is in a state of uncertainty,' cf. Aul. 123, Men. 755, Truc. 785.

385. qui fur sit, 'which is the thief,' dependent question, not deliberative: the subj. is generally, if not always, used by Plaut. in interrogative clauses depending on a uerbum nesciendi; cf. 1040, Capt. 560, 969, Most. 1101, Pseud. 1038, &c. (Becker in Studem. Stud. I. p. 213 ff.); cf. note on 356. For qui=quis cf. 98.

386. ad illam, ubist, 'to her, where she is,' i. e. 'to the place where she is.' i sane, 'just go'; cf. 855, Asin. 464 nosce sane, Merc. 500 sequere sane, 677 da sane, &c.

387. sedentem, here a technical term for sitting as a suppliant (by the statue of the goddess in the temple; cf. 648, 673, 689); similarly θακεῖν Soph. Oed. Tyr. 20 ἀγοραῖσι θακεῖ, πρὸς τε Παλλάδος διπλοῖς ναοῖς, Ajax 1173, Eur. Heracl. 239 βώμιος θακεῖς. opprimes, 'you will find her'; like καταλαμβάνω, the word is used with weaker or stronger meaning in different contexts, cf. 456, 680, Asin. 876, Bacch. 860.

iam, 'well then,' 'then,' illative ('as an immediate inference from what you say'), cf. 398, 453, Men. 222 ER. Ego et Menaechmus et parasitus eius. CP. Iam isti sunt decem, 'then there are ten of you.'

388. hoc . . . quia, 'for the reason that,' cf. Most. 51, 16 hoc . . . quod, Pseud. III. 2. 33 hoc . . . quom. animi, 'in mind,' cf. excruciare se animi Epid. 390, Mil. 720, 1068, 1280, Rud. 399, discrucior animi Aul. 105, te angas animi Epid. 326, animi pendeo Merc. 127, 166 (desipiebam mentis Epid. 138); so with adjectives, lassus Cist. II. 1. 11, misera IV. 2. 3, sanus mentis aut an. Trin. 454.

389. ei, one syll. (synizesis).

390. qui, 'the means by which'; cf. on 123. noscere, syllaba anceps, cf. 354. possēt with original long vowel, cf. decēt 921, lubēt 1333, habēt Amph. 652, Trin. 206, egēt 330, adtinēt Bacch. 229, solēt Merc. 696, iacēt Amph. 241; similarly even in Horace perirēt, timēt, ridēt. eam ueretur, cf. on 244.

392. ipse=erus, 'the master,' so ipsus Aul. II. 6. 7, Most. 420 (according to my conjecture), ipsa=era Cas. IV. 2. 11; also classical, Hor. Sat. II. 8. 23 Nomentanus erat super ipsum. Compare the Irish use of 'himself,' 'herself' in the same sense. Scan ēi.

393. On the form parentis (so M in 196, 390, &c.) see note on 380 (cf. on 259). inpudicum, 'shameless,' cf. 115.

394. postulare, 'demand,' 'claim,' cf. on Prol. 17.

395. eum, sc. uidulum; so 397. eum abisse depends on scilicet, 'it is clear,' 'you may know' (= scire licet), cf. Asin. 787, Curc. 263, Haut. 358, 856, 892, Asin. 599 (uidelicet). pessum abire, 'to go to the bottom'; cf. Aul. 590, Cist. II. 1. 20; metaphorically pessum dare Rud. 507, 617, pessum premere Most. 1171.

396. ibidem, cf. 847, Bacch. 756, Pseud. 1271, Andr. 777 (ibidem Rud. 391, 591, 878). Correct Lew. and Sh. as to quantity of ibidem in Plaut.

397. Trach. wishes to console Amp. 'I dare say someone has dived in,' &c. The suggestion serves as an excellent preparation for the subsequent recovery of the uidulus by Gripus. immersisse=se inm., cf. Bacch. IV. 4. 26. id, 'that is just why she is melancholy'; for the accus. cf. id nunc suscenses mihi Capt. III. 5. 22.

398. eorum, vaguely (cf. 405, illorum 368, 384) referring to the crepundia implied in qui 390. iam istoc magis usus, 'then (387) there is all the more need owing to what you say'; cf. Epid. 111 iam

istoc (abl. of measure) probius es meo quidem animo (M). facto ut eam intro, 'of my going in': ut eam is object of the verbal noun factum; cf. efficere ut.

402. animus aequos, 'self-possession.'

403. eas, 'go' (Exit Trach. into the temple). In Plaut. the 2nd sing. pres. subj. addressed to a particular person is common in commands, e.g. 519, 834, Most. 47, 388, 594, 718, 1100, 1129, Bacch. 417, 1061, 1189, Curc. 271, and is still more common in prohibitions, e.g. Capt. 186 ne postules, 331, 349, 393, 548, Aul. II. 2. 61, 64, Curc. 213, 539, 565, 568, 713 (contrast ne osienderis Rud. 1155, 1135). In classical Latin this usage is limited; but examples are Verg. Aen. VI. 109 doceas iter et sacra ostia pandas, Hor. Epist. I. 6. 66 uiuas in amore iocisque, Ovid, Fast. III. 789 f. cornua uertas, IV. 723 alma Pales, faueas; Cic. ad Att. XIV. 1 scribere ne pigrere, Hor. Sat. II. 3. 88 ne sis patruus mihi.

405. uerbis suis, 'in her name.' datuos, sc. eos (with vague sense, 'the people there,' cf. 398). For omission of subject (here different from subject of principal verb), cf. on 246.

406. neque, cf. 359. anum quemquam. Quisquam is used by Plaut. not only to denote female as well as male persons (e.g. Amph. V. 1. 47; similarly quispiam Rud. 813, quisquis 1146, Cist. II. 3. 66, Pers. 546, quis Mil. 361, 436, &c., quisque Pseud. 185, Poen. Prol. 107), but also as a fem. adj., as above; cf. Most. 608 quemquam beluam, Mil. 1060 quemquam porcellam, Cist. I. 1. 67 quisquam alia mulier.

408. grauate, cf. on 260 f.

410. se, cf. on Prol. 47. simus, for essemus, depending on accepit: cf. on 129, 130.

411. eapse, 'with her own hand,' old fem. of i-pse (= is-pse); cf. 478. nunc, in contrast to what she had previously done. succincta, cf. uelut succinctus cursitat hospes Hor. Sat. II. 7. 107. aquam calefactat. The priestess is already warming water for a bath; but as the supply is not sufficient for two persons, Amp. has been sent to fetch more. lauemus, cf. on 151.

412. morae, 'cause of delay,' 'hindrance,' cf. Bacch. 224, Mil. 1190 (more M), Pers. 86, Pseud. 573 a (Trin. 277 tibi ero in mora).

413. In the first ecquis the first syll. is short, cf. Amph. 1020, Trin. 870, Cas. II. 2. 2, Stich. 352. hoc, sc. ostium, cf. hoc pullem Pseud. 1121, hoc aperit 1139, Trin. 870, 1174, Amph. 1020. recludit, 'does anyone open,' almost equivalent to 'will anyone open,' cf. inuenitur 687, quiescis 781, ecquis hasce aperit foris? Most. 900, 988, Capt. 830, Amph. 1020, Bacch. 582, Pseud. 1139.

SCENE 4. Sceparnio opens the door of the cottage, and enquires in a customary formula, 'Who is there?' (cf. Truc. 256). He is captivated by the good looks of Ampelisca, and consents to fetch water for her. While he is gone she catches sight of her master and his guest walking along the shore, and flees for refuge into the temple.

414. proterue (or propterue as Schoell writes it in Truc. 256 A, cf. Amph. 837 D, propteruiter Enn. Com. 2, Ribb. p. 5, Priscian, propteruos Goetz in Bacch. 612 BCD, Loewe, Gloss. Nom. p. 142, 184 ff., Act. Soc. Lips. II. p. 468, Bergk in Jahrb. 1869, p. 480) has the first syllable long in Plaut.; classical prōterue. Similarly we find prōficiscor Trin. 149 (prōficisco Mil. 1329), prōfiteor Men. 643 (prōfiteor Capt. III. 1. 20, Eun. Prol. 3), pōlentārius Curc. 295 (from pōlenta: correct Lew. & Sh.), rūdēns Rud. 1015.

415. hem, 'ah,' expressing astonishment: see Excursus, p. 190.

quid hoc bonist? 'heydey,' seems to have been a popular phrase to express surprise, in which boni had lost something of its proper meaning (almost=novi Asin. 50): cf. Truc. 548 sed quid illuc bonist? (so M), Pseud. 1067 (note of Lorenz). Compare Shakspeare. Tempest II. 2. 190 'Heyda, what Hans Flutterkin is this?' For the partitive gen. cf. 487, 571, 574, 758; 301, 496, 504, 559. eu ἄδέπολ, 'well upon my word!' see Excursus, p. 190. mulierem, accus. of exclamation, cf. Truc. 695.

416. salueto=salue, cf. 103, Curc. 234 f., Asin. 297, Men. 1076, Pers. 789; but ualeto is not used for uale.

417 ff. The restoration of these mutilated lines is very difficult. Fleck. supposed a verse to have been lost after 418. item ut adfectam. The sense seems to require 'like a queen.' Paulus says 'Adfecta femina uel in bonam partem dicitur, uelut honorata, uel in malam, quasi ad extremum periculum adducta,' but it is difficult to quote any passage in which adfectus standing alone = 'honoured'; it rather means 'in trouble'; cf. adfecta respublica Livy V. 57. There was probably alliteration at the end of both verses: perhaps uenies uesperī . . . mane mulierem, as Lamb. read. With item ut, 'just as' (Capt. V. 4. 11), cf. ut . . . item 1099, itidem quasi 660.

420. ah, here an 'interiectio improbantis,' cf. 681; contrast 415.

421. ecfigia or effigia is a rare and archaic form of effigies ('the very picture of Venus'), found also in fragments of Afranius and Lucilius, and in Lucr. IV. 42, 85, 105, C. I. L. 8. 3581.

422. hilaritudo, archaic form of hilaritas; cf. Mil. 677, Cist. I. 1. 56, seueritudo Epid. 609, maestitudo Aul. 732, uanitudo Capt. 569, saeuitudo Bacch. 2, partitudo Aul. 75, 276. heia, 'oh,' here an expression of delight; cf. Truc. 371, Haut. 1063 heia ut elegans est; contrast 339. corpus, acc. of exclamation, cf. Trin. 501 condicionem quouismodi!

423. subuolturium—subaquilum. Aquilus meant 'dark-coloured' (deriv. uncertain), cf. Poen. V. 2. 152 corpore aquilo, Suet. Aug. 79:

hence subaquilus, 'brownish.' Scep., in trying to compliment Amp. on her 'brunette' complexion, first calls it subuolturnum, 'vulture like,' a coinage of his own from the resemblance of aquilus to aquila, 'eagle,' and then corrects himself. We might substitute 'brunette.' Such intentional lapsus linguae are often used by Plaut. for comic effect: cf. Amph. 384 (Sosiam—socium), Mil. 27 (bracchium—femur), 819 (sorbit—stertit), Most. 830 (dormiunt—coniuent), Pseud. 711 (attuli—adduxi), 841ff. (manibus—pedibus), FrivolariaFrag. (fraterculabant—sororiabant).

424. indoles, 'natural beauty.' sauium, here 'mouth' (rare): Gell. XIX. 11. 4 quotes semihulco sauiō: cf. the two senses of osculum.

425. non ego sum pollucta pago (alliteration), 'I am meat for your master' Shaks. Henry IV. Part II. ii. 4. 135, lit. 'I am no dish for the village.' Pollucere means 'to offer in sacrifice,' and hence 'to serve up at table' (cf. above on 343): Cassius Hemina in Pliny, H. N. XXX. 20 Numa constituit ut pisces, qui squamosi non essent, ni (=ne) pollucerent, parsimoniā commentus, ut conuiuia publica et priuata cenaēque ad puluinaria facilius compararentur, ni (=ne) qui ad polluctum emerent pretio minus parcerent eaque praemercarentur: cf. Stich. 233 ut decumam partem inde Herculi polluceam. Hence polluctus uirgis (dat.), 'food for the scourge,' Curc. 193: polluctum, 'a banquet,' Rud. 1419 = polluctura Stich. 688; pollucibiliter, 'sumptuously,' Most. 24. potin ut = potisne (sc. est) fieri ut, cf. Most. 396, Amph. 903, &c. Potis is an indeclinable adj. = 'able,' cf. 968. mē, abl. 'off me,' cf. Trin. 288 quo manus apstineant, Truc. 926, Pseud. 981, Poen. 282.

426. non, cf. on 341. sic δευτικῶς. placidule, 'gently,' cf. placide 1162, sic placide 1274. bellam belle tangere, cf. sequere istum, bella, belle Curc. 521, i sane, bella, belle Asin. 676; with this order contrast i belle, belliatula Cas. IV. 4. 28. The adverb qualifies the verb, and the adj., placed immediately after or before it, lends point to the expression; cf. Most. 187 te nunc stultam stulte facere, and Spenser (quoted by Munro on Lucr. III. 889), 'Poorly, poor man, he lived; poorly, poor man, he died.'

429. For the two datives (tibi and ludo et deliciae) depending on operam dabo cf. Cas. II. 5. 29 quis mihi subueniet tergo aut capiti aut cruribus? Bacch. 1083 desidiaē ei dare ludum; in Capt. 520 nec mendaciis subdolis mihi usquam mantellumst meis the dat. noun depends on mantellum. deliciae, sing., cf. Poen. 365 mea uoluptas, mea delicia, 389 huius delicia.

430. uel . . . uel, 'either . . . or if you like,' may introduce two mutually exclusive alternatives if the choice between them is left open, cf. 582, 991 f., 1331, Capt. 370, 693, Naev. Frag. 125 Ribb. uel at uel nega. aias, 'say yes,' i. e. 'grant.' quam ob rem, 'that for the sake of which,' i. e. the water.

431. sapientī, cf. 338. ornatus, 'costume,' as represented on many vase paintings of comic actors.

435. basilicus, here a noun, cf. Poen. 671 rex sum, Curc. 359 iecisti basilicum, 'a royal throw.' oras, cf. 179 (tense).

436. periclo, 'risk,' 'cost,' cf. Cas. II. 4. 14 liber si sim, meo periculo uiuam; nunc uiuo tuo: and Rud. 1393.

438. hostis [Gothic gastis, Germ. gast, Engl. guest] in Plaut. sometimes has its original sense of peregrinus, still preserved in the Italian osteria, 'inn.' 'Hostis apud maiores nostros is dicebatur quem nunc peregrinum uocamus' Cic. Off. I. 12. 37; Varro L. L. V. 3; Fest. p. 102: cf. XII Tables aduersus hostem aeterna auctoritas, Trin. 102 hostisne an ciuis, Curc. 5, Mil. 450 hosticum domicilium. Hence hostire, 'to exchange presents,' 'to recompense,' Asin. 377, hostimentum, 'exchange,' 172.

442. eugepae, 'hurrah'; see Excursus, p. 191.

443. Scan mē āmes. cēddō, 'give,' cf. 712, 1380.

444 ff. ecferre, 'to bring out,' i. e. from the house. manta=mane, cf. Most. 116, Pseud. 255, 283, Poen. 264. iam, 'immediately.' [Exit Sceparnio, into the cottage.] demoratum. In Plautus morari, commorari, remorari are transitive, 'to keep waiting,' 'cause delay'; so too demorari in the only other passage of Plaut. in which it occurs (Epid. 376) and in all other authors till Tacitus, who uses it once intransitively (Ann. XV. 69).

453. iam, cf. 387. illud, 'therein.' ratae, sc. sumus; cf. 370.

455. Pronounce prīu'; so always in Plaut. in the metres of dialogue (e. g. 494, 1131), except at the diaeresis and end of the verse (prīus e. g. 460).

456. ueniat, 'come' (subj.), 'shall come'; so regularly with antequam, priusquam, donec, quoad, dum when an action is to be marked as merely contemplated or in prospect (the original sense of will or purpose having been completely lost). opprimat, cf. on 387.

457. confugiam huc, 'I will take refuge here'; huc=in fanum, cf. 480, 570, 622. res noua, 'an emergency,' cf. Pseud. 601 noua res haec subito mi obiectast; for suppetit=adest, in praesto est, without dative, cf. Mil. 205, quod agat aegre suppetit.

SCENE 5. Sceparnio returns with the urn full of water. The pleasure which he has found in his task recalls Ferdinand's speech in the Tempest, III. 1. 4 ff.:

'This my mean task
Would be as heavy to me as odious, but
The mistress which I serve quickens what's dead
And makes my labours pleasures.'

After trying in vain to find Ampelisca, Sceparnio wishes to give the urn to the priestess; but as she does not come out, he has to take it into the temple.

460. nimio, cf. on 185.

461. praefascine or praefascini [fascinum, 'witchcraft'] = ἀβασκάνρωσ, a phrase for averting an evil omen, like the Irish 'in a good hour be it spoken!' It occurs again Asin. 491 praefascini hoc nunc dixerim, 'without vanity be it spoken.' Sceparnio is filled with self-satisfaction at having fallen in love; his nequam 462, 'rascal,' 'devil of a fellow,' is merely an expression of complacency. Nettleship, Contrib. to Lat. Lexicography, p. 555, shows that the original form of the word praefascine was praefascini (Charisius).

462. satın is almost an interrog. particle (nonne), cf. on Most. 76 satın abiit, Trin. 925. utpote qui, with subj. (causal, cf. 105) = quippe qui with indic. 384.

463. em tibi aquam, 'there is the water for you,' see Excursus, p. 189. em sic uolo, 'there! that's how I wish,' etc. mea belliatā, 'my beauty,' cf. i belle, belliatula Cas. IV. 4. 28 (A), and Shakspeare's 'most beautified Ophelia.' Studemund in Hermes I. p. 303 compares amphiatūs.

465. delicata, 'playful one,' cf. uah delicatū's! Mil. 984, Most. 947; delicias facere, 'to make fun,' Men. 381, &c. sia, lit. 'if you please,' from si uis, as Cic. says (Or. XLV. 154).

466. delituit mala, 'she's playing hide and seek, the rogue!' cf. Hor. Od. I. 9. 21 f., Verg. Ecl. III. 65.

467. etiamne and etiam, when introducing impatient questions equivalent to commands, take either the future participle with sum, as here, and 469 ('are you going to . . .'), or the pres. indic., e.g. Most. 937 etiamne aperis? Poen. 431, Most. 383 etiam uigilas? 513, Trin. 514, 790, Curc. 41, 189, Pers. 152, Bacch. 670: not the fut. indic.

468. commodule metuis, 'you play timidity very well.' Commodule = satis commode, lit. 'about right,' not elsewhere found; but cf. commodum (adv.) obsona, ne magno sumptu, 'cater suitably,' Mil. 750, hoc conuiuium pro nostris opibus satis commodulumst, 'about right for . . .,' Stich. 690. uero serio, asyndeton of two adverbs, 'really and seriously,' as in Poen. 160, 438, Truc. 302, 921, Merc. 685, Cas. IV. 2. 11. Vero is opposed to falso (cf. Most. 177, Capt. 567, Asin. 568), serio to ioco (cf. Amph. 964).

470. ludos me facit, 'she is making fun of me'; cf. Capt. 579, Aul. 253, Amph. 571, &c. With the construction ludos facere aliquem cf. the compound verb ludificari, and the similar phrase ludos dimittere aliquem 791. Contrast ludos facere alicui 594.

472. sed autem, 'but softly'; cf. Bacch. 512 (519^a Goetz), sed . . . autem Truc. 335, Phorm. 601. quid si . . . 'what if . . .' i. e. what would happen if . . .; cf. Asin. 195, 720, Aul. 776, Truc. 766, Cas. II. 5. 37, Hec. 442: Rud. 535 is slightly different ('how would it be if . . . ?' a proposal to take a certain course); cf. Most. 393, 581 f., Capt. 599, Curc. 351, Poen. 1162.

476. nempe, 'to wit,' 'I mean'; cf. 268. optumo iure, 'with perfect justice'; cf. 537.

478. litterata = litteris inscripta, cf. 1156, 1159, Cas. II. 6. 49, litteratae fictiles epistulae Poen. 836, ἔκπωμα γραμματικόν Athen. 466 A, seruos litteratus, 'a branded slave.' εἶπαρσε (cf. 411) cantat, 'it tells its own tale'; cf. Bacch. 985 metuo ne idem cantent quod priores, Most. 980 uera cantas. quouia; cf. 229.

480. huc; cf. 457, and contrast 482.

481. Scan cāpe hānc urn.

482. nescioquis = aliquis is always accented either nēscīdōquis (perhaps pronounced nēscyoquis) or nescīdōquis (nescyōquis).

484. On the scansion siquidem hīs see 1061. ultra (hiatus) i. e. in addition to drawing it. adgerunda; for adg. aquam cf. Cas. I. 36, Poen. 224.

SCENE 6. Enter Labrax from the shore (right), followed after a brief interval by Charmides. The latter, who shows some pluck, meets the reproaches of Labrax with taunts and mockery.

485. qui homo; for this order at the beginning of a speech cf. Aul. 790, Curc. 380, Trin. 305, Most. 1041, in middle of speech Curc. 170, Poen. 874. uolet; for the fut. in subord. clauses of a 'general' character ('ever clauses') cf. Men. 87, 93 (dum), Poen. 210, Most. 1041, Pers. 366, Aul. 601.

488. ad hoc exemplum (370) ornatum (187 b, 321, 730), 'in a plight like this.'

490. An allusion to some lost myth about Herakles. Lucian (De mercede conductis, 23) says that Libertas never enters the house of a rich man.

492. atque eccum, Engl. 'but look,' introducing some new person or fact, like καὶ μὴν: cf. 1209, Most. 1127 atque eccum optume (1120 sed eccum), Asin. 151, 403, Amph. 955, &c. malum, 'the mischief,' an 'interiectio stomachantis' found only in questions; cf. 945, Most. 6, 34, 368, Aul. 429, Capt. 531, Men. 390, Mil. 446.

493. consequi = sequi, cf. 241, 948.

494. The MSS. have hiatus in caesura.

495. perbiteres. Bitere = ire is found uncompounded four times in Plaut. (Curc. 141, Merc. 465, Pseud. 254, Stich. 608) and in fragments of Pacuvius, Pomponius and Varro; compounds perbitere = perire (seven times), abitere (Rud. 777, 815), adbitere, interbitere, rebilere, praeterbitere. In Stich. 608 some read ebitat. For the imperf. subj. = pluperf. subj. (498) with utinam cf. Capt. 537 utinam te di prius perderent, with si Rud. 590.

496. quem propter; prepositions generally stand after relatives in Plaut., cf. for propter 1411, Aul. 786, Truc. 391, Bacch. 1032, Trin. 1164, Amph. 1016, Mil. 1086 (Bothe); for ab on Rud. 555.

500. omnis, 'none but'; cf. Epid. 591 quae didici dixi omnia, 'I have said nothing but what I have learned,' Cic. pro Planc. VII. 17, Sall. Jug. 103. 1. tui (synzesis) similis, 'like yourself,' i. e. persons who will not be able to complain if they get into trouble through association with you. habeas tibi, 'have for yourself,' pleonastic, cf. Truc. 392, 495, Amph. 907, Bacch. 45.

501. To let good luck or bad luck into the house was a proverbial expression: cf. Aul. 100 si Bona Fortuna ueniat ne intromiseris.

502. quid mihi tibi erat auscultatio? 'What business had I to listen to you?' = quor tibi auscultau? (540) or quor mihi tibi auscultandum erat? cf. 503, Most. 6 quid tibi clamitatio? Poen. 1308 quid tibi istanc digito tactio? Most. 34 quid tibi me . . . curatio? &c. scelesto, 'wretched fool,' cf. 801, 1167, from the special Plautine sense of 'under a curse,' 'unlucky'; cf. 508, 1184, Most. 504 scelestae haec aedes, 532, 563, Rud. 1001 scelus = infortunium. Contrast scelestus, 'wicked,' 456, 1058, 1093 f., sceleste and scelus 506, Asin. 476 sceleste ('rascal') non audes mihi scelesto ('poor devil') subuenire?

504. plus boni quam mihi fuit, i. e. Palaestra, who had been sold to Plesidippus.

505. miror si = miror quod (classical).

506. scelus te, 'a rascal like you,' cf. Bacch. 1095 is me scelus . . . attendit. sceleste parta, 'your rascally gains'; cf. the proverb male parta ('ill gotten gains') male dilabuntur.

507. pessum dedisti, cf. 395. For the accentuation me blandimentis tuis at the end of a senarius cf. Amph. 592 mecum argumentis puta, Pseud. 837 cum condimentis tuis, Cas. Prol. 61 impedimentis sibi.

509. Thyestes and Tereus fed upon the bodies of their own sons, who had been murdered and served up at table out of revenge by Atreus (brother of Thyestes) and Procne (wife of Tereus). Terēo. Greek names in -eus pass over into the 2nd decl. in Latin, except in the nom. and voc. case, e.g. Orphēus, Orphēu, Orphēum: so sometimes even those which assume the form -es in the nom., e.g. Ulixes, Ulixem Bacch. 7 (Bücheler), Ulixēi Hor. Od. I. 6. 6, Epod. 16. 60, Achilles, Achillēi Od. I. 15. 34.

510. animo male fit, 'I am feeling sick,' cf. animo malest Amph. 1058, Truc. 365. oōntinē (Intr. to Capt. A. (i), p. 10) 'hold together,' i. e. 'hold with both hands,' cf. Cas. III. 5. 14.

511. pulmoneum uomitum uomas = pulmonem euomas. uelim, 'I could wish,' with parataxis (cf. on 365).

512. eheu, see Excursus, p. 191. Scan esti' nunc, cf. on 103.

513. credo, parenthetic, as very often in Plaut.

516 f. est quod habeas, &c., 'you ought by rights to feel very grateful to me, who have turned you into a man of humour: you were as dry as dust before'; cf. 301. For the order b. est quod h. cf. Stich. 391 meo malo est quod maleuolentes gaudeant.

517. opera mea is the retort to opera tua 514.

518. quin is? cf. 122.

519. eas, 'be off,' cf. 403, almost equivalent to eas tu, 'go yourself,' cf. Poen. 873 SYN. I in malam rem. MI. I tu atque erus. easque res agebam commodum, 'that was what I was just thinking of saying' (and should have said, had you not forestalled me), i.e. ut ires in malam crucem. For the plural eas res cf. Bacch. 110 expectans quas tu res hoc ornatu geras, instead of the more usual quam rem. For -que, cf. neque 359. For commodum cf. Cas. III. 4. 3 ad te hercle ibam commodum, Stich. 365 Commodum radiosus sese sol superabat ex mari. The general run of the sentence reminds one of Pers. 352 ferant, eantque in maxumam malam crucem, Cas. III. 4. 21 ducas, easque in maxumam malam crucem.

521. tanto strengthens multo, cf. Men. 800 multo tanto amplius, Bacch. 310 multo tanto carior, Stich. 339 nimio multo tanto plus (a comic heaping up of ablatives). miserior, sc. uiuo.

522. qui?—quia, cf. 151, 538. sies, sc. miser.

523. Compare Aristoph. Wasps 1292-6, where Xanthias apostrophises the tortoise: ἰὸ χελῶναι μακάριαι τοῦ δέρματος, &c. scirpe: the scene represents bullrushes in the background; see Introduction. laudo fortunas tuas, 'I congratulate you on your condition.' For plural *fortuna*e (Eng. 'fortunes') cf. 185, 674, laudare f. Andr. 97, Cic. Tusc. V. 39. 115, queri f. Asin. 513, Cas. II. 1. 14, Mil. 125, fungi f. Most. 48, uostrae f. meis praecedunt Asin. 629, and similar phrases Truc. 219, 372, 709, Cist. I. 1. 116, Capt. 958, Andr. 609, Phorm. 201, 473, f. secundae Stich. 300. The singular fortuna rarely has this meaning (Langen, Beitr. p. 294), generally 'the goddess Fortune,' e. g. Rud. 501.

525. Velitari, properly 'to skirmish,' of light armed troops (uelites), metaphorically 'to wrangle,' cf. Men. 778 nescio quid uos uelitati estis inter uos; hence uelitatio = 'ultra citroque probrorum obiectatio' Festus, uerbiuelitatio, 'scrimmage of words,' Asin. 307. Note absence of caesura; cf. Mil. 485 certúmst nunc opseruáitioni operám dare.

526. omnia corusca fabulor, 'all my words have a flourish in them': cf. hastam coruscare. praetremore: the sound is suggestive of shivering.

527. balineator from balineum, the latinized form of βαλανείον,

'bath,' cf. machina, μαχανή (Doric); patina, πατάνη; bucina, βυκάνη; trutina, τρυνάνη, &c. It was the business of the balineator (βαλανεύς, 'bath man') to pour cold water over the heads of the bathers after they had taken a warm bath; his assistants were called παραχύται. Neptune does the work so thoroughly that the bather feels cold even when dressed.

528 ff. It is possible to scan ab tē ab-: but perhaps it is more natural in view of lines 529, 533, 534, 537, 538 to suppose that the word algeo or abii is spoken with chattering teeth, al-álgeo or ab-ábii, cf. Most. 319, 331 ma-ma-madere, 'to be ti-ti-tipsy,' the stammer of a drunken man. It is a remarkable fact that in this passage (528-538) there are no less than six lines in which the question of hiatus arises; and they are all spoken by persons who are shivering with cold. Seyffert on 537 f. suggested that we might read Iure óptumo-mo mé-me elauisse árbitor, and Qui? Qui-quia, thus preserving the order of words in the MSS. and getting rid of the hiatus; and the same method should be applied to the other five lines. Thus read with 'corusca uerba' 529 in-instruit, perhaps also ul-állum, 533 ut-úterer or an-ánetina, 534 aqu-áqu-aqua ar-arerém: can there have been here an intentional suggestion of 'quack-quack'?

529. thermipolium, latinized form of θερμωπόλιον, a resort where hot drinks were sold (Curc. 292, Trin. 1013 f.), cf. Patricoles from Πάτροκλος.

531 is the companion picture to 523.

533. anetinus, adj. from anas, 'duck,' gen. anatis or anitís (Capt. 1003 anites, Cic. de Nat. Deor. II. 124 anitum), cf. Asin. 693 aniticula B' D, aneticula B^a (diminutive of anas). Correct the spelling of both words in Lew. and Sh.

utor regularly takes the abl. in Plaut., Ter., Cato and the tragedians, as in class. Lat.; the accus. of a neuter pronoun is found (Merc. 145, Asin. 199, Ad. 815), and in two passages the accus. of a noun or participle (Poen. 1088 operam meam, Rud. 1241 partum: Stich. 450 a, Epid. 264 are probably interpolated). Yet that the word originally (before Plautus) took an accus. is made probable by the common gerundive constr. (e.g. Rud. 602 scalas utendas) and the fact that abutor always takes the accus. in Plaut. and Ter. (Trin. 682, Bacch. 359 f., Phorm. 413, &c.). See Langen in Archiv III. 3.

535. me pro manduco locem, 'hire myself out as an ogre.' Masked heads with moveable jaws were introduced in the Atellan interludes: 'effigies in pompa antiquorum inter ceteras ridiculas formidosasque [res] ire solebat, magnis malis, ac late dehiscens, et ingentem dentibus sonitum faciens' Festus. 'In Atellanis Dosennum ("hunchback") uocant manducum' Varro L. L. VII. 95. 'Manducos qui manduci dicti sunt et mandones' Nonius; cf. Juv. III. 174 f. personae pallentis hiatum In gremio matris formidat rusticus infans.

537. iure optumo, transl. 'I quite deserve,' cf. 476. elauisse, a slang expression found in two other passages with the sense 'to have been cleaned out,' 'to have lost one's property,' always in connection with the sea: Rud. 579, Asin. 135 nam mare haud est mare, uos mare acerrimum: nam in mari repperi, hic elauit bonis (abl. as with spolior). The verb has reflexive or passive sense like lauare (see on 151 and cf. eluere 579) and thus is equivalent to elautus esse 699.

538. auderem, subj. because subord. to me elauisse.

541. illi=illic: contrast istic=isti 118. esse=fore, cf. 307.

542. conruere, transitive, very rare, cf. Lucr. V. 369, Varro, L. L. V. 139 Müll. Conruere, 'to get together rapidly (easily),' as distinct from conradere, 'to scrape together laboriously.' ditias: this form only at the end of verses.

543. iam, 'immediately,' with deuoraturum, cf. 444. postulabas almost=sperabas, cf. Prol. 17. inpurata (not a participle, cf. on 260): 751, Aul. 357, Phorm. 669.

545. ballaena, not balaena, according to the best MSS. in Ovid, Met. II. 9, Plin. H. N. IX. 12 ff., Juv. X. 14; cf. Paulus, p. 31 (Nettle-ship).

546. compactum, cf. 715, 1147.

548. sacciperium, latinized diminutive of σακκοπήρα, 'wallet.'

550. pallium, a square piece of stuff thrown over the body like a cloak. oppido, 'utterly,' cf. on 207.

551. consociare, 'enter into partnership.'

553. spes, plural (metri causa), cf. 1161, and eas res 519.

555. quo ab, cf. Asin. 119 (but abs qua Men. 345, a quo Epid. 143): note on 496.

558. uiuet, 'wags.' qui, abl. (antecedent copia).

SCENE 7. Enter Sceparnio from the temple, where he has seen the two girls embracing the statue of Venus. From his soliloquy Labrax discovers that his victims are in the neighbourhood, and rushes into the temple. Charmides entreats Scep. for dry clothes and shelter, but in vain. Scep. retires into the cottage, and Charm. follows Labrax into the temple, after a short soliloquy.

560. amplexae, because deponent: contrast urbem obsessam tenent.

561 f. The repeated aiunt seems to be a vulgarism, like our 'says he.'

563. istaec, nom. pl. fem., cf. Men. 520, 766 (istaec, neut. pl. Rud. 752). memoras=dicis, very common in old Lat.; not in Caesar, rare in Cic.

565. nēmpe, cf. on 343.

566. possum . . . si siem, 'I could (should be able) . . . if I were.' The indic. (pres. as well as past tenses) for subj. in expressions denoting 'can,' 'must,' 'ought' is frequently found in Plaut., as in class. Lat. Examples with the pres. of posse are Mil. 764 otium si sit, possum expromere, Poen. 351, 864, Curc. 246, 268, Trin. 85, 414, Bacch. 479, Asin. 153, 164, Pers. 40, Cas. II. 5. 6, Aul. 558, Hec. 471; cf. Cic. II. Verr. IV. 7. 14 si uelim nominare homines . . . nonne possum? 9. 20 neque debent adiuuare si possint, neque possunt si uelint; 40. 87 non possum . . . si cupiam; 51. 115 si cupiamus . . . qui possumus? adpotus, 'drunk': Curc. 354 cenati atque adpoti, Amph. 282 adpotus probe.

567. uise, cf. on 94.

568. meas, synzesis. oportet, 'must.' mi Charmides: joy makes Labrax affectionate.

569. tamen, 'all the same,' belonging in sense to the principal clause, cf. 1124.

570. barathrum, βάραθρον, the place at Athens into which criminals were hurled; cf. Bacch. 148 (Curc. 121 = the belly). [Exit Labrax, into the temple.]

571. hospes, 'kind stranger,' addressed to Scep. aliquid loci, cf. 301, 415.

572. istio, i. e. in uia. ubi uis, 'wherever you like.'

575. locus, here 'occasion,' 'opportunity.' The abl. loco is always joined with in by Plaut., except in Most. 254, locis Rud. 907, Amph. 568.

576. tegillum = leges, a mat woven out of bullrushes and used to draw round the body and over the head; cf. Paulus tegillum: cucullunculum ex scirpo factum; Apul. Met. IX. 12 nonnulli exiguo tegili tantummodo pubem iniecti. The first syllable is long (tēgillum or figillum: correct Lew. and Sh.) in spite of the fact that the word comes from root tēg-, cf. tēgula, 'tile,' also from tēg-, and rēgilla = recta (tunica Varro ap. Non. 539. 10, inducula Epid. 223) from rēg-. The same word is probably found in Aul. 301 de sub tigillo fūmus si qua exit foras, where however it means 'cottage' according to Nonius, p. 134 ligellum (a mistake for tigellum): tuguriolum, domicilium breue. Cf. Iuppiter Tigillus, 'the Protector,' August. Civ. D. 7. 11. Tigillum from tignum (cf. sigillum from signum) is an altogether different word. [Bücheler in Rhein. Mus. XXXIX. p. 422 f.]

578. eho (i) expresses surprise, anger or derision ('zounds!' 'what!' &c.) before a question, cf. Most. 178 eho mauis uituperarier? eho an . . . Trin. 933, 942 f., eho quis . . . Mil. 435, eho amabo quid . . . Poen. 263: (ii) calls the attention of the person addressed ('ho!' 'I say!' &c.) before a vocative or a command, e.g. eho tu Trin. 55, eho

Pseudole Pseud. 348, Men. 432, eho dic mihi Capt. 623, Most. 843. [Seyffert in Philol. XXIX. p. 394 f., Richter de us. part. exclam.]

578 f. an te paenitet . . . ni eluam? 'are you not content . . . unless I be robbed (without my being robbed)?' Charm. is dissatisfied with the proposed exchange of garments. For paenitet=parum uidetur cf. Trin. 320, Truc. 533, Pseud. 305, Bacch. 1182, &c.; for the subj. Eun. 1013 an paenitebat . . . ni miserum insuper etiam patri indicares? Merc. 692 parumne est (is it not enough) malae rei quod amat Demipho, ni sumptuosus insuper etiam siet? Phorm. 546, Andr. 647: with si Trin. 1186. eluam has here the same reflexive or passive sense as elau, (cf. on 537), to which it does duty as a present: the present elauo, and the perfect elui, are not used by Plaut. Elsewhere the verb eluere has the ordinary sense 'to wash out,' 'to wash clean': Aul. 270 uascula, Capt. 846 patinas, Pseud. 162 argentum, Stich. 670 peregrina omnia, 'every trace of the foreigner,' Poen. 199 maculam.

580. eluas an exunguare, 'whether you are cleaned out by washing or anointing,' a piece of word fencing, i.e. 'whether you come to grief in this way or in that.' For the meaning of ex- cf. Trin. 406 quid factumst eo?—Exessum, expotum, exunctum, elotum (so M; A has elutum) in balineis, 'it has been spent in eating,' &c., Truc. 312 exestis, exunguimini, edibitis (allusions to the extravagant sums spent in ointments by the luxurious classes). For an without utrum or -ne cf. 213. ciccum (not ciccus, Lew. and Sh.), 'a straw,' γρῦ, properly the thin membrane surrounding the grains of the pomegranate (malum punicum) as Festus and Varro say. interduim, subj. of the old Lat. pres. indic. interduo (cf. duim, interduim, perduis, creduit, &c.), here expressing modest assertion, 'I am not inclined to make the distinction of a ciccum,' cf. Trin. 994 floccum non interduim.

581. nisi si=nisi, not elsewhere used by Plaut. without verb.

583. barbarum, 'from foreign parts.' Charm. was a Sicilian, not ex germana Graecia (737); but it is not clear how Scep. could have known this. in aedis, sc. uenire, cf. Stich. 496 cras de reliquiis nos uolo, Asin. 30, Mil. 220. nil moror, 'I don't care for,' as often in Plaut. and class. Lat. [Exit Scep. into the cottage.]

584. uenalis ductitauit, 'has been a slave dealer.' (Cf. Trin. 332 uenalis habuit), explained by non est misericors 585.

586. crapulam, 'potations.' Cf. Most. 1122, Pseud. 1281, Cic. Phil. II. 12. 30 edormi crapulam et exhala. (quam potaui 587, 'which I have imbibed').

587. A mixture of two constructions, praeter animi sententiam and praeter quam lubuit; cf. meo arbitrato ut uolui Mil. 1221, ut uolui ex sententia Merc. 94, meo modo ut uolui Trin. 827, and on Rud. 963.

588. 'Neptune has poured salt water into us as though we were Greek wines.' The inferior kinds of Greek wine were mixed with sea water, in order to make them keep (οἶνος τεθλασσωμένος): Cato, R. R. 24. Such wines were regarded as unwholesome: Dioscorides, V. 10.

589. itaque, 'and so,' cf. 369. aluom prodi, 'that we should (307, 636) be cleared out.' Cf. aluom deicere Cato, R. R. 158, al. superiorem d. 156, al. mouere 115, al. citare Columella VII. 9, al. ciere Celsus, Pliny.

590. quid opust uerbis? 'to cut the matter short,' 'in a word,' a common Plautine formula. inuitare, 'entertain.' si pergeret; for imperf. subj.=pluperf. subj. in conditional sentences cf. Asin. 397 argenti uiginti minas, si adesset, accepisset, Pers. 173, Stich. 742; Mil. 28 pol si quidem conisus esses per corium . . . transmineret bracchium, 720 ff., Rud. 1260, Curc. 700, Bacch. 434; Merc. 993, Capt. 871, Bacch. 1208 f.; Asin. 678 numquam hercle facerem, genua ni tam nequiter fricares, Aul. 439, 741.

591. ibidem, i.e. in the sea. uix uiuos amisit domum, cf. Most. 432 quom med amisisti a te uix uiuom domum. Amisit=dimisit, 'let go,' cf. Capt. Arg. 7, Prol. 36, II. 2. 82.

592. agit. Note the indic. in a dep. question of which the subject is 'anticipated,' cf. on 353, 356. conuiuam, 'my boon companion,' i.e. in the drinking bout described above.

ACT III, SCENE I. Enter Daemones from his cottage. He tells of a dream which he had during the previous night, portending an attempted robbery; cf. Merc. II. 1, which opens with a similar passage.

593. miris modis, 'in wondrous wise,' again Merc. 225, Mil. 539, Men. 1039, Hec. 179; Verg. Georg. I. 477 modis pallentia miris, &c., Lucretius: cf. on 147.

594. ludos facere, with dat.= 'to play a comedy before the eyes of' (to divert or to mystify), cf. Most. 427, Merc. II. 1. 1. Contrast ludos facere with acc. 470, 'to make fun of.'

595. Pronounce quidē. Final m is often dropped before a consonant in Plaut. (eni, paru, ueli): Intr. to Capt. p. 9.

597. inscitum, 'uncanny.'

599. ascensionem facere=ascendere, cf. Bacch. 296 reursionem f.

600. eas, i.e. hirundines, cf. on 198. eripere, i.e. ex nido. postibi=postea, only in Plaut., cf. 1263, Mil. 1418, Poen. 902, Prol. 108, Cist. II. 3. 76; so interibi=interea.

601. adgredirier, 4th conj. Merc. 248, Truc. 252, 461, adgredimur Rud. 299, Asin. 680; so ingrediri Pseud. 1299 (A), progrediri Cas. V. 1. 9, Men. 754, congredibor Most. 783, &c.

602. utendas, cf. on 533.

604. Attica. Philomela was a daughter of Pandion, king of Athens.
605. ago cum, 'plead with,' cf. Pseud. 187 tecum ago, Hec. 686 egi atque oraui tecum. popularibus, 'compatriots,' cf. 615.
606. fieri, historical infin. ferocior (allit.), 'more insolent.'
607. ultra, 'take the offensive and.'
611. dicam attinere = attineat, a pleonasm very common in Plaut., especially with dicere, cf. Trin. 2 finem fore quem dicam nescio, Amph. 825, Aul. 67, 804, Capt. 268, 533, Curc. 463, Men. 887, Pseud. 966, Truc. 70, Hec. 520, Phorm. 660; with arbitrari Most. 89 b (note), 119; with praedicare Rud. 138, Pseud. 1306; with credere Bacch. 500, Merc. 252, Hec. 261. Similarly Cic. pro Sest. 117 quid populus Romanus sentire se ostenderet declaratum est, Verg. Aen. V. 96.
612. ad coniecturam euadere, 'to arrive at an interpretation'; cf. coniecturam facere (of a dream) 771, Curc. 246, conicere somnium Curc. 253, conicitor Curc. 249.
- 613 f. quid hoc clamoris oritur? 'What is this shouting which arises?' Cf. Aul. 403 sed quid hoc clamoris oritur hinc ex proxumo? Trin. 1093, Cas. III. 4. 29. For the partitive gen. cf. 415. meae uiciniae, locative (Bücheler, Lat. Decl. p. 62); so, acc. to MSS, proxumae uiciniae Bacch. 205, Mil. 273; cf. Charisius, p. 223, 11. For the abl. in similar phrases (proxuma uicinia) cf. Most. 1062, Aul. 402, Mil. 1377, 154, and note of Luchs on Mil. 273, in 3rd ed. of Brix.
- SCENE 2. Enter Trachalio from the temple, where Labrax has been attempting to drag the suppliants by force from the statue of Venus. He implores the aid of Daemones, who goes with two stout slaves (lorarii) into the temple to interfere. A noise is heard within, as the struggle begins.
615. Compare Aul. III. 1. 1.
617. exemplum = facinus. pessumum pessum (395, 507), a pun, as in Most. 1171 pro suis factis pessumis pessum premam.
618. uindicate, 'interfere,' 'take steps,' cf. uindicatum (uindicandum) est in eos, Sall. Cat. 9, Cic. II. Verr. V. 50. 133, Cat. Jug. XXXI. 18. potior sit pollutia, again Cas. IV. 4. 3.
619. nobilis, 'notorious,' cf. Haut. 227 nobilis meretrix: nobilis = notus Pseud. 1112 neque eis (umquam) nobilis fui; ibid. 592, 964 ignobilis = ignotus. qui; for the generalizing masc. pl. cf. 624, 728.
620. statuite exemplum, 'make an example of,' lit. 'appoint an exemplary punishment for.' Gellius, VII. 14. 4, says 'ueteres nostri exempla pro maximis grauissimisque poenis dicebant,' cf. Most. 1116 exempla edepol faciam ego in te, Eun. 948 in quem exempla fient? 1022, Caes. B. G. I. 31. 9 in eos omnia exempla cruciatusque edere, Sall. Cat. LI. 27, Tac. Ann. XII. 20, XIV. 44. inpudenti, 'shamelessness,' neut. cf. bonum aequomque 184, inhumanum, 'inhumanity,' 767, melius, 'a better thing,' 675 b, iniquom 1096, dulce amarumque Pseud. 63, uetus Pseud. 436, uerisimile Mil. 291.

621. potius quam ui uicto, 'and not coerced by brute force.' For the dat. of the predicate adj. with licet cf. Truc. 301 abire hinc saluis licet, Men. 878.

624. qui, i. e. eis qui, the antecedent being understood as in 1322, Mil. III. 1. 97-100 da (sc. aliquid) qui faciam condimenta, da quod dem quinquatribus . . . flagitiumst si nil mittetur (sc. ei) quae supercilio spicii (note of Tyrrell), IV. 2. 85, Most. 522 nec quae dico obtemperas, Capt. V. 1. 20, Amph. Prol. 38, Bacch. 1091, Poen. 766, 820.

626. peruenat = perueniat, perhaps from an old pres. uenère (Corssen), cf. Trin. 93, euenat Curc. 39, Epid. 287, 321, Mil. 1010, aduenat Pseud. 1030, conuenat 543 b, euenunt Curc. 125 (Fleck.).

627. per ego haec genua; cf. Men. 990 per ego uobis deos dico, Bacch. 905 per te, ere, opsecro, Andr. 538, 834, Hor. Od. I. 8. 1.

629, 638. tumultues = tumultuaris, again Mil. 172; cf. (in some cases side by side with deponents) the Plautine forms adsentio Rud. 975, amplecto 816, amplexo, arbitror, aucupo, auspico 717, circumplecto, congraeco, contemplo, crimino, cuncto, delucto, fabulo, fluctuo 303, 903, frustro, indipisco, insecto, ludifico, medico, mereo, minio, morigero, munero, nicio, nutrico, opino, pacisco, partio, perscrulo, proficisco, sortio, suscito, suspico, tulo, uago, uenero.

630. sirpe, 'silphium,' a latinized form of the Greek σάλφιον (*σάλφιον, σίρπιον, sirpe). The plant is described by Theophrastus, Hist. Plant. VI. 3. 4, as having a hollow stalk (νάρθηξ), a thick root (i. e. root stock), a leaf like that of parsley (σέλινον), and a flat seed (probably a seed-vessel) of a leaf-like appearance (φυλλῶδες). This description would be suitable to an umbelliferous plant, like the English parsley. Ellis on Catullus VII. 4 lasserpiciferae Cyrenae says that the plant was probably the Narthex asafetida (sometimes called Ferula asafetida), 'which corresponds closely with the figure as represented on coins of Cyrenae (see Dict. of Geography and the woodcut in Taubmann's Plautus, Rud. 630) in its erect thick stem with longitudinal furrowings, its arrangement of leaves and the form and size of its flower stalks.' The method described by Theophrastus (§ 2) of obtaining a juice (ὀπός) from σάλφιον corresponds with that by which the drug asafetida is now-a-days obtained from the plant Narthex asafetida, by incision of the living root. Silphium was grown in great abundance in the neighbourhood of Cyrene, and was a principal source of its wealth: hence frequently represented on its coins. lasserpicum (for the spelling cf. Pseud. 816 A) was probably a product of the plant silphium, used as a drug (Pliny H. N. XX. 13. 51, § 141), and also highly esteemed as a condiment by Roman epicures (Pseud. 816). The modern drug asafoetida has an offensive odour and taste; but taste is capricious; garlic is as attractive to some nations as it is offensive to others. In XIX. 3. 15, § 38, Pliny says that the juice of the silphium was called laser. The derivation of lasserpicum is uncertain: perhaps it = laser piccum; Solinus 15. 40 derives it from lac sirpicum, 'milk of silphium,' cf. γάλα Theophr. (referred to on 630). Wharton (Etyma Latina) says it is an African word.

631. eam exagoram Capuam = eius ex. C., 'exportation of it to C.': ἐξαγωγή, pure Lat. euectio (Festus). For eam cf. has (gratias) 906.

632. siccitas, lit. 'dryness,' i.e. 'immunity.' ab lippitudine, 'from rheum (humours)'; cf. siccum sanguine guttur (abl. without prep.) Verg. Aen. VIII. 261, IX. 64. usque, 'ever,' 'uninterruptedly'; cf. Most. 449 TR. usquin ualuiti? TH. usque (Merc. 373 CH. perpetuo), Amph. 679, Pers. 23, Epid. 129, Bacch. 248. ut probably depends on futurum 630. It would seem from this passage that diseases of the eyes were prevalent at Cyrene.

633. magūdaris (correct the quantity in Lew. and Sh.) is probably a name for the seed or seed-vessel of the silphium; cf. Theophrastus, Hist. Plant. VI. 3. 4 ἐκ δὲ τούτου μαγύδαριν τὸ καὶ καλούμενον φύλλον (φύεσθαι), 'and that from this (the stalk) grows the magudaris, as the foliage (i. e. leafy seed-vessel) is also called.' In § 1 he said it was called μάσπερον. Note si (629) . . . seu, cf. 776, Men. 794, &c., si . . . si 1257.

634. ut depends on oro 629.

636. ut, 'as.' esse = fore, cf. 307, 589. uirgidemia, a humorous coinage of Plautus, on the analogy of windemia (uini-demia): ulmeam uirgidemiam, 'vintage of the elm.' Elm rods were used for the chastisement of slaves: Amph. 1029, Pseud. 333, 545, &c.

637. messem mali, cf. Trin. 33 eorum (i. e. morum malorum) licet iam messem melere maxumam. In Most. 161, Epid. 718, Poen. 1919 the MSS. support the form messim.

639. qui, 'why' (interrogative, cf. on 123).

640. bene tibi dico, 'I speak you fair.'

641. præuorti, lit. 'to turn oneself to something (rei, or with pronouns id, hoc, illud. &c.) in preference to other things,' hence 'to attend to'; cf. Capt. II. 3. 100, V. 4. 29.

642. Scan Dúae innoc and túí indig.

643. insignite (= insigniter) iniuria factast, 'a glaring wrong has been done,' cf. 1097, Mil. 560, Poen. 809, Cic. pro Quinct. 73 insignite improbus.

649 f. eas and deos, one syll. (synizesis).

653. quid illum porro praedicem? 'what should I call him further?' cf. Prol. 30 porro, Men. 909 se miserum praedical, Pseud. 192.

654. praedicas, 'you speak of,' cf. Aul. 312 edepol mortalem parce parcum praedicas, Mil. 968, Most. 981: contrast Rud. 341, 653. infortunio donabilem, 'who deserves to be flogged'; cf. incredibilis, 'not to be believed' 912, merx inuendibilis Poen. 341, inmemorabilis, 'not fit to be mentioned' Capt. Prol. 56.

657. Turbatio = tumultuator, from turba, τὺρβη; Sparax = lacerator from σπαράσσειν: names of lorarii.

658. iterum haud imperabo, 'I will not give orders a second time' (but punish you), a threat addressed to the slaves, because they do not appear at once.

659. iube, sc. eos. elidere, 'knock out,' cf. Mil. 167 talos elidi, Verg. Aen. VIII. 261 angit inhaerens elisos oculos, 'starting eyeballs.' sepia, 'cuttle fish,' cf. sepiola Cas. II. 8. 57.

660. proripite, 'pitch out,' cf. Cic. in Verr. II. 5. 62 hominem proripi iubet. itidem (from ita-dem, cf. i-dem) quasi = perinde ac.

661. pectitur, 'is being belaboured,' cf. Men. V. 7. 30, Capt. IV. 2. 116 fusti pectilo, Shaksp. Taming of Shrew, Act I. Scene 1. 64 'Doubt not her care should be to comb your noddle with a three legged stool.'

662. nimis uelim edentauerint, 'I only hope they have knocked the teeth out of,' cf. 511.

SCENE 3. The two girls rush out of the temple in despair. Trachalio assures them of his protection and bids them seat themselves upon the steps of the altar, situated in the court outside the temple. They obey and address a united prayer to Venus.

664. id est, 'is the moment,' cf. nunc illud est quom Capt. III. 3. 1, Ad. III. 2. 1, Nunc est ille dies quom gloria maxuma sese Nobis ostendat si uiuimus siue morimur Enn. Ann. 383 f. Vahl.

665. auxilli praesidi, asyndeton of synonyms, Cas. III. 5. 3; cf. Rud. 675^b malis rebus, miseriis, Trin. 242 f., 285, Men. 342, Mil. 137, 201, 1232, Bacch. 246, 407, 748, 931, 935, &c. uiduitas, 'loss,' cf. orbitas. Viduus and orbis properly mean simply 'deprived of.'

667. persequamur with infin.; so in old Lat. occupo 248, Most. 566, Poen. 320, &c., adorno Epid. 690, adfecto Bacch. 377, conperco Poen. 350, conpesco Bacch. 463, exsequor Merc. 911, perpetro (= pergo) Truc. 465, expeto frequently: cf. too Rud. 224 perreptiui quaerere.

669. inportunitas, 'outrage,' cf. inp. et superbia, 'atrocious tyranny,' Cic. Repub. I. 40, Lael. 15. 54, inp. atque audacia II. Verr. II. 30. 74.

671. praecipēs = praeceps, 'ruthless(ly),' 'reckless(ly).' 'Antiqui ancipēs, praecipēs, bicipēs proferebant in nominatiuo: Plautus saliam in puteum praecipēs Prisc. VI. 95, who further quotes praecipem Laev. fr. 18 M, praecipē Enn. Ann. 422 M.; cf. ancipēs=anceps Rud. 1158.

672. reppulit, propulit, 'hustled backwards and forwards.'

675 a. moriri, always 4th conj. in Plaut., cf. 684, Asin. 121, Capt. III. 5. 74, Pseud. 1222, morimur Enn. Ann. 384 (quoted on 664).

675 b. melius, cf. on 620 impudenti. For the sentiment cf. 220 and Sall. Cat. 51 in luctu atque miseriis mortem aerumnarum requiem, non cruciatum esse: Seneca, Herc. F. 515 Qui morte cunctos luere supplicium iubet Nescit tyrannus esse. diuersa irroga: Miserum ueta perire, felicem iube.

676. cesso, without interrog. particle, cf. Aul. 397, 627, Capt. 827, Mil. 896, Cās. II. 3. 20, III. 6. 4, Pers. 197, Merc. 129. Synonymous phrase: sed ego cesso Capt. 827, Truc. 630, Epid. 100, 342.

677 a. qui=quis, cf. 98.

677 b, 678. For the repetition of thought cf. Curc. 304 quis uocat? quis nominat me? For the omission of the object cf. Ad. 778 quor hic nominat? sc. eum. respexis, cf. on faxo 365.

680. me uide, 'trust me,' 'look to me,' an expression peculiar to comedy, cf. Trin. 808, Merc. 1013, Andr. 350, Phorm. 711; similarly me spectes Asin. 680, me uiden Mil. 376. si modo liceat &c., '(I will do so) if only it be granted that violence do not crush us': id anticipates the ne clause.

681 a. Constr. quae uis adigit (ut) ipsa mi uim adferam, 'violence which impels me to lay violent hands on myself.' For uim adferre cf. 729. Adigit here (metri causa) for subigit, cf. adigere 273.

681 b. inepta, 'foolish.'

683. re=ῥερον, factis 1221, opposed to dictis 682. acta haec res est=actum est de nobis, 'the game is up': haec res=nostra res, cf. Trin. 507, Capt. 539.

684. quam=potius quam, cf. Men. 726 uidua uiuam quam tuos mores perferam, Bacch. 618 inimicos quam amicos aequomst med habere, Poen. 747, Sall. Jug. 82, Cat. 9, Tac. Ann. I. 58. Hiatus in diaeresis, cf. 354.

685. quom uenit, &c., 'now that I think of death'; for pres. indic. cf. 743, 771, Amph. 416, Mil. 1324, Bacch. 597, nunc quom Aul. 194, 629, Merc. 178. Note the alliteration (m), a constant feature of the verse of Plaut., cf. in this scene 669 (t. in.), 671 (s), 672 (p), 691 (t), 694 f. (a), 697 (f), 699 (n), 700 (u), and similarly throughout the play.

687. nam, interrogative, cf. nam quod malum Most. 191, nam qua causa Aul. 44, nam quam ob rem Amph. 553, nam cur Aul. 42, nam quid Amph. 661, &c. is animus, 'the courage you speak of,' cf. Bacch. 630 PI. Heia, habe bonum animum. MN. Vnde habeam? Pseud.

1095 SI. Bonan fide istuc dicis? BA. Vnde ea sit mihi? inuenitur, for inuenietur or inueniatur, cf. ecquis recludit? 413. The 1st pers. of the pres. indic. is often deliberative in meaning, e. g. quid ago? Most. 368, Trin. 1062, Bacch. 1196, Pers. 666, Epid. 693, Haut. 343, eon? Most. 774, quam mox seco? Mil. 1406, an obsono amplius? Men. 320, credo? Amph. I. 1. 237, ferio? Cas. II. 6. 53, purgon ego me? Eun. 434: so too in class. Lat., Cic. ad Att. XIII. 40 aduolone an maneo? Or. III. 5 imusne sessum? Madv. Opusc. p. 40.

688. adsidite in ara. The altar (in this case situated in the courtyard outside the temple, but still within the temple precincts: cf. 725 foras) was a common place of refuge, cf. 692 moenia haec, Cic. pro Domo Hic arae sunt, hic foci, hic di penates . . . hoc perfugium est ita sanctum omnibus ut inde abripi neminem fas sit (not even a slave, cf. Most. 1094 ego interim aram hanc occupabo).

689. in fano hic intus Veneris, 'inside in the temple of Venus here,' probably in the cella, cf. Livy XXIV. 10. 6 in aede intus sospitae Iunonis, Cic. Fin. III. 5. 18 quae sunt intus in corpore. For the pleonasm cf. Mil. 121, Capt. 330.

690. amplexae and abreptae, sc. sumus, cf. 370.

691. tamen, 'spite of everything,' cf. Capt. II. 3. 44 benaeque ero gessisse morem in tantis aerumnis tamen, Amph. I. 3. 44, Most. 179, Rud. 569: add Verg. Aen. IV. 329 qui te tamen ore referret.

hinc, 'from my position here.'

692. moenia haec, sc. sunt, cf. 170, 207: 'these are your bulwarks,' with regular attraction of the subject pronoun to the gender and number of the predicate noun. defensabo = defendam, cf. 307.

693. contra incedam, 'I will offer a sturdy resistance': for the dat. cf. Capt. III. 5. 6 ut confidenter mihi contra astitit, Curc. 163, Tac. Ann. XI. 10 huic contra itum, and the dat. with obuiam ire.

697. fecerunt parui, 'have insulted,' 'have slighted.'

698. tua pace, 'by thy leave,' 'of thy grace.'

699. elautae sumus (passive of elauere, 'to wash out,' cf. on 151), lit. 'we have been cleaned out,' i. e. have lost everything, including our clean clothes; for the sense cf. elau 537, 579.

700. idcirco, antecedent to si 701.

701. minus bene lautum, 'uncleanly.' The girls have not had time to wash their clothes or take the bath which the priestess prepared: cf. 271.

702. ut, 'as,' implying sic in the principal clause.

703. id, i. e. to address prayers to Venus without due formalities.

704. autumant, 'men say.' ex concha: not quite accurate. Venus was regarded as having been born from the foam (Ἀφρογένεια), and was often represented in works of art as rising from the sea ('Αφροδίτη ἀναδυομένη), sometimes as supported on a shell. Certain kinds of mussels were called Venerae. conchas. We should expect preces: concha seems to denote the coating of mud and sand which encased the girls like a shell. This is perhaps better than to suppose with Ussing a reference to shells sticking to the clothes of the girls.

705. -que et, 'both . . . and,' cf. Mil. 1348 metuoque et timeo, Poen. Prol. 3.

SCENE 4. Enter Daemones from the temple, followed by Labrax, in custody of the lorarii. An altercation between Labrax, Daemones, and Trachalio ensues, accompanied by threats and blows. In the course of it Trachalio incidentally mentions that the girls are genuine Greeks, and Palaestra an Athenian by birth. This not only serves to excite the interest of Daemones, himself an Athenian, but also, by suggesting to him the thought of his lost daughter, skilfully paves the way for the discovery in the fourth act. Trachalio is sent to find his master, while Daemones and the lorarii keep guard over Labrax.

706. natum quantumst hominum, 'of all sons of women,' cf. Pseud. 351 quid ais, quantum terram tetigit hominum periurissime?

707. sunt, i.e. the girls, whom he addresses with uos, (keeping his eyes all the while fixed on the leno): in his excitement he has not observed that the girls have already come out of the temple; he supposes that they are following him. Trachalio points out that they are already at the altar, where he himself is also standing by their side. huc=ad me, cf. on 726.

708. istuc, cf. Truc. IV. 3. 13 omnium primum diuorsae stae: em sic, istuc (what you are doing) uolo. uolueramus, cf. on 95 dixerat. In the plural Daem. includes his slaves with himself. iube modo, 'just let him,' here a challenge (addressed to no definite person)=sine modo (Most. 11), cf. Most. 426 iube uenire nunciam, Pseud. 1054, Eun. 739, Ad. 914, and Bentley's note 'iube est insultantis, prouocantis.' The word often takes a dependent subj. in other senses, e.g. Men. 955, Pers. 605, Stich. 396, Eun. 691, Haut. 735.

709 addressed to Labrax. legirupio probably='a breach of the laws,' (not as Lew. and Sh. and Key say, 'a law-breaker,' legirupa 652), formed like (usu) capio, 'a taking,' &c. eum dis, 'with (i. e. against) the gods.' Cum like the Engl. 'with' often describes in a quite general way the relation of two parties, even if it be an antagonistic one; cf. seruare (and perdere, mutare) fidem cum, 'to break faith with,' Pseud. 376, Ad. 512, capere (habere) iudicem cum, 'to go to law with,' Rud. 1380, Most. 557, captare cum, 'to break a lance with,' ibid. 1069, stomachari cum, 'to be angry with,' Eun. 323, and Rud. 719, 733, 773, Most. 1142 (note). So in Cic. coniugium (and diuortium) facere cum, liberalitate uti cum. Hand, Turs. II. 147 ff., Nägelsbach, Lat. Stil.⁴ p. 347. nobis, 'do you expect us to look on while,' &c.

710. inpinge, said to a lorarius, as Labrax shows an intention of approaching the altar. iniqua, predicate adjective. cum pretio tuo = cum damno tuo, i. e. 'you will suffer for it,' cf. magno cum pretio atque malo Catull. LXXVII. 2.

711. at etiam, 'what?' cf. Capt. 563, Trin. 991, Amph. 1025, Most. 851.

712. meas, synizesis; so 723. inuito me, abl. abs. for prose mihi inuito. cedo arbitrum, 'name as arbitrator,' cf. 1380, Ad. 123 aut cedo quemvis arbitrum.

714. si . . . niue, 'if (as you say) . . . and not,' cf. 1381 ni . . . siue and note.

715. conpingi, cf. 546, 1147. test aequom. For the accentuation cf. Bacch. 14 uideas mercédis quid tibi est aequom dari, Amph. 832, 990. aetatem, 'for life,' adverbial accusative (never joined with a possessive adjective), cf. Curc. 554 aegrola, si lubet, per me aetatem quidem, Pseud. 515, Asin. 21, 274, 284, Amph. 1023, Poen. III. 3. 23, Haut. 716, Hec. 747, Euñ. 734.

716. contriueris, '(shall) have worn out' by pacing to and fro, or lying there: cf. 749.

717. non auspicauisti isti rei, 'I have not laid myself out for this' (talk with you), lit. 'I have not sought divine approval by taking auspices,' cf. Pers. 689 lucro factumdo ego auspicauisti in hunc diem: for a slightly different sense cf. Capt. 766 f. (exauspicauisti, redauspicandum). The verb is never deponent in Plaut., cf. Stich. 502, and note on tumultuare Rud. 629. rei, synizesis. ut . . . fabuler, a clause equivalent to a noun, in apposition to isti rei. For the pres. subj. cf. on 129.

718. te, Daemones. istoc, 'the person standing by you,' cf. istuc 708.

719. tecum ago, 'my business is with you': contrast agere cum, 'to plead with' 605, 'to behave in relation to' 733.

720. The reply of Trach. is παρὰ προοδοκίαν. digitulo minumo, 'with the littlest of a little finger.'

721. foliis pugilatorius, 'boxer's ball,' a bag or ball inflated with air, and hung up for practice with the fists. Slaves were sometimes hung up and flogged; cf. Trin. 247 pendentem ferit, Most. 1167 caedi pendens.

722. incursare, with acc.; Asin. 34.

725. foras, 'out,' i. e. out of the temple precincts; cf. on 688.

726. huc opus est, 'it is necessary (to pay) to me': huc = mihi, cf. Poen. 1049 huc ostende, Rud. 707. arido argento, 'hard cash'; cf. the Irish expression 'dry money' ("£700 of dry money" Spectator, Nov. 8, 1890), and the similar metaphorical expressions ἀργύριον καθαρόν Theocr. XV. 36, 'blankes Geld,' lit. 'shining money': aridus, 'without moisture,' easily suggests the meaning 'nothing but,' cf. Asin. 155 aurum et argentum merum, Germ. 'lauter,' prop. 'clear' = 'nothing but.'

727. Veneri conplacuerunt, 'have won favour in the eyes of Venus.'

728. dei, &c., 'the gods pay you money?' generalizing masc. plural, cf. Pers. 26 deisne aduorser? where the talk is about Cupido 25: similarly liberi often of a single child (male or female), Rud. 748, Aul. 736. nunc adeo frequently introduces an energetic command or expression of resolve, generally in breaking off a discussion, like the Engl. 'now I'll tell you what'; cf. Men. 119, Pseud. 143, 185, 855, Mil. 159, Trin. 855, Merc. 329, Asin. 532, Curc. 715, Truc. II. 2. 12, Cas. III. 2. 4, Aul. 438 (Langen); adeo has here weakened meaning, and serves to emphasise nunc, cf. on 731.

729. occipito modo ioculo, 'just attempt merely in fun'; cf. Most. 923 egone te ioculo modo ausim dicto aut facto fallere? pausillum 'to the smallest extent.' The form paus. (not paux.) is found in some of the best MSS. in Bacch. 833, Such. 163, 175, Truc. V. 21. 48; contrast M in Rud. 929. A has sometimes paus., sometimes paux.

730. ita ornatum, 'with such an expression on your face'; cf. 488. noueris for sis with fut. part., a construction avoided by Plaut. after consecutive ut (or non dubito quin); cf. Pseud. 464 ut tu censeas, Rud. 756, (Poen. 184, 882), and note on Rud. 1419.

731. uos (accus.) adeo, 'as for you' (lorarit): adeo is used with weakened meaning to emphasise the pronoun; ego adeo Mil. 1192, Bacch. 829, 968, Truc. IV. 3. 74, eum . . . adeo Rud. 1199, id adeo Most. 477, &c., cf. Rud. 728; for fuller meaning of adeo cf. on Prol. 36. For ni, 'unless,' when the principal clause expresses a threat, cf. 810 ff., 1008, Asin. 471, 474, 706, Curc. 723, Mil. 156, Amph. 440, Truc. 286; nisi Mil. 828, Capt. 749, Poen. 355. ei, dat. (synzesis). exoculassitis, cf. edentauerint 662, and note on 304.

732. quasi murteta iuncis, 'like bunches of myrtle with rushes'; murteta, prop. 'myrtle groves,' here seems to denote artificial imitations made of single branches, as offerings to Venus, somewhat similar to the Ἀδώνιδος κήποι (plants grown in pots or boxes and offered at the Ἀδώνια), Plato, Phaedr. 276 B, Theocr. XV. 113. uirgis circumuinciam (allit.), 'wrap you round with rods,' i. e. flog you, cf. am-plectitote 816.

733. ui agis; cf. on 719. mecum; cf. on 709. opprobrias uim;

cf. Truc. 280 rus tu mi opprobras, Most. 301 cupio id opprobrarier. flagiti flagrantia, 'you burning scandal' = homo flagitio flagrans, cf. Cic. II. Verr. IV. 32. 71 conuiuia quae domesticis flagitiis flagrabant.

734. trifurcifer, 'double-dyed villain'; cf. Aul. 326 fur trifurcifer, 633 non fur, sed trifur. inclementer, 'uncivilly'; cf. 114.

735. fateor. 'I grant' for the sake of argument only; cf. 756. adprime probus, (allit.), 'a very fine (virtuous) fellow,' ironical; cf. 112, 381; not ironical Trin. 373 adprime probo (genere), Cist. I. 1. 10 adprime nobilis.

736. numqui, 'in any degree,' interrogative, 'is that any reason why'; cf. 1020. quid 'liberas'? 'free, say you?' For quid in surprised quotations of another's words cf. 881 quid 'fures'? Bacch. 145 Cauē malo. LY. Quid 'caue malo'? Amph. 1021, Truc. 256, Merc. 304, 684, &c.

737. atque eras tuas, 'and, what is more, your betters.' ex germana Graecia, 'from Greece proper,' as opposed to Greek colonies, cf. Most. 40 germana intuiuis, Capt. II. 2. 38 germano nomine.

740. poplaris = popularis 605, cf. popli = populi Most. 15, Aul. 283, Asin. 655, &c.

741. Athenis Atticis, 'Athens in Attica'; cf. Pseud. 416, Epid. II. 4. 66, &c. Stephanus says that there were cities called Athens in Laconia, Caria, Liguria, Italy, Euboea, Acarnania, Boeotia and Pontus.

742. ciuis (= popularis), cf. on 42. tuas, synizesis; so meorum 743.

743. quom uideo; cf. on 685. apsens, 'though absent,' is added because commonere would generally be used of someone present.

744. quae . . . 'she whom I lost as a three year old child.' tanta, 'as tall' as Palaestra. esset scio; a common case of parataxis in Plaut. si uiuit, an unusual case of anacoluthon (anac. of the if-clause), to avoid the 'male ominatum' uiueret.

745. istisce, abl. plur. of istic, again Mil. 421, in both cases before vowels; elsewhere even before vowels istis. Compare on 110, 294. quoiaē refers to domino, 'to whom they belonged.'

746. haec; cf. on 200 a.

747. recte, 'properly,' 'duly,' cf. 779, 800.

748. faelis uirginalis, 'maiden mouser.' The spelling faelis or faeles is supported by the best MSS. of Varro, Cicero, Nemesianus, and Charisius (Georges, Lat. Wortf.). In Persa 751 BC spell feles uirginaria.

749. sublectos from sublegere, 'to filch away,' cf. Ecl. IX. 21 uel quae sublegi tacitus tibi carmina nuper; Mil. 1090 clam nostrum hunc hinc sermonem sublegerunt = 'overheard.' The uncompounded legere = surripere, Hor. Sat. I. 3. 117 sacra diuom legere, Lucil. Sat. XXVIII. 58. habebis, conteres, cf. on 189 a.

750. namque, only before vowels in Plaut. alterae, i. e. Ampelisca: old dat. fem., again Haut. 271, Phorm. 928, Caes. B. G. V. 27. 5, Nep. Eum. I. 6, Colum. V. 11. 10, Gell. VII. (VI.) 6. 1: cf. dat. masc. altero Gruter, Inscr. 928, 9, fem. aliae Mil. 802, illae Cato, R. R. 154, C. I. L. 4, 1824, istae Truc. 790, solae Mil. 356, gen. masc. ulli Truc. 293, nulli Andr. 608. patria, 'native city' (somewhere in Greece, cf. 737).

751. nisi, 'only,' almost equivalent to the co-ordinating conjunction 'but'; cf. Cist. I. 1. 5 nescio: nisi fieri non posse arbitror, Eun. 827 nescio: nisi amasse credo Pamphilam, Trin. 233 de hac re mihi satis hau liquet: nisi hoc sic faciam, opinor, ut, &c. Cic. Rosc. Am. 99 nescio: nisi hoc uideo Capitonem in his bonis esse socium, Sall. Jug. 24, 67, 100. More difficult examples, involving either a mixture of the two meanings 'except' and 'but,' or ellipsis of a verb, are Epid. 281, Bacch. 324, Most. 278. Mil. 24, 1166, Men. 530; cf. on nisi quia Rud. 1025.

752. tua istaec sunt, a Latin way of saying 'you are another,' lit. 'what you say applies to yourself,' cf. Pseud. 362 PS. Socio-fraude! BA. Sunt mea istaec, 'true,' Trin. 123 non istuc meumst, 631 non meumst. The answer of Trach. contende ergo, &c. necessarily implies some taunt or repartee on the part of Labr. in reply to the epithet impuratisime. enim, 'look you,' 'I declare,' as often in classical Lat., cf. on 922, Most. 1144 enim istic captiosst, 551, Capt. III. 4. 36, Palmer on Amph. II. 2. 26, Langen, Beitr. p. 262 f. istaec, neut. pl., formed like haec, is the only form used before consonants by Plaut., e. g. Pseud. 362 (quoted above), Amph. 815, 834, 925, &c., ista (rare) only before vowels, e. g. Amph. 589, Asin. 578 (M). purior, 'cleaner,' i. e. less marked with stripes, cf. sincerum 756, lanx pura Dig. VI. 1. 6, corona pura Vitr. VII. 3, opposed to caelata.

753. offerūmentas (correct the quantity in Lew. and Sh.), 'weals,' 'seams,' properly the ridge where two things are joined together by ferrūmen, 'cement'; for -menta cf. ramenta 1016, caementa (= caementum). habebis, 'do (shall) not turn out to have,' cf. erit 756.

756. sincerum, 'whole,' 'flawless,' cf. Most. 868 ut adhuc fuit micorium esse oportet sincerum. dicat, 'will say,' or 'would say' = dicturus sit (avoided by Plaut., cf. on 730, 1419). ampullarius, here 'a maker (or coverer) of leathern flasks'; cf. Festus 'scorteae ampullae (flasks of hide) uetustate rugosae et coloris eiusdem rubidae dici solent.'

757. optimum operi faciundo, 'most suitable for carrying on his craft,' cf. Curc. 240 id lieni optimumst, Cato, R. R. 6 locus uino optumus; similar datives in Rud. 1374, Pers. 560, Mil. 745, Amph. 288, Trin. 229.

758. quid causae (partitive gen.): Aul. 92, Trin. 1188.

759. spectas, 'are you ogling.' quas=nam eas, cf. quos 972.

760. atqui, 'however,' lit. 'but somehow (anyhow)': qui indefinite, cf. on 123, 946 at pol qui. uotas=uetas. semul, archaic=simul.

761. Volcanus=ignis, cf. Amph. 341, Men. 330, Aul. 359. ad-uorsarius, on account of her unfaithfulness to him, cf. the myth in Homer of Aphrodite being surprised by Hephaestus in adultery with Ares. [Labrax approaches the cottage.]

762. For heus, 'harkye,' standing after a sentence, cf. 830 heus uos, Mil. 434 tibi ego dico, heus Philocomasium, Pseud. 243, Most. 680, Trin. 1054.

763. iam hercle, not separated by Plaut., cf. 769. messis mergis (allit.) pugneis, 'I'll make hay in your face with a fisty fork': mergae (plur.), a two-pronged pitchfork, used for tossing hay or corn; cf. Amph. I. 1. 142 hospitio pugneo, 'a fisty welcome.' Scan tibi fiēt with original long vowel, cf. fil, Capt. Prol. 25.

764. fictis ardiis, which require no cooking.

765. tuo, synizesis. siquidem (cf. on 1061) copiast, 'on condition that I have leave.'

766. aliquo, 'somewhere else,' cf. aliquis 135.

767. quin=quine, 'by which,' cf. quaene 272, quin 861, Trin. 360, quemne 1019, quodne 1231. inhumanum, 'the inhumanity,' cf. on 620 inpudenti.

768. The fact that it was lawful to burn or smoke out a refugee at the altar (cf. Most. 1114 and the Andromache of Euripides), though not to drag him away, illustrates the formalism of ancient religious usage, and may be compared with the custom of throwing poppy heads and figures made of rushes into the Tiber in place of the human offerings demanded by the river god.

769. coniciam, asyndeton, cf. 774.

770. ambustulatum, 'half-roasted,' cf. infelicibus ustulanda lignis Catull. XXXVI. 8. magnis auibus, i. e. vultures.

771. coniecturam, cf. 612. illa simia, cf. 598.

772. ingratilis=me inuito or inuitas, frequent in the comedians, e. g. Mil. 449 ui atque inuitam ingratiis, Amph. I. 1. 217, Men. 1054, elsewhere only in Nep. Them. 4. 4, Cic. Quinct. XIV. 47, Gellius. Compare gratiis, 'for nothing,' abl. of gratiae, lit. 'for mere thanks' (always three syllables in Plaut. and Ter., cf. Capt. 408, Most. 175, &c.).

773. scin quid, with indic., very common, e. g. Men. 207, 425, 677, 947, 1154, Pseud. 276, 538, 641, 657; cf. on 356, 382 (scin tu?).

oro eum, cf. Asin. 662, 686, and on Rud. 709.

774. dum adduco, 'till I (shall) bring,' cf. 879, 179.

775. ne depends on cura 776, 'take care that he does not —' (i. e. 'touch them,' interrupted by Daem., cf. Trin. 1073, Epid. 128, Phorm. 254).

777. abitat: cf. on perbiteres 495.

778. talentum magnum, again 1344, means the Attic silver talent, worth 60 minae, as is proved by Most. 919, where, after deducting 40 minae from two 'great talents,' the remainder is reckoned as 80 minae. Dziatzko on Phorm. 644 says that the Attic talent was called magnum in contrast to other Greek and foreign talents of less value. Hiatus before aut. sistere, a legal term, 'to produce in court,' cf. Cic. de Off. III. 10. 45, Livy III. 45. 3, se sistere Curc. 163, 'to appear in court.'

779. curabo, cf. curabitur Capt. 728, Most. 401, Men. 539.

SCENE 5. Daemones threatens Labrax with condign punishment, if he ventures either to lay hands on the girls, or to go away himself, and then (l. 820) leaves him in the custody of the lorarii.

781. quiescis, &c., 'will you prefer to be quiet (cf. 413) after a thrashing or as you are, without a thrashing, if you have the choice?' cf. 765.

784. tangedum, 'just touch them,' cf. 785 f., 796, 798.

785. tangam, 'I will touch them,' expressing resolve, cf. 365 (faxo).

787. non censeo, 'I think not,' = nolo, cf. 1269-1278, haud opinor Most. 798, non spero, 'I hope not,' Most. 197, non uideor Most. 146, 270, 820, non aio Most. 978 f.

788. recessero, (cf. 330), παρὰ προσδοκίαν.

790. dixerit, 'shall call me,' cf. on 946.

791. te ludos dimisero, 'make sport of you before I let you go,' a variation of te ludos fecero, cf. on 470.

794. quam magnum uero, cf. Asin. 669, 697, Merc. 395, 405, Mil. 296, &c.

795. minacias, 'menaces,' cf. Mil. 374, Truc. V. 56. For the formation cf. audacia, contumacia, fallacia, &c., from adjectives in -ax.

796. rapere = 'to drag off,' several times in this play, e. g. 853, 881; cf. proripere 660.

797. at scin quo modo? 'at your peril,' lit. 'but do you know on what terms?' with ellipsis of the verb (tanges): cf. Amph. 356, Aul. 307, 831, Poen. 376, Bacch. 1178, Most. 642, &c.; with the verb Aul.

47 at scin quomodo tibi res se habet? Bacch. 594 at scin quam iracundus siem?

798. curriculo, 'at full speed,' cf. Most. 362 curro curriculo, 930 curriculo ueniat, Pers. 199 uola curriculo.

799. clauas? For the repetition of a word, making a question without an interrogative particle cf. Capt. 838 manum? 844 ignem ingentem? Most. 493 in somnis? 638 aedis? 810 tamquam? with ain Rud. 1095. sed, '(and not merely clubs) but stout ones'; for sed, introducing a word or phrase which is intended to obviate a possible misunderstanding, cf. Cas. II. 8. 55 obsona: sed lepide uolo, ibid. III. 5. 51 LY. etiamne habet nunc Casina insana gladium? PA. Habet, sed duos: Juv. V. 147 boletus domino, sed qualem Claudius edit, where Mayor quotes, among other passages, Phaedr. IV. 17. 19 odore... sed multo, Mart. IX. 42. 3 scelus est, mihi crede, sed ingens, and compares the similar use of the French 'mais.'

800. faxo (365) recte (747) acceptum, 'I'll see that you have a warm reception,' cf. Haut. 341 ademptum tibi iam faxo omnem metum, Phorm. 1028. For this sense of accipere cf. Amph. 286.

801. soelestus (502) galeam perdidit, perhaps a reminiscence (derived from Diphilus) of the saying of Socrates preserved by Seneca, De ira III. 11. 2 Socratem aiunt colapho percussum nihil amplius dixisse quam molestum esse quod nescirent homines quando cum galea prodire deberent. 802. foret=esset.

805. ehem, an interjection expressing a pleasant sense of surprise ('aha'); Hand, Tursell. II. p. 356. For the order of words (optume eccum) cf. 1209: optume frequently comes after an interjection, and regularly stands before eccum. clauator, with synizesis: cf. cauillator (3 sylls.) Truc. 683, obliuiscendus (4 sylls.) Mil. 1359, obliscier, obliscar Attius 190, 488 Ribb., auonculus (3 sylls.) Aul. 685, 778, 799, ditiae Rud. 542, sis=si uis 465, sultis=si uoltis 820, sodes=si audes. That caue ne eas sounded something like cauneas is proved by the well-known story of the hawker of Caunian figs in Cic. Div. II. 40.

806. tinnimentum auribus, either 'that means a tingling in my ears' (caused by a blow: Turnebus), cf. Cas. V. 4. 5 illac lumbifragiumst obuiam; or 'that is mere rodomontade' (intended to frighten): cf. our expression 'sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.'

807. illinc alteram clauam, 'one of the two clubs,' cf. Aul. 325 agnum hinc uter est pinguior.

808. istinc, hinc adsistite, cf. Merc. 977 adsistam hinc altrinsecus.

809. sic. Daemones indicates more exactly the position which he wishes the lorarii to take up: for the repetition cf. Truc. 787 omnium primum diorsae stae; em sic, istuc uolo.

811. istis inuitasstis, 'give him a taste of your clubs,' cf. 362.

For the play upon inuitas cf. Trin. 27 inuitus, ni id me inuilet ut faciam fides.

812. adeo, 'up to such a point' (of time), is here strengthened by usque, 'right up to,' &c., cf. usque adeo donec Cist. II. 3. 40, adeo usque dum Amph. 470, Asin. 328.

813. peristis. For the perf. in threats, accompanied by an 'unless' clause, cf. Mil. 163, 828, Capt. 749, Poen. 355. For the form cf. C. I. L. I. 646, 647; 4. 1293; Capt. 749 (B/E); peristi Poen. 355, Cas. III. 5. 12; perisse Aul. 300, Most. 349: Plaut. also used the forms in ii (periisti), &c. appellabit, 'accosts.' quempiam, fem., cf. anum quemquam 406.

814. istinc, 'from where you stand'; cf. Capt. 603. istarum, i. e. mulierum.

815. quantum potest, 'as fast as you can,' cf. Most. 758 (note).

816. amplectitote (629), 'compass about.'

820. sultis = si uoltis; cf. sis 465.

821. heu hercle (hiatus), 'alas, upon my word'; cf. Men. 731, Mil. 1057 (B), Most. 981 heu edepol. The phrase is further strengthened by ne, 'verily'; cf. Men. 908 heu edepol ne ego homo uiuo miser. [The combination ehu hercle which the MSS. give here cannot be supported by parallel passages.]

822. Herculi, gen., again Pers. 2. fit, pres. tense, like mutantur 821.

823. ita, 'so strangely.' destituit, 'has set up,' 'placed'; so occasionally in Cic. and Livy; see Lew. and Sh. Clauiger is a standing epithet of Hercules.

826. When Labr. calls to Pal., a lorarius answers in obedience to the instructions of Daem. (813 f.) apage = ἀπάγε, an imperative sometimes found with an object, 'get out.' controuersias, 'I protest,' 'I have a bone to pick with you,' lit. 'there is a point at issue there.'

828. caus infortunio. Cauere takes sometimes dat. (as in the common phrase caue malo), sometimes a with abl. (833), sometimes accus. (833, Asin. 42). sis, cf. 465; in the present passage, as often, the feeling is the reverse of polite; cf. Most. 1 exi e culina, sis, foras mastigia.

829. ut potis est, 'so far as is possible,' i. e. for ignauis homines.

830. Hiatus before heus as in 1369, Men. 696, Trin. 1059 (M). heus uos, 'harkye,' voc., cf. on 97. For heus uos after uobis dico cf. the passages quoted on line 762 above: but more commonly heus tu, &c. precedes tibi dico, &c.; Curc. 516, Men. 378, 696, Mil. 217, 434, Poen. 1305. molestiae, 'an annoyance,' pred. dat.

833. crassum infortunium, 'a fat (sound) thrashing.'

834. abeas, si uelis, 'go away if you wish'; for the jussive pres. subj. abeas cf. eam 403, 519: for the pres. subj. in the if-clause cf. 1229 si sapias, sapias, Amph. 819 tute si pudoris egeas, sumas mutuom, ibid. 961 tristis sit si eri sint tristes; hilarus sit si gaudeant, Asin. 120, 763, 766, Pseud. 570, Stich. 80, Truc. 855, Trin. 370, and note on Rud. 1021.

835 f. bene factum, 'very good,' cf. 1411 bene facis, gratiam habeo magnam, Asin. 59, Eun. 1091. The lorarii lift up their clubs and approach; their permission only meant 'go at your peril.' Labrax continues hastily non cedam potius, 'I'll rather not go': cedere=ire, cf. Pseud. 308 inanis cedis, 955 transuorsus cedit, Aul. 517, 526, Cas. II. 8. 7, 10. illie illico, 'there on the spot,' cf. 328. astate, 'keep your places.'

837. proueni nequiter, 'I have come off miserably,' cf. Men. 964 nimis prouentumst nequiter, Stich. 398 prouenisti futille, Truc. 516 recte prouenisti. multis modis occurs only here in Plaut., but about 12 times in Lucretius; cf. multimodis Mil. 1190 and note above on 147.

838. usque uincere, transl. 'to go on and conquer,' cf. Merc. 111 usque experiri, 858 usque quaerere, Asin. 39 usque excresca, 'hawk away,' Epid. 305 usque opperiar, 'I'll go on waiting.' Usque (originally local, cf. usquam: Thielmann in Archiv V. p. 428 ff.)=(i) 'uninterruptedly,' 632, 'again and again,' Hor. Epod. XVIII. 12, Epist. I. 10. 24 lumen usque recurret: (ii) 'right away,' Rud. 1034 usque in campis ultimis, Curc. 278 usque in platea ultima, Asin. 40 usque ex penitis faucibus, 41 quo usque? 'how much further?' hence 'thoroughly,' Poen. 701 replebo usque, Capt. 266 usque admutilabit probe, Mil. 768, Bacch. 1095 (= usque ad culem Bacch. 242). With the present passage cf. porro (also originally local) in Prol. 30 and l. 105.

SCENE 6. When Plesidippus left the stage with his three companions (159), he went to the sea shore to see whether Labrax was among the shipwrecked persons whom Daemones had caught sight of. He missed them however, and Trachalio was sent to fetch him (775). They now return together, having left the three companions on the shore. Plesidippus at once resolves to drag Labrax off to trial and sends Trachalio back to the shore to tell the companions to proceed by another route to the harbour situated in the city (in urbem ire ad portum 856), and there to meet him. His choice of the harbour as a rendezvous is apparently determined by his wish to find witnesses there to the fact that Labrax had sailed thence with his familia. In spite of protests and appeals to Charmides who enters from the temple, and even to Palaestra, Labrax is led off with a rope round his neck. Exeunt women and servants into the cottage.

839. Cf. Bacch. 842 Meamne hic Mnesilochus Nicobuli filius Per uim ut retineat mulierem? Quae haec factios?

840. admodum, cf. 143.

842. caperes, cf. 379.

843. insectarer lapidibus, cf. Poen. 528 neque nos populus pro cerritis insectabit lapidibus, Mil. 285 homo sectatus nihili nequam bestiam. The question is here somewhat 'malapropos,' implying a greater degree of humanity in Trach. than in his master; it seems to be designed merely to bring out the full meaning of the previous sentence, for the benefit of the audience ('i.e. he is no better than a dog'); cf. on 99.

845. cum puluisculo, lit. 'with the dust,' a proverbial expression = 'so as to leave no trace behind,' cf. Truc. Prol. 19 quo citius rem ab eo auorrat cum puluisculo; here it strengthens totum, 'altogether.' Transl. 'dust me away to the last speck.' Cf. cum ramento Bacch. 680.

847. profectu's ire, cf. uenio uisere 94. Scan ibidem, cf. 396.

849. uicinus Veneris, i. e. templi Veneris. is = eis.

850. cum seruis seruat, i. e. is helping the lorarii to keep guard, a pun. ego mandaueram; note the self-importance of Trach.

851. recta, sc. uia, common, e. g. Amph. 1042, 1115.

852. salutem nil moror, litotes = 'bother the good morning.'

853. rapi. For the absence of interrogative particle cf. on 213. optorto collo, 'with a rope round your neck,' again 868, Poen. 790, Amph. IV. 2, fr. 9 (12), Cic. pro Clu. XXI. 59, II. Verr. IV. 10. 24 obtorta gula.

858. agitare custodiam, cf. ag. uigilias Trin. 869, Mil. 216.

859. exules dica = ἐξούλης δίκη, lit. 'by an action of ejection,' here applied to 'proceedings for the recovery of Palaestra whom Ples. had bought and given a deposit for, but whom Labr. is attempting to carry off by force,' Palmer, Appendix to Amphitruo, p. 257.

860. ambula in ius, 'come (with me) into court,' a phrase recurring in Curc. 621, 625, Pers. 745 (749); similarly Asin. 487 age ambula ergo, 'come along with me then.' Langen, Beitr. p. 203.

861. quin, cf. on 767.

863. pol, cf. 505. prouexi, 'carried her on her way,' but not away.

864. Scan tibi.

865. numquid muto? sc. me, 'do I prove false?' cf. non demutabo Pseud. 555, 565. numquid dem. Mil. 1130, haud muto factum Andr. 40, Cic. ad Fam. XVI. 1. 1. sumne = nonne sum, cf. 1184 and on 382.

866. uerbum = uerborum, again Trin. 644, Bacch. 878; cf. Capt. 125 sed satis uerborum. Similarly nummum 1327.

867. At this point Charmides enters from the temple, whither he had gone (592) ut crapulam suam edormisceret (586).

868. Scan rapiōr, with original long vowel.

870. non audes, 'won't you': audere comes from auidere=auidum esse; Plaut. often has audes= 'will,' generally in a question, e. g. non audes above, Truc. 425, Pseud. 1317, Asin. 476, non audebas Capt. 662, nilne audes Pseud. 78, ecquid audes Rud. 1030, Men. 149, etiam audes Men. 697, auden Mil. 232, tune audes Bacch. 1163; also si audes Trin. 244 (whence the contracted sodes, 'if you please'), ausim, 'I should wish,' Poen. 1358.

871. ut nanctu's, habe, a proverbial expression, again Trin. 61, Truc. 844, equivalent to our 'as you have made your bed, so you must lie upon it.'

872. in neruom, 'to prison'; cf. 876, Curc. 690, 720, 723, &c.

874. ut id quod, &c., 'to get what they strive after,' explanatory of quod exoptant 873, the meaning is 'other men quaerunt bonum, you quaeris malum.'

875. 'Your counsel is bad like yourself.'

876. rapere=raperis. eo with sequar.

877. etiam may here have the sense 'still,' as often in Plaut. and elsewhere; cf. 817 'even,' 1275 'also,' and contrast 467. Charm. shakes off Labr., who cries 'I am undone.'

878. ibidem ilico, 'in the same place there'; cf. on 266, and (for the scansion) on 396 and 1061 (under si quidem).

880. recipis, sc. te, cf. Bacch. 294, Merc. 498, Pers. 51 recipe te. fures mi estis: the same phrase Aul. 768, Poen. 785 (?).

881. quid 'fures'? cf. quid 'liberas'? 736.

884. semel bibi, i. e. I have tasted your cheer once, and that is enough; a reminiscence of the shipwreck: for the metaphorical use of bibere cf. Aul. II. 3. 12 nam ecastor malum maerorem metuo ne immixtim bibam, Cas. V. 2. 52 ut senex hoc eodem poculo quod ego bibi biberet.

885. isti=tuo.

886. An allusion to the doctrine of transmigration of souls or the old myth of the werwolf (wer= 'man': λυκάθρωπος).

888. collumbar, ἀπαξ λεγ., obviously a 'genus uinculi,' as Priscian says: probably a comic formation from collum: cf. dentes dentiant Mil. 34, ruri rurant Capt. 82. Transl. the pun upon columbum by 'stock-dove,' 'stocks.' The fact that Priscian read collus (cf. Amph. I. 1. 291, Capt. II. 2. 107, &c., Georg. Lat. Wortf.) is curious, as it makes the line unmetrical.

889. congerere; Verg. Ecl. 3 uses the word absolutely aeriae quo congersere palumbes.

891. si qui, 'to see whether by any means (perchance),' cf. Trin. 120, Cas. IV 3. 8 (A); similarly si possum, &c., very often. addici, παρὰ προσδοκίαν, sc. Plesidippo a praetore.

ACT IV, SCENE I. Enter Daemones from his cottage; he soliloquizes about the jealousy of his wife and introduces a mention of a slave Gripus, who has gone fishing and not yet returned. This prepares the way for the following scenes, which lead up to the discovery of the parentage of Palaestra. Daemones returns into his cottage.

892. The form uolup occurs fifteen times in Plautus, and is an abbreviation of uolupē (correct Lew. and Sh.), from the disused adjective uolupis (cf. facul from faculis = facilis). In the MSS. it is occasionally written uolupe, but this form is never necessary and in four passages impossible (at the end of a line): Most. I. 2. 74, Men. IV. 3. 3, Asin. Cat. 1, Cas. IV. 2. 5. In the other eleven passages we have the phrase uolup est (generally written uolupest in MSS.). Volup is clearly an adverb in Most. I. 2. 74, and may be so regarded in all passages; e. g. Mil. 747 si illis aegrest. mihi quod uolup est. Compare frustra esse Capt. IV. 2. 74, Men. 692, &c.

893. tetuli is the prevailing form in Plautus, tuli being found only twice, Curc. 644, Poen. 1067 (Trin. 833 disque tulissent); in Terence tuli prevails, tetuli being found only twice, Andr. 808, 832.

894. aetatula, 'blooming youth' (= aetas haud mala 337, aetas integra Pseud. 203), cf. Pers. 229 formula atque aetatula, 'beauty and youth,' Pseud. 173, Most. 217. scitula, cf. facie scitula 565. The diminutives (characteristic of Plautus) have a kind of caressing effect: cf. the love-making of Sceparnio 423-426.

895. scelestā, 'ill-conditioned,' cf. 456, 502.

896. ne qui, 'lest in any way' (indef.); cf. on 123. significem quidpiam, lit. 'signify something,' i. e. 'show a liking.'

899. sapisset = sapiuisset.

900. ludos facit, 'is playing ducks and drakes with,' cf. 470.

901. ut nunc is a favourite Plautine combination, cf. 303, Truc. 376, Merc. 265, 410, Pseud. 433, 784, Men. 1118.

902. in digitis percoquam, 'I'll fry on my fingers,' i. e. he will catch nothing.

905. Synzesis of meas and sua (elided, cf. 258, 728, 1165). uaniloquentia, cf. stultiloquentia Trin. 222, tolutiloquentia, 'volubility,' Novius 38 Ribb.

SCENE 2. Enter Gripus from the shore (right); he has fished up Palaestra's travelling trunk (uidulus), and, suspecting from its weight that it contains gold, he indulges in a day dream of future greatness : cf. the story of the peasant and basket of eggs.

906. haec gratias, 'thanks for this,' i. e. quom med expediuit, &c., (907), cf. 631, ea gratias . . . quom Poen. 1254, ea (hanc, istam) gratia(m) Capt. 358, 721, Cist. II. 3. 84, hanc copiam Mil. 769, 971, eam potestatem Capt. 934, ea aegritudo Men. Prol. 35, hanc ueniam Cas. V. 4. 21; similarly in class. Lat. ea signa dedit Tritonia monstris Verg. Aen. II. 171, &c. Contrast Pers. 755 f. quom . . . iuisti, ea re uobis gratis habeo.

907. locis: the abl. of locus without in is very rare in Plautus, only here and Most. 254, Amph. 568. pisculentis, asyndeton, cf. 665.

908. (gratias) quom=quod, cf. Most. 432 Habeo Neptune gratiam magnam tibi Quom med amisisti, &c.; so even in classical Latin (Cic. Mil. XXXVI. 99, Madv. Gr. § 358, obs. 2). For the indic. cf. on 378. pulohre ornatum, 'enriched,' cf. on 488.

909. suis templis, 'his quarters,' cf. templa turbulenta Mil. 413, Eun. 590, and similar expressions in Ennius and Lucretius (Acherusia templa, siluestria templa, &c.). redducem, with first syll. long, as in Capt. V. 1. 2 (also bacchiac metre), elsewhere short: the verb redduco always has the first syll. long in Plautus, where the quantity can be determined by the metre, Pers. 659, Merc. 980: in Pseud. 668 A and B spell redduxit.

910. salute horiae=cum salute horiae or salua horia, 'with my fishing smack safe and sound,' cf. Men. 134 nostrum salute socium, Bacch. 1070 salute nostra. horia, 'nauis piscatoria,' Nonius.

911. uberi, asyndeton. conpotiuit, cf. 205.

912 ff. miro modo, unusual, cf. on 147. Scan piscatu' mihī lepide euēnit; piscyum; uncyam (or unciām pōnd., permissible in anapaestic metre); nisi hoc quod fero hic in r.

914. rete, abl., cf. 1020, 1292, Asin. 100 (M); contrast Rud. 1071, arg. 1.

916. praeposui, cf. on 357.

917 f. experiri qui, 'to make trial whereby,' 'to try to'; the abl. qui (123, &c.) here almost=ut (which also originally meant 'how').

919. tolerarem, 'support'=subleuarem, cf. t. egestatem Trin. 338, 358, 371, t. uitam Verg. Aen. VIII. 409. parcus, 'chary,' with abl., cf. on 349 (orbis with gen.). Scan parcū'.

920. homo nihili, 'a man of naught.' nimis, cf. 360. odi male, cf. on pure lauti 301.

921. decēt, cf. on possēt 390. temperi, 'betimes,' cf. Pers. 229 Temperi hanc uigilare oportet formulam atque aetatulam.

922. non enim: in this combination enim has asseverative rather than illative force in Plautus, cf. 989, Trin. 705 non enim possum quin exclamem, 'I declare I cannot help crying out,' Most. 1133 non enim ibis, Stich. 302, Mil. 283, Epid. 162, Pseud. 1266; see too Rud. 752, 1116 quia enim. The true meaning of non enim has been set forth by Langen, Beitr. p. 264, and these words will probably have to be restored with the MSS. in Trin. 705, Aul. 594 (so Langen in his recent edition), Enn. Ann. 314 f. Non enim rumores ponebat ante salutem, and some other passages in which some of the greatest critics (e. g. Lachmann, Ritschl, Fleckeisen, Bücheler) have unnecessarily substituted noenum.

923. sine lucro et cum malo, 'get no advantage and are sure to suffer.'

925 b, c. For the repetition of quidquid inest cf. Cas. V. 2. 33 f. Nisi quidquid erat, calamitas profecto attigerat numquam: ita quidquid erat, grande erat.

927. optigit, cf. on 199. ex populo must be corrupt: it is true that populus sometimes means 'the populace,' 'the lower orders' (Most. 15 deliciae populi, Aul. 283, Asin. 655; populus almost=plebs Cic. Sest. 103 f., de Amic. 41, Livy I. 17. 8, II. 27. 5, 12), but it cannot be synonymous with serui.

928. sic . . . sic, cf. Trin. 235 ita faciam, ita placet. docte atque astu, 'adroitly and with cunning'=docte atque astute 1240; for astu cf. Capt. II. 1. 29; for atque on 930.

930. igitur demum=tum demum, 'then and not till then,' Most. 380 igitur demum fodere puteum ubi sitis faucis tenet, Amph. 301, 473; cf. igitur tum=τότε δή or δή τότε (Homer), Most. 132 (note), 688. instruam, 'I will lay out.' agrum and aedis are closely connected in sense, and hence joined by atque (cf. 928). mancipia, less closely connected, is added asyndetically; cf. 664 f. copiarum atque opum, auxili, praesidi uiduitas, Pseud. 1265 unguenta atque odores, lemniscos, corollas.

932. animi causa, 'for my pleasure,' cf. Epid. 45. Stratonicus, no doubt (as Ussing says) the celebrated musician of the time of Alexander the Great (cf. Athen. VIII. 348 f.) who travelled about from place to place in Greece in order to exhibit his art; he was a contemporary of Diphilus, who appears here (in the Ἰήρα) to have indulged in a little light banter of the successful performer. From this passage it is clear that Plaut. did not hesitate to take over from his originals allusions which could hardly have been intelligible to a Roman audience.

934, 936. Hiatus in diaeresis.

935. Synizesis of meae.

936. hic, 'here,' in this desolate place where I now am. agito, 'I am engaged.' instruere in mentem magnas res, 'in forming great plans in my mind,' cf. Most. 86 in pectus instituere. condam: for on the uidulus depends the possibility of realizing all these plans. The syncopated form uidlus=uidulus (Bothe, Spengel) is demanded in 1106, 1127 and 1130 (uidlus) by the law that a dactyl must not fill up a whole trochaic foot (Introd. to Most. p. xxii); here it improves the rhythm: cf. on Arg. 1. in Crit. Append. In this, as in several other words, two pronunciations were admitted by Plaut.; cf. 392, 963, 976, 982, 991, 993, &c.; similarly praebeo and praehibeo 138, sī quidem and siquidem (see note on 1061), mercle and mehercle 1365, poplus 1251, fēstra 88, altrā Pers. 226, dextrā Amph. 333.

937. sed. Gripus reverts in thought to the hard facts of the present: 'but I, this opulent personage (rex=diues) am doomed to a breakfast seasoned with sour wine and salt, without any dainty relish.' prandium, here=sentaculum, the early breakfast consisting of bread with some seasoning; it would appear from this passage that the poorer classes and slaves used to eat only salt with their bread. acetum, probably=posca, a drink consisting of sour wine and water: Mil. 836, Truc. 610. Scan hīc (cf. 914), eūm ācēt-, et sāle (= ∪ ∪ ∟), sine bōnō (= ∪ ∪ ∟).

SCENE 3. Trachalio, in accordance with his master's instructions (855-858), returns from the shore (right) to defend the girls, and discovers Gripus with the travelling trunk. He immediately sees that it must be the one of which Ampelisca had spoken to him and the recovery of which he had prophesied (395-397). In an amusing scene, from which the whole play takes its name, he lays hold of one end of the rope (rudens) attached to the uidulus and charges Gripus with theft. After a scurrilous altercation the two slaves agree to refer the matter to the arbitration of Daemones.

938. rudentem, here fem. (Nonius). For the quantity cf. 1015.

939. nam bonis, &c., probably a proverbial expression; cf. Capt. II. 2. 108 Quod bonis beneficit beneficium gratia ea grauidast bonis. Scan bōnīs, hērī (940).

941. ne postules, 'don't imagine it'; for this sense of postulare cf. Cas. I. 53, Capt. III. 5. 39, Truc. 142: almost equivalent to animum inducere.

942. squamoso pecu, 'scaly flock.' Pecu is a by-form equivalent in meaning to pecus (pecoris); cf. Bacch. 1123, 1139, plur. pecua Merc. 509, Truc. 956; Lucr. II. 342 f. has squamigerum pecudes in very much the same sense.

943. quam=tam . . . quam (Cas. 429), 'so much . . . as'; cf. Men. 968 f. Ut apse nte ero rem eri diligenter Tutetur quam ipse adsit, aut rectius: Livy XXIV. 23. 9 non quam maturato opus erat nauiter (= non tam nau. quam, &c.), XXXV. 49. 7 non quam isti sunt gloriosus, Verg. Aen. VI. 309 quam multa in siluis . . . lapsa cadunt folia, similarly quanto without correlative Rud. 1301 (note). In this use quam means 'in comparison (proportion) as,' = praequam (Most. 1146); cf. Capt. 421 haud centesumam partem . . . quam (= atque Mil. 764: cf. Bacch. 549, Merc. 761).

944. enícās, 'you bore me to death.' At the beginning of iambic metres, as in anapaests, cretic words may, under the influence of the ictus on the second syllable, shorten their final syllable; cf. Truc. 119 enícās me miseram, quísquis es (A), Capt. 833 Perlábēt, Stich. 223 Hercúles te amabit, Cist. Fragm. Ambros. fol. 247 r, 5 Opsérð te; so too after the diaeresis of the iamb. tetram. Pers. 269 compédēs (M), Epid. 179 Hercúli.

945. caue malo; cf. on 828. Scan mānū. Join quid nam. malum; cf. on 492.

946. qui (cf. on 123 and 760 atqui) here strengthens pol; cf. Amph. 705 at pol qui certa res, Asin. 823. Similarly with other words: quippe qui 384, hercle qui Most. 824, Trin. 464, Men. 428, ut qui Capt. III. 4. 21, ecastor qui Asin. 930, edepol qui Mil. 779. audies, 'you shall hear': the fut. indic. is here a form of will speech, almost equivalent to a command (cf. on 189 b, 286, 365 scibis faxo); so 989, Aul. V. 1. 22 numquam hinc feres, Most. 238, Men. 662, Bacch. 146. post, 'anon.' quin loquere; cf. Most. 172 quin me aspice, 187 quin mone, Curc. 241 quin perdura, Cas. V. 4. 9 quin responde. Quin with the imperative (peculiar to comedy) is equivalent to quin with indic. (cf. 122), a construction of which it is probably a development; see Lorenz on Mil. 951. quiduis, 'anything you like,' expressing indifference. The common reading quid uis (dependent question) is unsuitable to the context: Gripus is at first quite indifferent as to what Trach. has to say; his interest is not aroused till 948, after Trach. has spoken, 947. Similarly we find loquere quiduis (not quid uis, as in the texts) Aul. 777, Mil. 358, loquere quodlubet Asin. 626, quiduis roga Amph. 708.

947. ehodum huc, sc. accede (cf. 1148) or animu aduerte; cf. Pers. 609 Ehodum huc uirgo! uide sis quid agas (Stud. from A), and on Rud. 578. operae pretiumst, 'is worth attention,' a remark called forth by Gripus' quiduis.

948. consequi, often = sequi; cf. 241, 493, Amph. 880, Asin. 261 uostram consequi sententiam.

949. ecquid; cf. on 125. For the subj. after ecquis est qui cf. Most. 354, Merc. 844, Curc. 301, Cas. V. 3. 12. scilicet, 'sure enough,' 'why certainly'; cf. on 395.

950. ecquid answers to the ecquid of Gripus' question 949. boni consili, 'discretion'; cf. the Engl. 'to keep one's counsel.' mihist,

'may I expect to find'; cf. 709. Hiatus in diaeresis of cretic tetrameter.

956. furtum, object of faciebat ('I saw one who . . .').

958. furtum, nom. or acc.; cf. 963.

959. nil etiam, 'nothing further.'

960. Scan dāri. dimidium, &c., 'I expect you to say half.' Scan uolo ūt dīc. For the constr. uolo ut cf. 1217, 1067 (ne), Epid. 463, Bacch. 77, Pseud. 321.

961. dat: present for future; cf. on 179. This idiom must be carefully distinguished from cases in which the if-clause refers to present time and the principal clause refers to future time, e.g. Cic. Repub. I. 34. 51 deliget, si modo saluus esse uult, optimum quemque, Hor. Epist. I. 7. 31 si uis effugere istinc . . . repetes, Livy XXII. 60. 14 si tot exempla non mouent, nihil unquam mouebit, Lucr. III. 714, IV. 234, VI. 68. Scan consēō (cf. on 944); tuo is one syll. (synzesis).

963. A mixture of two constructions, (i) uidulum istum quouis (interrog. adj. quoui-us, -a, -um; cf. 229) est noui, with anticipation of the subject of the dependent question (uidulus); cf. on 244: (ii) noui hominem quouis (relative, cf. 1021) est uidulus iste. Cf. 587 praeter animi quam lubuit sententiam. quid est? 'what do you mean?'

966. 'The latter fact (hoc) does not concern you one whit more than the former fact (illud) concerns me,' i.e. 'let each of us keep his knowledge for himself'; for nihilo pluris refert cf. Bacch. 518 blan-diri nihilo pluris referet quam, &c.

967. Scan the second quouis and antehac (so too in 933) with synzesis.

968. ne, prohibitive, cf. on 403. potis, cf. on 425.

969. frustrā, as always in the phrase ne frustra sis; cf. 1255, Capt. IV. 2. 74, Merc. III. 1. 30, Pers. I. 3. 60, Men. IV. 3. 18.

970. nemo natus, 'no son of woman,' cf. natus nemo Most. 402, 451. Nemo natus is subject, dominus predicate noun. hunc repeating huic sounds strange to modern ears, but is not uncommon in Plaut., cf. Mil. 275, 1007, 1053 (illi . . . illa), 1163 f. (istius . . . istius), Pers. 498 f., 511 f., 611. uenatu=piscatu; so θηρᾶν occasionally of fishing, cf. ἔρωσ τῆς περὶ θάλατταν θήρας Plato, Laws VII. 823 D.

971. eoquem esse dices, &c. 'Will you admit that a fish in the sea belongs to me?' explained by the next sentence ('when I catch them they are mine'). Grip. means to say, 'I suppose you won't deny my right to fish.'

972. piscem . . . quos, cf. Curc. 494 f. egone ab lenone ('from a l.') quicquam mancipio accipiam, quibus sui nihil est nisi una lingua. habeo pro meis, 'I treat (regard) them as my own,' cf. Pers. 169, 341, Most. 386, Asin. 628, Merc. 744.

973. nec manu adseruntur, 'nor does anyone put in a claim to them,' a legal phrase (claim by laying on of the hand as a symbol of ownership); cf. Poen. 1348 neminem uenire qui istas adsereret manu, Pers. 163 illam a lenone adserito manu, and the phrases aliquem liberati causa (= in libertatem) m. ads. Poen. 906, 1102, Curc. 491, 709, aliquem in seruitutem ads. Livy III. 44, &c.

974. pro meis uenialibus=quasi sint mei uenales serui (584), cf. Cas. Prol. 20 prosunt pro praesentibus=prosunt quasi praesentes sint.

975. commune, 'public,' 'open.' omnibus, with syllaba anceps at change of speakers; cf. Palmer, Introd. to Amph., Müller, Plaut. Pros. p. 55. adsentio=adsentior, cf. on 629. Transl. 'Agreed!'

977. in mari communi, cf. 981. itane, cf. 747.

980. quisque . . . poscant, cf. Most. 103, Epid. 212, 214, Curc. 180.

983. in manu non est mea, 'it does not depend on me' (what I fish up); cf. Amph. Prol. 80 si illis fides est quibus est ea res in manu, II. 1. 14 istuc tibi est in manu, nam tuos sum, Trin. I. 2. 67 est atque non est mi in manu, Megaronides.

986. quod = aliquid. philosophe! 'quibbler!' cf. Thales 1003, Capt. II. 2. 24 f. Eugepae! Thalem talento non emam Milesium; nam ad sapientiam huius ille nimium nugator fuit, Bacch. 122, Aristoph. Birds 1009 ἄνθρωπος θαλῆς.

987. sed tu, 'but I say!' cf. on 365. enunquam (or en unquam) = ecquando, Paul. Fest. p. 76, a form supported by the MSS. in 1117, Cist. I. 1. 88, Trin. 589, Men. 925, Phorm. 329, 348, and introduced by Brix in Men. 143 (after Ausonius); cf. ecquis, the interrogative form of the indefinite quis.

987 f. uidisti . . . cepisse, 'have you seen . . . catch,' cf. on 132; the perf. infin. marks the action as completed, cf. Verg. Aen. VIII. 631 Fecerat et uiridi fetam Mauortis in antro Procubuisse lupam.

989. non enim, 'not, I promise you,' cf. on 922. occupabis, cf. on 946.

990. uitor [from uiere], one who makes articles of uimina, 'a basket maker,' cf. uidulus, which is perhaps etymologically connected (note on Arg. 1). The sense is: 'as a piscator you claim all fishes as your property, as a uitor everything made of wicker work.'

991 f. uel . . . uel, cf. on 430.

992. ne feras, 'you shall not carry off,' almost=non feres 1004, cf. on 286.

993. quid tu? 'harkye,' often so used to introduce a new point (cf. 1074, 1304), very much as sed tu 987. Here Gripus gives a new turn to the argument. sceulus=scelestus.

995. rare=raro, 'rarely.' This form is attested by Charisius, who quotes rare, rarius, rarissime (192, 22), probably from sources older than existing MSS.

997. quo colore is a relative clause forming part of the sentence begun in 996: 'considering the colour which it is.' The relative clause is loosely attached, as in Mil. 951 Quin tu tuam rem cura potius quam Seleuci, quae tibi Condicio noua luculenta fertur per me interpretem, 'considering the new and brilliant match which is offered you by my agency,' ibid. 406, 984. pau-xilluli, 'only quite little ones'; this is the only meaning which the word bears in Plautus, cf. 729 (adverbial), pau-xillum, perpau-xillum Capt. 176 f., &c.

998. puniceo corio, 'with a scarlet skin,' referring to the different coloured leathers with which uiduli were covered, cf. on Arg. 1. magni autem, 'but they are big ones,' in contradistinction to the pau-xilluli. atque atrii, sc. sunt, 'and there are black ones too,' implying that these were also big. (The uidulus fished up by Gripus was therefore not big, and neither scarlet nor black, but of a colour not defined.) The word puniceo suggests a new idea to Trach., which he develops in 999: an English writer would have spoken of black and blue fishes. scto, 'exactly.'

999. opino=opinor, cf. on 629.

1000. puniceum, i.e. through flogging, cf. the pun in Pseud. 228 cras, Phoenicium, poeniceo corio inuisis pergulam. atrum refers to the blue-black colour which succeeds the red of a weal.

1001. quod scelus . . . hoc, cf. Capt. III. 5. 104 quod hoc est scelus? Ad. 544 quid hoc malum infelicitatis? and on scelestus 508.

1002. facere, 'to settle the matter,' cf. feri 1005, 1035.

1003. The common reading was TR. Ita enimvero? till Seyffert in Philol. XXIX. p. 407 showed that these words cannot form a question. salue, Thales! 'hail, great philosopher!' (986): salue is often so used in greeting a person who appears in a new light, cf. 358 o Neptune lepide salue, 1173 filia mea, salue (when Daem. recognizes Pal. as his daughter), 1175. Trin. 1163 o saluete adfines mei.

1004. istunc, i.e. uidulum quem tenes, cf. hunc=uidulum quem teneo 1006. das=dabis, cf. on 179, 961. sequestrum, 'depository.' arbitrum, 'arbitrator.'

1006. elleborosus, here 'choleric,' properly 'a subject for hellebore,' 'a maniac,' cf. Most. 952 senex hic elleborosus certe. cerritus, 'harrassed,' properly 'crazy,' 'possessed,' cf. Men. 889 num laruatus aut cerritus, a word derived by Nonius from Ceres (= 'Ceres-struck'), 'Cerriti et laruati male sani et aut Cereris ira aut laruarum incurstatione animo uexati' (cf. Palmer on Amph. II. 2. 144). amittam, with the common Plautine sense 'let go'=dimittam, cf. 1009, 1031. The scansion of this verse has given trouble to editors; see Critical Appendix. All difficulty vanishes if we accept the doctrine of Leo (Index Lectionum in Academia Rostochiensi, 1887), who quotes a number of passages from the Bacchides, hitherto regarded as requiring emendation, to prove that final s after a short vowel may be dropped not only before a consonant as so often in Plautus, Lucretius, &c. (e.g. saluo' sis Rud. 103, esti' nunc 512), but also before a vowel, the preceding vowel being then elided: Bacch. 90 ille quidem hanc abducet: tu nullu' adfueris, si non lubet, 142 praesentibu' illis paedagogu' una ut siet, 230 mille et ducentos Philiippos attulimu' aureos, 331 sed diuesne est istuc Theotimu' ? etiam rogas ? 401 iustus iniustus, malignus largus, comi' incommodus, 724 euax nimis bellu' atque ut esse maxume oplabam locus, 797 bene nauu' agitur, pulchre haec confertur ratis, 950 in dolis ego prensus sum, ille mendicans paene inuentu' interit, 1069 euenit ut ouans praeda onustu' incederem, 1211 spectatores, uos ualere uolumu' et clare adplaudere, Epid. 353 manibu' his dinumerauit pater suam natam quam esse credit. Similarly here corrutu' hunc. Old Latin seems to have gone even further in the dropping of final s; see Cic. Orator 153 'saepe breuitatis causa contrahebant ut ita dicerent multu' modis, uas argenteis, palm' et crinibus, tecti' fractis'.

1007. apstrudam, 'I will bury,' so that they will go deep in and disappear.

1008. quasi=ut or quemadmodum, cf. Aul. IV. 1. 6 nam qui amanti ero seruitutem seruit, quasi ego seruiu, Pseud. 199, 955, Capt. 489, Pers. 26, 58, Merc. 695 f., Stich. 539 f., Ad. 739, Haut. 885, &c., a usage imitated by Cicero among other archaisms intended to give 'local colour' to the De Senectute (time of Cato); XIX. 71 quasi poma . . . decidunt, sic . . .

1009. exurgebo is constructed with both te (1008) and quidquid umoris tibist: 'I'll squeeze out all the juice that's in you'; cf. 1345, Cas. II. 5. 29 quis mihi subueniet tergo aut capiti aut cruribus ?

1010. pölypus, always with this quantity; cf. Aul. II. 2. 21, Hor. Sat. I. 3. 40, Ov. Met. IV. 366, Hal. 31.

1011. uis=uisne=uin 1035, 1328, 1406: cf. Bacch. 873, Cas. II. 3. 54, Mil. 72 (38), and note on 341.

1012. frunisci=frui, cf. Gell. XVII. 2. 5, C. I. L. 4. 2953.

1013. abeo ego hinc: with these words Grip. turns to go into the cottage, near which he is standing. Trach. however runs round him, holding one end of the rope in his hand, so as to block his way: Gripus, holding the other end, is thus compelled to turn round. offlectam nauem, 'I will put the ship about.'

1014. proreta, πρωπάρης, 'the man at the prow,' whose business it was to give the orders to the gubernator, 'the man at the helm'; the latter however had in his hands the real power of directing the ship's course. isti naui, 'that ship of yours'; Trach. means to say, 'I accept the metaphor.'

1015. mitte, 'drop,' 'let go.' rudentem; in later Latin always rüdens: the word occurs only three times in Plaut., and always in the acc. sing., above and 938, 1031, in both of which passages the metre does not determine the quantity. On variations of quantity see on 414.

1016. ramenta, 'a scrap,' a contraction of rädimentum, from rädere, 'to scrape,' abl. of measure; cf. Bacch. 513 ramenta fiat plumea propensior. The fem. sing. (cf. offerumenta 753) is a by-form of the more common neut. plur. ramenta, -orum: Non. 223, 3.

1017. pernegando, 'by obstinate refusal.' probare mihi, absolutely, 'win my consent' (= efficere ut hoc probum putem), i. e. 'gain your point.'

1018. ad arbitrum reditur, 'recourse is had to an arbitrator' (cf. on 1040) = 'you consent to refer the matter to an arbitrator': for the impersonal passive construction cf. Pers. 309 quid agitur? ut ualeatur? = quid agis? ut uales? Eun. 271 GN. quid agitur? PA. statur = sto, Stich. 467 GE. ualuitin usque? EP. Sustentatumst sedulo, &c. For redire cf. res ad triarios redit Livy VIII. 8. 11. sequestro ponitur, 'a deposit is made as security,' = 'you give security': sequestro is pred. dat. of sequestrum, cf. Gell. XX. 1 quod apud sequestrem ('depository,' 'trustee,' = sequestrum Rud. 1004) depositum erat 'sequestro positum' ('deposited as security') pro aduerbio dicebant, Merc. 737 sic sequestro mihi datast, Vidul. Fragm. VI. Stud. ego seruabo quasi sequestro detis: similarly pignori opponere Pseud. 87, p. dare Most. 978.

1019. quemne, cf. on 272. Hiatus at marí (justified by pause and change of speakers).

1020. Asyndeton of synonyms (opera labore), cf. 665.

1021. si ueniat dominus, 'should the owner come,' 'if the owner come,' referring to the future time and subordinate to the clause numqui minus fur sum quam tu, 'Am I any the less a thief than you?' This form of speech, containing a subj. in the if-clause, and an indic. or expression of command or wish in the principal clause, involves no anacoluthon, and is equally good Latin, Greek (εάν with subj.) and English; but it has been strangely neglected or even condemned as a solecism by grammarians. The pres. subj. has a slightly different meaning both from the indic. (si ueniet, 'if he comes,' = shall come, si uenit, 'if he is coming,' or 'if he comes,' habitually) and from the subj. when followed by another subj. (si ueniat, dicam, 'if he were to come, I should tell him'); it may refer either (i) to future or (ii) to present time: e. g. (i) Asin. 414 Si quidem hercle nunc summum Iouem te dicas detinuisse Atque is precator adsiet, malam rem effugies numquam, Amph. 450, Aul. 311 Famem hercle utendam, si roges, numquam dabit, Poen. 729 si pulitem, non recludet? 1085, Bacch. 1172 ni abeas . . . magnum malum dabo iam, Hec. 429 ego hunc adibo si quid me uelit, Phorm. 230 adito tu, ego in insidiis hic ero, si quid deficias, Ad. 753 et tu nobiscum una (sallabis), si opus sit; (ii) Curc. 265 Nihil est mirandum, melius si nil sit ('be') tibi, Pseud. 433 Sed si sint ('be') ea uera . . . quid mirum fecit? (here the principal clause refers to the past; there is no necessity for the two clauses to refer to the same time.) In the following instances (i) and (ii) are not separated: Lucr. III. 931 ff. si uocem rerum natura repente Mittat et hoc nostrum sic increpet ipsa . . . Quid respondemus? 947 eadem tamen omnia restant, Omnia si pergas (perges MSS.) uiuendo uincere saecla, Atque etiam potius, si numquam sis moriturus, I. 570, 655, II. 481, Cic. II. Verr. II. 69. 167 neque tu hoc dicere audebis, neque, si cupias, licebit, Tusc. I. 29 si eruere coner . . . reperientur, De Amic. 40 turpis excusatio est . . . si quis contra rempublicam se amici causa fecisse fateatur, Caes. B. G. VI. 11 aliter si faciant, nullam habent auctoritatem, Hor. Od. III. 3. 7 Si fractus illabatur orbis, impavidum ferient ruinae, Verg. Georg. II. 54 Hoc faciet uacuos si sit digesta per agros, Aen. I. 372 ff. si pergam . . . componet, VI. 884 si qua fata aspera rumpas, Tu Marcellus eris. Similarly the imperf. subj., referring to past time, e. g. Bacch. 563 Quid? tibi non erat . . . copia, nisi occiperes? Cic. de Amic. 11 Nisi enim, quod ille minime putabat, immortalitatem optare uellet, quid non adeptus est, quod homini fas esset optare? Seneca, Dialog. VI. 22. 6 Quid faceret? si uiuere uellet, Seianus rogandus erat; cf. Shakspeare. 'If it were so (implying merely 'I do not say that it was'), it was a grievous fault.' From the above instances, which could be easily multiplied, I have excluded sentences which admit of a different explanation—as containing in the principal clause an expression denoting 'can,' 'must,' or 'ought,' in a present or past tense, e. g. 566, Curc. 246 Potim (=possis?) coniecturam facere, si narrem tibi, or some special expression like paeniet Rud. 579, non laturus sum (=non feram?) Bacch. 1004, or as cases of anacoluthon (Rud. 159, Epid. 713 inuitus do hanc ueniam tibi, nisi necessitate cogar), or of 'attractio modi' (834, 924 d, 1128), or of an indefinite 2nd pers. sing. (Capt. 221 nam doli non doli sunt, nisi astu colas, 'unless one attend to them cunningly,' ibid. 202), or of si= 'even if,' concessive (Rud. 159, Most. 351): yet I believe that many such instances are more simply explained in the manner indicated above (cf. my Lat. Gram. § 501).

1021 f. inspectaui te hunc habere, 'saw you in possession of it,' cf. Poen. 710 ut tute inspectes aurum lenoni dari, and notes above on 132, 988. mane, 'stop.' Trach. is quick to take advantage of the careless admission of Gripus (nihilo), which involves his right to go shares.

1023. argumento, 'evidence,' 'test,' cf. 1180, Truc. 169, Asin. 302, Amph. 806, 1087, Capt. V. 3. 14.

1025. nisi quia introduces not a limitation of a previous statement, like nisi quod Capt. 394, 621, Pers. 517, but an antagonistic statement: 'I don't understand your city laws, but,' &c. So Trin. 983 sed ego sum insipientior, qui egomet unde redeam hunc rogitem . . . ; nisi quia lubet experiri quo euasurust denique, Pseud. 107 atque id futurum unde esse dicam nescio ; nisi quia futurumst, 'but come it will': Langen, Beitr. p. 57 f. (where Cist. II. 1. 12 is admitted as an exception). Cf. note on nisi 751.

1026. mane : iam, so correctly punctuated by Lachmann on Lucr. p. 211. Brix shows that mane iam is not Plautine for manedum.

1027. tuam, synzesis.

1028. indicassis, cf. on 304 (capsimus).

1029. mussitabo (= tacebo), for the sake of variety; transl. 'you be silent, I will hold my tongue.'

1030. ecquid condicionis ferre, 'to make some offer.' audes, cf. on 870.

1032. refero condicionem, 'make you a counter offer,' lit. 'give you back an offer,' cf. Phorm. Prol. 21 quod ab illo adlatumst sibi esse rellatum putet, and the phrase par pari referre. te aufer modo, a play upon the preceding fero, refero; transl. 'just make off.'

1033. uicinos meos. Gripus lies by implication (explicitly in the next line), probably as a precautionary measure. Trach. had made the acquaintance of Daem. in Act III. Sc. 2, and knew him to be friendly.

1034. ubi hic, 'where about here,' cf. Pseud. 599 ubi Ballio leno hic habitat, Mil. 9 sed ubi Artotrogus hic est? 1258, Trin. 872 ubi in his regionibus, Haut. 829, Andr. 965. Scan illie (Müller, Pl. Pros. p. 45 f.). porro (local), 'away,' illie, 'there,' longe, 'far off,' usque in campis ultumis, 'right in the most distant fields'—a curious example of pleonasm: cf. 266 ilico hinc . . . haud longule ex hoc loco, and note on 838 (usque).

1036. remitte restem, 'slack away the rope'; Trach. has up to this been pulling at it, so as to keep it strained. Gripus asks to be allowed to move a little way off (dum concedo) to deliberate; his next speech is an aside, addressed to the audience.

1037. perpetua, 'continuous,' 'uninterrupted,' hence 'whole,' cf. 370, Most. 147 (aedes totae perpetuae ruant, 765 perpetuom diem).

1038. praesepe, fem., a by-form of the neut. praesepe, 'pen,' 'stall,' generally of animals; with the present passage cf. Curc. 228 reciperet se huc esum ad praesepem suam, Cas. Prol. 56 futurum quod amat intra praesepis suas. The spelling praesepe, praesepes is attested by almost all MSS. and also by inscriptions, and is used in most modern texts.

1039. triobolus, 'a three obol piece,' = $\frac{1}{2}$ drachma. Triobolus is the spelling attested by B here, BCD in 1330 (tribolum), CD in 1354, 1367, Bacch. 260, and by A in Poen. 381, 868. ab suo, sc. seruo.

1040. ne, interjection, used only before pronouns, 'verily,' = vai, cf. Most. 75, 562 ne ego sum miser, Trin. 62, Men. 256, Mil. 571. eo, pres. for fut., 'I go' for 'I will go,' a conversational idiom of Lat., Engl. and German: cf. Eun. 492 ff. THR. Iamne imus? TH. Hos prius intro ducam et quae uolo Simul imperabo: post huc continuo exeo. THR. Ego hinc abeo, Bacch. 592 non it, negat se ituram, &c.; see on 413. The sentence eo ad iud. is part of the soliloquy of Gripus, and not addressed to Trach. ire ad arbitrum or iudicem (cf. Most. 1101): it was customary when the parties in a dispute desired to have it settled without litigation (priuatim) to enter upon a sponsio or engagement by which each bound himself to pay a certain sum of money to the other if his contention should prove to be false, and to entrust the decision to an arbitrator: see Weissenborn on Livy III. 24. 6.

1041. quid igitur? 'well?' i. e. 'what is the result of your deliberations?' cf. Most. 911, Stich. 624, Amph. 719, Curc. 316, Trin. 333, Hec. 181. istuc, 'what you claim,' i. e. the uidulus (= istunc). esse ius meum, 'belongs by right to me,' 'is my right,' cf. 1122, 1393 pro meo iure (note), Cas. II. 2. 16 ius meum optinendi optiost.

1042. istuc, 'what you propose,' i. e. that we should submit the matter to arbitration. nunc places, cf. Capt. 870, Stich. 146, Truc. 273, Epid. 150.

1043. adpellis, 'force,' 'drive.' adhibebit fidem, 'shall be honest.'

1044. notus ignotissimumus, 'though known, most unknown,' i. e. I renounce him utterly.

SCENE 4. Enter Daemones, Palaestra, and Ampelisca from the cottage. Daemones tells the girls that they must again seek the protection of the altar, as his wife's jealousy prevents him from keeping them any longer in his house. Gripus and Trachalio lay their quarrel before Daemones: Trachalio declares that Gripus is in possession of the travelling trunk lost by Labrax and containing Palaestra's trinket case, in which are her 'tokens': he demands that the case and its contents be restored to their owner, in order that she may have the means of discovering her parents and proving herself free born. In spite of the protests of Gripus, Daemones puts the question to the girls whether they recognise the trunk; Palaestra answers in the affirmative, and offers to describe minutely its contents in order to establish her claim. The uidulus is opened, and Palaestra, after removing to a distance, describes the contents of the trinket case. As Daemones takes them out one by one, he discovers, to his amazement and joy, that Palaestra is his long lost daughter. Daemones, Palaestra, Ampelisca, and Trachalio retire into the cottage to inform the mother of the happy event; and Gripus, after a short soliloquy, in which he curses his luck, follows them.

1045. serio, 'seriously,' 'in sober earnest,' cf. 468. uobis uolo quae uoltis, 'am well disposed to you,' cf. Bacch. 778 ni ei facta cupiam quae is uelit, Pers. 489 numquam tibi quod nolis uolam.

1046. propter uos belong to the ne-clause. ne uxor. There seems to have been something about the pronunciation of the word uxor which might prevent hiatus or render it admissible, cf. Men. 963 Quid ego nunc faciám? domum ire cūpio: uxor nōn sinit (so MSS.). The spelling of uoxor, supported by Koch (Jahrbücher Cl. p. 285) is attested by B in Trin. 800 and Truc. 515 (where, however, metre forbids).

1047. pelex. 'rival.' The spelling paelex is equally well attested in MSS.; pellex is later. adduxe=adduxisse, syncope, cf. detraхе Trin. 743, dixe Poen. 961, aduexe Merc. 333, illeхе 51, despexe Mil. 553, circumspexe Varro ap. Non. p. 106, produхе Ad. 561, surreхе Hor. Sat. I. 9. 73, duxe Varro Sat. Men. 329, adduxti Haut. 819, intellexti Rud. 1103.

1048. Daemones means that he himself might have to seek protection from his wife's displeasure.

1049. saluas sistam, cf. 1359, Trin. 743, Poen. 876, 1083, Merc. 891 in tranquillo sistere. ne with imperative is common in Plautus, cf. 1254, Most. 576, 643, 1105, &c. sed quid uos, addressed to the lorarii.

1051. ex praesidio, 'off guard,' praesides, lit. 'protectors': 'sentries off guard' sounds almost like a military command.

1052. quid fit? 'how are you getting on?' 'how goes it?' cf. 1303, Merc. 284 salueto: quid fit? quid agis? Stich. 660, and in many other places.

1053. haud pudet, 'I am not ashamed to own it,' i. e. that he is my master. Gripus (like Sceparnio 110-113) takes upon himself to reply for his master. Scan ábi hinc sis.

1054. istuc optume, sc. est, 'that is first rate.' Trach. has already made the acquaintance of Daem. (III. 2: this Gripus does not know), and has confidence in his justice and friendliness. For the predicate adverb cf. optumest Capt. 706, Cas. III. 6. 14, V. 2. 53, Bacch. 783.

1055. iterum te saluto, 'I greet you a second time to-day.'

1056. accersitum, from accerso (1199), 'to summon,' a form which Wilkins (Journ. of Phil. VI. p. 278 ff.) and Nettleship (Contrib. to Lat. Lex. p. 17 ff.) consider to have been originally distinct from arcesso, 'to go and fetch.' In the MSS. of Plaut. the forms are confused, and no distinction of meaning can be traced: A has forms of accerso fourteen times, of arcesso seventeen times (Seyffert, Index Orthographicus). In the phrase ego is sum the ictus always rests on is: here ego is sum, cf. 1173, is ego sum Capt. 1025, Pseud. 1199, Trin. 985: Seyffert in Phil. Woch. 1890, p. 215.

1057. nempe, cf. on 268.

1058 f. Trach. is incoherent through rage. uir often in contemptuous sense in Plaut., cf. uir uenefice 1112, scelus uiri, 'rascal of a fellow,' Mil. 1434, Curc. 614, Truc. 621, hallex uiri Poen. 1310. scelestus, cf. 456. Scan illic, cf. Intr. to Capt. p. 12. talos suffringi, a cruel method of punishing slaves, cf. Mil. 156, Truc. 638 (M), Cic. Rosc. Amer. 56 eis (canibus) crura suffringantur.

1060. quid est qua de re, cf. id quoi rei Pers. 393, Poen. 815, Bacch. 249.

1061. ego rem facesso, 'I am the plaintiff': opinor, 'if I am not mistaken,' parenthetical and ironical. As the plaintiff (primarius uir 1073) Trach. claims the right to speak first. si quidem, two words, the first long, cf. 1091, Most. 987 si quidem istaec uera sunt, Mil. 28 pol si quidem, Asin. 318, 539, 699, 701, 712, Amph. 814, Pseud. 628, 723, Cas. V. 4. 18; contrast siquidem (as in classical Lat.) 484, 765, 972, 986. It is probable that Plaut. used both scansiones according to convenience (siquidem more often than si quidem), although this cannot be absolutely demonstrated, as either si quidem (quide', cf. on 596), or si quidem (quide'), the latter often with shortening of a succeeding long syll. (e. g. si quidem hercle), are always metrically possible: cf. Rud. 765, 972, 986, Curc. 703, Mil. 189, Poen. 312, Truc. 628, Capt. 920, Stich. 752, 757, Cas. II. 5. 19, Merc. 872: Rud. 484, Most. 229, 671, Asin. 405, 414, Mil. 520, 624, Poen. 696, Merc. 903, Cas. II. 6. 57, II. 8. 38, &c.: but siquidem often improves the rhythm, and the two-fold pronunciation may be paralleled by ibidem (396, 847) and ibidem (391, 591, 878), quandöquidem (Stich. 485, 559) and quandöquidem (usual), tü quidem and tüquidem (Bücheler in Archiv III. p. 144 ff.): cf. on 936.

1062. si sis pudicus, 'if you had any sense of decency' (pudor): sis=esses, cf. on 196; for pudicus cf. Trin. 697 is est honos homini pudico (honourable man) meminisse officium suum, and note on impudicus 115. hinc facessas, intrans. 'you would take yourself off,' with a play on rem facesso; cf. Afran. 202 multa ac molesta es: potin ut hinc facessas? Enn. apud Non. 306 uos ab hoc facessite; also classical.

1063. utin=uti-ne, introducing an indignant question, 'What, is he to speak first?' cf. Epid. 225, Men. 683, Curc. 616; Brix on Trin. 1046.

1064. Hiatus in diaeresis and at change of speakers. nequitur. The passive of queo and nequeo is used only with the passive infin., like coeptus sum, desitus sum, potestur; cf. Pers. 194 nec subigi queantur, Hec. 572 nosci non quita est: for the form nequitur cf. Fr. 98 W (Fest. p. 162 b, 30, Sall. Jug. XXXI. 8). conprimi, 'to be silenced,' cf. 1073, 1165, 1402, Cas. II. 6. 10.

1065. ita ut occēpi, 'as I began,' cf. Poen. 470, sed ita ut occ. Stich. 579, ut occ. Rud. 1089, 1093, sed ut occ. Pers. 518: cf. note on Rud. 1119. illum quem, attraction, only found when the relative clause precedes, cf. Curc. 419 sed istum, quem quaeris, ego sum, Epid. 448, Mil. 140, 1114, Trin. 985, Men. 311, Amph. 1009, Verg. Aen.

I. 573 urbem quam statuo uestra est, Trin. 137 ille qui mandauit exturbasti ex aedibus, Most. 250, 985, Men. 57, Rud. 1241. Sometimes a word belonging to the principal clause is placed in the subord. clause: e. g. Bacch. 936 Non sunt tabellae sed equos quem misere Achiui ligneum, Capt. 179 meliozem adferet Quae mi atque amicis placeat condicio magis, Trin. 1074, Merc. 803, Truc. 275, Naev. 19 Ribb. ut illum di perdant, qui primam holitor protulit caepam. Epid. 166 cannot be thus explained: plerique homines ('nominativus pendens'), quos quom nil refert pudet, quom usust ut pudeant ibi eos deserit pudor.

1066. tenere and habere are frequently used the one for the other; hence it is quite natural for Grip. to answer non habeo.

1067. ne uideas uelim, 'I (could) wish you were blind.'

1068. habeo, non habeo = siue habeo, siue non habeo, cf. uelim nolim. me, anticipation, cf. on 244.

1069. Hiatus after modō: the lost ablatival d, like the digamma in Homer, 'fitfully haunts its ancient seats' (Jebb).

1070. nulla causast quin, 'there is no reason why . . . not,' = non recuso quin, 'I make no objection to . . .,' a common Plautine formula. condonare, with dat., 'to deliver up,' several times in Cic.

1072. Scan Vérbā dāt; see Crit. Append. modō, abl. of noun. quid tu ais? 'how say you?' an expression of astonished indignation, cf. 1095.

1073. quōd = quoad, 'till'; cf. on 287. primarius uir, 'the person who has precedence.' dicat, 'shall speak,' cf. on 456. conprime, cf. 1064.

1074. quid tu? cf. on 993. consueuit tibi, sc. facere (from feri).

1075. conprimere, cf. Amph. 348, Truc. 262.

1076. uerbo illo, &c., 'he had you there,' cf. Trin. 706. modo, adv., 'just now.'

1077. equidem, 'indeed,' 'I protest,' is simply a stronger form of quidem as Priscian (XVI. p. 1033) said, and Ribbeck (Lat. Part. p. 39 f.) demonstrated, and is not compounded of ego quidem, though in the large majority of instances it is connected with the 1st person; it is found according to the best MSS. evidence with the 2nd pers. Trin. 352 equidem pote = potes, ibid. 991 (by conjecture, on metrical grounds) saluos quando equidem aduenis; with the 3rd pers. Epid. 603 Adulescentem equidem dicebant emisse, Pers. 639 atque equidem miseret tamen, Trin. 611 Atque equidem ipsus ultro uenit Philto oratum filio; or without any finite verb at all, Bacch. 974 quadringentos filios habet atque equidem omnis lectos sine probro, Mil. 656, Poen. 1240, Eun. 956 conligauit? — atque equidem orante, ut ne id faceret, Thaide, Epid. 30 (by conjecture) atque equidem cito, 'and, what is more, quickly.' These last examples show conclusively that equidem is practically an assever-ative particle; it is used to strengthen edepol, pol, hercle in Pers. 546, Poen. 508, &c. Equidem ego occurs again Merc. 264, Pers. 187, Bacch. 437, Amph. 764, Haut. 632. All these uses are occasionally found in the classical period, e.g. equidem ego Sall. Cat. LI. 15, Jug. X. 6, LXXXV. 26, equidem nos Cat. LII. 11, scitis equidem Cat. LVIII. 4, uanum equidem consilium est Cat. LII. 16, cf. Livy V. 51. 4. de istoc uidulo repeats and emphasizes istine; cf. isti in istac cistula . . . isti in uidulo 1082, isti . . . in isto uidulo 1109, 1133, in uidulo . . . ibi 1310.

1078. isti, adv.=istic, 'there,' so isti 1082, Most. 1143, Mil. 255, Epid. 721. Similarly illi=illic 541, &c.

1079 f. dudum, 'just now,' πάλαι; cf. 1123.

1080. For the pronunciation nepe see on 343.

1081. admodum, cf. 143, 840. crepundia, toys, consisting of a variety of miniature objects such as rattles, dolls, little swords, hatchets, animals, &c., (cf. 1156-1171), sometimes given as birthday presents (Epid. 639 f.), and often made into a necklace to be worn by children as a means of recognition when they were put out to nurse or exposed (Cist. IV. 1. 13 quibuscum tu extulisti nostram filiam ad necem, Mil. 1399, Cic. Brut. XCI. 313),=γνώρισματα Plut. Thes. 4, signa qui parentis noscere Rud. 1110. See the engraving in Rich's 'Companion' of crepundia hanging from the right shoulder round the body of a child, and Arneith, Gold- und Silbermonumente.

1083 f. neque . . . et, 'on the one hand not . . . and'='not . . . but' (classical). isti, 'your slave.' usust=usu est (cf. on 294), predicate dative,=utile est. Carefully distinguish usu (= usui) est from usus est = opus est. id . . . qui, 'that whereby,' cf. on 123, 1110.

1086. crepundiá, syllaba anceps at change of speakers, cf. Mil. 1316 PL. Tibi salutem me iusserunt dicere. PH. Saluae sient, &c. tua, sc. refert, cf. Amph. 1003 quid id mea? Phorm. 133, 389, 800, 940, Hec. 510, Cic. ad Att. IV. 5. 3.

1087. expendetur, future of promise, cf. 286, 1136.

1089. caue malo, cf. on 828.

1091. quem suspicor, sc. eius esse, 'as I suspect it is,' a relative clause equivalent to a co-ordinate sentence (=and I suspect it is).

1092. hic, 'at this point,' i. e. before I have seen what is in the uidulus, cf. Trin. 504 nunc hic quom opus est non quit dicere, Merc. 307, Epid. 302, Most. 584, Haut. 742. nisi, cf. Cas. III. 5. 57 nisi se sciát ulicó non datum iri (A), Poen. 243 (M), 325. de opinione, cf. the verse of the Cistellaria found by Studemund in A (fol. 241^r, 15) ut pote quam (postquam A) nunquam uiderim, de opinione credo.

1093. uiden? scelestus aucupatur, a very rare form of speech, but attested by MSS. in Poen. 314 uiden tu? pleni oculi sorderum qui erant iam splendent mihi, Truc. 601 hoc uide: dentibus frendit, icit femur, Capt. 304 sed uiden? fortuna humana fingit artaque ut lubet: cf. too Curc. 93 (emended). aucupatur (here deponent, elsewhere active in Plaut., e. g. Most. 473, Mil. 995, Men. 570, Asin. 881, Truc. 964), a bird-catcher's term, often used metaphorically (Lorenz on Mil. 995), here 'he is laying a trap,' 'spreading the toils,' cf. Engl. metaphorical use of 'to fish.'

1095. haec=hae, cf. on 294. ostendere iube, with omission of subject accus., cf. Most. 426 iube uenire nunciam, Mil. 182, 981 f., 1034, 1268, 1278, Asin. 736, Cist. II. 3. 48, Men. 225 (Ritschl), Pers. 790 (Spengel). ain ostendere? cf. on 799, Most. 383 ain tu pater? =do you say 'his father'? 642 ain tu aedis? see too on Rud. 1072.

1096. dicat ut=imperat ut.

1097. insignite, cf. 643. quidum, 'why, pray?' cf. 1116 and notes on 639, 784.

1098. seclerum caput, 'fountain-head of rascalities,' cf. Shakspeare 'head and front of offending'; Mil. 494, Pseud. 466, 1054, Curc. 234, Bacch. 829; similarly 1099 perituri caput, 'arch-perjurer,' cf. Pseud. 132.

1099. ut . . . item (=ita), cf. on 417 f. item ut. tute, 'you yourself.'

1100. hic, i. e. Daemones. hinc, 'on this side' (cf. 808, Men. 799 hinc stas, illum causam dicis, Livy XXIV. 45. 3 aliunde stare) = a me, 'on my side,' 'with me'; cf. abs te 1101.

1101. atqui is related to the whole thought, which is expressed paratactically; = atqui, quamquam nunc abs te stat, tamen, &c. abs te, 'on your side,' as your master. hinc=ex puellis; cf. 1104 liberas (only the free could act as witnesses). clbit, fut. of cio, a by-form of cio, cf. cinus Lucr. I. 212, V. 211; c. testimonium, 'take evidence,' cf. testem citare, 'to summon as witness.'

1103. The absence of diaeresis is excused by the long word intellecti (1047); cf. Trin. 1145 posset intellegere, Amph. 707 inritabis crabrones, 1117 formidosum, &c.

1105. fuit, cf. on 217. surpta=surrepta, cf. Pers. 150, Poen. 902, surpuit Cas. Prol. 8, Capt. III. 5. 102, IV. 4. 14.

1106. uidlum, cf. on 936. an, without utrum or -ne, cf. 213.

1107. defieri=deficere, cf. Mil. 1261, Men. 221, Phorm. 162, Eun. 243.

1108. dilue, 'explain,' = expedi 1102.

1109 repeated 1133. caudeam, 'made of rushes'; cf. the gloss of Placidus 'caudeam: iunceam, quod iunca cauda emergat,' and that of Paulus 'caudeae cistellae: ex iunco, ad similitudinem equinae caudae factae.' Whether this derivation of caudeus from cauda is right or not, the lexicons ought not to say that caudeus means 'wooden,' as though from codex (caudex); cf. Loewe, Prodr. Gloss. p. 287.

1111. quibuscum, 'with which,' = 'which she had when . . .'; cf. Cist. IV. 1. 13 (quoted on 1081). peritit Athenis, 'disappeared from Athens,' cf. perierim Carthagine Poen. 987, periere Magaribus ibid. Prol. 86, peruisti e patria tua Capt. III. 4. 5.

1113. quae . . . non queant, 'that they are not able,' cf. 105.

1114. Cf. Soph. Ajax 293 γύναι, γυναίξί κόσμον ἢ σιγῇ φέρεi.

1115. pro portione, 'in your degree,' 'as your portion,' cf. Quintilian X. 7. 28 sit pro sua scilicet portione perfectum. Transl. 'have not your fair share either of man or woman,' cf. meam partem 1126.

1116. quia enim, cf. on 922.

1117. enumquam, cf. on 987. praeterhac = posthac, 'hereafter,' Most. 75, Men. 112, 725, Stich. 345, Titinius 30 Ribb. Sī quisquam hodie praeterhac posticum nostrum pepulerit.

1119. ut id ocepi dicere, 'as I began to tell the tale,' cf. Curc. 43, where B has Id uti ocepi dicere (unmetrical; perhaps read Sed id uti occ. dic.; cf. note on 1065).

1122. ius meum, 'my right,' cf. on 1041.

1124. 'I have known a kite pounce, as you are doing (etiam), without carrying off anything after all (tamen, cf. 569).' I have put the comma at etiam, instead of at miluom. For uidi, of an experience, cf. Mil. 885 ego multos saepe uidi regionem fugere consili priusquam reperitam haberent (subj.), Epid. 525 malleum sapientiore uidi excusso manubrio, Truc. 319 uidi equidem elephantum Indum domitum fieri. The subjunctive aufferret is probably due to subordination to the infinitive (cf. on 383), cf. Men. 361 mira uidentur te hic stare foris . . . domus quom haec tua sit, Capt. 146; in Bacch. 283 it is immediately subordinate to another subj. (tractio modi): adeo me fuisse fungum ut qui illi crederem, quom mi ipsum nomen eius Archidemides clamaret dempturum esse. petere, used intransitively, probably a technical term, here with reference to peto 1123. miluos is always of three syllables in old Latin.

1125. sine malo, 'without a thrashing,' cf. Amph. 742, Truc. 779, Eun. 713.

1126. meam partem, adverbial accus., 'on my part,' cf. Mil. 647 et meam partem itidem tacere, quom alienast oratio, ibid. 94, Poen. 413 maiozem partem, Capt. 421 haud centesumam partem.

1127. Scan modó, adverb (Müller, Pl. Pros. pp. 36, 477).

1128. at . . . ut = tamen . . . ut (Asin. 718, Hec. 447), 'yet (only) on the condition that,' cf. Asin. 274 aetatem uelim seruare, Libanum ut conueniam modo, Men. 217, Stich. 28. istorum = eorum quae iste (1126) dicit. reddetur, cf. Most. 580.

1129. atque Ampelisca, 'and Amp. too,' added as an afterthought.

1130. atebas. Palaestra, it is true, had not said anything (cf. 1113); but Trachalio had his information from her, as Daemones must have known; he might indeed infer from her silence during the present scene that she endorsed the statement.

1132. ex procliua planam, a proverbial expression, 'clear instead of obscure,' again Mil. 1028 fecisti modo mi ex procliuo planum, cf. Asin. 663 nam istuc procliuest quod iubes me planum conlocare. Literally planus = 'level,' procliuos (an ante-classical and poetical by-form of proclivis) 'sloping down'; Varro, R. R. II. 2. 7, Catull. LXIV. 270.

1134. ibi with inerit. For this order of words cf. Asin. 232 At ego est etiam prius quam abis quod uolo loqui, Cist. IV. 282 eloquere unde haec sint tibi cito crepundia, Pseud. 866, Amph. 712, Epid. 310, Most. 709, Merc. 406, 419.

1135. nullum = nihil; see the gloss of Placidus in Loewe, Anal. Plaut. p. 205; Cas. IV. 2. 16 nullum esurit: cf. nullus = nemo 1253. ostenderis, perf. subj. in prohibition (cf. on 403), as in Most. 272 minime feceris, Bacch. 90 nullus tu adfueris, Curc. 384 nil monueris.

1136. An amplification of frustra, 'to no purpose,' 1135. tamen, i. e. in spite of my attempt to establish a claim to the cistella.

1137. erunt, sc. quae dicam (from si falsa dicam 1135).

1138. ius merum oras, 'you ask simple justice,' cf. 1152 ius bonum oras, 184 bonum aequomque oras. inius merum, 'simple injustice.' The word inius does not occur elsewhere, but recommends itself as the opposite of ius; cf. iustus, iniustus; fas, nefas. The context demands some sharp antithesis to ius merum, cf. 1152 ius bonum oras . . . iniuriu's. Hiatus after animo (change of speakers).

1139. superstitiosa, 'witch,' cf. Curc. 397, Amph. 323 illic homo superstitiosus, 'a wizard.' hartola, cf. on 326.

1141. nequiquam, cf. 217.

1142. The uidulus is roped together by means of the rudens: Daemones gives instructions to Gripus first to untie it (solue), and then to open it (aperi 1143).

1143. hoc habet! 'so much for Gripus!' a well-known gladiatorial expression, by which Trachalio expresses his exultation at the anticipated discomfiture of Gripus; cf. Most. 715 hoc habet! repperi qui senem ducerem, Verg. Aen. XII. 296 (note of Servius), Andr. 83 habet! where Donatus says 'dicitur de eo qui letaliter uulneratus est,' Hercules Oetaeus 1461 (Peiper) habet, peractum est: Shaksp. Hamlet V. 2. 292 'A hit! a very palpable hit!' In Rom. and Jul. III. 1 the wounded Mercutio cries 'I have it! and soundly too.'

1145. uostrum cognoscendum (= cognoscendorum), 'of recognizing you,' for uostrum cognoscendi, cf. on 289. que . . . que, cf. Epid. 220, Asin. 577, Amph. 7. opes spes, cf. Capt. 445, Amph. 1053, Ad. 331.

1146. quisquis, referring to a female person, cf. on 406.

1147. Scan tām in with hiatus; for the position of tam cf. Mil. 741.

1150. si tantillum peccassis, 'should you make the smallest mistake,' cf. Cas. IV. 4. 6, and for the subj. 1021. quod postules, 'in case you should expect,' cf. Pseud. 101, Mil. 162, Asin. 757 f., 761, 796, Aul. I. 2. 13, Cas. I. 39, &c.; also classical, e. g. Cic. Verr. V. 68, 175. The subj. is the same as in si ueniat 1021.

1151. te conuorti, cf. Andr. 672 non posse iam ad salutem conuorti hoc malum.

1152. haud tuom orat, explained by what follows (nam tu iniuriu's). iniuriu's=iniurius es: for iniurius, 'unjust,' see examples in Lew. and Sh., and cf. on inuis 1138.

1154. ecce uideo, 'I see them before me.' in primo proelio, 'at the very beginning of the battle'; for the military metaphor cf. Pers. 25, 112, 606, Asin. 912, Men. 185 f., 989.

1155. ex ordine, elsewhere in Plautus ordine in this sense, 'from beginning to end,' ἐφεξῆς, Most. 552, Mil. 1165, Pseud. 761, 1312, Men. 679, or in ordine (see MSS. in Poen. 590, Mil. 875, Pseud. 676, Pers. 91, Cas. V. 2. 19).

1156. ensiculust aureolus; the diminutive form of the adj. as well as of the noun intensifies the expression of 'littleness': cf. 1169.

1157. Scan quid est, cf. 1060.

1158. altrinsecus, 'on the other side,' i. e. of the cistella. ancipes, 'two-headed'=anceps, cf. praecipus 671.

1160. quid nomen est? 'what is the name?' so regularly in Plautus (not quod nomen est, 'what name is?') cf. 1163, Trin. 889 quid est tibi nomen? 906 quid est ei nomen? Amph. 364, Capt. 285, 983, Men. 341, 497, 1131, Most. 661, Pseud. 636, 653, 744, 977, Cist. IV. 2. 106, Pers. 623 (here, however, A has quod, and so too in 700): similarly quidquid est nomen tibi Pseud. 639, Men. 811.

1161. ubi loci (Capt. 958, Merc. 986) sunt spes meae? in the mouth of Daemones an expression of joy, in that of Gripus (immo edepol meae) of despair: cf. 1164. The fact that Palaestra's father was called Daemones is not in itself sufficient evidence that she is the daughter of Daemones of Cyrene; but it is enough to raise hopes that she may be. In 1164 f., when she says that her mother's name was Daedalis, Daemones is convinced that he sees before him his long lost daughter. Again, Daemones does not at once identify the tokens which he and his wife gave to Palaestra when she was an infant (cf. 1181); but his recollection is awakened by the sight of the bullā aurea (1171) which he gave her as a birthday present. Langen seems to be mistaken in denying dramatic verisimilitude and psychological truth to Plautus in this scene (Plaut. Stud. p. 213).

1162. pergite, addressed to Daemones and Palaestra. placide, 'gently,' 'doucement'; Gripus is afraid that the issue may be obscured in the general excitement; cf. Merc. 136 placide; uolo adquiescere, ibid. 159, 169, Trin. 881 si unum quiddid singillatim et placide percontabere, Pseud. 242, 923 quid properas? placide, Bacch. 707, 833, Poen. 545, Mil. 220 propere hoc, non placide decet, Men. 179, Rud. 426, 1274. aut ite in málám crucem, 'or else a murrain upon you.'

1163. matris nomen depends on loquere (anticipation, 244).

1164. at me perditum, cf. Cist. II. 3. 31 PH. Seruate me, di, oro, opsecro. ME. At me perditis.

1165. Either scan meam with synizesis and elision before esse, or meam esse hanc.

1166. qui, cf. 946.

1167. adeo, cf. 103. scelestus, cf. 502. circumspexi me (according to the punctuation of Seyffert), 'looked around me' = circum me spexi, cf. Trin. 146 circumspicedum te, ibid. 863, Cic. Parad. IV. 2. 30 numquam te circumspicies (metaphorical); in the same sense circumspicere without reflexive pronoun, Trin. 151, Mil. 1137, Most. 472, 474.

1169. sicilicula, 'a little sickle,' diminutive of sicilis: cf. Ennius (Ann. 499 Vahl.) quoted by Paulus (p. 337 Müll.) Incedit ueles uolgo sicilibu' latis. conexas, 'clasped' or 'clasped round it': in any case argenteola belongs ἀπὸ κοινῶν to maniculae, as aurea 1171 to sucula 1170.

1170. sucula, 'windlass.' Palaestra is proceeding with her enumeration when Gripus interrupts her. quin tu i dierecta, 'go to the devil,' or 'to the gallows with you.' dierecta, four syllables, according to MSS., as in Bacch. 579 Recède hinc dierecte, Men. 442 Dúcit lembum dierectum, Poen. 347 Béllula hercle: i dierecte, Varro, Eumenides (quoted by Nonius) Apage in dierectum á domo nostra ístam insanitátem. See Palmer in Hermathena X (1884), and Seyffert's Jahresbericht, 1885, p. 29. The same scansion is quite admissible in Cas. 103 Abi rús, abi dierectus, Most. 8 Abi rús, abi dierecte, Poen. 160 Abi dierectus, Merc. 756 Abin dierectus. In Merc. 183 probably read In hinc (Bentl., In hoc B, I hinc CD) dierectus; in Capt. 636 the MSS. have Quín quiescis dierectum cor meum ac suspénde te; perhaps read Quín quiesce; i dierectum &c.; in Curc. 240 B has Lien dieructus, JE³ dinterruptus; the emendation of Cam. may be scanned Lien dierectus; in Most. 850 the reading is also uncertain. The only passage which is clearly trisyllabic acc. to the MSS. is Trin. 457 Abin hinc dierecte (so A: derecte M): here Palmer would read Abin dierecte or Abi hinc dierecte. The origin of dierectus is uncertain; Nettleship (Journ. of Phil. XV. p. 186-188 and Contributions to Lat. Lex.) regards it as a misspelling of directus (from directus; see M in Trin. 457, Men. 442, Poen. 160), cf. Paulus, p. 69 'Dirigere apud Plautum inuenitur pro discidere'; directus would then mean 'cut in two.' But this does not explain the early scansion as four syllables. I rather incline to the other possibility suggested by Nettleship that it is 'some bastard issue of διαπήγνυμι, a word very common in Greek comedy. At any rate, as Nettleship shows, there is no analogy in Latin for the old derivation from dis and erigo ('to raise up asunder' = 'to stretch on the cross or patibulum'; Brix on Trin. 457, Lorenz on Most. 850). The word is generally used predicatively (with a verb of motion); the form dierecte may be either a vocative or an adverb (cf. macte uirtute esto). cum sucula et cum porculis, 'with your little pig and porkers,' a pun on sucula, 'windlass': the addition of cum porculis is necessary to bring out the point of the joke. Apparently the word porculus also meant a hook or ring attached to a windlass, cf. Cato, R. R. XIX. 2 porculum in media sucula facito; perhaps this technical sense of porculus was itself a metaphorical expression suggested by sucula. In Merc. 988 cum porcis cum fiscina sounds like a proverbial phrase derived from the farm.

1171. bullā, a golden capsule shaped like a heart, which contained an amulet and was worn round the neck of children; Marquardt, Rom. Ant. V. p. 83 f.

1173. produxi, 'reared,' cf. Capt. 763, Asin. 544, Ad. 314.

1174. intus = intus est. The only precisely similar passage, with nom. and without a finite verb, is Capt. 1005 sed erus eccum ante ostium (Brix ante ostium est). No doubt it would be more regular to read with Langen (Beitr. p. 5) intust.

1176. uolup est quom, cf. 908, 1183.

1178. ecce Gripi scelera, 'behold the misfortunes of Gripus,' cf. scelus 1001 and scelestus 1184, 502 (note).

1180. argumentis, 'tests,' cf. 1023.

1181. signa, 'tokens,' cf. 1312.

1182. The line is commonly given to Trachalio; but, as Seyffert remarks, it would be out of place for Trachalio, even if he is still on the stage, to invite the company into the house of a stranger. promiscam, adv. 'in common,' ante-classical; 'promiscam pro promiscue dicebant' Paulus, p. 224; cf. Asin. 366, Pseud. 1062.

1184. sumne (865) ego homo scelestus (1178), qui . . ., cf. Most. 362 sed ego, sumne infelix qui . . ., Pers. 75 sed sumne ego stultus qui . . ., ibid. 474 sumne probus, sum lepidus ciuis qui . . ., Men. 852 sumne ego mulier misera quae . . ., Merc. 588 sumne ego homo miser qui . . ., Pseud. 908 sumne ego homo insipiens qui . . .. In all these passages except the last the indic. follows. For excipere, 'to fish out,' cf. on 1362.

1185. aut, 'or rather,' cf. 1162. solo loco, cf. 227.
1186. credebam, 'I suspected,' and therefore deserve all the more to be punished for not having taken special precautions. turbulentam euenturam, 'that there was a storm brewing in.'
1188. largiter (= large Aul. 196), cf. Epid. 485, Most. 438, Truc. 903, and note on 265; here with gen. 'plenty of,' cf. 1315, Merc. 903: similarly satis, abunde. argenti et auri, more commonly aur. et argent., cf. 396, 546, 1257, 1295, 1309, 1340, Asin. 155; but argentine aurique Stich. 375.
1189. meliust quam ut, cf. 220.
- SCENE 5. Daemones soliloquizes on his good fortune.
1193. satin, cf. on 462, and for the accent Trin. 454, Merc. 682, Amph. 604. esse bene factum uolunt, cf. Amph. 33 esse oratam a uobis uolo, Men. 1120.
1194. illud optatum, 'that desire,' almost meaningless, as no desire had been spoken of.
- 1195 f. ego . . . is, cf. Merc. 631 f. ego me credidi homini docto rem mandare: is lapidi mando maxumo.
1196. inprouiso = ex inpr. 1192, cf. Asin. 310.
- 1197 f. Part of the question begun in 1191.
1198. ingenuo Atheniensi, 'a freeborn Athenian,' cf. Cas. Prol. 82 ingenua Atheniensis. cognato, cf. 1214. Daemones is supposed to have learnt these facts from Palaestra in the course of the interview within; Plesidippus was a stranger to him when they met in Act I.
1199. adeo giving prominence to ego, cf. uos adeo, 'you, I say,' 731.
1204. nimis, cf. 360. paene, 'I had almost said.' inepta atque odiosa, 'out of place and tedious.' amatio, 'affectionateness'; cf. Cas. II. 5. 20 odiosast amatio.

SCENE 6. Daemones looks in at the door of his cottage, and gives instructions to Daedalis to let Trachalio go without delay and fetch Plesidippus. Enter Trachalio; his first words are addressed to Daedalis or Palaestra (within). [The change of metre and space for a capital letter in BC indicate a new scene.]

1205. meliust with acc. and infin., cf. on 220.
1206. adorna ut, cf. on 129 f.
1207. laribus familiaribus, 'household gods.' Each house had strictly speaking only one lar, whose image, representing the founder of the family in his toga, stood in the sacrarium or lararium: cf. Aul. Prol. 2 ego lar sum familiaris, 384 haec inponentur in foco nostro lari, Merc. 599, Trin. 39, Cato, R. R. 143. The plural must be understood to include the two penates, originally distinct from the lar, who were the tutelary deities of the store room (cella penaria) and who had their place in the sacrarium, one on each side of the lar. Inasmuch as both the penates and the lar were protectors of the household, they came to be spoken of together under the general name of lares: still the phrases redire ad penates suos and redire ad larem suum preserve the original distinction [Marquardt, Römische Staatsverwaltung, vol. vi. p. 122]. It was customary to greet the lar on entering a house, and also to present offerings to him on the occasion of a marriage or other important family event. quom, causal, with indic., as always in Plaut., except when 'attractio modi' or a subj. due to subordination to an infin. is found.

1208. porci sācres (a mute and liquid do not make a position in Plaut.), 'pigs for sacrifice'; sācris technical for sācer: 'sacrem porcum dici ait Verrius ubi iam a partu habetur purus' Fest. p. 318: 'a partu decimo die habentur puri: ab eo appellantur ab antiquis sacres, quod tum ad sacrificium idonei dicuntur primum'; Varro, R. R. II. 1. 20, II. 4. 16: Men. 289 porci sacres sinceri.

1209. atque, cf. 492.

1212. licet = ἔξεστι, 'well,' cf. Most. 930, Mil. 536, Amph. 544; the word admits of a shade of irony.

1213. daturum, sc. me, cf. on 246.

1216. omnian 'licet' P 'is it well to everything?' again 1222. Licet being a quotation does not stand in grammatical agreement with omnia; cf. quid 'liberas' 736, quid 'fures' 881. quod te uolo, 'that I want of you.'

1217. quod promisisti, 'as you promised.' This promise of Daemones (to use his influence with Plesidippus to get Trachalio manumitted, cf. 1218) and also the arrangements for the marriage of Trach. with Ampelisca are supposed to have been made in the course of the interview within, and are thus indirectly communicated to the audience by Trach.; cf. 1130 aiēbas. ut memineras depends on uolo 1216. ut liber sim depends on memineras, which = cures, cf. Cas. IV. 4. 5 ut uiro subdola sis memento, Hor. Epod. 10. 4 horridis utrumque uerberes latus, Auster, memento fluctibus.

1220. ubi sim liber, 'attractio modi,' the clause assuming something of the colour of the clause to which it is subordinated, cf. 874, 924 d, Trin. 731 ff. fieri non potest ut perpetiar . . . quom habeam, Bacch. 908, Pers. 290 f., Mil. 1343 nequeo quin fleam quom abs te abeam.

1221. gratum has passive sense, 'repaid': exporior often takes the accus. (with infin., Trin. 460, Mil. 405, 633, 671). beneficium = beneficium: the shorter form was introduced by Ritschl (Opusc. II. 716-722, 774) in order to avoid the proceleusmatic (mihī dēnē-): cf. Trin. 638, 1052 (185 malfacta), Asin. 673, Phaedrus I. 22. 8. factis, 'in deed,' not merely in word (dictis 681), cf. Capt. 429

Istaec dicta te expedire et operis et factis uolo, ibid. 405, Bacch. 704 Quid mihi refert Chrysaldo esse nomen, nisi factis probō? Similarly re 683, and in Greek ἔργον as contrasted with λόγος.

1222. refero gratiam, 'I am giving you tit for tat,' 'I am even with you'; cf. Pers. 428 referundae ego habeo linguam natam gratiae; eodem mihi pretio sal praehibetur quo tibi.

1223 f. Each speaker fires off a final licet, Daemones no doubt in a loud tone of voice.

1224. interibi=interim: Asin. 891, Stich. 371, Capt. 951, 953, &c. adorna ceterum, cf. on 129 f.; for ceterum as object cf. Capt. 989, Men. 224, Pers. 708, Epid. 5, Cas. I. 94, Phorm. 166.

1225. Hercules, cf. Cas. II. 3. 57 Hercules dique istam perdant, Most. 528. The nominative ending of Greek proper names in -ης is always -ēs in Plaut. licentia, 'welling,' perhaps with a play on infelicit (Tyrell), which then transl. 'may ill betide him.'

1226. repleuit auris, cf. 905 opplebit auris. ita, cf. on 87.

SCENE 7. Enter Gripus from the cottage; he is resigned to the loss of the cistella, but suggests that Daemones may conceal the uidulus or refuse to restore it to any claimant, no doubt intending to bargain for his manumission as an equivalent.

1227. quam mox, with present, as always, cf. 342.

1229. si sapias, sapias, a dark hint made explicit in the next sentence; cf. 834, Hor. Od. I. 11. 6 Sapias, uina liques, Persius V. 167.

1230. aequom . . . ut, cf. par . . . ut Bacch. 139 ff., mirum . . . ut Merc. 240.

1231. quodne, &c. 'Do you call that alienum, which,' &c., cf. on 272.

1232. tanto illi melius qui, &c. 'so much the better for the loser,' sc. quod uidulum in mari inuenisti: cf. Stich. 606 f. G.E. Non tu scis quantum afflicentur homines noctu hic in uia? P.A. Tanto pluris qui defendant ire aduersum iussero, Bacch. 211, Truc. 953.

1234. sancte pius, cf. on 301 (pure laud).

1235. in aetate hominum, 'in the life of men,' cf. Amph. 634, 938 Nam in hominum aetate multa eueniunt huius modi, Men. 839 aetate in sua, Poen. 228 omni in aetate, Amph. 633 in aetate agunda, Trin. 24, 462 in aetate.

1236. Scan ubi, cf. ibi 935.

1238. auariter, a by-form of auare, cf. Curc. 126 and note on 265.

1240. Scan ille qui; so often at the beginning of a verse: the antecedent is assimilated to the case of the relative, cf. on 1065, and add Curc. 296, Ad. 815, Pacuv. 83 (Ribb. p. 87). consulte, docte atque astute, cf. 928 and on 930.

1241. licet, sc. ei: cf. 1292. bene, 'honestly': cf. sceleste paria 506. partum, for parto (Langen), cf. on 533.

1242. mihi ista^{ae} uidetur praeda praedatum irier, 'that plunder which you recommend will, I think, be taken as plunder.' The supine with iri is very rare in dependence on uideor; cf. Quintil. IX. 2. 88 reus paricidii quod fratrem occidisset damnatum iri uidebatur: for uideor with the pres. infin., a construction far less common in Plaut. than in class. Lat., cf. Rud. 598, 601, Curc. 260, Poen. 1264 uix hoc uidemur credere. Plautus seems here to have struck out a bold construction of his own for the sake of the effective phrase praeda praed. With the general sense cf. 1261 f.

1243. ut abeat, sc. praeda, 'in such a way as to depart.' cum maiore dote, a metaphor from the law of divorce, according to which it was as a general rule incumbent on a husband to restore the dos of his divorced wife, though in certain cases where the fault of the wife or her family was the cause of the divorce a certain part of the dos might be retained by the husband. Daemones says this praeda on its departure will take with it a greater amount of property than it brought, i.e. will inflict more loss than it ever conferred gain.

1244 f. egone ut celem, an indignant question, 'I conceal?' cf. 1063.

1245. noster Daemones = ego. Note the following idiomatic uses of noster: (i)='your humble servant,' an impersonal and objective way of speaking: Hor. Sat. II. 6. 48 Per totum hoc tempus subiectior in diem et horam Inuidiae noster, 'our hero'; (ii)=ex nostra familia, Mil. 350 nam illic noster est, Asin. 58, 334, Mil. 431 nos nostri ('our own master's slaves') an alieni sumus, ibid. 433 certe equidem noster sum, 'I am Sceledrus of ours,' Amph. 399 certe edepol tu me alienabis numquam quin noster siem, Epid. 147 noui ego nostros (sc. eros or lorarios); (iii)='one of us,' an expression of welcome, noster esto='well done,' Mil. 898 eu, noster esto, Bacch. 443 noster esto dum te poteris defensare iniuria, Truc. 953, noster eris Verg. Aen. II. 149.

1246. sapientis, 'sensible masters,' cf. 338.

1247. conscii malefici suis, 'partners in wrong-doing with their servants.'

1248. mihi nil moror (852), cf. Most. 746 nil moror mi istius modi cluentis, Frag. 78 W. nil moror mihi fucum in aluo. moror, cf. Capt. 530 machinor astutiam, 791 eminor interminor, Intr. to Capt. B, Palm. Intr. to Amph. p. 5 f., Lübbert, Gram. Stud. I. 40, II. 44, 84. cum frude (=fraude), 'to my harm'; fraus=damnum, a conversational idiom, cf. Mil. 164 fraudem legi facere, 294 cruribus fraudem capitalem hinc creas, 1435 inlicere aliquem in fraudem, Truc. 298, Livy VII. 16. 9, Cic. ad Att. IV. 12, VII. 26. 2. The phrases sine fraude and fraudi esse are classical (Lorenz on Mil. 294). For the form frude cf. Lucr. VI. 187 ne tibi sit frudi, Verg. Aen. IV. 675 frude

P. (C. I. L. I. 198, 64), Trin. 413 defrudau BD¹. [In Verg. Ecl. IV. 31 R has the curious variant frusdis for fraudis.]

1249. pridem, 'lately,' cf. Cas. II. 8. 27, Aul. II. 4. 314. comicos, 'players,' properly 'comedians,' cf. Pers. 465 tragici et comici, Capt. IV. I. 11 comici serui, 'slaves in comedies.'

1249 f. spectau . . . dicere, cf. 1022, transl. 'I have looked on as a spectator when . . .' is, cf. 186. plaudier, cf. Cic. de Am. VII. 24 stantes plaudebant in re ficta.

1251. sapientis mores, 'rules of wisdom.' poplo, a syncopated form of populo, cf. the best MSS. in Amph. 259, Prol. 101, Pseud. 126, C. I. L. I. 589; I. 195, 17; 14. 4269: poplum Asin. Prol. 4, popli Aul. 285, Most. 15, Pers. 408, Cas. III. 2. 6 (A, Stud.). [In some of the above passages B has a crossed l; in Rud. 1251 the reading potio clearly points to POPLO in the archetype.]

1252. quisque, i. e. each man of the audience. diuorsi, 'in different directions,' strengthens suam quisque domum: transl. 'each to their several homes.'

1253. nullus = nemo, cf. Amph. 293, Capt. 154, Pseud. 294, 352, Bacch. 190, 336, 543, Stich. 217; cf. nullum = nihil 1135. illo pacto ut, predicative = talis qualis, cf. Engl. 'so' = 'such': Pseud. 798 si me arbitrabare isto pacto ut praedicas, Capt. 120 non uidere ita tu quidem, Amph. 574 utinam ita essem, Trin. 668, Cist. I. 1. 48, Bacch. 473 ego omnem rem scio, quemadmodumst, Amph. 442, Truc. 171 longe aliter est amicus atque amator, Trin. 47. illi, 'the players.'

1254. ne molestus's (1049), 'don't be troublesome,' cf. Most. 955. Egone?—Tu.—Tu ne molestus's (A, according to Stud.).

1256. deos, synizesis.

1257. si . . . si : siue . . . siue, cf. Capt. 114 si foris, si intus uolent, Amph. 1049 siue ancillam siue seruom, si uxorem, si adulteram. cinis, 'dust and ashes.' [Exit Gripus, into the cottage.]

1258. illuc est quod nos nequam seruis utimur, 'there you have the reason why we masters have roguish servants,' cf. Cas. II. 8. 26 Illuc est, illuc, quod hic hunc fecit uilicum. Daemones means 'this is the sort of way in which slaves are demoralized,' as he explains in the next line: had Gripus made this dishonest proposal to a fellow slave (or perhaps even to an unscrupulous master), he would have accepted it, and then both would have been committed to dishonesty for the rest of their lives.

1260. furti adstringeret (= astrinxisset, cf. on 590), 'would have implicated in theft,' cf. Poen. 737 homo sese furti adstringet, Eun. 809 hic furti se adlegat. In class. Latin we should have had the abl.; see dictionary.

1261. dum censeret, 'while he would think,' a conditional subjunctive (of apodosis), here subordinated to dum. For subordination of constructions ordinarily found only in the simple sentence or principal clause cf. 1322, 1329. interim, 'during such time,' i. e. the time indicated by dum.

1262. praeda praedam duceret, cf. uidetur praeda praedatum irier 1242.

1263. postibi = postea, cf. on 600.

SCENE 8. Enter Plesidippus and Trachalio from the town (left); the former expresses his gratitude for the good news which Trachalio has brought.

1266. mi liberte, 'my freedman,' implying that he had promised freedom to Trach. Freedmen were often on very friendly terms with their benefactors (patroni, cf. Cas. III. 6. 15), as Tiro with Cicero.

1268. popularis, 'my compatriot' (605), cf. 1198. opino, cf. 999.

1269. censen despondebit, parataxis, as in the Engl. 'do you reckon he will betroth her'; cf. Aul. 309 Censen talentum magnum exorari potest? (MSS.), Capt. 961 credin pudeat? Persius V. 168. censeo, 'I reckon so': in the next line the word assumes the meaning 'I think you had best,' cf. Amph. 966, Curc. 279, Pseud. 664, Poen. 728, 1249.

1270. gratulabor, deliberative fut. indic., cf. on 189 a: contrast 1275 salutem (delib. pres. subj.).

1271 f. Ples. allows the censeo to pass twice unchallenged; the third time he demands 'what do you reckon?' Trach. answers 'I reckon (= vote for) what you ask,' (probably with allusion to the use of the term in the proceedings of the senate: the presiding consul rogabat sententiam, and the person appealed to might answer censeo). Ples. being in high spirits gives a new turn to the expression: 'tell me then at what sum you reckon it.' Trach. continues the previous answer; cf. his licet to Daemones 1212-25. Egone (1272) expresses the surprise of Trach. at the turn which Ples. has given to his censeo.

1273. adsum equidem, &c. 'I am here to answer to my name, mark you; close your reckoning.' Here again a different turn is given to the expression: censionem facere suggests the technical sense 'to fine,' cf. Placidus p. 27 'censio: multa qua citatos si non responderant (so Bücheler; MSS. ponderum) ensor afficiebat'; Paulus 'censionem facere dicebatur censor cum multam equiti irrogabat.' It appears then that the allusion in the present passage is to the review or inspection of the equites by the censors, which was held in the forum near the temple of Castor once in every lustrum (equitum census Livy XXIX. 37. 8, equites recognoscere XXXIX. 44, XLIII. 16). Compare also the obscure verse Men. 454 qui nisi adsint quom cidentur, census capiant (capiat A) ilico.

1274. sic placide, cf. 426.

1275. etiam, 'also,' cf. on 877. eam refers to Palaestra. salutem, cf. on 1270. Hiatus at change of speakers (censeo).

1276. quid postea? 'what next?' a formula used when some one is asked to proceed: Poen. 480, Bacch. 728, Truc. 509, Cist. II. 3. 6, Cas. II. 5. 14; cf. Trin. 768. The words here naturally belong to Trach., as Seyff. says.

1277. etus, synizesis. non censeo, 'I reckon not,' cf. 787.

1278. eampse, cf. 411.

1279. dilectum dimisit, 'he has stopped the review': dilectus seems to mean the census equitum.

ACT V, SCENE I. Enter Labrax from the town (left), complaining of his misfortunes; he has lost the action before the recuperatores, and is now reduced to beggary.

1282. ad=apud (Prol. 18 apud iudicem), cf. ad praetorem Poen. 727, ad patrem Capt. 49, 699. recuperatores, a board of three or five members, selected by the praetor from among the centumviri; for summary decision of cases concerning recovery of property, status, &c.; cf. Bacch. 270 postquam quidem praetor recuperatores dedit.

1284 f. These lines are unintelligible in this context, especially the words nam and ex gaudio procreatos ('children of joy?') Line 1286 follows quite well upon 1283.

1286. uisere with object and adverbial expression (cf. on 94): 'I will pay a visit to the temple here to look after the other one,' 'I will look after the other one in the temple here'; cf. Bacch. 529 uisam huc ad eum, Merc. 555 ad me huc inuisam domum.

1287. saltem with eam. Construe quod reliquiarum (partitive gen.=quae reliquiae) restat de bonis, 'the remnant which is left of my property,' cf. Trin. 1067 illam alteram (partem) apud me quod bonis adponito, where quod bonis is explanatory of illam alteram; similarly here quod reliquiarum of eam. For the word reliquiae cf. Most. 82 paucorum mensum sunt relictiae reliquiae, and for the part. gen. also Mil. 1156 quod fallaciarum.

1288. A new scene begins here, according to indications in the MSS. (ignored by Fleckeisen). Enter Gripus from the cottage with a rusty spit in his hand, which he is polishing in preparation for the unwonted festivities. After a brief soliloquy, in which he apostrophizes the absent Daemones and his family (inspicietis 1288, negatis 1292) he is accosted by Labrax, whose attention is attracted by the mention of a uidulus, and who ends by offering Gripus a reward of a 'great talent' if he gives him information which leads to the recovery of it.

1289. redditur, cf. on 179. The speeches of Labrax here and in 1293, 1297 are asides.

1290. The subject of tundat must be cor, cf. Pseud. 1045 mihī cor retunsumst oppugnando pectore, Aul. 625 meum cor coepit artem facere ludicram atque in pectus emicare, Cas. II. 6. 62 perii; cor lienosum, opinor, habeo; iamdudum salit; de labore pectus tundit. Hence we must assume a lacuna, with Seyffert.

1291. istic=qui apud uos intus est. ego qui . . . ei, cf. 1240 f., and on 1065 (illum quem).

1292. Scan with hiatus in diaeresis. dari=datum iri, cf. on 307.

1294. cubitum longis litteris, 'letters an ell long,' again Poen. 837.

1295. perdiderit, perf. subj., 'have lost,' cf. on 1021.

1297. uidulum, anticipation, cf. on 244. qui=quis, cf. 385 and on 98.

1299. reuocas. Some one is supposed to call him from within. hoc, i. e. the uerum (1304); cf. hoc=hoc ostium 413.

1301. rutilum atque tenuius, 'redder and thinner'; the comparative meaning attaches to both adjectives. Cf. the superlative in Capt. 278 quod genus illist unum pollens atque honoratissimum. For the omission of tanto cf. Cas. IV. 3. 8 quanto ego plus propero, procedit minus (A).

1302. This line was probably intended as a substitute for 1300 + 1301. uenenatumst, 'bewitched.'

1303. cum inraso capite, 'with your uncropped head.' It was considered a sign of respectability to wear the hair short; hence slaves on being manumitted shaved their heads and wore a felt skull-cap (pileus) until their hair was grown: cf. Amph. 462 raso capite caluos capiam pileum. In Rud. 125 Labrax is described as crispus, 'curly.' Inraso cannot come from inrado as Lew. and Sh. say. quid fit, 'how goes it?' cf. 1052, =ut uales, 'how do you do?' 1304.

1304. uerum, a by-form of ueru, 'spit.' Gripus intentionally misunderstands the question: cf. Eun. 271 GN. quid agitur? PA. statur =sto. Here uerum extargetur=uerum extergeo. quid tu? cf. 993.

1305 f. medicus . . . mendicus, 'medical,' . . . 'mendicant.' teti-gisti acu, 'you have hit the nail on the head': for the metaphorical use of acus to denote subtlety cf. Cic. pro Aemilio Scauro 20 (Fragmenta Orationum, Nobbe p. 1298) nec acu quaedam enucleata argumenta conquiram, Academica II. 24. 75 contorta et aculeata quaedam σοφισματα. uidetur digna forma, 'so I should judge from your appearance.'

1307. et alii, 'and another,' (i.e. Charmides); for the dative cf. 73, 152, 354.

1310. ecquid, properly an accus. of extent (cf. quid refert? 1311), is often almost equivalent to an interrogative particle, cf. ecquid meministi? Mil. 42, Bacch. 206, Pers. 108, Poen. 985, 1062, ecquid placent? Most. 906, &c. ibi repeats in uidulo, cf. on 1077.

1311. quid refert, sc. quid in eo infuerit qui perit? tamen is the beginning of a speech to the same effect as 1312, interrupted by Labrax. sine, 'enough,' equivalent in meaning to the particle είε, cf. Bacch. 811 egomet tabellas tetuli ut uincirer: sine, Truc. 636 pulchre ludifcor: sine, Aul. 425 sine: at hercle cum magno tuo, Asin. 902 (according to Ussing's interpretation: see 893 of his numeration), Hec. 707 num tibi uidetur esse apud sese? sine, Eun. 66 egone illam, quae illum, quae me, quae non? sine modo, Phorm. 420. aliud fabulemur, 'let us talk of something else,' cf. Mil. 878 aliud est quod potius fabulemur.

1312. signa, cf. 1181.

1313. nummus, in Plaut., when used without qualification, generally denotes a silver coin, the Greek διδραχμον, worth about one shilling and sixpence of English money (cf. Truc. 562, where quinque nummi = pars Herculeana = 1/8 of a mina, and Pseud. 808 f., where the nummus is spoken of as a greater sum than the drachuma: note on Rud. Prol. 45), nummus aureus (nummus Philippus, Philippus aureus or simply Philippus) a gold coin, the 'Philippe d'or' or στατήρ, struck by Philip II of Macedon and his successors; it corresponded in weight to the silver διδραχμον (see Lidd. and Sc. under στατήρ) and was worth about fifteen shillings of English money; cf. 'Louis d'or,' 'Napoléon,' Δαρεικός, from Darius, as names of coins: Trin. 152, 955, 965, 1158, Asin. 152, Poen. 732. probi, 'sterling,' cf. Pers. 438 nummi sescenti hic erunt probi, numerati, 526 probum et numeratum argentum ut accipiat face, Livy XXXII. 2. 2 id (=argentum) probum non esse quaestores renuntiauerant.

1314. tetrachuma, plur. of the neut. tetrachumum = τέτραχμον, a shorter form (found in a Boeotian inscription, see Lidd. and Sc.) of τετραδραχμον. In Latin the shorter form tetrachumum is found in Livy XXXVII. 59. 4, XXXIX. 7. 1 and Cass. apud Cic. Fam. XII. 13. 4 (according to the MSS.): the latinized form tetrachumum is parallel to drachuma = δραχμή (Merc. 777, Pseud. 86, 88, 91, 93, 808, Trin. 425, Haut. 601, Andr. 451), &c., see note on 86. The tetrachumum Philippum was probably a double stater, corresponding in weight to two silver διδραχμα, and therefore worth about thirty shillings of English money (see the article Stater in Smith's Dictionary of Antiquities). The word Philippus when denoting a coin always has the second syllable short, and, according to Langen, is always of three syllables (not Philippus). paseolus [φάσκωλος], 'ex aluta sacculus,' Nonius, 'a leathern bag.' sorsus, or seorsus, a by-form of the earlier sorsum or seorsum; see Ritschl, Opusc. II. p. 263.

1315-1317 an aside, to the spectators. largiter mercedis, cf. on 265 and 1188.

1316. di me omnes respiciunt, cf. Epid. 192 di me hercle omnes adiuuant, augent, amant: ipsi hi quidem mihi dant uiam quo pacto a se argentum auferam, Mil. 871 di hercle hanc rem adiuuant, Cas. IV. 3. 16 di hercle me cupiunt seruatum. hinc=ab hoc, cf. 1330. praedatus, an adj. formed from praeda,='enriched with spoil,' cf. Pseud. 1138 bene ego ab hoc praedatus ibo, and note on 260.

1318. commodum=integrum, 'of full weight': Asin. 725 uiginti argenti commodas minas, Merc. 438. inerit, 'will be found to be,' unnecessarily altered by editors to inerat. Labrax sees by this time that Gripus knows where the uidulus is: cf. Asin. 734 hic inerunt uiginti minae bonae, Pers. 437 nummi sescenti hic erunt probi, numerati, Frag. 232 W., Phorm. 53 lectumst; conueniet numerus quantum debui.

1319. Different kinds of silver vessels used at conuiuia: sīnus, 'bowl,' cf. Curc. 75, 82, Verg. Ecl. VII. 33. cantharus, 'tankard.' epichysis, ἐπίχυσις, 'beaker,' 'pitcher.' gaulus, γαυλός, 'jug.' cyathus, κύαθος, 'ladle.'

1320. papae, 'dear me!' = παπαί, an 'interiectio admirantis,' (Charisius, Priscian): seven times in Plautus and four times in Terence; in Bacch. 207, Stich. 425, 771, Truc. 507 it expresses joy. Hiatus in diaeresis.

1321. miserum istuc uerbum. Cf. Cist. I. 1. 76 GY. Veniet. SI. Spissum ('tardy') istuc amantist uerbum 'ueniet, nisi uenit, Merc. 896 EVT. Faciam. CH. Longum istuc amantist. miserum et pessimum, 'hateful and most evil,' pleonastic, cf. propere celeriter 1323.

1322. uelis probably='would be willing,' subordinate to eloquere, cf. 1261 (censeret), 1329 (addas), and Andr. 667 Eho dic mihi, si omnes hunc coniectum in nuptias uellent, quod nisi hoc consilium darent, 'what other counsel they would have given'; Pers. 590. Here, however, a note of interrogation might be put at indictetque, which would turn 1322 into a simple sentence. qui=ei qui, cf. on 624.

1323. propere celeriter, cf. Aul. 264 propere . . . strenue, Cist. III. 8 propere ocius, Cas. III. 6. 17 propere cito intro ite (A M). nummus, without qualification, cf. on 1313: trecenti nummi=£22 10s. tricas, tramas, glandem are objects of fabulare 1325. Tricae= 'trifles,' hence 'humbug,' 'imposition,' (cf. the verb extricare): Most. 572, Curc. 613, &c.

1324. For the form quadrigentos cf. Bacch. 974, 1183 (C). tramas, 'cobwebs.' cassam glandem, 'an empty acorn,' cf. cassa nux Pseud. 371, Hor. Sat. II. 5. 36, = uitiosa nux Mil. 315.

1326. os calet tibi: nunc id frigefactas, equivalent to our expression 'That's cool of you!' lit. 'Your mouth is burning and you are now engaged in cooling it,' i. e. with such absurdly petty offers (frigida = inepta Cic. Brut. LXVII. 236, De Or. II. 64. 260, cf. frigus Catull. XLIV. 20). Similarly Poen. 759 f. LY. Calidum pransisti prandum hodie? dic mihi. AG. Quid iam? LY. Quia os nunc frigefactas quom rogas.

1327. mille in Plautus is always treated as a noun (= $\chi\lambda\iota\acute{\alpha}\varsigma$) and takes the gen. like milia in class. Lat., cf. mille nummum 1406, Trin. 954, 959, 966, 1139, Merc. 491, mille drachumarum Trin. 425, mille passuum Truc. 334, Men. 177, mille annorum Mil. 1079, mille modiorum Mil. 1064.

1328. audi: si hercle, &c. a threat, = 'Listen to me: if once I go away, I shall not be here,' i. e. negotiations will come to an end, and your chance of a reward will have been lost. Then after a slight pause, uin, &c., 'What do you say to eleven hundred?' (= £82 10s., a good offer for a reward). dormis, 'you are dreaming.'

1329. postules, subj. of dependent question, or like uelis 1322. quo addas . . . 'a sum to which you need not (are not to) add anything against your will,' the subj. of command (403) being here used in a subordinate clause. From such an example as the present it is easy to see how the ordinary final subj. originated.

1330. talentum magnum = £225, cf. 778 and Prol. 45. triobolus, cf. 1039. hinc abesse, cf. Pers. 663 nummus abesse hinc non potest.

1331. uel aias uel neges, cf. 430. quid istic? lit. 'what there?' a concessive formula of comedy = 'as you like,' or 'for aught I care': the full expression is found Epid. 141 quid istic uerba facimus? (quid istic Trin. 573, Merc. 1004, Poen. 1225, Andr. 572, Haut. 1053, Ad. 350, 956, Eun. 171, 388). necessum. Old Latin had side by side with neesse the forms necessum (Asin. 895, Cas. II. 5. 36, Lucr. IV. 121, V. 57, 376) and necessus (Cist. II. 3. 82, Stich. 219 A, Haut. 360 A, Lucr. II. 710, IV. 1006, V. 351).

1332. haec with Venus, cf. 1334 per Venerem hanc. adroget te, probably 'bind you over by an oath,' cf. the phrase sacramento aliquem rogare (or adigere), used by Caesar, Livy, and Tacitus of swearing in soldiers. Turnebus, quoted by Gronovius, takes adroget in a juristic sense = adstipulari: 'stipulator rogat (cf. Pseud. 114 roga me uiginti minis, 1070, Digest I. 14. 7 rogauit Titius, spondit Maenius), adstipulator adrogat, cuius uice nunc Venus erit.'

1333. lubēt, original long vowel, cf. on 390.

1335. praei uerbis quiduis, 'dictate anything you like.' quod domist (cf. 292), numquam ulli supplicabo, 'I shall not need to be beholden to anyone for what I have of my own,' i. e. 'I have a plentiful stock of oaths,' 'swearing comes easy to me'; cf. 1377 lubet iurare. This must be the meaning if the text is sound, cf. Bacch. 225 Domist: non metuo mihi nec quoquam supplico Dum quidem hoc ualebit pectus perfidia meum, Mil. 190 Nam mulier holitori numquam supplicat, si quas mala; Domi habet holitori et condimenta ad omnis mores maleficos, Capt. 772 Nec quoquam homini supplicare nunciam certumst mihi. ulli = cuiquam, cf. Asin. 800 neque ulli uerbo male dicat.

1336. deierare for deurare, cf. Cas. III. 5. 36 per omnis deos et deas deieravit (where A has DELERAUIT according to Stud.); similarly peierare or perierare for perurare Asin. 293, Bacch. 1030, 1042, Poen. 1242, Truc. 30.

1337. sis potitus = particeps factus eris, cf. on 190. Contrast the gen. with the active potio, 'put in the power of,' Amph. 178 cum nunc potiuit pater seruitutis and the passive potior Capt. 92 postquam meus rex est potitus hostium, ibid. 144, 762, Epid. 532, 562, Asin. 554 f. (fugae Bücheler). Hiatus in diaeresis.

1338. The change of metre marks the commencement of the administration of the oath, as in Bacch. 997 the reading aloud of a letter. No new scene is to be begun here. tēstem testor, apparently a solemn formula.

1342. Gripus interrupts in order to insert the word Gripo, that there may be no loophole for escape.

1343. huic Gripo dico, 'I mean to this Gripus.'

1345 f. si quid fraudassis 'say that) should you in aught prove false,' oblique, cf. Capt. 378 ff. si non rebitas, Cist. II. 3. 49, Andr. 687. For the form in -assis cf. on 304. For the quid cf. 1348, where Labrax, repeating the prescribed form of oath, says si quid peccasso. dic ut = ora ut, cf. 1096. te eradicet caput atque aetatem tuam, 'may destroy your body and existence, root and branch': for the two accusatives, both dependent on eradicet, cf. on 1009; here caput atque aet. t. is almost synonymous with te, cf. 375: for the meaning of eradicare cf. Aul. 300 suam rem perisse seque eradicarier, Truc. 660, Merc. 775, Haut. 589.

1347. tecum hoc habeto tamen, an aside, 'you shall take this imprecation home with you, whether or no,' i.e. whether you keep your oath or not, may this curse light upon your head: for tamen cf. 569, 691, 1134. uti iuraueris, 'in the precise form in which you shall have sworn it.'

1348. illaec aduersum, 'against that,' cf. Amph. 750 te aduersus, and above on 496 quem propter.

1349. ueneror, 'I entreat,' cf. 256. The leno does not pray quite as he was bidden, but prefers to associate all lenones with himself in the consequences of his premeditated perjury.

1350. flet, i. e. ut omnes lenones miseri sint. This sentence is uttered aloud: it is a general reflection on the character of lenones.

1351. faxo exhibit, cf. scibus faxo 365.

1352. eum uidulum reposcito, 'demand back the uidulus from him,' cf. Aul. 763 aulam auri te reposco, Curc. 614 quam tu uirginem me reposcis? [At this point exit Gripus.]

1353. si maxume, 'if ever so much' = 'even if,' cf. Bacch. 1002 non dabis si sapias, uerum si das maxume, ne ille alium gerulum quaerat, 1004 non laturus sum si iubeas maxume, Pseud. 433 sed si sint ea uera . . . maxume.

1354. *ill*e = illi, 'to him.'

1355. meus arbitratust, 'to me belongs the decision,' 'I have control over,' = ego arbiter sum, cf. Asin. 766, tuos arbitratus sit ni . . . mea probatio est Cic., Livy. lingua quod iuret mea, 'what my tongue shall swear,' a subj. essentially similar to that found in the kind of conditional sentences discussed on 1021. Both here and there the subj. is ultimately a form of will-speech (equivalent to 'let my tongue swear what it will').

SCENE 3. The last scene of the play is written, as usual, in trochaic tetrameter catalectic. Enter Daemones and Gripus from the cottage. Daemones resigns all claim to the uidulus in favour of Labrax, its rightful owner. The latter, however, refuses to pay the reward of a talent which he had promised to Gripus: but at last agrees, at the instance of Daemones, to manumit Ampelisca in lieu of paying half a talent, and to pay the other half talent to Daemones, in consideration of which the latter promises to manumit Gripus. The play ends with an invitation to dinner and a brief address to the audience.

1357. heus tu, 'harkye,' addressed to Labrax. em tibi, 'there you have him,' i.e. 'here he is,' referring to Daemones.

1359. omnia ut quidque infuit (cf. 199 perdidit), lit. 'all things as each was in it,' = 'everything that (whatever) was in it,' cf. Bacch. 1097 omnia, ut quidque actumst, memorauit, Pseud. 1312 omnia, ut quidque egisti, ordine scio, Amph. 599 omnia, ut quidque actumst . . . edisserauit, Mil. 1264 omnes profecto mulieres te amant, ut quaeque aspexit, Truc. 225 adridere ut quisque aduenit (adueniat A M). salua sistentur, cf. on 1049.

1360. tene, 'take it,' handing the uidulus over to Labrax. Scan either tūst or tūst.

1361. sī quidem (cf. on 1061) hercle, &c., 'even if Jove was once the owner,' i.e. I will not resign it to any one. fuit . . . est, cf. 822.

1362. excepta, 'taken out,' a rare sense; cf. 1184 f. and Cic. de Repub. IV. 8 (quoted by Nonius, p. 293) quos e mari propter uim excipere non potuissent.

1363. quibuscum, 'by means of which,' cf. on 321.

1365. Scan mēhercle, three syllables. The word is generally two syllables (mercle); but cf. Pseud. 1175 Strēnue mehercle iūsti (A) and Eun. 67 Haec uerba una mehercle falsa lacrimula, ibid. 416 Pulchrē mehercle dictum: cf. notes on 936, 1061.

1366. non credo. Politeness demanded, in reply to such a congratulation, credo; cf. Andr. 947 omnis nos gaudere hoc, Chremes, te credo credere.—Ita me di ament, credo.

1367. Scan mihī, cf. 1405.

1368. duim, duis (duas), duit, duint, pres. subj. of the Old Latin duo=do. ob eam ne duis, cf. Capt. II. 2. 81, V. 1. 26. condono te, 'I let you off,' cf. Bacch. 1143, Pers. 817, Phorm. 947, Eun. 17. benigne, ironical: Daem. has of course been informed by Ples. (after IV. 8) of the result of the action before the recuperatores.

1369. Hiatus in diaeresis. iam habes uidulum, 'you've got the trunk,' i.e. I have fulfilled my part of the bargain; now fulfil yours. Labr. answers drily, habeo. For the statement and answer cf. Men. 219 ER. Eccos tris nummos habes. CY. Habeo, Merc. 884 EV. Porge braccium. CH. Prehende; iam tenes. EV. Teneo. CH. Tene.

1370. quid properabo? deliberative fut. indic.=quid properem; cf. on 189 a.

1371. quae haec factio? 'what is the meaning of this?' 'what is this to-do?' cf. Bacch. 843. Plaut. is fond of abstract nouns in -io, e.g. 502 f. auscultatio, abitio, incensio, 525 uelitatio; similarly abitio, accessio, amatio, cautio, clamitatio, consuetio, curatio, edictio, exitio, famigeratio, indicatio, interpellatio, mutatio, muttitio, palpatio, parasitatio, pullatio, receptio, reditio, risio, rogatio, suavisuatiatio, uentio.

1374. rei (=rei familiari) seruandae conditum, 'invented (made) for preserving property'; conditum=instilulum, cf. legum conditor Epid. 523. For the dative cf. Pers. 428 referundae ego habeo linguam natam gratiae, and note on 757.

1375. talentum magnum argenti, cf. on 778.

1376. quod istum talentum poscis? 'what is that talent of yours which you are demanding?' iuratus dare=iur. se daturum, cf. on 246 and 307.

1377. lubet iurare, 'tis my humour to take oaths,' (Shaks. Merch. of Venice IV. 1. 43), cf. Epid. 698 (quoted on 1381) lubuit; ea fiducia. meo pontifex peiurio, lit. 'high priest over my perjury': i.e. 'are you a high priest appointed to take cognizance of my perjury?' It was the duty of the pontifex to make an expiatio when perjury had been committed. For peiur.=periur. cf. Prol. 17.

1380. cedo quicum habeam iudicem, 'name some one (a patronus) with whom I may go before an arbitrator,' i.e. you are a slave and therefore incapacitated from being a party to an arbitration; cf. Most. 557 cape . . . cum eo iudicem, 'choose an arbitrator between you,' Truc. 629 ego tecum . . . arbitrum aequom ceperim (M), Cas. V. 4. 4 nunc ego tecum aequom arbitrum . . . captauero. In the Vidularia Frag. V. 5 (Apographon, fol. 511^r) Gorgo advises the slave Cacistus to seek a patronus under similar circumstances: tu si quem uis inuenire, tibi patronum quaerita (sc. quicum habeam iudicem). For cedo cf. on 712, for cum on 709, for the procedure in arbitrations on 1040.

1381 f. ni dolo malo instipulatus sis, 'if (as you say) you have not made a fraudulent compact,' siue etiamdum aem quinque et uiginti annos natus, 'and if (as you say) I am over 25 years of age.' In sponsiones and stipulationes what the challenger denies is introduced by si, what he affirms by ni: the conditions are expressed from the point of view of the person challenged. Here Labrax means to put in two pleas (exceptiones) before the iudex: i. 'The bargain was made under false pretences' (dolo malo). ii. 'I am under 25 years of age,' an impudent falsehood; he had grey hairs, cf. 125 incanum. Hence, we are bound to read (with Priscian) siue in the second clause, which moreover contains the word etiamdum, 'as yet,' which is used only where a negative is expressed or implied. This usage of ni and si is quite natural when the true nature of the principal clause is understood; the latter always denotes not 'pay a penalty' but 'put the matter to the test' (O. Brugmann, Ueber Conditionalen ni p. 10 f.) The following are the Plautine examples: Rud. 714 f., Pers. 186 da hercle pignus, ni memini omnia et scio, 'stake something upon it, if (as you say) I don't remember everything,' Cas. Prol. 75 id ni fit, mecum pignus si quis uult dato, Poen. 1242 da pignus ni nunc periures (AM). 'if you be not swearing falsely,' Truc. 275 pignus da, ni lignee haec sint (A, sunt M) quas habes Victorias, Epid. 697 ff. PE. Quâ fiducia ausu's primum, quae emptast nudiustertius, Filiam meam dicere esse? EP. Lubuit: ea fiducia. PE. Ain tu? lubuit? EP. Aio, uel da pignus, ni ea sit filia ('if she be not a daughter'). PE. Quâm negat nouisse mater? EP. Ni ergo matris filias, In meum nummu' in tuôm talentum pignus da ('lay a wager if she is not the daughter of her mother, my didrachm against your talent'). The Subjunctive found in some of the above passages is either of the same nature as that of 1021 (here joined with an imperative in the principal clause, cf. Pseud. 1070 f. roga me uiginti minas, si ille illac hodie sit potitus muliere (Ritschl), Men. Prol. 51 si quis . . . uelit, audacter imperato) or a subj. of virtual Oratio Obliqua (cedo quicum habeam iudicem=cedo cui sponsionem me argentum daturum). quinque et uiginti annos natus, a reference to the Lex Plaetoria, of unknown date, called in Pseud. 303 lex quiniuicenaria and mentioned by Cic. de Nat. Deor. III. 30. 74, de Off. III. 15. 61. It introduced the distinction, previously unknown, between minores (under 25 years of age) and maiores, and protected the former against all kinds of fraud by enacting that contracts with minors were legally binding only in case of their being made in the presence of a curator appointed by the praetor.

1383. This line, unintelligible in itself, is probably only part of a speech in which Daem. declares that he will act as iudex and find means of getting the money out of Labrax, if he decides in favour of Gripus.

1386. fide lenonia, cf. 360, 653, Pers. 243 f. omnes sunt lenae leui- fidae, neque tippulae ('water spider') leuius pondust quam fides lenonia, Curc. 65, Ad. 161. iam ratu's, 'did you then think'; iam seems to be illative, ('from your expecting lenonia fide uti one would suppose that you thought you were dealing with a person unable to take care of his own interests'): cf. 387.

1387. nactum, cf. Bacch. 506 ego faxo haud dicet nactam quem derideat, ibid. 864, Poen. 1287. huc, adv. = mihi, cf. 1409. argentum probum, 'a nice sum of money'; contrast 1313 auri probi.

1388. adeo ut, 'to the end that,' a meaning found only in one other passage of Plaut., Aul. 441 adeo ut tu meam sententiam iam noscere possis (M); cf. on Prol. 36, Hand, Turs. I. 138. For the repetition of hic cf. on 970.

1390. Gripus interrupts the sentence of Daemones, continued in 1391 (tum te).

1392. bene referre gratiam, adv. of cognate meaning (301), equivalent to benigne 1391 and repeating the adv. in the phrase bene merenti. The favour which Daemones is about to ask is that Labrax should consent to part with Ampelisca (he was not bound to do so), a proposal which he makes in 1407, after some interruptions, in the form of an 'advantageous bargain.' nōmpe, 'am I to understand that,' cf. on 268 and 343. pro meo iure oras, 'you are asking in recognition of my right,' i. e. 'your making a petition implies a recognition of my right'; cf. Cas. II. 6. 29 tuo pro iure (= nam tuum ius est) oramus, Cic. de Fin. V. 25. 75 satisne uobis uideor pro meo iure ('in accordance with the right which you have conceded to me') in uestris auribus commentatus? For ius meum cf. 1041, 1122.

1393. mirum quin tuom ius meo periclo abs te expetam, lit. 'Strange indeed, that I am not trying to secure from you your right (=interest) at my own cost,' i. e. 'naturally (obviously) I am not putting myself to the trouble of asking you to make a concession to yourself.' Daemones recognises the right of Labrax to refuse the request (this is implied in bene referre gratiam 1392), but instead of replying, 'of course I am,' he uses the more guarded formula 'would you have me reverse the rôles?' thus representing the question of Labrax in the light of an absurdity. mirum quin, 'strange indeed that . . . not,' with the subjunctive is always ironical (i. e. implies 'it is not strange that . . . not,' 'voudriez-vous que . . . ?'): e. g. Most. 493 TH. In somnis? TR. Mirum quin uigilanti diceret, 'he could hardly have said it to him when awake,' Trin. 495 Mirum quin tu illo (i. e. ad Acheruntem) tecum diuitias feras, 'you seem to be surprised at not taking your riches there with you,' ibid. 967 CH. Nempē ab ipso id accepisti Charmide? SY. Mirum quin ab auo eius aut proauo acciperem, qui sunt mortui, 'Would you have had me receive it from his grandfather?' Amph. 749 SO. Me quidem praesente numquam factumst, quod sciam.

ALC. Mirum quin te aduersus dicat, 'it was hardly to be expected that he should contradict you, his master.' So too Pers. 339, 433, 442. Contrast mirum est (mira sunt) mi, 'I should be surprised if . . . not' = 'I shouldn't wonder if . . .' with the indic., which is not ironical; see on Capt. IV. 2. 25. For meo periculo cf. on 436 nostro periculo.

1395. illud, attraction to gender of the predicate noun, cf. 200 a.

1396. porro, 'further,' 'moreover.'

1397. de talento, 'as for the talent.'

1400. non istoc interuortes, 'you shall not swindle me of that,' i. e. of the talent, cf. Pseud. 541 argento interuortere, ibid. 900 muliere interuortere, Asin. 258, 359. Similarly circumducere with abl. si alliam praedam perdidit, 'even if (= etiamsi) I have lost the other prize,' i. e. the uidulus.

1401. isto, adv., 'to what you have been saying,' cf. Truc. 613 Verbum unum adde istoc, iam hercle, &c., Rud. 1007 Verbum etiam adde unum, iam, &c. uel, 'if you like,' cf. Trin. 963 CH. Heus, Pax, te tribus uerbis uolo. SV. Vel trecentis, '300 if you like,' Bacch. 831 f., Stich. 426, 619, Pseud. 322, 345, Most. 299, Ovid Trist. I. 8. 21, V. 6. 27. Langen considers that uel never loses entirely its disjunctive sense, and would translate in such cases 'or if you like.'

1402. conprimor, 'am silenced,' cf. 1064.

1403. tibi operam dat, 'he is concerned for your interest.' hoc = huc; so often, e.g. Merc. 870 hoc respice et reuortere, Pers. 605 hoc accedat ad me, Eun. 501 si Chremes hoc forte aduenerit, Verg. Aen. VIII. 423 (most MSS.).

1404. murmurillum, 'muttering,' cf. ploratillum, uerberetillum Poen. 377 f. (A). susurrus, 'whispering.'

1406. mille nummum = 2000 drachmae = 1/3 of a talent = £75, cf. 1314, 1323, 1327. denueraui, 'paid down,' cf. Most. 921, Asin. 453. The form dinumerare is far less common in MSS. than denuerare; whether there is any difference of meaning is doubtful.

1407. condicionem luculentam, 'an advantageous bargain,' 'a handsome offer'; Mil. 952 'a brilliant match.' Contrast the sense in 1417, below.

1408. diuiduom facere = diuidere, cf. Ad. 240 potius quam uenias in periculum, Sannio, serues an perdas totum, diuiduom face.

1409. huc, adv. = mihi; cf. 1387.

1410. maxume, 'by all means,' cf. Most. 1009, 1144, Stich. 539, Curc. 315, Asin. 904, Men. 430, Vid. Frag. V. 15, maxume, tuo arbitratu Curc. 427, Pers. 599, Pseud. 661. Hiatus in diaeresis.

1411. quem propter, here = cuius opera, 'by means of whom,' so often, e.g. Aul. 225 ut propter me tibi sit melius, mihi que propter te et tuos, 786 quem propter hodie auri tantum perdidit, Cas. III. 4. 8 satin propter te pereo ego atque occasio? For the order quem propter cf. on 496.

1412. Labrax here pays the half talent from the uidulus to Daem.; cf. ego habeo 1413. quam mox redditur? cf. on 342.

1413. res solutast, 'the money has been paid,' cf. Curc. 553, 618, Asin. 219 rem soluont aucupi, 'they cover their cost to the bird-catcher,' ibid. 433 pro uectura rem soluit, 'covered the freight.'

1414. Daemones cannot resist the temptation to tease Gripus, who is left in ignorance of his master's kindly intentions (1410) to the end of the play. iuris iurandi gratiam facias, 'to let him off the oath,' cf. Sueton. Tib. 35 equiti Romano iurisiurandi gratiam fecit. The phrase gratiam facere alicui alicuius rei or de aliqua re means 'to renounce something in favour of someone,' and like the Engl., 'to make a present of,' may be used either literally ('to give up') or as= 'to let off': Cas. II. 6. 20 de istac Casina huic nostro uilico gratiam facias, Pseud. 1317 non audes mihi gratiam facere huius argenti (hinc de argento A)? Sallust, Cat. LII. 8 mihi nullius unquam delicti gratiam fecissem ('should not have granted myself an indulgence for'), Jug. CIV. 5; sometimes with a ne-clause instead of the gen., Mil. 576 quam benigne gratiam fecit ne iratus esset ('dispensed with being angry'); translated into Greek Pseud. 712 χαρῶν τοῦτο ποιῶ. In Trin. 293 Brix takes the de differently ('concerning') hisce ego de artibus gratiam facio, ne colas, sc. eas, and so I have taken Most. 1130 de cenâ facio gratiam, 'as for the dinner I must decline,' (cf. de talento Rud. 1397).

1415. nisi me suspendo, Occidi, 'I'm hanged (lit. destroyed) if I don't hang myself,' a fine Irish bull.

1416. numquam iterum, i. e. when I am dead.

1417. condicio, 'invitation,' cf. Capt. 180, Martial XI. 52. 1

Cenabis belle, Iuli Cerealis, apud me;

Condicio est melior si tibi nulla, ueni.

1418. Daemones turns to the audience and indulges in a little familiar banter with them. With the joke uos quoque ad cenam uocem, &c. cf. Stich. 190 uocem te ad cenam, nisi egomet cenem foris.

1419. daturus sim, here = d. essem, cf. on 196. The 'periphrastic conjugation' is very rare in Plaut.; only in if-clauses (cf. Mil. 1186) and dep. questions. pollucti, cf. on 425.

1420. niue adeo, 'and indeed if . . . not,' occurs in one other passage of Plaut., Aul. 646 di me perdant si ego tui quicquam abstuli, niue adeo abstulisse uellem, 'and if moreover I should not have liked to rob you,' an aside. For adeo, 'moreover,' cf. Prol. 36, &c.

1422. comisatum, 'to make a night of it,' from κομᾶσθαι. Daem. means that though he cannot invite them to dinner, they may come and drink. The form comisor (here *BCD*¹, Most. 989 A, Pers. 568 B) is as well attested in MSS. as comissor; see Georges, Lat. Wortf. omnes ad annos sedecim, 'all . . . down to sixteen years of age,' reckoned backwards, i. e. including the ἐφηβοί: for ad denoting the 'terminus ad quem' cf. Varro, R. R. I. 2. 26 ad tertiam partem decoquere, Livy XLII. 3. 2 aedem Iunonis ad partem dimidiam detegit, Hor. Epist. II. 2. 27 (uiatica) ad assem perdidit; with omnes in the phrase omnes ad unum, 'all to the last man,' e. g. Cic. de Am. XXIII. 86 de amicitia omnes ad unum idem sentiunt: for the phrase ad annos cf. Cato, R. R. ubi aetas accessit ad annos XXXVI.

1423. A piece of patch-work, based on 1417, and of clumsy metrical construction; the extension of the invitation to Gripus is quite out of place after the address to the spectators, and its acceptance is hardly consistent with 1415f. Probably, as Ussing says, the line is a fabrication of some commentator who thought that no play could end without the customary appeal for applause; but cf. the end of the Pseudolus and Casina.

EXCURSUS

ON SOME EXCLAMATORY PARTICLES IN THE RVENS.

Ecce¹.

Ecce is used in two ways in Plautus.

(i) = 'here is' with an accusative as object, generally a pronoun of the 1st pers.; here ecce with its object forms a complete sentence, e.g. ecce me = French me voici, Rud. 241, Epid. 680, Pers. 726, Merc. 131, Mil. 663, Ad. 995, ecce nos Mil. 611, ecce hominem te nihili Trin. 1013, ecce Gripi scelera Rud. 1178, ecce odium meum Poen. 352. (Ecce may be an old imperative from the root AK, as Curtius and Vaniček say, = 'see': cf. oc-u-lu-s). This construction was not used by the writers of the classical period, who preferred the nom. (a construction difficult to explain grammatically, as no verb is ever used, and est, if supplied, would not give the full sense), e.g. Cic. de Prov. Cons. 43 ecce illa tempestas, Brut. 125 sed ecce in manibus uir, Juv. IV. 1 ecce iterum Crispinus. Vergil has the accus. once (Ecl. V. 66), but elsewhere the nom. (e.g. Aen. III. 477, VI. 46, VII. 706). After the 3rd century A.D. the acc. again becomes common—a return to the popular idiom, which had been ignored but not suppressed during the classical period. Similarly in modern Greek we find vá μe in popular speech, ιδού έγώ in literary speech (see Köhler in Archiv, V. 1, p. 25).

(ii) = 'lo,' in a sentence which is grammatically complete without the interjection; e.g. ecce, Apollo, denuo me iubet facere inpetum in eum Men. 868, cf. 841, Merc. 100, Mil. 203 ecce auortit, 456, Most. 660, 676 ecce autem perii: in Terence always with autem, e.g. Eun. 967, Phorm. 264, Ad. 153: for sed ecce cf. Most. 496. This construction is common in the classical period, e.g. Cic. de Or. II. 94 ecce tibi est exortus Isocrates, de Repub. I. 35, Verg. Ecl. IX. 47, Aen. II. 403, VI. 337.

In one passage of Plaut. ecce stands alone, Asin. 109 DEM. Atque audin etiam? LIB. Ecce = 'At your service,' 'I hear': here it is possible to regard ecce as=ecce me (cf. eccum Mil. 25, Poen. 279), but the analogy of em when it stands alone (see below under em), makes this doubtful; for em never takes an accus. of the person.

¹ A good collection of instances of ecce has been given by Langen, Beitr. pp. 3-9, and by Köhler, in Wölfflin's Archiv, V. 1, pp. 16-32; but I do not find that any writer has called attention to the two different meanings indicated below.

Eccum, eccam &c.

Eccum, eccam, eccos, eccas, eccillum, eccillam, eccillud, eccistam are compounds of ecce=‘here is’ with a pronoun of the 3rd pers. Here eccum &c., like ecce with an accus., forms a complete sentence. Plaut. has ecce about 30 times, its compounds (which do not appear in class. Lat.) about 125 times (Köhler in Archiv, V. 1, p. 20): e. g. em tibi pateram: eccam Amph. 778 (= ecce eam ‘here it is,’ ‘le voici’), eccum Mil. 25 (cf. mod. Italian ecco), domi eccam Pers. 226 ‘it is there at home,’ eccillum domi ibid. 247, Aul. 781, cf. ellum=em illum Bacch. 938, ellam Ad. 389. Sometimes an adj. or noun is added, agreeing with the last part of the compound: e. g. eccam in tabellis porrectam Pseud. 34, saluam eccam Cist. IV. 2. 77 ‘here it is safe,’ sed eccum parasitum Pers. 88, cf. Stich. 270, Mil. 470, 545, 1216, Capt. 169, 1015 (intus eccum fratrem germanum tuom), Cas. III. 3. 11. This construction is explained by Brix (on Capt. 1005) by ellipsis of est, as though eccum parasitum stood for eccum (=‘lo,’ see infra) parasitus est; but this would not give the required meaning ‘Here is the parasite’ (adest parasitus): eccum parasitum is simply ecce eum, parasitum (apposition). These compounds are, like the simple ecce, frequently inserted parenthetically in a complete sentence, and are then almost equivalent to ‘lo’; e. g. Mnesilochus eccum maestus progreditur foras Bacch. 611, cf. Rud. 309 (?), 576, 663, 805, 844, 1209, 1356, Most. 83, 611, eccos tris nummos habes Men. 219. Occasionally eccum with an accus. in apposition is followed by a finite verb; e. g. sed eccum Pamphilippum incedit Stich. 527, cf. Curc. 678, Mil. 1290, Amph. 1005; in the latter instance Goetz punctuates sed eccum Amphitruonem: aduenit, but this is probably not the way in which it was felt by Plautus (see Brix on Capt. 1005): it is rather an ἀνὸ κοινοῦ construction: cf. Engl. ‘There is a devil haunts thee’=(i) There is a devil, (ii) A devil haunts thee (see Paul, Principien², p. 115). Occasionally the compound is almost equivalent to a simple pronoun (object); e. g. ecca uideo Rud. 1154 ‘I see them before me,’ 309 (?), eccistam uideo Curc. 615 ‘I see her by your side,’ eccillum uideo Men. 357. In a few passages the MSS. have a feminine nominative: mater tua ecce hic intus Daedalis Rud. 1174, eapse ecce exit Men. 180, sed ecce ipsa egreditur Eun. 79, Stich. 536 (eccilla M, eccillam A). This usage might possibly be explained as a development of the construction last mentioned, but it is probably safer to read the accus. with recent editors. In the passage of the Rud. (1174) the finite verb est is understood (unless we read intus with Langen); so too in Capt. 1005 sed erus eccum ante ostium, et erus aliter eccum ex Alide rediit (MSS.).

Em, hem, ehem¹.

Till the time of Bentley em was entirely ignored or misunderstood by editors: Bentley introduced it in two places (Ad. V. 3. 4, Phorm. I. 2. 2), but without note. It was not till our own day that the word was properly recognized, first by Ritschl in his Mercator (published in 1854), and afterwards more thoroughly by Brix, Ribbeck, and other recent editors. In MSS. it is sometimes written hem (an altogether different word), occasionally *em*²; the frequency with which em appears varies as the excellence of the MS.; in the Ambrosian of Plautus it is found in 26 places, and in B more often than in CD; in the Bembine of Terence in 23 places.

Em (like ecce) is used in two ways:—

(i) = 'there is,' 'voilà,' with an accusative (denoting a thing) or a dative (always tibi), or both accus. and dat., as direct and indirect objects: here em with its object or objects forms a complete sentence, e.g. em tibi aquam, 'there you have the water' Rud. 463, Amph. 778, Asin. 880, Poen. 382, em manum Capt. 859, em scelera Andr. 785, em tibi, hic habet uidulum Rud. 1357, Mil. 1405, Capt. 631, Men. 1018, &c. In the classical period en began to be used for em, and generally with the nominative instead of the accusative, e.g. en Priamus Verg. Aen. I. 461, though the accus. is still sometimes found, e.g. en quattuor aras Ecl. V. 65; contrast ecce homo with ecce hominem.

(ii) = 'look!' 'there!' in a sentence which is grammatically complete without the interjection: e.g. em sic uolo Rud. 463, em istaec ratio maxumast Trin. 413, Capt. 215, 249, Most. 297, em illaec sunt aedes Trin. Prol. 3, em huic habelo gratiam Most. 1180, Trin. 603, Most. 9, em id te oro Andr. 556, em nunc occasiost Epid. 270, Merc. 909, Poen. 420, em qui uentrem uestiam Stich. 376, Merc. 702 f., em aspecta Asin. 840, Bacch. 1023, Pseud. 892, Most. 333, Ad. 172, em sensistin? Hec. 316, Andr. 882, em ostendo manus Epid. 683, em a crasso infortunio (sc. caueas) Rud. 833, Aul. 692.

Occasionally em stands alone: e.g. AR. aspice ad me. TY. em, 'well, I am looking' Capt. 570, Pseud. 1318, Cas. II. 2. 37; cf. ecce in Asin. 109.

The close analogy of the uses of ecce and em, suggests the possibility that they have a common origin; Studemund (according to his pupil, Richter) proposed to derive en from ec-n, ec being an old imperative from the root AK, and n a demonstrative suffix (cf. hercle qui-n, si-n, &c.); if this is true and *em=en*¹, then ecce, em, en are all etymologically related. But en is more generally supposed to be the Greek ἔν. Other derivations which have been suggested for em are (i) =eum, accus. of is (Ribbeck), (ii) =ibi, the final i being dropped and b liquified to m; cf. the parallel forms interim, interibi (Richter).

¹ A complete collection of instances of em, hem, ehem, eu, euge, eugepae, heu, ehou, ah, aha, &c. in Plautus and Terence will be found in an admirable treatise by P. Richter, de usu particularum exclamatiuarum (Studemund's Studien, I. 2), to which I am largely indebted. The classification of the examples of em and the demonstration of the close parallelism between its uses and those of ecce is my own.

² Men. 1018 (BCD), Most. 9 (BD), Poen. 159 (BCD), but never in A or in the Bembine of Terence. En may be safely abolished from our texts of Plautus and Terence.

Hem differs in two respects from em: (i) it is always an interjection, not affecting the construction of the sentence; (ii) it expresses emotion ('ah')—astonishment, indignation, grief, pity; Rud. 177, 1054 (statements), 237, 415 (questions). In 13 passages it is used in answer to a call ('hem respondendi' Priscian Inst. III. 138, 13): SAG. Stiche! ST. hem! ('Here I am!') SAG. quid fit? Stich. 660, Trin. 1102, Haut. 517, 757, Phorm. 682, Hec. 339; PA. Ampelisca! AM. hem! quis est? PA. ego Rud. 237, Most. 784, Ad. 320, Phorm. 195, Cist. IV. 2. 27, Andr. 184, Ad. 281.

Hem has nothing to do with Engl. 'ahem,' the sound of clearing the throat, as is sometimes said. The statements about all these exclamatory words in the grammars are quite misleading, at any rate in regard to their use by Plautus.

Ehem is like hem in so far as it does not affect the construction of the sentence and expresses emotion; it differs from hem in that it expresses a pleasant sense of surprise. 'Est laeta exclamatio eius qui rem non expectatam deprehendit, aut rem ex inopinato supervenientem cum quadam admiratione excipit. . . Neque aliter ii quibus cogitantibus redit res; arripiunt eam cum laeta exclamatione' Hand, Turs. II. p. 356: e.g. Rud. 805, Asin. 449, Mil. 1382, Pseud. 912, Eun. 651, Haut. 622, 758, Ad. 81, 266; examples of ehem used by those 'quibus cogitantibus redit res' are Mil. I. 1. 36, Most. 727, Poen. Prol. 118, Eun. 505: Haut. 622 is peculiar.

Eu, euge, eugepae.

Eu is called by Brix (on Mil. 394) a 'particula laetantis et laudantis' and this seems to describe it admirably: eu=εὖ, 'well,' 'well done,' 'well met,' 'bravo,' 'hurrah': cf. Men. 174 f., Mil. 1146, Most. 339, Phorm. 398, 478, 869 &c. It is frequently joined with hercle, edepol, or ecastor, e.g. eu hercle Pers. 706, eu edepol Men. 160, eu ecastor Mil. 1062 (?), and sometimes these combinations are followed by an accus. of exclamation, e.g. Rud. 415, Poen. 603 eu edepol mortalis malos, ibid. 1107 eu hercle mortalem catum, Mil. 394 eu hercle praesens somnium, ibid. 1066 eu ecastor periurum. See further under heu.

¹ Brix on Trin. Prol. 3 calls em an older form of en. Possibly em is the older form, which was ousted from use in the 6th century A. V. C. [age of Plautus], and reappeared later. Such a phenomenon is by no means unprecedented: Ritschl (Opusc. II. 625) shows that ne (prohibitive) was at once the oldest and the youngest form, appearing in the 6th and 8th centuries, whereas in the 7th century ni usurped its place. With em=en cf. im=in [C. I. L. 1, 1104, Fabretti inscr. 323, 445].

Euge or eugae¹ (=εὐγε) is exactly equivalent to eu: e.g. Rud. 164 euge, euge, perbene, 1037. The second syllable is long in all passages which show the metre²: cf. Lépide dictum de atramento atque ebure: eugē plaudō Scaphae Most. 260 (and my note), Te ipsum quaero: eugē, Charine: ambo opportune: uós uolo Andr. 345 (II. 2. 8).

Eugepae=euge=eu: e.g. Rud. 170, 442 Eugepae: saluos sum. It is not found in Terence. The -pae is perhaps paí (εὐγε παί, 'well done, my boy'); see Nettleship (Contrib. to Lat. Lex.). All these three words eu, euge, eugepae are used by men (not women) in all passages except two (Stich. 243 CROCOTIVM. eu, where Goetz omits the word, and Mil. 1066, where ecastor, a specially woman's word, follows). This may be accidental, but it is quite possible that eu, like the Engl. 'bravo,' was rather a masculine than a feminine expression.

Heu, eheu.

Heu means 'alas' ('interiectio dolentis'). It rarely occurs except (i) in formulae like heu me miserum, heu miserae mihi, Aul. 721, Merc. 624, 701, 770, Andr. 646, Hec. 271, 282; (ii) when joined with hercle, edepol, or ecastor: heu hercle Rud. 821, Men. 316, 731, 872, Most. 585, Mil. 1057, heu edepol Men. 908, Most. 981, Epid. 72, Asin. 292, heu ecastor Poen. 283. In many of the latter passages the MSS. have *eu*³, and Richter (in the treatise referred to above) proposes so to read in all, maintaining that when eu is followed by hercle, edepol or ecastor, it no longer has the original Greek sense of a 'particula laetantis et laudantis,' but has become a mere 'particula asseuerantis.' Most modern editors, however, agree with Langen that in these passages we should read heu ('alas').

The other passages in which heu occurs are Bacch. 251 (heu, cor mi et cerebrum, Nicobule, finditur), Pseud. 1230 (heu, heu, desine), Mil. 1342 (? eheu).

Eheu has the same meaning as heu, e.g. Rud. 512, 520, 549, 801. The first syllable is 'anceps' in Plautus and Terence: it is certainly long in Capt. 152 (éheu: huic illúd dolet), 995 (éheu quom ego plús minusque), Pseud. 259, Haut. 1043; short in Pseud. 81 f., Haut. 83, where it stands at the end of an iambic trimeter.

¹ A has the ending -ae 6 times, -e 5 times; B has eugae Pers. 90 and Asin. 555 (here an error for fugae, Bücheler). See Richter, p. 517.

² Cf. Bentley on Andr. II. 2. 8 'Graece quidem εὐγε; sed Latinis euge ambiguum, pro libitu pronuntiantis,' a statement showing the insight of the master.

³ But heu is supported by MS. authority in Men. 731 (BCD), Most. 981 (KEU A), Mil. 1057 (B).

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8 9 10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34 35
36
37
38
39 40
41 42
43
44
45
46
47 48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61
62
63
64
65
66
67
68
69
70
71
72
73
74
75
76
77
78
79 80
81
82
83
84
85
86
87
88 89
90
91
92
93
94
95
96
97
98
99
100

CRITICAL APPENDIX.

ARGUMENT 1. De mari is hardly likely to be an interpolation. Seyffert suggests de alto. Schoell trahit for extraxit. Bothe, followed by Fleckeisen, uidulum extraxit mari. The harsh scansion extraxit might be better got rid of by reading uidulum extraxit de mari: for the form uidlus, see on 936.

PROLOGUE 2. Eius ego sum Luchs, to avoid the accentuation eius.

13-20. That the whole of this passage is an interpolation, as several critics hold, I am inclined to doubt: 21 would hardly be intelligible without 15 (Schoell goes so far as to bracket 13-27). But it is highly probable that some part of the passage is not Plautine: for (i) 17-20 look very much like parallel verses to 13-16 and of the nature of dittography (Seyffert): (ii) A probably contained fewer verses than BCD. The first two pages of A which contained this passage have disappeared; page 3 begins with line 20. Now the regular number of verses on a page of A is nineteen; allowing one page for the Didascalia and one line on the second page for the inscription of the Prologue, there could not have been room for more than eighteen verses before verse 20 (Studemund, Apographon, note on last page of the Pseudolus). Supposing A not to have had some of the verses contained in BCD, there would have been room for an additional verse after 12 (see Commentary).

14. abierant Bentley, metri causa: but abiurant (MSS.) may be right, cf. 89 abduxit negotiis, 91 lenonemprehendere, also with violation of the word-accent. Nettleship iniure, 'falsely,' for in iure, remarking that there would be nothing wrong in 'abjuring' if the oath were true: cf. Paulus 110 Müller iniurum: periurum.

39. Reiz supplied olim after filiola; Kampmann, Fleck., Uss. filia olim.

43. The conjecture fidicino adopted by Fleck. from Carpentarius and Camerarius is unnecessary; see Luchs in Studemund's Studien, I. p. 14, Havet in Rev. de Phil. VIII. p. 109. The form fidicinus should therefore be corrected in Lewis and Short.

56. Regarded by Fleckeisen and others as an interpolation, based on 541.

61. Et adeo (an easy conjecture) is not Plautine, though found in Terence.

77. Fleck. writes qui ibi for ubi. It would be easy to suggest exul ubi habitat, senis (for the order of words cf. 331); but the text may be sound.

88. Palmer suggests that a line may have fallen out, which contained the word aedis: Brix proposes to invert the order of lines 87, 88.

93. Dziatzko (Rhein. Mus. XXX. 97) writes detiniui for detinui, scanning dētiniūs as three syllables: cf. Charisius 247 K, Neue² 481, Fleck. in Jahrb. 1870, p. 70, Ritschl Trin.² 685.

99. Regarded as requiring emendation by Seyffert, who says that Studemund suggested to him scortum for seruom.

107. Fleckeisen and Schoell read, with Ausonius Popma (De usu ant. locut. I. 3), uirile secus; but this disturbs the metre and involves further changes (ego habui or necumquam). We may be content to read the passage as Priscian read it. If any change were necessary it would be easy to suggest uirili sexu (abl.), cf. Pacuvius 68 Ribb. triplicem uirili sexu partum procreat.

112. Brix Peculiosum decet seruom esse et improbum.

113. Barth Quoi erum praesentem praetercat oratio, 'in whose favour the right of speech passes by the master, though he is present.' Possibly Quo (= Ad quem) ero praesente praetercat oratio.

129. adornarit Fleck., adornarat Uss. I formerly thought of adornauit. Schoell writes quicum adornaret.

140, 141 are placed after 146 by Dziatzko, Schoell and Brix. The latter arranges the following lines thus: 147, SC. 140, 145, 144 (reading Nimumst with Kiessling), regarding 141 and 146 as interpolated. Schoell regards 144-146 as interpolated.

148. Ille qui uocauit Camerarius and most editors, continuing the speech to Sceparnio, 140-142.

153. Fleckeisen puts DAE. Hui in a separate verse (154); but it stands at the end of the line (153) in B—its usual position; cf. Richter, De usu part. exclam. p. 582, Truc. 29, &c.

161. Regarded by Fleck. as interpolated. No satisfactory emendation has been proposed: Schoell Qui aerumnae Herculeae socius esse diceris.

168. Schoell retains the perfect (deuitauerunt).

171. Fleckeisen regards 169 as interpolated, Schoell 173-175. The former rearranges the passage as follows: 171, 170, 175, 173, 174, 172, 176, and puts Hem in a line by itself (177).

190 f. To read with Fleck. (and Lang.) sit labori and inpiarim seems to me quite superfluous. The indicative in conditional sentences does not necessarily imply fact (as in 192): cf. Cic. pro Mil. 91 excitate eum, si potestis, ab inferis, pro Clu. 62 redargue me, si mentior, pro Mur. 80 ciues inquam, se eos hoc nomine appellari fas est. See discussion of the question in the Classical Review, I. p. 124 f.

194. Possibly we should read insignite (? posthac insignite inpii), cf. 643, 1097, Mil. 560, Poen. 809, Cic. pro Quinct. 73 insignite improbus. Spengel's emendation (Reformvorschläge, p. 408) suggests Datis dī: nam quid habebunt se dīgnum inpi post (bacchiac tetrameter).

204. I have put a mark of interrogation at the end of this line.

205, 206. From the scanty fragments legible in A it is clear that 205, 206 formed four verses, and were followed by two more verses which have been lost. The reading of M in 205 must therefore have been mutilated in some way.

211. Reiz (followed by Fleck.) inserted ego after Saltem, thus making the line a cretic tetrameter (reading mihi with M): Schoell Aliquem saltém.

215. Omnia is unintelligible; it cannot be justified by the omnia of 198.

220-228 are treated as trochaic tetrameters (acatalectic) by Fleck. Following this metre I once thought of reading in 223 perpetraui for perreptaui: *D*¹ has perpēPlauī, *D*³ perpērtauī. For perpetraui quaerere, 'I have gone on seeking,' cf. Truc. 465 eficere perpetro (= eficere pergo). This would make the construction of the infinitive easier and also that of the abl. (latebris quaerere). Fleck. reads omnis latebras, dependent on perreptaui.—But 225 is very difficult to scan as a trochaic tetrameter, and I have followed Spengel (Reformvorschläge, pp. 153-192 on 'fehlerhafte trochaische Octonare') in regarding the whole passage as anapaestic. No doubt Plaut. in other places shows that he could write better anapaests than these; but it is not surprizing if he sometimes found himself unable to cope successfully with the difficulties caused by the material in which he was working—the Latin language with its preponderance of long endings.

225. A has NEQ. (three times), the usual way of writing neque in this MS. *BCD*¹ have apparently also adopted this old style in this place, writing Nequeā.

227. Schoell gives as the reading of A at the end of the line ALQ.KAECISO-LAEREGIONES; Stud. ATQ.KAEREGIONES. In my critical apparatus I have followed Stud. throughout.

229-235. Seyffert's conjecture as to the order of lines (Phil. Wochensch. 1887, p. 395) is now partly confirmed by A. In 232 Seyffert proposed [Sancta Spes, me] eximes ex hoc miseram metu? Spengel [Idmne Spes, me] eximes, &c. Either of these suggestions would have the advantage of restoring the exact number of lines of A; but the metres seem to correspond better in my arrangement, in which Palaestra, who takes the initiative throughout, also starts the new metre in 229^a and 233, Ampelisca following suit. [For Sancta Spes cf. Cist. IV. 1. 18 Spes mihi sancta subuenit.]

254. Videor (so F) decorum dis locum tuerier Dousa, Reiz, Fleck.; cf. Curc. 260 Hac nocte uisus sum tuerier, &c.

257. aliquo ut Fleck.; but cf. Brix in Jahrb. 1877, p. 332, and Pseud. 697, Rud. 575.

273. The reading of the MSS. ūgēř ũđlūłsti huc is hardly admissible: it involves two resolved arses and a catalectic ending (cf. however Epid. 177, Goetz).

295. Lambinus says of cotidie (which is omitted in M, and had been proposed as an emendation by Camerarius) 'sic habent diserte libri nostri ueteres,' and in many other places he quotes from these MSS., e.g. Rud. 315, 329, 417 (where he says 'sic legitur hic locus in nostris ueteribus libris sine ulla litura aut deprauatione litterarum'). The older commentators, such as Acidalius, Dousa and Gruter jeered at the 'codices Lambini' and even at his good faith. Ritschl (Opusc. II. 118 f.) believes that Lambinus had access to a good MS. (since lost), equal in value to B.

309. Langen (Beitr. p. 256) proposes commodum for commode: cf. Trin. 400, where M have commode, but commodum has been rightly restored from A.

312-315. The passage probably ran as follows in the archetype of M:—

Vt piscatorem aequomst fame sitique speque - u | u - u - u - u - u -
 Ecquem adolescentem huc dum hic astatis
 Strenua facie rubicundum fortem qui tris u - u Duceret clamidatos cum macheris uidisti - ueni u - u - u - u - -

the verses being divided at the wrong places. Some accident (perhaps the cutting or tearing of the parchment in a perpendicular line) made the right hand side of the page illegible; hence the reading of M. Fleckeisen's restoration is violent and arbitrary: Schoell's approximates more nearly to M.

321. Ritschl (Opusc. II. pp. 690-693) preferred istimodi; cf. Truc. 930, where the good MSS. have hominem isti modi. Such genitives as illī, ullī, nullī, totī, unī, solī, utrī are common in Old Latin (Luchs in Studemund's Studien, I. 2, p. 37, derives nostrī from an old nostris).

358. Schoell considers that Ioh (B) points to Io; but the first letter may have arisen from the name of the speaker (T) having been written indistinctly in the archetype.

359. Fleckeisen reads Ne (asseverative particle, 'verily'), for Nec; so too Goetz in Asin. 704.

376. Lamb. proposed facturum hoc; Fleck. facere istuc (for the pres. inf. = fut. inf., cf. on line 307); Müll. facere nunc; Reiz (very badly) egō facere hoc; Brix insistere hoc (cf. Mil. 929).

378. Cauistin (= cauistisne) Fleck., unnecessarily:

384. Camerarius read opseruet, and so the word is corrected in B. But even if the clause is a deliberative dependent question, the subj. would, I am inclined to think, not be absolutely necessary; cf. on deliberative pres. indic. 687.

386. The spondee in the 4th foot is unusual in this metre (at the end of the first half of it); hence Brix proposes Sed dūce me ad illam. AM. I sōne, ubist.

398. Brix em for iam.

399. sic se Guyet, followed by all editors. But sic seems to have no meaning.

437 bracketed by Fleckeisen and Schoell as dittography. But, as Ussing says, it may be sound. Similar repetitions of ideas already expressed are very common in Plautus; cf. Langen, Plaut. Stud. p. 72,

457. Confugiam hinc is adopted by Fleckeisen from Z: but hinc would require aufugiam, as Ussing says. subito mihi Camerarius (in which case res = consilium), subitaria Ussing, subito mala Schoell.

468. commodule ludis Fleck., Commodule melli's Schoell (cf. Truc. 704 magnae mellinaest mihi Bücheler, Hor. Sat. II. 6. 32 hoc iuuat et melli est), Commodule μέλλεις Onions, 'you are keeping me here a pretty time.'

490. Voluisti in nauem mecum hercle is an old correction, mentioned by Pareus and adopted by Bo. and Fleck. 'Iocatur adhuc leno in miseria sua, dicens se mendicum factum amisisseque omnes fortunas suas naufragio praeter libertatem, quae secum pedem nauim inferre noluerat' Meursius. But this position of hercle (like that of Fleckeisen's hercle in 1307) is unplautine.

494. Utinam prius te quam, &c., Guyet, Onions. But prius is unplautine in this position of a metre of dialogue (see on 455); also te should not be separated from utinam. Schoell Utinam te, pus, prius.

528-538. Many conjectures have been made in these lines: e. g. 528 abs te Guyet, a ted Fleck., postquam abii abs ted Bo. 529 instruxisti ullum quidem Guy., ille instruit Fleck., Müll., una instruit Schoell. 533 nunc ego Pyl., fortunam nunc ego anatinam Fleck. (after Nonius), fortunad anatina nunc Bo.³, abuterer Nettleship, nunc hic anetina or nunc anaticulina Schoell: Ritschl (N. Pl. Exc. p. 69) rejects anetina; Langen (Archiv III. p. 329, note) points out that the reading of Nonius is corrupt (terent). 534 Vti quom extuissem Cam., Fleck., Vt quom extemplo exissem Müll., in terra arerem Hermann, aride arerem Schoell. 537 Sed nunc iure op. me Pyl., Nunc op. me i. Guyet, Sed op. me i. Fleck., Atqui i. op. me Schoell, &c. 538 Qui istuc? Quia Guyet, Qui? Quine Fleck., Qui? Quia id auderem (or quia auiderem) Schoell, Qui? qui? Quia Nettleship.

579. In mari quod semel elai Müller, Lorenz, Bugge.

587. praeter animi quam lubuit sententiae Bothe, Ussing, Brix; cf. Pers. 366.

589. Itaque aluom nobis sperauit salsis prodi poculis Brix, considering that Plaut. could hardly have resisted the temptation of the double alliteration (s. s., p. p.).

596. Prae- and pro- are often confused in MSS., cf. Mil. 1152 (ABCD), Pseud. 293 (B), Pseud. 492 (BCD), Rud. 916 (CD).

604. atque ex Progne (M) is doubtless the addition of some commentator who followed a later form of the legend; cf. Verg. Ecl. VI. 78, Georg. IV. 15.

606. animo (M) doubtless arose from nimo (for nimio), the a being a later addition.

663. e fano Fleckeisen, ac flentes Seyffert, flentes Palmer.

666. Langen (Metapher, p. 678) says the phrase salutem adferre with uia cannot be Plautine. Pareus read asserat. Perhaps it is better to read speculast (Z) and supply with Seyffert at the beginning of the line Nulla nunc.

733. etiam uim porces Schoell, from porceo [pro arceo], 'to say auant to.'

738. Possibly read Namque haec altrast nata Athenis. The order haec altera seems preferable, cf. 750. For the accentuation díltra (denied by Luchs in Studem. Stud. I. 1, p. 59), cf. Truc. 48 díltri (Bücheler), Merc. 965 déxtras (Ritschl, Goetz), which passages Luchs considers to require emendation.

746. Quid mea refert, haec Athenis ndtaene an Thebis sient Fleck. But -ne should be appended to the word which is opposed as an alternative (i. e. to Athenis).

752. Contende ergo uter sit tergo uerior Camerarius, Fleck., Schoell; but this seems to be impossible Latin ('truer in respect of the back'). Contende ergo tergo (terga Onions) uter sit uerior Ussing ('to see which of the two is the more veracious').

755. Postea tu aspicio Fleck., Poste aspicio tu Müller, Ussing, Schoell, for the sake of antithesis (tu meum—ego tuum).

756. A has NISI according to Schoell.

766. Quaeritatum ignem is objectionable not only because of the hiatus, but also because of line 767 (ignem magnum hic faciam). Note the curious reading of A in 764 IGNEMOL, of which Schoell says 'certissima littera L.'

789. This verse is repeated by A after 791.

856. ad portum has presented itself as a difficulty to several ancient and modern commentators, because they regarded it as synonymous with ad litus 855. Hence Acidalius (followed by Fleckeisen) proposed a portu; Camerarius ad portam, Pareus ad forum, Schoell ob portum, which does not appear to remove the difficulty. No change seems to be required if we regard the harbour as part of the city; cf. Introduction to the play and to this scene.

859. Palmer also suggests exules dicam, in apposition to the sentence, remarking that dica or dicam may have fallen out through the influence of the -diam at the end of the previous line. Schoell reads exigam exulem, which also gives a sense to the line.

879. Donicum (Nettleship, to remove hiatus before equidem) = donec: cf. Aul. 58 donicum ego te iussero, Capt. 339 donicum ille huc redierit, Pseud. 1168.

881. The word rape is usually given to Plesidippus; but this departure from the MSS. is a change for the worse. To whom does Pl. say rape? The command is most suitable in the mouth of the lorarii and is addressed to Pl., who is himself engaged in 'hurrying off' the culprit: cf. 870 f.

884. The reading of the MSS. semel bibo is obscure and has been variously emended: sic mel bibo Lipsius (i.e. 'your sufferings are honey to me'), sine te (or solus) bibo Luchs, semel eluo Brix (cf. 579), semel fel bibo Schoell, si fel bibo Palmer.

900. dat MSS. is defended by Kampmann (with original long vowel: cf. on 1072 below). Langen, Beitr. p. 215, suggests dabit, approved by Thielmann (on dare p. 33) and Brix.

905. Bentley on Haut. I. 1. 20 read loquentia (a word which cannot be shown to be older than the time of Pliny) for uaniloquentia.

908. locis (M) seems to have crept in from 907, or to be a gloss on templis; it is tame and causes a difficulty as to templis 909, which must be connected with suis.

918. Onions suggests that some word meaning 'hunger' is wanted (for sententiam MSS.); miluinam would do, cf. Men. 212. But seruitutem tolerarem is after all the simplest emendation.

965. It would be possible to read with Lambinus dominum qui nunc est scio; cf. Bacch. 700, Trin. 960.

977. Guyet and Reiz In mari inuentust: communist. For the MS. ne which follows Brix proposes heu or uah (his later thought, cf. Mil. 984, Aul. IV. 4. 21 (648) Vah scelestus!). Leo's reading Esne imp. imp. is also ingenious (Hermes XVIII. p. 575), preceded by In mari inuentust communi; Schoell Abine, inp. inp.; Palmer In (= Isne) inp. inp.?

997 f. The ordinary reading and punctuation are open to serious objection: (i) Quo colore est cannot be an independent question (of Trachalio); for he sees the uidulus before him. And if Trachalio had asked quo colore est? Gripus would have answered quite differently. (ii) in 998 Sunt alii puniceo corio, magni item atque atri could only mean either 'There are others with a red skin, also big and black' (cf. 1025), or 'There are others with a red skin; there are also big ones and black ones.' In either case the sense is defective: 'others which are also big and black' is nonsense after 997 'only the little ones are of this colour'; 'also big ones and black ones' involves a division of the specimens into (1) little ones which are hoc colore (not defined), (2) others which are red, (3) big ones, (4) black ones.

The MSS. do not inspire one with confidence in the common reading: it would seem that the archetype had a space after MAGNI and then ITEM or TEM.

1006. Bothe and Fleckeisen read Sum illeborosus—At ego cerritus, thereby introducing a faulty division of the dactyl in the second foot; cf. Intr. to Most p. xxii. Guyet, Reiz and Müller delete At. Kampmann deletes sum. Pylades reads mittam for amittam.

1021. Schoell says there is evidence that A had an additional verse (before 1021) which has been lost: but Studemund's Apographon does not support this statement, the first line on the page (fol. 663^a) ending with OCUL (1021), the second with IA (1022). Nor does Stud. support the further statement of Schoell that 1026 is not contained in A.

1040. Schoell reads cibo arbitrum (cf. 1101), Goetz probo arb., both rightly refusing to follow Pylades (tulerit) and Reiz (tetulit) in obliterating the interesting form tetulerit, preserved by the MSS. Seyffert supposes something to have been lost: tetulerit — | ————— ibo ad arbitrum.

1042. Seyffert proposes istac for istuc.

1046 f. Brix reads:—

Métuo propter uos uxor ne méa me extrudat addibus, Quae me pelicés adduxisse ánte oculos dicét suos.

1052 f. Brix (following Fleckeisen in 1052) reads:—

GR. Ó ere, salue. DAE. Sálue, quid fit? TR. Túsne hic seruost?

GR. Háud pudet.

TR. Níl ago tecum. GR. Ábi hinc sis ergo. TR. Quáeso respondé, senex.

1059. Brix gives the speech Homini . . . uolo to Gripus, on two grounds; (i) that Daemones could hardly have said litigatis inter uos had not Gripus spoken, (ii) that the use of the pronouns indicates different speakers in 1058 (illic) and 1059 (istic, cf. 1063). But it may be replied that the speech of Gripus in 1053 was sufficient to indicate that he had a quarrel with Trachalio, not to speak of the bearing and tone of the two men. It is quite possible for Trach. to call Grip. illic first and then istic, 'that slave of yours.'

1072. Palmer in Appendix to Amph. p. 251 proposes Vérba dát: haec módo ('lately') res gestast &c., regarding dat as normally long in Plaut. There is no absolutely decisive passage for either dāt or dāt, except Cas. Prol. 44 Dāt erat, which is of course post-Plautine (in Curc. 161 dāt is better than dāt), but I am inclined to doubt whether dat was ever long in Latin: dāre stands on a different footing from ordinary verbs of the 1st conjugation. The dactyl Vērba | dat may be admitted in the first foot of the troch. tetram., cf. 1093, Stich. 135 Vōsme | latrones, Poen. 399, 880, Mil. 184 Prōpter | amorem, Poen. 512 Sicine | oportet.

1075. Bentley noster hic nos.

1100. The usual order of words is ego istaec, not istaec ego, cf. Bacch. 410, 599, Capt. II. 2. 67, Men. 375, 719, Mil. 195, Trin. 655, Merc. 147, 477, Cas. V. 4. 17.

1115. Gulielm. followed by Fleck. and Ussing Tum pol tu pro oratione.

1118. Seyffert (Stud. Plaut. p. 24) ego hoc (sc. scipione) tibi.

1119. Brix Sed ut cecepi dicere. Schoell Ita ut occ. dic.

1180. Fleck., Schoell and Ussing change aiebas to aiebat or aibat (referring to Trachalio): but this seems to be quite unnecessary (see explanatory note): aiebas is defended by Benoist and Müller, Plaut. Pros. pp. 61, 477.

1186. Fleck. tum for tamen: cf. 1137.

1162. DAE. Perge, te obsecro, Acidalius, adopted by Fleckeisen; but as Brix says (Jahrbücher, 1885) the demand of Daem. that Pal. should proceed is strange, as it is the business of Daem. to carry on the investigation. Ussing reads PA. Perge, te obsecro, which is not open to this objection. But the reading of the MSS. seems sound (in the mouth of Trach.), and is rightly adopted by Schoell.—In the second half of the line Brix, followed by Schoell, adopts the emendation of Guyet and Bentley aut i in malām crucem; this would then be addressed to Trachalio, the opponent of Gripus: but placide is more suitable if addressed to Daem. and Pal.

1177. Fleckeisen deletes age.

1248. Possibly Ego mihi quod frudist (predicate dative). Seyffert suggests as a possibility quom frusim (for frusus sim; Asin. 286 ne quam fraudem frausus sit), cf. ausim. The word lusi of the MSS. is retained by Ussing and Schoell (Ego nisi quom lusi, after Bothe), but yields no tolerable sense.

1275. Fleckeisen, followed by Schoell, reads Etiamne eam salutem adueniens but I have been unwilling to alter the order of the words in the MSS., which reappears in 1277. Ussing retains Etiamne of the MSS., apparently regarding the eam as an elided monosyllable. Ramsay reports that B has Etiam ne ei adueniens, a variant not recorded in the collations of Schoell and Ussing.

1290. Fieri audio usquam uiduli, quasi palo pectus tundor Reiz, Fleckeisen, Ussing (pectus being acc. of respect, a usage difficult to parallel in Plaut.; Most. 358 is probably not genuine), quasi palo pectus tundit Schoell, cf. Andr. 124 ff.

1807. Brix in mari [hic] elaii, Fleck. in mari [hercle] elaii.

1811. Fleckeisen Quid refert, qui periit tamen, si nunc hoc fabulemur? But it is to be noted that the MSS. have a change of speakers before tamen; hence Schoell quid refert, qui periit? GR. Tamen si hoc—LA. Aliud fabulemur. I regard the words non hoc as of the nature of a gloss upon aliud.

1813. Müller Nummi octingenti ibi aurei; cf. 1310. Schoell Nummi octingenti auri mihi.

1814. Langen (Beitr. p. 87) supplies the lacuna with auri, reading Praeterea centum auri minae Philippī, 'a hundred minae of golden Philips (Philippian gold),' cf. Mil. 1061, 1420, Truc. 936. Reiz (followed by Fleckeisen) produced a regular tetrameter by transposition: Praeterea centum Philippae minae, but what was a mina Philippae? The term Philippus or Philippus is applied only to coins.

In support of the reading of Seyffert it should be noticed (i) that the reading of the MSS. philippia taken with philippa of Nonius makes a neuter plural probable; (ii) the corrupt denaria of Nonius suggests a polysyllable; (iii) praeterea ought to introduce the mention of a smaller sum than in 1313, and also of a special kind of coin (preserved separately from the rest).

Schoell reads centum milia Philippī (sc. auri); but the weight of 100,000 Philips would have been about 17 cwt. (see under τάλαντον in Lidd. and Sc.)—rather a heavy load for a man to fish up and carry. According to 997 the uidulus was not a large one.

1816. Seyffert points out that ergo may easily have originated out of ERCLE-EGO.

1827 f. The distribution of the speeches causes some difficulty. Ussing gives the passage as follows (with the MSS.):—GR. Somnias. LA. Nihil addo. GR. Abi igitur. LA. Audi. GR. Si hercle abiero hinc, hic non ero. LA. Vin centum et mille? and explains that when Gripus says Abi igitur he makes a show of going away himself. One cannot, however, but feel that Si hercle, &c., ought to be said by a different person from Abi igitur. Fleckeisen gives GR. Somnias. LA. Nihil addo: abi. GR. Igitur audi: Si hercle abiero hinc, hic non ero. LA. Vin centum et mille? But abi is much less suitable in the mouth of Labrax than in that of Gripus; it is Labrax who takes the initiative in making the successive offers, and who should be told to be off when his offers are not accepted. The same objection would apply to reading LA. Nihil addo: abi igitur. GR. Audi. Schoell changes Abi into Abeo (GR. Abeo igitur. LA. Audi. GR. Si hercle, &c.); here again Abeo is not in place. The solution of the difficulty seems to be to regard the words Si hercle abiero hinc, hic non ero not as a reply to audi ('If I go away, I can't hear'), but as simply calling the attention of Gripus to the fact that if Labrax goes away the negotiations will come to an end—a result which would not be in accordance with the wishes of Gripus.

1835. This line is certainly obscure, and the reading of the MSS. (id quod) is unmetrical. Schoell considers that two half lines have been lost between Praei uerbis quiduis and id quod domist, and this is approved by Seyff., who supplies sunt mihi aurēs duae atque lingua (or sunt mihi meae aurēs atque lingua) Atque itor recte; cf. Mil. 347 nam ego quidem meos oculos habeo &c., ibid. 358 habeo auris, loquere quiduis.

1847 regarded as dittography to 1350 by Ussing and Schoell.

1869. Brix (Jahrbücher, 1885) Heus tu, iam, [ut] habeas uidulum, . . . propera (1370), regarding the habeo of Labrax (with Müller, Pl. Pr. p. 587) as a defiant interruption of the sentence, and also pointing out that iam habes uisulum cannot be a question (Fleck.) as Gripus has just seen Daemones give the trunk to Labrax.

1375. Schoell retains periturissime of the MSS., which he regards as referring to perdundae 1374.

1382. Brix L.A. Aliénst opus, Palmer L.A. [Hoc?] Aliénst opus.

1384. 'Misplacing of words in MSS. generally affects only neighbouring words, but exceptional misplacements are sometimes due to an omitted word having been first written in the margin and later introduced into the text at any convenient place, sometimes between the lines, sometimes at the end of a line (cf. hercle 656). Here we have exceptional misplacement; the in of promisistin got attached to fatvor, and displaced the first syllable. In 1387 we have another example of exceptional misplacement (dandum having got into two places of the text).' Brix, Jahrbücher, 1885.

1401. Brix, followed by Fleckeisen and Schoell, deletes istuc and inserts with Lambinus tu after uel. But, as Seyff. says, we have no right to tamper with uel hercle, which words are found in two other passages of Plaut., and always without anything between them: Aul. 831 uel hercle me enica, Bacch. 902 (uel tu hercle Ritschl). Possibly read unum istuc for isto unum.

1409. I gather from Pareus, Ussing and Ramsay that M have dimidium tibi not tibi dimidium; but I have followed Schoell's collation in my apparatus.

INDEX TO THE NOTES.

- ā* of 1st decl., 287.
abeas si uelis, 834.
abitere, 777.
abiurare, Prol. 14.
 ablative, Prol. 2, 92, 232.
abs te, 1101.
 abstract nouns, 1371.
 accentuation, 507, 715.
accersere, 1056.
accidere, 'descend,'
 Prol. 8.
 accusative
 of neut. pron., 397.
 of exclamation, 415, 422.
 plur. in -is, 380.
 two accusatives,
 1009, 1345.
acta haec res est, 683.
acus, metaphorical, 1305.
ad, 317, 1282.
ad annos sedecim, 1422.
addicere, 891.
adeo, Prol. 36, 61, 103, 728, 731, 812, 1420.
adeo ut, 'to the end
 that,' 1388.
adfectus, 417.
adgerere, 484.
adgredirier, 601.
adigere, 273, 681^a.
adiuerit, 305.
 adjectives in -atus, 260,
 in -bilis, 654.
 adjectives, neuter, as nouns, 184, 620.
 adjectives taking either
 gen. or abl., 349.
admodum, 143.
adornare, 129, 1224.
adpotus, 566.
adprime, 735.
adrogare, 1332.
adsentio, 975.
adserere, 973.
adsistere, 808.
 adverbs in -iter, 265.
 adverb for adj., Prol.
 3, 892, 1054, 1253.
 adverb for pronoun,
 807.
 adverb of cognate
 meaning, 301.
aduolare, 333.
aduorsare, 306.
aedilis, 373 f.
aemulus, 240.
aequius erat, 269.
aetas, 1235; aetas mala, 337; aetatem, 375;
 'for life,' 715.
agere cum, 605.
agitare, 858, 936.
ah, 420.
aito, 430; aiunt, 561;
ain? 1095.
Alcumena, 86.
alia, Prol. 10.
aliquis, 135; aliquid
loci, 571.
aliquo, 'somewhere
 else,' 766.
 altar, position of the, 688.
altrinsecus, 1158.
amabo, 249.
ambulare, 860.
amicus, 'lover,' Arg. 6.
amittere, 591, 1006.
ampullarius, 756.
an, 213, 1106.
anacoluthon, 159, 744.
anancoaeo, 363.
ancipes, 1158.
anelinus, 533.
animus aequos, 402;
animi, 388; animi
causa, 932; animo
male fit, 510.
anni quinque et uiginti, 1382.
 antecedent omitted,
 624.
 antecedent to si, 700.
antehac, 967, 993.
 anticipation, 244.
apage, 826.
apisci, Prol. 17.
ara, 688.
arbiter, 1018, 1040.
arbitratus, 1355.
Arcturus, PERSONAE,
 Prol. 4.
argumentum, 1023.
aridum argentum, 726.
arrabo, Prol. 46.
ars, 291.
astringere furti, 1260.
astu, 928.
asynдетon, 143, 665,
 675^b, 769, 907, 911,
 930, 1020, 1240.
at etiam, 711.
at pol qui, 946.
at scin, 797.
at . . . ut, 1128.
Athenae Atticae, 741.
atque, 121, 928, 930, 998; atque adeo,
 Prol. 61; atque
eccum, 492.

- atqui*, 760, 1101.
Atticus, 604, 741.
 attraction to predicate
 noun, 200^a, 692, 1395; of antecedent,
 1065.
attractio modi, 1220.
 -atus, 260.
auariter, 1238.
aucupari, 1093.
audes, 870.
auferre, Prol. 20, 1032.
aula extaris, 135.
auspicare, 717.
aul, 1185.
autem, 998.
autumare, 704.

balanus, 297.
balineator, 527.
ballaena, 545.
barathrum, 570.
barbarus, 583.
basilicus, 435.
belliatus, 463.
bellus belle, 426.
bene, 640, 835, 1241, 1392.
benefactum esse, 1193.
beneficium, 1221.
benigne, 1368.
bitere, 495.
bolus, 360.
boni (quid hoc), 415
bonum aequomque, 184.
bullia, 1171.

caelites, Prol. 2.
calator, 335.
candidatus, 270.
cantare, 478.
cantharus, 1319.
cantica, I. 3.
capessere se, 172, without se, 179.
capitale periculum, 349.
capsimus, 304.
caput 1098 f., caput
 atque actas, 375, 1346.
cassus, 1324.
caudeus, 1109.
cauere, 828.
cedere = ire, 836.

cedo, 243, 443, 712, 1380.
cenatus, 302.
censeo, 787, 1269 ff.
censio, 1273.
cerritus, 1006.
certe, 344.
certo, 351.
cesso, 676.
ceterum, 1224.
Charmides, PERSONAE.
chlamydatas, 315.
cibo meo, 283.
cibo, 1101.
ciccum, 580.
cinis, 1257.
circumspicere se, 1167.
ciuis, 'fellow citizen,'
 'compatriot,' Prol.
 2, 42, 742.
ciuitate caelitem, Prol.
 2.
clanculum, 302.
claua, 799, 823.
clauator, 805.
clueo, 285.
colere, 283.
collumbar, 888.
color, 997.
comici, 1249.
comisari, 1422.
comitas, Prol. 38.
 commands addressed to a particular person (pres. subj.), 403, 834.
commode, 309.
commodule metuis, 468.
commodum adv., 519.
commodus, 1318.
commonere, 743.
communis, 975, 977.
 comparative with positive, 1301.
concedere, 1036.
concha, 297, 304, 704.
conchitae, 310.
concinnare, 96.
condicio, 1030, 1032, 1407, 1417.
 conditional sentences,
 168, 179, 196, 566,
 578, 590, 744, 834,
 1021, 1128, 1260,
 1295.

conditus, 1374.
condonare, 1072, 1368.
conferre, 338.
congerere, 890.
coniectura, 612.
conpendium facere, 180.
conpingo, 546, 715, 1147.
complacere, 727.
compotiri, 205.
conprimere, 1064, 1402.
conruere, 542.
consciis, 1247.
consequi, 241, 948.
consciare, 551.
contero, 716, 749.
continere caput, 510.
contra incedo, 693.
controuersiast, 826.
conuorti, 1151.
copia, 287, 765, 781.
cor, 1290.
corusca uerba, 526, 528.
crapula, 586.
crassum infortunium, 833.
credo, 397, 513, credidi, 324. crefundia, 1081.
cribrum, 102.
cubitum longus, 1294.
cultu, dat., 294.
cum, 251, 321, 605, 709, 719, 733, 1111,
 1363.
curare, 146.
curculiunculus, 1325.
curriculo, 798.
cyathus, 1319.
Cyrenae, Prol. 33.

Daemones, PERSONAE.
dative, 274, 757, 935,
 1374; predicative,
 190, 294, 412, 830,
 1083; with licet,
 621; two datives
 dep. on operam
 dare, 429.
 in -ū, 294.
de opinione, 1092.
decet, 249.
decorus, with abl., 254.

- deferi*, 1107.
deierare, 1336.
delicatus, 465.
delicia, 429.
deludificare, 147.
demorari, 444.
denumerare, 1406.
 dependent questions
 and exclamations, 356, 385, 592.
destinare, Prol. 45.
destituere, 823.
deuenire, Arg. 5.
deuitauerint, 168.
dextrouorsum, 176.
dicere, 128, = imperare, 1096, = orare,
 1345; dice, dic,
 124.
dierectus, 1170.
dies noctesque, 380.
differre, 369.
digitulus, 720.
digitus, 902.
dignus, 1305.
dilectus, 1279.
diluere, 1108.
 diminutive forms, 894, 1156, 1404.
disparare, Prol. 10.
docte, 928.
dolus malus, 1381.
domi, 292, 1335.
donabilis, 654.
dos, 1243.
drachma, Prol. 45.
 dress, II. I. drinking bout, 592.
dudum, 1079.
duim, duis, duit, 1368.
dum, Prol. 37, 210, 368, 774.
-dum, 784.
eādem (sc. opera), 329.
eapse, 411.
eas, 403.
ecastor, 380.
ecca, 1154; ecca(m)
intus, 1174.
ecce, eccum, eccos, &c., Excursus.
ecferre, 444.
ecfigia, 421.
echinus, 297.
ecquis, 125, 413; ecquis
est qui, 949; ecquid
 as interrog. particle, 1310.
edepol, 415.
ego ts sum, 1056.
ehem, 805.
ehēu, 512, Excursus.
eho, 578.
ehodum huc, 947.
ei, 389; ei, Prol. 68, 392.
eius, κατὰ σύνεσιν, 198;
eiū, 200^a.
elauisse, 537.
elautus, 699.
elidere, 659.
elleborosus, 1006.
 elm rods, 636.
eluere, 578 f.
em, Excursus.
entōds, 944.
enim, 752.
enumquam, 987.
epichysis, 1319.
equidem, 1077.
equos ligneus, 268.
eradicare, 1346.
eripere, 600.
esse, omitted, 170, 207, 370, 453; ēs 1234.
et, 'and . . . too,' Prol. 8.
etiam, 817, 877, 959,
 1275; etiamne,
 467. etiamdum, 210, 1381.
eu edepol, 415, Excursus.
euentus euenit, 300.
euge, eugepae, 442, Excursus.
 Euripides, 86.
 'ever' clauses, 485.
exagoga, 631.
exanimalis, 221.
exanimatus, 372.
exemplum = facinus, 617; ad hoc ex-
emplum, 488; ex-
emplo, exemplis, 370; exemplum
statuere, 620.
exercitus gymnasticus, 296.
exicare, 122.
eximere, 232.
exoclassitis, 731.
ἐξούλης δικη, 859.
experiri qui, 918.
expetere, 240.
expetessere, 258.
exsequi, 261.
extaris, 135.
exulatum, 325.
exungui, 580.
fabulari aliud, 1311.
facere, absolutely, 1002;
facere parui, 697;
facere, with abstract noun, 599,
 1273; factum ut,
 398. facessere, 1062; rem
fac., 1061.
factio, 1371.
factis, 1221.
faelis uirginalis, 748.
falsus est, 384.
faxo, 365; faxere, 376.
festra, 88.
fores lenonia, 1386.
fidicinius, Prol. 43.
fieri, Prol. 55, fiēt, 763.
figura etymologica,
 Prol. 19, 109, 187^b, 300.
 final m, 595.
 final s, 103, 919, before a vowel, 1006.
flagrantia, 733.
fluctuare, 303.
foliis pugilatorius, 721.
foras, 725.
foret, 801.
Fortuna, 501; fortu-
nae, 523.
frigefactare, 1326.
frunisci, 1012.
frus, 1248.
frustrū, 969.
fui (in compound tenses) = sum, 217;
fūi, 217; fūit, 1105.
fures, 310.
 futures, in -bo (4th conj.) 365; in -so,
 304, 365, 376, 678,
 811.

- future
 of expectation, 177.
 deliberative, 189^a.
 of command, 946.
 of resolve, 785.
 of promise, 286.
 future participle with sum, 730.
 future perf. = future,
 330.
- galea*, 801.
 genitive
 adverbial, Prol. 7.
 partitive, 301, 304,
 415, 487, 496, 504,
 571, 613, 706, 758,
 1287.
 gen. or abl. with adjectives, 349; with verbs, 247.
 gen. plur.
 of 2nd decl. in -um, 866, 1145, 1327.
 of 3rd decl. in -um, 259.
germana Graecia, 737.
gratiam facere, 1414;
referre, 1222; qua
gratia, 90.
gratus, passive, 1221.
grauatus, 260; grauate, 408.
 Greek wines, 588.
Gripus, PERSONAE,
 897, 1033.
habere secum, 1347;
 sibi, 500.
haec, fem. plur., 200^a.
hamiotae, 310.
hariolus, 326; hariolari, 347.
heia, 339.
hem, Excursus.
Hercules, 161, 823, 1225.
heu hercle, 821, Excursus.
heus, 97, 762.
 hiatus
 of chattering teeth, 528.
 at pause, 103, 1019.
 at change of speakers,
- 1019, 1064, 1138,
 1275.
 hiatus
 in diaeresis, 193, 194, 351, 354, 684, 934,
 936, 950, 1064,
 1292, 1369, 1410.
 in resolved arsis,
 443, 1147.
 in caesura of iamb.
 trim., 484.
 before interjections,
 821, 830, 1369.
 after lost d, 1069.
 before uxor, 1046.
hic, 906; hisce, 294; hoc,
 sc. ostium, 413;
 sc. uerum), 1299;
 hoc habet! 1143;
 hoc . . . quia, 388;
 hoc quod est, 252.
hilaritudo, 422.
hodie, 177.
homunculus, 155.
hospes, 571.
hostia, Prol. 23.
hostis, Prol. 82; =
 peregrinus, 438.
huc, 457, 480, 1387;
 = *mih*i, 726.
hui, 154.
iaciare, 374.
iam, 'even,' 293; illa-
 tive, 387, 1386 (?).
 hercle, 763.
 with future, 444, 543 (?).
ibi, 935.
ibidem, 396; ibidem, 591; ibidem, 1061.
igitur demum, 930.
ignotissimus, 1044.
ilico, Prol. 62; ilico hic, 328; ilico hinc, 266.
ille, 1240; illi vague, 368; illic, 1354;
 illud, 453; illuc, 1258.
illi, adv. 541.
 imperative in -to, 416.
 impersonal passive constr. 1018.
incenatus, 302.
incertus consili, 213.
- inclementer*, 114.
increpare, Prol. 69.
indoles, 424.
indutus with accus., 207.
 infinitive = pred. adj., 132, 988 (perfect),
 1022, 1250.
 historical, 606.
 of purpose, 94, 847.
 dependent on verbs,
 224, 667.
 pres. for fut., 307.
 in -ier, 367.
ingenuus Atheniensis, 1198.
ingratis, 772.
inius merum, 1138.
inlustris, 88.
immergere, 397.
impiare, 191.
inprouiso, 1196.
impudens, 620.
impudicus, 115.
impuratus, 543.
inrasus, 1303.
inscitus, 597.
insectari lapidibus, 843. insigne, 194.
insignite, 643.
inspectare, 1022.
instipulari, 1381.
instruere, 930, 936.
insulsus, 517.
 intensive forms of verbs, 306.
interdius, Prol. 7.
interduim, 580.
interibi, 1224.
interim, 1261.
interuortere, 1400.
intus, 689, 1174.
inuitare, 362.
ioculo, 'in fun,' 729.
ipse, 392.
ire, 'come,' 264; ire ad
 arbitrum, 1040.
is, Prol. 41, 47, 631, 687; is, 186.
isti, adv., 1078.
istic, 118; isticine, 110;
 istius modi, 321;
 istaec, fem. plur.,

- 563; neut. plur., 752; istuc optume, 1054. isto, adv., 1401.
ita, 823; = talis, Prol. 3 = 'so true is it,' 87; ita ut occipi, 1065.
itane? 977.
itaque, 369.
item ut, 417.
-iter for -e, 265.
iterum, 658, 1055.
itidem quasi, 660.
iube modo, 708.
iudex, 1380; apud iudicem, Prol. 18.
iuncus, 732.
ius meum, 1041; iure optumo, 474, 537; in iure, Prol. 14; pro iure, 1393.
κατὰ σύνεσιν, 198.
κωφὰ πρόσωπα, I. 2.
- Labrax*, PERSONAE.
lapsus linguae, 423.
lares familiares, 1207.
largiter, 1188.
lasserpicum, 630.
latebris (perreptare), 223.
Latinized forms, PERSONAE, 86, 527, 529, 548, 630, 1314.
lauare, lauri, lauatus, 151.
lauere, lauri, lautus, 151.
lautus pure, 301.
legal procedure, Prol. 19, 778, 1040.
legirupa, 652.
legirupio, 709.
lepidus, 358; lepide, 408.
leuare, with gen., 247.
lex Plaetoria, 1382.
licentia, 1225.
licet, 1212 ff.
lippitudo, 632.
lis, Prol. 13, 20.
litteratus, 478.
loco (in), 'opportunity,' 575; locis (without in), 907.
longule, 266.
lopas, 297.
Lorarii, PERSONAE.
lubet, 1333.
ludos facere, with acc., 470; with dat., 594.
dimittere, 791.
ludus fidicinius, Prol. 43.
machaera, 315.
maestiter, 265.
magnae aues, 770.
magadaris, 633.
malam crucem, 1162.
male habere, 198.
malus, 'the rascal,' Prol. 18, 'the rogue' (playful), 466; malum 'flogging,' 1125; interjection, 492.
mandare, 96.
manducus, 535.
maniare, 444.
manus, 983.
maxume, 217, 1353, 1410.
medicus, mendicus, 1305.
mehercle, 1365.
melius, 675^b; meliust, 220, 1205.
memini ut, 1217.
memorare, 563.
mergae, 763.
merus, 1138.
messis, 637.
meum (non est), 341.
mihi, 1367.
mille with gen., 1327.
miluos, 1124.
mina, Prol. 45.
minacia, 795.
minors, 1382.
miris modis, 593.
mirum quin, 1393.
miserari, 197.
mixed construction, 587, 963.
modest assertions, 580.
modo, modis, 147; modo, 912, 1069.
modo, adv., 708, 729, 1127.
modum (ad istunc), 271.
moenia, 692.
molestia, 830.
morae, 412.
morari, 852, 1248.
mores, 1251.
moriri, 675^a.
mulsus, 364.
multifacere, 381.
multis modis, 837.
multo tanto, 521.
murteta, 732.
musculus, 298.
mutare, 865.
nam, interrogative, 687.
namque, 750.
nanctus, 871.
natus nemo, 970.
ne, 403, 968, 992, 1135; with imperative, 1049; ne molestus, 1254.
ne, interjection, 1040.
-ne = nonne, 382; omitted, 341.
nec, neque, 359; nec nullus, 291.
necessitate, 292.
negative (double), 291.
nemo natus, 970.
nempe, scansion of, 343; introducing a question, 268; introducing a statement, 476.
Neptunus, 373.
neque . . . et, 1083.
neque ullus, 340.
nequiquam, 217.
nequiter, 837.
nequitur, 1064.
neruos, 872.
nescioquis, nescloquis, 482.
nescius, 275.
neuter adj. as noun, 620, 675^b.
ni, 731; ni . . . siue, 1381.
nihili, 920; nihilo, 966.

- nil moror*, 583, 852 ;
n. m. mihi, 1248.
nimio, 185.
nimis, 360 ; nimis uelim, 662.
nisi, 1092 ; nisi si, 581 ;
nisi quia, 1025 ;
nisi, 'only', 751.
niue, 714 ; niue adeo, 1420.
nobilis, 619.
 nom. of 1st decl. in -a, 287. nominare, 'to call by name', 98, 678.
non enim, 922.
non uenit? 341, non censeo, 787, non credo, 1366.
nostr, 1245.
nostrum for nostri, 289.
 nouns in -tor, Prol. 50.
nullum = nihil, 1135.
nullus = non, 142 ; =
nemo, 1253 ; ne-
nullus, 291.
nummus, 1313, 1327.
numqui, 736.

occidere, Prol. 71.
occipere, 1065, 1119.
occupare with infin., 248 ; occupatum
occupare, 109.
offerumenta, 753.
offlectere nauem, 1013.
ominari (melius), 337.
 omission of sum, 370.
 of antecedent, 1322.
 of subject of infin., 246.
omnis, 500 ; omnia, 199, 526. operae, 321.
opes, 207, 274.
opino, 999.
oportet, 'must', 568.
oppido, 207, 550.
opprimere, 387.
opseruare, 384.
optorto collo, 853.
optume edepol ecum,
 805.
optumo iure, 476.

opulencia, Prol. 12.
orbis, with gen., 349.
 order of words, 77, 331, 516, 587, 1134.
ordine, 1155.
 original long vowels,
 199, 390, 763, 868,
 921, 927, 1248.
ornatus, participle, 321,
 488, 730, 908.
ornatus, 'costume', 187^b, 431 ; ornatu
ornatus, 187^b.
os calet tibi, 1326.
ostrea, 297.

pabulatum, 295.
pace (tua), 698.
paenitet ni, 578.
Palaemon, 160.
Palaestra, PERSONAE.
pallium, 550.
papae, 1320.
παρὰ προδοκίαν, 720, 788, 891.
parate, 192.
parataxis, 365, 511,
 662, 744, 1068,
 1269.
parcere, 222.
parcus, 919.
parentis, 393.
partem, adverbial, 1126.
pasceolus, 1314.
patria, 750.
paucis, 120.
pauillulus, 997 ; spelling paus., 729.
pectere pugnis, 661.
pecu, 942.
peculiosus, 112.
peiurium, Prol. 17.
pelex, paelex, 1047.
per ego haec, 627.
πῆρα, 548, Introduction.
perbitere, 495.
 perfect, 342 ; contracted, 325, 813 ;
 perf. subj. = pres.
 subj., 305.
periculum, 144 ; periculo,
 'risk', 'cost', 436, 1393.

perpetuos, perpes, 370, 1037.
perreptare, 223.
persequi, 667.
peruenat, 626.
peruestigare, 224.
pessum, 395, 507, 617.
petere, 1124.
 Philemon, Prol. 1.
Philippus, Prol. 45, 1314.
philosophus, 986.
Philomela Attica, 604.
placide, 1162.
placusia, 298.
 plays upon words, 305,
 337, 617, 811, 888,
 1032, 1304, 1305.
 pleonasm, 138, 500, 521,
 611, of adverbs,
 689, 1034.
Plesidippus, Pleusi-dippus, PERSONAE.
 pluperfect = perfect, 95.
 plural masc., general-ising, 728 ; for sing., 519, 553.
pol, 505, 863, 946.
pollentia, 618.
polluctum, 1419.
polluctus, 425.
pölypus, 1010.
pontifex, 1377.
popularis, 605 ; pop-
ularis, 740.
populus, 927 (ex populo).
porci sacres, 1208.
porro, Prol. 30, 1034, 1396.
postui, 357.
possēt, 390.
possum . . . si siem, 566.
post, 946. postibi, 600, 1263.
postid, 299.
postulare, Prol. 17, 543, 941.
potiri, 190, with gen., 1337.
potis, 968 ; potin ut, 425. praecedere, 596 (proce- dere M.).

praecipies = praecipis, 671.
praeda, 1262; pr. praedatum irier, 1242.
praedatus, 1316.
praedicare, 341, 653, 654.
praefiscine, praefiscini, 461.
praehibere, 138; praebere, 513.
praecire, 1335.
praeloqui, 119.
praesepes, 1038.
praeses, 1051.
praesidium, 1051.
praeterhac, 1117.
praeterire, 113.
praeuorti, 641.
prandium, 937.
 prepositions, place of, 496.
 present for future, in simple sentence, 413, 687, 1040, in subord. clause, 179, 961 (nisi).
 historical, 366.
 present subjunctive: see subjunctive.
pretium, 710.
prex, 258.
pridem, 'lately,' 1249.
primarius, 1073.
pro meo iure, 1392;
pro portione, 1115.
probare, with dat., 1017.
probe, 381.
probus, ironical, 112; 'sterling,' 1313; pr. argentum, 1387.
procliuos, 1132.
procreatus, 1284.
prodere aluom, 589.
proditor, Prol. 50.
producere, 1173.
profecto, 359.
prognata fui, 217.
 prohibitions, 403, 968, 1135.
promiscam, 1182.
promittere capillum, 377.

pronouns, vague use of, 368 (illi), 398 (ei).
propemodum, 293.
propter uiam, 150.
proreta, 1014.
proripere, 660.
proterue, 414.
prouehere, 863.
prouenire, 837.
 proverbial expressions, 425, 490, 501, 845, 871, 902, 939, 1132, 1326.
pru', pruus, 455.
puddicus, 1062.
pulusculum, 845.
punicum corium, 998, 1000.
purus, 752.
qua gratia, 90.
quadrigenti, 1324.
quae istaec fabulast? 355.
quaestus, 291, 1345;
quaestu, dat. 294.
quam = tam . . . quam, 943; = potius quam, 684; quam mox? 342; quam ut, 220.
quamuis, 373.
quanti, 155.
quantum potest, 815;
quantumst natum hominum, 706.
quasi, 99, 1008.
-que, 519; -que . . . -que 349, 1145; -que . . . et, 705.
quem propter, 496.
 questions without interrog. particle, 268, 341, 379, 676, 799, 1267.
qui, co-ordinating, Prol. 80, 759; = quis, 98; qui homo, 485; qui with subj. 105, 129, 272, with indic. 490, 1184.
qui, abl. 123, 384, 462, 946, qui?—quia, 522, quidum? 1097.

quia enim, 922, 1116.
quicquam piscium, 301.
quid auscultatio? 502.
quid est? 963.
quid fit? 1052.
quid hoc bonist? 415.
quid hoc clamoris? 613.
quid igitur? 1041.
quid illuc est hominum? 148.
quid istic? 1331.
quid istuc tua? 1086.
quid 'liberas'? 736.
quid nomen est? 1160.
quid opust uerbis? 590.
quid postea? 1276.
quid si, 472, 535.
quid tu? 993, 1074.
quid tu agis? 348.
quid tu ais? 1072.
quid uerbis opust? 85.
quide', 595.
quiduis, 946.
quin, in a question = command, 122; with imperative, 946.
quine, 272.
quippe qui, 384.
quispiam, fem., 813.
quisquam, 406; quisquam homo, 206.
quisque, Prol. 12.
quisquis est deus, 255;
quidquid est, 286, 292; quidquid inest, 925, 1140.
quo ab, 555.
quod postules, 1150.
quod=aliquod, 986.
quod domist, 1335.
quod, 287, 1073.
quouis, interrogative, 332; relative, 745.
quouismodi, 83.
quouisnam, 229.
quom, with indic., Prol. 65; 'now that,' 685; causal or concessive, 378, 1207; = quod, 908, 1176.
quoniam, Prol. 67.
ramenta, 1016.

- rapere*, 796.
rare, 995.
re, 683.
recalvus, 317.
recipere, 880.
recta, sc. uia, 851.
recte, 747, 800.
recuperatores, 1282.
reddux, 909.
rediri, impersonal, 1018.
referre, 1032, 1222, 1392.
referre, 966.
reliquiae, 1287.
 repetition as question, 799; of pronoun, 970; of thought, 677^b.
replere auris, 1226.
reposcere, 1352.
res noua, 457; res soluta est, 1413; plur. for sing. 519.
respexis, 678.
responsor, 226.
restim, 367.
rete, abl. 914.
retinere, Prol. 30.
rudens, gender, 938; quantity, 1015.
 rushes congratulated, 523.

s final, 103, 200^a.
sacciperium, 548.
sacris, sacer, 1208.
salsus, 301.
saltem, 1287.
salua res, 172.
salue, 1003; salueto, 416.
saluom sistere, 1049.
salute, 910.
sane, 386, 1407.
sapias, 1229.
sapiens, 'sensible person,' 338; sapientes mores, 1251.
satin, 462.
sauium, 424.
sceleste, 'illgotten,' 506.
scelestus, 'rascally,' 456, 1058, 1093 f; 'unlucky,' 'foolish,' 502, 508.
scelus, 'rascal,' 506; 'misfortune,' 1001, 1178.
Sceparnio, PERSONAE.
scilicet, 395, 949.
scio, 998; scibo, 365; scibam, 378; scin, 382, 773, 797.
scirpus, 523.
se, suus, Prol. 47, 49.
sed autem, 472.
sed tu, 365, 987.
sedere, 387.
semel, 884.
semen, 327.
semul, 760.
senex, Prol. 35.
 sequence of tenses, secondary, 129; primary, 130, 410.
sequester, 1004.
sequestrum, 1018.
serio, 468, 1045.
seruare, Prol. 37.
sexus, 107.
 shortening of syllables under influence of accent, Arg. I, 187^a, 481, 642, 939, 944, 945^b, 960, 961, 1053, 1060, 1157, 1162, 1165, 1240 (?).
si, 379; = 'even if,' 159; = 'if as you say,' 714; = quod, 505.
si . . . niue, 714.
si quidem, 1061; siquidem, 484.
si . . . seu, 633.
si . . . si, 1257.
sic, 283, 426, 809, 1274.
siccitas, 632.
sicilicula, 1169.
sicut, 187^a.
significare, 896.
Silanus, 317.
 silence of women, 1114.
sine, 'enough,' 1311.
sinus, 1319.
siquidem, 1061.
sirpe, 630.
sis, 465, 828.
sistere, 778.
 slaves, demoralization of, 1258.
sollicitare, 198.
solus, 227.
sorsus, 1314.
Sparax, 657.
spectare, 1250.
spes, plur., 553.
sponsio, 1040, 1381.
statulus, 317.
 stealing of clothes, 384.
Stratonicus, 932.
strenua facie, 313.
striatus, 298.
subaquilus, 423.
 subject of infin. omitted, 246, 405.
 subjunctive of command, 403, 519.
 of what ought to have been done, 379.
 potential, 511, 580, 1067.
 prospective, 456.
 in conditional sentences with indic. in principal clause, 1021.
 tenses of; pres. for imperf. 196; imperf. for pluperf. 495, 590; perf. for pres., 305.
 subordination of, 1124, 1261, 1322, 1329. parallel to indic., 129.
sublegere, 749.
subrupere, 384.
subuolturius, 423.
sucula, 1170.
sudum, 123.
suffundere, 588.
suipte, Arg. 4.
sultis, 820.
summae opes, 207.
sumne, 865, 1184.
superstitiosus, 1139.
suppetere, 457.
suppetiae, 1083.
supplicare, 1335.
supplicium, Prol. 25.

- surptus*, 1105.
syllaba anceps, 199,
 233, 243, 390, 975,
 1086.
syncope, 936, 1047.
synzesis, Prol. 52, 76,
 83, 258, 346, 389,
 500, 649, 712, 717,
 765, 805 (clauator),
 905, 935, 961, 967,
 1027, 1165, 1256,
 1277.
- tabula*, Prol. 21.
talentum, Prol. 45, 778.
talos suffringere, 1058f.
tamen, 569, 691, 1136.
tantillus, 1150.
tanto, 521, 1232.
tégillum, 576.
temperi, 921.
templa, 909.
tenerè = habere, 1066.
Tereus, 509.
testem testari, 1338.
tetrachumum, 1314.
tetuli, 893.
Thales, 1003.
thermipolium, 529.
threats, in perfect
 tense, 813.
Thyestes, 509.
tibigenua, 274; tibi, 864.
tolerare, 919.
torta supercilia, 318.
Trachalio, PERSONAE.
tramae, 1324.
transenna, 1236.
transmigration of souls,
 886.
tricae, 1323.
trifurcifer, 734.
trimus, 744.
triobolus, 1038.
tumultuare, 629.
tundere, 1290.
Turbatio, 657.
- tuost*, 375; *tua istaec
 sunt*, 752.
- uae*, 375.
ualere, 287.
uaniloquentia, 905.
variations of quantity, 414, 1061.
ubi, Prol. 77; ubi, 1236;
ubi hic, 1034; *ubi
 loci*, 1161; ubist, 386.
uel hercle, 1401.
uel . . . uel, 430, 991.
uelim, 511, 1067.
uelitatio, 525.
uenalis, 584, 974.
uenatus, 970.
uenenatus, 1302.
uenerari, 256; u. Venerem, 305.
uenère = uenire, 626.
*Veneris = templi Vene-
 ris*, 849.
uenire uisere, 94; *ad
 aliquem*, Arg. 3;
ad auris, 234;
ueniri, 271.
uerbis suis, 405.
uero serio, 468.
uerum = ueru, 1304.
uesperi, 181.
uiae caerulae, 268.
uiciniae, 613.
uicinus, 1033.
uide (me), 'trust me,' 680; uiden ? 1093;
uidi, 'I have known,' 1124.
uidulus, Arg. 1, 1142;
uidlus, 936.
uilla, Prol. 34.
uindicare, 618.
uir, contemptuous, 1058.
uirgidemia, 636.
uirgis circumuincire,
 732.
- uirile sexus*, 107.
uirtutes, 321.
uis = uin, 1011.
uisere, 94, 567, 1286.
uitor, 990.
uiuo miser, 127, 290.
ullus = quisquam, 107;
neque ullus, 340.
ultra, 607.
unus, Prol. 39, 70.
Volcanus, 761.
uolo quae uis, 1045;
uolo ut, 960, 1217;
quod te uolo, 1216.
uolup, 892.
uoluptarius, Prol. 54.
*uostrum cognoscen-
 dum*, 1145.
urtica, 298.
usque, 632, 812, 838, 1034.
usus est, 398; usu, dat., 1083.
ut, 'as' 381, 636, 702;
 'as is natural considering that,' 303.
 in indignant questions, 1063, 1244.
 'on the condition
 that,' 1128.
ut clauses, 257, 717, 927.
ut id ceppi dicere, 1119.
ut . . . item, 1099.
ut locupletes, 293.
ut multifecit, 381.
ut peritis ? 311.
ut potis est, 829.
ut quisque, 1359.
ut uerba praehibes, 138.
utin, 1063.
utor, 533.
utpote qui, 462.
uuida, 251.
uxor, 1046.
werwolf, 886.

THE END.

JUN 25 1918

